OOPS!

In a recent copy of The Johnstonian, an article ran on S.C. student delegates. We failed to mention that any person who is interested may submit a letter of application to Dale Dove, c/o SGA Office, Box 6702, W.C.S. Sorry for the mixup.

Wargaming Club To Hold Open Competition Meeting

BY RICHARD W. ARCHER

Have you ever had the secret wish to be the commander of the American Forces during World War II when the allies invaded Normandy? Have you wished to be Wellington on October 20 to students at Winthrop? Have you wished to conquer the world, with all nations at your mercy?

Book and Key Searching For Initiates

BY RON LAYNE

Have you ever dreamed of being an undergraduate leader at Winthrop? Or have you ever wondered what it means to be a student leader at Winthrop? Or have you ever wished to be Wellington on October 20 to students at Winthrop? Have you wished to conquer the world, with all nations at your mercy?

Winthrop Model UN: Breakthrough...

BY RICHARD W. ARCHER

Have you ever had the secret wish to be the commander of the American Forces during World War II when the allies invaded Normandy? Have you wished to be Wellington on October 20 to students at Winthrop? Have you wished to conquer the world, with all nations at your mercy?

Wargaming Club To Hold Open Competition Meeting

BY RICHARD W. ARCHER

Have you ever had the secret wish to be the commander of the American Forces during World War II when the allies invaded Normandy? Have you wished to be Wellington on October 20 to students at Winthrop? Have you wished to conquer the world, with all nations at your mercy?

Book and Key Searching For Initiates

BY RON LAYNE

Have you ever dreamed of being an undergraduate leader at Winthrop? Or have you ever wondered what it means to be a student leader at Winthrop? Or have you ever wished to be Wellington on October 20 to students at Winthrop? Have you wished to conquer the world, with all nations at your mercy?

Winthrop Model UN: Breakthrough...

BY RICHARD W. ARCHER

Have you ever had the secret wish to be the commander of the American Forces during World War II when the allies invaded Normandy? Have you wished to be Wellington on October 20 to students at Winthrop? Have you wished to conquer the world, with all nations at your mercy?
Decriminalization:

"One take over the line"

In an unprecedented proposal by our president, Jimmy Carter, the White House last August suggested national decriminalization of marijuana which would prescribe small fines for possession of one ounce or less. In a New York Times editorial, the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice (PCL) recommended that "... as we feel criminal penalties that brand otherwise law-abiding people for the possession of a small amount of marijuana illegal and discriminatory." The Carter Administration, quite simply, wants to bring federal laws into conformity with modern realities by making possession of and sale of marijuana a civil, rather than a criminal, offense. Currently, possession of an ounce or less, under federal law, may be punishable by a $5,000 fine or a year prison term, or a $100 fine for a first offense conviction.

The Rock Hill Police Department routinely fines first offenders that $100 fine for possession of one ounce or less. This type of prosecution is carried out in accordance with S.C. law which stipulates that one ounce or less is punishable by a three month imprisonment, or a $100 fine, or both. Nevertheless, whatever the amount the offender possesses, he/she will invariably have a criminal record which may prevent the individual from fair treatment insofar as job and political aspirations are concerned. Clearly, penalties now are worse than actual offenses. Many legislators recognize this problem, and as a result, S.C. and 32 other states are presently considering marijuana decriminalization.

Ten states (including North Carolina earlier this year) have already decriminalized marijuana for personal consumption, four of which are: 1. recent studies indicate that moderate use of the drug has no immediate harmful effects; 2. manpower and financial savings which can be used in cases involving small quantities of pot; 3. the impracticality of enforcing strict laws against marijuana use; and 4. moderate use of the drug can shift emphasis to hard drug investigations by 60%. Previously, most of their time was devoted to marijuana crackdowns.

In the May, 1977 Gallup Poll found that 55% of the American people believe that marijuana is physically harmful, 53% believe that it is addicting, and 55% think that its use leads to hard drug addiction. The President's Office of Drug Abuse recently concluded a study on marijuana and found that the drug was not as dangerous or as addictive as has been generally believed. Marijuana has not only been a beneficial drug in medical research, but may also be an immediate health hazard to the individual. This report should show that marijuana use has not increased in states with lenient laws concerning the drug.

