Last Year's Senior Order Returns To Initiate Nine New Members

Ten Out of Twelve Former Members To Be Back On Campus This Weekend

Nine new members will be initiated into the Senior Order during the old members who are returning to the college this weekend.

The Senior Order, which has as its purpose the bringing together into an organization of the most influential members of the Senior class, was established on the campus by the class of 1928. The leadership is made up of the president-secretary of the class, the president of the council, the dean of women, and twelve members of the senior class. Each member must be an outstanding student and interested in diversified college activities.

New members who are to be initiated into the Order are: Briggs Anderson, Greenwood, president of the Student Government association; Mary O'Dell, Spartanburg, president of the Y; Mary Anne Stice, Union business manager of The Y; Jean Mary Lenihan, Columbia, vice-president of the Student Government association; Jean McLaughlin, St. Matthews, president of the Senior class; Sarah Westbrook, Blackshear, member of Y cabinet; Elizabeth Crum, Greenwood, editor in chief of The Ticker; Virginia Workman, Greenville, business manager of The Journal; and Roberta Marsh, Edgewood, chief freshman counselor.

The old members who are returning for the ceremony are: Katie Coker, Columbia; Helen Morris, Lake City; Jessie T. Moore, Milliken; Marguerite Zetler, Florence; Virginia Walker, Johnson; Martha Lang, Whiteville, N. C.; Oldry Garret, Laurens; Mary Wright, Orangeburg; Minna Neusser, Elbert, M. C.; and Mary Sease, Columbia.

Mary Ball and Anna Rozenblum will be unable to attend the ceremony as they are studying in New York.

Dr. Hart Vespers Speaker

Dr. J. R. Hart of the University of Pennsylvania, who will be guest speaker of the local Y, will talk at vespers Sunday night at 8:30 in Johnson hall.

Dr. Dunning Tells of India, Mahatma Gandhi, and Panthers

BY NANCY BEATTY

Former College Doctor Describes Life As Medical Missionary

Propped against pillows in a hand-me-down bed, Dr. Norma Dunning, former college doctor of Indian and new medical missionary in Kathmandu, India, talked rapidly of India, of Mahatma Gandhi, and of Panthers.

"Yes, the first month I was abroad I met face to face with a panther. An orange plate accidentally saved my life."

Dr. Dunning and a nurse were walking one night when she turned to find a pair of glaring, bright eyes not low enough for a tiger, nor high enough for a dog, quickly closing her eyes. She was taking a plate of oranges to a sick patient. Only the changes arrived, for the plate crashing on a tree frightened the animal and saved the two ladies' lives.

After realizing one ambition—seeing a panther, Dr. Dunning met and talked to Mahatma Gandhi. Now she is coming to go on with her work.

"One always fulfills his cranky ambitions, you know," she commented. "I had a desire to go to India, a desire to support a country that was not a bit embarrassing. 'I don't wish to contribute to Gandhi's cause but I had no other choice.' When he shook her hand, he merely remarked that he knew that a missionary never gave money to him, willingly."

"Gandhi looks exactly like his pictures," remarked Dr. Dunning.

"When I saw the trade mark I read 'Frigidaire,' laughed the former college doctor. 'Now I have an original word to take back to India.'

All the while she talked, her chicken got colder and colder. Once she became so distressed when she had to leave a job, red pieces of tomato fell on the ice-blue satin confederate. The pattern it formed served as a map of India which is filled with the things that make life full in any needful country."

"Everyone pictures the woman of India either in a horse or in the village, but I find charming ladies beau-

To Speak To Alumnae

Dr. W. D. Maginnis, professor of education, will discuss "Faculties and Education" at the Krishna alumnae meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Lentz Jr., 228 Orange street.

To fill a lecture engagement in Pittsfield, the day following she is to talk in Chicago. Meanwhile clinics are going to take many hours of her precious time here in America, but "I am anxious to get back to India which is filled with the things that make life full in any needful country."

WAGNON ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF FRESHMAN CLASS

Union Girl To Serve Until Permanent President Is Chosen

Marjorie Waggon of Union was elected chairman of the freshman class at a meeting Friday night in main auditorium. She will act as president of her class until the permanent president is chosen.