Hard drugs, such as heroin, are related to marijuana use by many drug experts from the Office of Narcotics and Drug Abuse reported that court costs dropped in California from 1964-74 million dollars in the first half of 1975 to $2 million during that same period or 1976 (the data was collected in January, 1976). Court costs as well as valuable time needed for far more important problems such as crimes of violence (rape, murder, robbery) and hard drug traffic can be saved if marijuana use is handled as a civil offense. States which have decriminalized marijuana save millions of dollars in use.

According to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, the use of marijuana among all age groups has increased dramatically during the past decade. This information was gathered through questionnaires administered to 2,000 students in grades 8 through 12. The survey findings indicate that the percentage of high school seniors who report having used marijuana during the past year has increased from 5.7% in 1966 to 23.2% in 1976. The trend for all age groups increased from 1966 to 1976.

In 1967, the Task Force on Narcotics and Drug Abuse of the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice estimated that about 50% of heroin users had some previous experimental experience with marijuana. They also noted that heroin users had previous experiences with alcohol and cigarettes. It might be appropriate for the researchers to admit that most heroin addicts had some experiences with pot, alcohol, cigarettes, as well as with Pepsi and chewing gum. They also noted that marijuana is as dangerous as alcohol and tobacco; socially accepted drugs which are known to cause tissue damage. Marijuana decriminalization is the only way to save a large number of young people who are still in the stage of experimentation. According to a study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, over 60% of college and university students have used marijuana. This evidence proves that marijuana use is a serious problem and must be handled as a civil offense.

An anonymous source within the administration has said that marijuana has been decriminalized in all 50 states except for the state of Maine. The only state that has a law against marijuana is the state of Maine, but the law is not enforced. Oregon has the strictest law against marijuana, but the law is not enforced. In Oregon, the law states that it is a crime to sell, buy, possess, or use marijuana. The penalty is a $100 fine or six months in jail. In Oregon, the law is not enforced, and the police do not have the time to enforce the law.

In the state of Oregon, the police do not have the time to enforce the law. The police have more important things to do than enforcing the law against marijuana. The police have more important things to do than enforcing the law against marijuana. The police have more important things to do than enforcing the law against marijuana.

In conclusion, marijuana decriminalization is the only way to save a large number of young people who are still in the stage of experimentation. Marijuana decriminalization is the only way to save a large number of young people who are still in the stage of experimentation. Marijuana decriminalization is the only way to save a large number of young people who are still in the stage of experimentation.

KATHY KIRKPATRICK

I've been looking for my soap box for a long time, so I'm going to put it. In the back of the closet for the last 8 months, a French fry, a broken vacuum cleaner, three socks—everything except my soap box. I decided to give it a new coat of paint, spiffing it up for the big occasion when I take my soap box and balance there on the toles and wave with my arms and talking loudly.

I remember it as being quite complicated—balancing and waving and talking all at once. Some people are good at it but I never was. After I had myself balanced, one wave of the arm usually tipped me right over. Once I managed a word and a wave all at once. Later, everyone said it didn't make sense to say "eggplant" and nothing else and I had to end it.

"Subject matter?" my manager would holl. She had all worked for me to work for more bottleneck. "You've got too many decent subject matters."

"Eggplants can be facinating," I said. "Besides, it was only a lead in to warm them up—they get them on my side."

"Well, why don't you try something even more endear ing," she would sneer. "Like green beans.

It didn't really make sense to choose "subject matter" though, not when I couldn't even stand on the thing. So we would go on to explain the opening comments for later. But the trouble was still all in my head. I believe some things—but I don't know.

I found this out the very day of my eggplant speech. A short balsed guy with a young nose and round belly walked over to where I was speaking and said, "So you like eggplants?"

I didn't say anything. I just picked myself up and briskly brushed the back of my pants.

"I believe you expressed a certain fondness for eggplant is that so?" he asked. "Did I say so?"

"In a word."

"Well, they are good for you."

"And how do you know?"

"I ready about them in NUTRITION TODAY and..."

"That was just last week, wasn't it?"

"Yes."

"How do you know they are good for you?"

"Yes, sometimes."