Marjorie graduated from Union high school last June. While in high school she won French and typing prizes, awards in shorthand, and in her junior and senior years, the medal for the best all-around in school activities.

She was a cheer-leader for three years, and head cheer-leader her senior year; school dance director; secretary of the national honor society; secretary of the later vice president of the student body; and a member of the school council four years. She is taking a four-year commercial course at Winthrop.

FORMAL RUSHING TO BE OCT. 12, ANNOUNCES ORR

Standards Committee Publishes Year's Rules

Formal rushing rules were discussed at a meeting of Standards committee in Johnson hall, Wednesday night, September 29, at 7 o'clock. The following rules have been announced by Martha Orr, president of the committee.

Formal rushing is to be Tuesday, October 12.

2. Date cards are to be sent out Monday morning, October 11. They must be handed in to Jean Moss, 270 South, by 10:30 p. m. Sunday.

3. The date cards are to be filled out and returned by 9:30 Monday morning.

4. On rush day club members may spend an amount of money on the date. No more than $1.00 each.

5. Expenses must be divided equally between club members and rushers. Any club caught doing "dirty rushes" will be fined and given publicity.

6. Invitations to the rush banquet go out Thursday, October 14, and must be returned by 6 o'clock. Banquet bids must be given to Jean Moss by 10:30 Wednesday night.

7. No discussion of clubs is to be done between rushers and bidantes until the time banquet bids have gone out.

8. Formal bids will go out second semester.

9. To be eligible for membership a pledged member must have passed all but one subject, or have conditioned only two.

Y Officers Attend Two Conferences

Hagart, O'Dell Go to Atlanta; Baker, Florence; Urquhart, Columbus, Will Draw The Blueprints

Officers of the Y will attend conferences at Atlanta and at Rocky Bottom.

The regional Y conference will meet October 8, 9, 10 in Atlanta. Regional officers and Y secretaries will form the group. Miss Lillian Hogarth, general secretary, and Mary O'Dell, president of the local Y, will represent Winthrop at this meeting.

The state Y. M. and Y. W. retreat will be held at Rocky Bottom on the same dates. Anne Tighman, Helen McLean, Margaret Burdette, and Mrs. George Palmer, Mrs. Attison, Velma Ward, Otto Roth, Elizabeth Kennedy, and Virie Crow will attend.

The state Y. M. and Y. W. retreat will be held at Rocky Bottom on the same dates. Anne Tighman, Helen McLean, Margaret Burdette, and Mrs. George Palmer, Mrs. Attison, Velma Ward, Otto Roth, Elizabeth Kennedy, and Virie Crow will attend.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1933

The Johnsonian wants to merit a reputation for accuracy, interest, and fairness in covering the Winthrop campus. Will you kindly tell our attention to any failure to measure up to these three fundamentals of good journalism?

THE FORGOTTEN GIRL

The average town-girl freshman who begins at Winthrop does so with best intentions of going out for all extra-curricular activities—clubs, class meetings, socials, and athletics.

But as the session moves along, this day student finds it difficult to "break" into activities. It is not, we think, an intentional neglect of her interests, but a routine that makes participation in student affairs almost impossible for her.

You ask, "Well, why don't they stay up here and go to club meetings, or go out for athletics, or come to class meetings?"

In the first place, most club and class meetings are held conveniently for boarding students, either at 12:30 or 6:30, the dinner and supper hours of the non-resident student. Then, too, such meetings are announced in the dining room. How can the town girl come to a class meeting if she doesn't know there is going to be one?

Very few of the town girls live right in the vicinity of the college. Many of them live as far as five miles away—a pretty long walk if you have to make it six times a day, and a car that is at the disposal of a whole family cannot always be secured.

Couldn't there be some way to hold the interest of the town-girl freshmen, which interest would wield much influence out in town and on the campus? Couldn't there be some kind of town-girl organization through which they could secure a seat in the senate so that they would feel as if they had some part in the governing of their Alma Mater?

FOR FRESHMEN ONLY

Next week social clubs will again observe formal rushing and pledge new members. And with the rushing will come the usual tears, homesickness, broken-hearts, and worries among the freshmen.

That all this is a necessary evil resulting from social clubs, we will not admit. Freshmen, it is up to you to minimize these things as much as possible. We won't advise not taking clubs seriously. They should be taken seriously if we are to have them.

But we are urging that you not let rushing upset you. It isn't at all necessary to join a social club. It is much better to be a non-club member than to join the wrong group.

On the other hand, you can't join but one club; so when you make your decision take into consideration the fact that it is probably for four years, and not just one. Don't join a club for one or two of its members, but take the entire membership into consideration. And remember, seniors won't be here next year, but sophomores will be for two more years.

There are probably over 300 of the class of '41 who will not get bids. This is due, not to the fact that there are that many undesirable in the class, but to the fact that the present supply of social clubs cannot take care of more than about half the class. If you are among the aforementioned number, analyze yourself to see why you didn't get a bid. Did you come here not knowing anyone and being naturally rather shy and retiring, have failed to make an impression on upperclassmen? Do you really have disagreeable personal traits that make you "undesirable"? Have you rubbed some members of a particular club the wrong way, so that she black-balled you? Or are you one of the ones who, for no apparent reason, failed to "name" a bid?

We aren't advocating using next week as a basis for measuring personality, for there are too many other factors involved in club rushing. If you can analyze yourself after it is all over and discover "why"—why you either did or didn't make the grade—then it will be to your advantage.

We are advocating sincerely, however, that you freshmen make rushing a sensible and unselfish affair—for you will have the upper hand next Tuesday. But remember our cautions: If you do join a club, join the right one; if you don't join a club, don't let it affect adversely your outlook on life.

TWO WORDS

We would dislike acquiring a reputation of being finical, but we are squeamish about two things—and both of them are words.

About this season of the year (and again in the spring) people, especially those of the weaker sex, begin talking "accessories." Or rather they begin talking "accessories" when they intend speaking of "accessories." We hesitate to quote statistics as to the number mispronouncing this oft-used word for our statistics are entirely guess-work; but if we did attempt a number, we would say that something like 65-75 per cent of those owning accessories (ak) think they own accessories (za).

Now, for the other word. A large number of you will teach when you graduate. Often teachers are asked to fill advisory posi-

The Voice Of The Campus

Dear Editor:

Winthrop, naturally, is pleased for the boarding pupils but the day students also deserve some degree of consideration. The Y cabinet has given them a representative and the town girls' room is being redecorated. These Town girls are forever being taken to task for not participating in the various school activities. There are several who are very active and I feel sure that more would be if they just knew where and when things were to take place.

Many announcements are made during meals and this, of course, is of no value whatsoever to the day student. The town girls carry other important announcements, but the method of distributing the paper to day students is rather haphazard.

To close—discover that Dr. Port does have a definite sense of humor. I was charmed with a fit of giggling the entire period—Dr. Port, incidentally, seems to possess a Bob Burns type of wit.

Eventually, back to the place where I have a room to spend rest of afternoon in "The Unknown Church" by William Morris. This particular volume is recommended by yours truly when one is in a pensive mood. (I want)

Sincerely yours,

Show Life Not Easy
Warns Lloyd Bender

BY DOROTHY HAIR

"And did you know it's hard to find an apartment to Rock Hill?" earnestly queried Mr. Lloyd Bender, earnest and newest addition to the Winthrop faculty, as he recalled the few days since his arrival here. Mrs. Bender and the two children, Barbara and Michael, will probably arrive at their new home next week.

Born in Illinois, Mr. Bender received his bachelors and master of music degrees from Illinois Wesleyan university. Then he joined a light opera company.

"The life is not what it's cracked up to be," he was warned any who might be contemplating a stage career. "The Only Girl," "Twenty and Very Good Eddie" were some of his favorite roles before the company went broke," continued Mr. Bender. "This made the hardships even greater," he finished, continuing to show his preference for teaching music to singing in opera.