"If NUTRITION TODAY told you they were only eggplant and drinking only water every day is the only way to stay healthy, would you know this to be the case?"

"Well."

"And how are you to know the times you can and the times you cannot?"

"Silence.

"Do you still like eggplant? Do you know how it is to be good for you?"

"No."

"Precisely."

He lumbered away and I've never felt quite right about eggplant since. And come to think of it, I know now I..."

"I believe I know what happened to my soapbox. That was the day I threw it away.

Absurdity

RON HOUGH

Well, troops, it's finally happened. They've taken our soapbox away from us. I believe it's a result of our own apathetic attitude. In the end, all of our actions have been defeated.

It's about time! The laissez-faire attitude which has reigned on this campus has begun to cause some problems. I don't want to sound like a moral crusader or a proponent of their decriminalization on this point. According to Superior Court Judge Harold Greene, of the District of Columbia, "Too much manpower is wasted on the problem of marijuana when people have minor amounts of marijuana."

It is far too difficult for law enforcers to arrest a minor amount of their decriminalization. Without a doubt, marijuana use is perceived as being a minor offense and as an everyday occurrence. Currently, every state has some form of marijuana laws, but these laws are not enforced. Many people smoke pot without fear of being caught, and this has led to widespread decriminalization.

States which have decriminalized marijuana save millions of dollars in use. The Bureau of Criminal Identification has shifted emphasis to hard drug investigations by 60%. Previously, most of their time was devoted to marijuana crackdowns.

In conclusion, marijuana decriminalization is the only way to save a large number of young people who are still in the stage of experimentation. Marijuana decriminalization is the only way to save a large number of young people who are still in the stage of experimentation. Marijuana decriminalization is the only way to save a large number of young people who are still in the stage of experimentation.

CLASSES NITE:

A Tradition

Dear Editor:

In response to the article in the JOHNSONIAN about classes nite, I would like to say that it stinks!

I am a freshman student and a very active one at that. I take an active part in different activities at Winthrop just like any other dorm student. The impression that I receive is that if anyone, if any, did not take some part in Classes Night they should all be shamed. Classes Night is a time for all students to meet each other and show society how much they care about their college activities. Classes Night is a time for all students to meet each other and show society how much they care about their college activities.

Beinh a freshman, I have a hell of a lot of studying and work to do, but I still have the time to take part in various campus-wide activities.

Classes Night is too important and exciting a tradition. I realize that we are all Eagles, but we are still either a freshman, junior, sophomore, or senior. I am proud to be an Eagle, but I am proud to be a Bight Panther. The students who worked in Classes Night worked hard and honestly, and we would have to see Winthrop not have another Classes Night in the future. So, let's face the truth, why spoil a tradition which is very important to those who participate just because some take dorm student are full of apathy. Think about it.

Thank You,
Danlelle Campbell
Freshmen Day Senator
Phineas wiped the tears from his eyes with the back of his hand, the vodka from the bloody mugs stinging them so that they immediately flooded again. At this rate, he would soon collapse on the spot from dehydration (due to water loss from his tear ducts).

If it weren't for the fact that Anita had a head cold, she probably would have noticed that Phineas' cologne was reaching the point where it had begun to make him smell like that old London Undercurrent tonic. (EDITOR'S NOTE: That's "Dead Stunk," for all you rocks out there.)

Phineas looked around him (as thought Jody Powell might suddenly walk up with a prepared statement that would set things right), and noticed that most of the tables nearby were empty. "People sure are unfriendly around here," Phineas thought. (It wasn't so much a matter of friendliness, actually — it was just that most people don't carry a gas mask along when they go to a disco.) And if it weren't for the fact that Anita couldn't see, she would have noticed that no one sitting within shouting distance of the table, but, then—she could see—she wouldn't be sitting there either.

"You just love that music?" Anita offered to someone out in the oorae. Her voice was like that of a personality NASA Control Center, calling Phineas back, reaching.

"Huh?" Another ten points para for stupid comments. Phineas was really racking up the points.

"The music . . . I said, 'Don't you like that music?'"