After the light opera company "fell through," Mr. Bender taught high school a year in Boise, Idaho. "That's where people say I'm going east for the summer and go to Denver," laughed Mr. Bender.

At the College of Emporia in Kansas, the Benders' last stop prior to Winthrop, Mr. and Mrs. Bender appeared on the same program with Kathryn Meisle, famous operatic star who will appear in Charlotte next Tuesday.

When asked about plans for 4½ years old Barbara's future, Mr. Bender replied, "I don't know whether she'll be able to carry a soprano or not!" Miss Barbara's picture holds a prominent place on her father's studio table. Michael, the youngest Bender, was just four months old Monday, and he rightfully holds the title of "the baby of the family."

In regard to Winthrop Mr. Bender said, "It's different from any school I've known. This is my first experience in a strictly woman's college." Mr. Bender, on his first trip south of Kentucky, feels that southern hospitality is not exaggerated.

tions for school clubs, publications, etc. We plead, should you be called upon to fill such a position be a faculty "adviser" and not "advisor." The latter form is definitely second-choice; some dictators don't even list it. Yet it is used so frequently in writing of practically every kind that we thought it worth mentioning.

This may seem rather trivial, but these two common words are so frequently carelessly misused that we thought it worthwhile bringing their correct forms to your attention. Perhaps there are other words that we know, yet misuse just as often. Let's make this the "learn-what-we-already-know" week and correct these errors.

"Do a good deed daily," is the maxim of at least one freshman on the campus.

In a public-speaking class a few days ago one of the freshmen noticed the "out-of-uniform" attire of one of her classmates. Rashly she wrote her a note warning that Mrs. Gibson was coming to the school. The young lady (in the class that day) told the teacher that she was a freshman because no one else would dare wear such clothes to class.

But the poor freshman was badly mistaken (and probably embarrassed), because the "out-of-uniform" girl proved to be a member of the faculty, Dr. E. G. Greeno, head of her department at that.

An old-fashioned girl blushes when she is embarrassed, but a modern girl is embarrassed when she blushes.

Campusing

BY MARTHA ORRE

For a month now I have been watching the leaves on a maple tree just outside my window. While at first they were green and glistening in the sun, now they have slowly turned to shades of brown, and each day the wind carries more of my silent friends away. Now a few, only remain, and then the winds shake on the almost naked limb, I am determined to live more in the beauty of a dying summer. And then to my mind comes this beautiful poem by Elaine V. Evans:

There never comes a day like this, all gold
And shining like a bubble in the sun,
But I recall the afternoons I told You I'd no time for play: Work must be done!
Work must be done, and there the gold day wastes,
And there the usefulness of earth and sky
And leaf and air drift hour by hour unheeded
For scruples soon too well in such as I!

And there October's brightness faded, turning
Her dear enchantment into dull November,
And setting in my brain one question burning:
How what can I, what can I remember
Of work I left above that day until It was too late to catch the golden hill!

Now I don't recommend you to throw studies aside entirely, but don't you think the goldened is beautiful now? In fact everything just strikes "Autumn" and "October" and "apple" and soon—"Halloween"!

and now I would like to command the clearest cadets on the roaring hand—into the snare shot at the game it must have been a wonderful sight to see such a military procedure and I know the boys deserved all they got for such a splendid performance by the way I think we fourteen hundred and sixty-seven could do just to the platoon if I planned our here and I know we have just lots of room for the boys to turn corners squarely in and to flash their sabres why didn't you go to west point and show them just how it can be done which reminds me because it is so entirely different of the two sets protestant catholic schools boys I chanced to glance at this afternoon on our fair campus they had on checked coats and suede shoes and cute little hats and they were laughing and joking with some girls
I wished right then winthrop would be a co-ed school but then I did not know if there were two or four girls p. o. e. are all the p. o. e. boys like that I mean do they all wear east little plaid coats with plain trousers and vice versa but then if winthrop was co-ed would it be better to have the eds wear uniforms and march straight and turn corners squarely or to have them dressed in tweeds and green-and-white plaid with brown buttons oh yes because it is a good thing we aren't that way

Tinkering With Cars Among Hobbies of Dr. William E. Fort

Writing, Philosophy, Psychology Among Other Interests

"I enjoy crawling under an automobile, building a radio set, or almost anything else with mechanical attraction," said Dr. William E. Fort, who is best described by the adjective versatile, when waylaid by a reporter outside his classroom door.

Dr. Fort, successor to Prof. Roy James in the commerce department, came here from Winthrop where he had been head of the commerce department for the past four years. Even there he had eight experience with girls, for Mercer has a small number of co-eds.

Likes Whithrop

Neither the throng of females nor the blue and white seem to bother him in the least.

Dr. Fort emphasized, however, that he seems to be a group of serious students and that Winthrop is excellent in every respect.

In a quiet, modest voice he told of his undergraduate years at Georgia Tech. There he was a member of Beta Gamma Sigma commerce fraternity; Phi Kappa Phi, which corresponds to Phi Beta Kappa in a technical school; and National Honor society. In addition Dr. Fort received a gold T for scholarship.

Varying his activities widely he earned a block T for swimming. Perhaps his closest friends were formed in his life with his fraternity brothers, the Chi Psi.

Gold Leaf Keys

Dr. Fort thinks honor societies are an incentive for better work. He believes national honorary societies are good introductions to a plausible extent; but, strangely, Dr. Fort must think a Georgia Tech man "needs no introduction" for he possesses none of his keys. In reply to that whereabouts, he commented he sold most of them.

To Attend 4-H Rally

Bettie Brown, Margaret Gandy Receive Honorary Trips

Bettie Brown of Sardis and Margaret Gandy of Sodalis Hill, because of their records and contest achievement in club work, will attend the 4-H club rally Wednesday of State Fair week in Columbia. Between three and four thousand state club girls and boys are expected to be present.

Margaret will compete in the state dress review contest, and Bettie has an honorary trip because of her breed judging at the state short course last summer.

The main features of the rally are technical demonstrations by boys and girls in agriculture and agriculture. The girls will give demonstrations in flower arrangements, the school lunch, and producing, selecting and packing eggs for the market. Others will be in charge of the 4-H costume and book booth. Counties furnishing teams are Bamberg, Barnwell, Fairfield, and York.

Committees Appointed

Kappa Delta Phi Names Four Chairmen

Committees were appointed and plans for the coming year formulated at the first meeting of Kappa Delta Phi, national education fraternity, held Thursday, September 20, in Miss Sadie Goggans' classroom.

The following were appointed chairmen of committees: Briggs Anderson of Greenwood, constitutional; Mary Louise Rutherford of Union, membership; Neil Lightfoot of Anderson, program; and Martha Orr of Anderson, meetings.

DR. W. E. FORT

After majoring at Georgia Tech in commerce and minoring in psychology, Dr. Fort did graduate work at Duke in philosophy. His year at Duke, like the majority of his time after grammar school, were spent mostly in study, though he kept up his swimming by competing at meets.

In Writing a Book

Other hobbies stand equally as high as Dr. Fort's love of interests. One of them is writing. He is completing a book which at present is titled "Reminiscences of History." He expects it to be published either this year or next.

Dr. Fort enjoys his children. Adele is three and hopes to enter nursery school soon. Since William III is only eight months old, it is a few more years before he makes his appearance at Whithrop.

Dr. Fort is a many-sided individual; but, marketing students would never guess that his one subject wasn't marketing.

After the program was completed refreshments were served.

At a business meeting of the club last week Anna Laurie Donaldson appointed the following members to serve on the program committee, of which she is chairman: Roberta Boggs, Barbara Hill, Janie Small, Nettie Smith, and Caroline Sand.

Miss Cloud Succeeds Miss Bridge in Demonstration Dept.

Miss Jessie Cloud of Rock Hill began work in the home demonstration department of the county extension office last Friday. She succeeds Mrs. Gladys Bridges who moved to Greenville, S. C., where Mr. Bridges has an agricultural position.

Previously Miss Cloud has been doing government work in Washington and spent the past year at home.

'Sweetheart' of Metropolitan Opera Thrills Winthrop Audience

Encore After Encore Call Back Ezio Pinza, Rethberg, Backstage

BY LOUISE FANT

Ezio Pinza, tall, dark, and handsome Italian basso of Metropolitan Opera, sang encore after encore while his critics were still discussing his first night and still more Wednesday night. Behind the stage, waiting to congratulate him, was Elizabeth Rethberg, Metropolitan soprano, who frequently appears in concert with him.

Because of his electric personality and teasing, spontaneous good humor, Pinza is known as the "sweetheart of Metropolitan." Last night he succeeded remarkably in projecting this contagious spirit over the footlights. When he signed in "Trouble," the Italian singer signed tremendous audience-wide sighs. And when he whistled and imitated, the audience, too, grew sportive.

"Oh no means we's charm merely a stage mask. Backstage after the performance he was equally pleasant and good humored. He talked in a soft, melodious voice with a noticeable foreign accent and his lips eyes are gray and keen, and his smile was perpetual."

"Oh, yes, yes, I liked my audience very, very much. It is most enjoyable, you know, to sing for so many beautiful girls. And you all were very appreciative."

In answer to his opinion of music in America he gleefully launched into a discussion. "Why, of course, it is very fine. You have the best—the best in everything—orchestras, leaders, musicians, singers. What does it matter if you import them from Europe? All great empires have done that. It is the thing to do. We do it, even though we can't compete without artists, as we brought them from Greece and the Byzantines. That is an advantage of being a world power. You can have what you want—the best."

His personal manner makes his character more colorful. "My hobby? It is driving the cars and driving fast. That is also my sport but I like very much the horse races."

Then very quickly with another smile:

"Oh, many flowers are beautiful, but he rose, the rose is my favorite and I prefer gold beat in colors."

Although Mozart is the composer whom he most loves, he refused to rank any of the operas or any one role above the others.

Rethberg, too, declined to select her song of songs. "I like them all; each one has its own beauty. When I sing, when I start singing I want to sing for hours and hours. It is most satisfying to get all wound up and have to stop after one or two numbers. That would be my criticism of the Old-Time Music Festival. There were too many good things."

Winthrop girls remember her performances here two years ago when she opened the 1933 season. In speaking of that she reminiscined, "I'm so glad to be back again at Winthrop. I am as happy as ever. I enjoyed singing there before. The acoustics of the hall were perfect. I hope you have as good results in your new building. Especially I remember the girls were so very attentive and appreciative. In Charlotte, too, last night the love of the people for the music was almost touching. And they eat so well for so long is more than I could do!"

"My hobby is—oh, you could say, nature—anything connected with it. Right now I'm taking care of birds and dogs, but I used to work in my garden with all kinds of flowers—and the gaudy ones at the orchid on her dress."

At that moment Pinza, in a big tan polo coat, soft cashmere scarf, and hat appeared to face the clapping Winthrop girls. Both of them smiled genially goodnights; he waved gayly, and laughed his response to a casual remark—

"But, ma, it would not be so bad to be kidnapped by so many such beautiful girls. I do not think it would be bad at all."

Library Science Rooms Completed This Week

Department To Move To Third Floor Rock Building

Two new classrooms and an office will be completed this week for the library science department located on third floor of main building. Floors and walls have been done over and new lighting fixtures installed.

The workshop is equipped with new chairs, tables, individual desks, two typewriters and a large cabinet containing paste, accessories, and other materials.

The cafeteria is equipped with chairs, a vertical file, large table, and a model collection of books used in the cataloguing and book selection classes. Paul Raines' "Map of Adventure" hangs on the walls.

Town Girl's Room Being Redecorated

A newly painted ceiling and sanded and varnished floors are already to be found in the town girl's room, which is being redecorated in the basement of main building. A. M. Graham, Business Manager of the college; Dean Hardin; and Sam Tribble, chairman of the town girl's committee of the Y, are in charge of this project.

The green wicker furniture has been replaced by temporary pieces and new chairs have been ordered. Draperies and rug were added to the room in order for maximum comfort. The room will also be improved as part of the project.

Town girls will be furnished with lockers equipped with shelves and individual locks in the hall of the beweenment near their room.