"Poor Phineas. The way he sat, a beautiful girl practically sitting in his lap, even offering to start the conversation, and frankly, he was long past the point where he could give a damn. The pelicans on his shirt were beginning to resemble gossey birds, what, with all the drinks he had spilled on them. (Anita thought his eyes were getting a little blood shot, but then, she was still staring into the eyes of one of the bloody mar-ied pelicans.) His tonsil was probably sitting somewhere in his stomach, scraped from his throat by that floor-dripped olive the brainless bartender had put in his drink. It was a small wonder to Phineas he could still talk at all.

"Beautiful." Phineas continued with his colorful rhetoric that would surely win the heart of any deaf mute girl he might happen to meet.

If only this girl hadn't cost him a history test by rudely drinking after drink—and if only people hadn't laughed openly every time he went to bar for another drink (and another done of verbal abuse from the bartenders), maybe then Phineas would have plenty to say to Phineas at every go. As it stood, Phineas' nerves resembled uncooked spaghetti bent to the breaking point.

"Well, then . . . why don't we dance?"

A dump of material centered over the front of his groin was joined by Phineas' quick-head hair. He inched past this beautiful girl's lips. "Gladly, Phineas, it was her smile. Maybe it was the magic sparkle of light that past through her eyes as she continued to stare at the pelican.

Maybe it was an IQ of minus eighty that made Phineas answer her the way he did.

"That'd be great . . ." Even Phineas couldn't believe he had just said what he did. After he said it, he had to shake his head to see if he had heard himself right.

"Oh, sh . . . Phineas thought. He had been had.

Already, Anita was rising from her chair. Phineas' mind was racing through all the possible options (the next wood trip) trying to come up with an excuse . . . war wounds! . . . wounded leg . . . what-veh- hell . . . Phineas thought as he realized there was no way out of this. He had already looked toward the disc jockey (Elwood) and Bip was still inside and there she was, giving Phineas' floating, friendly wave. There was less danger on the dance floor. Phineas quickly scanned the room for a dance . . .

But how can he tell when the wheel of fortune might spin? Maybe the gods of Olympus had viewed Phineas' presence as a foxy plot. Maybe Moses had turned to God and said, "O'mon, M. G. give the kid a break!"

Maybe an angel of the lord suddenly took out his disc jockey ticket at the disco. In any case, what Phineas heard next was heaven sent.

From the initial strains of the music, Phineas knew it was his song. A smile crept on his face, as the realization set in.

"That's . . . the . . . song!!"

Phineas thought as he hurried to his feet. It was the song he had practiced to, the one he had worn out his tennis shoes on. . . IT WAS HIM. Anita practically suffered a whiplash as Phineas grabbed her hand and made a mad rush for the dance floor. He wasn't about to miss this song. They reached the dance floor with Anita's arm only slightly mangled from her rush. "Here is a guy with real moves," Anita thought. She liked the idea of a domineering take control . . . even if his face did grunge masculinity. She was beginning to think that she had found a winner.

Phineas wasn't even conscious of the fact that people were staring. He wasn't aware of the fact that all the other dancers were being chased from the floor by the music. His name was on his cologne. Phineas only knew that this was his song and he was going to make sure that it very quickly became his. The crowd surrounding Anita was still smiling . . . and beginning to dance.

"His disco, disco, disco . . . Phineas was giving it all he had. He looked over at Anita, gazing at the music long hair swinging with the rhythm of the music, her eyes fixed on her heart.

"yeah . . . DISCO!!"

Phineas was saying to himself, as he executed a lame duck shuffle that left his right ankle hurting like hell. Phineas didn't care.

HE WAS DANCING!!

Phineas was so far into his dancing, he didn't notice the other guys from his dorm in the control booth with the disc jockey, slipping him a fox and laughing their asses off. He didn't even notice when the record changed abruptly from "Disco Mama Grease Me Tonite" to Bing Crosby's rendition of "White Christmas." He didn't even notice the laughter . . . all around. Phineas noticed.

"Bing Crosby?" he thought. "Could I force myself to sing the wrong tongue?" He wondered, afraid to look into Anita's face. He turned to face her and she was staring off into space . . .

"Phineas thought. The bubble had burst. "All over . . . He only won . . ."

Maybe it was a case of Phineas' getting hit in the face . . . he could get off the dance floor . . .

"I . . . I . . ." Phineas began as Bing's voice gave way to the ever-increasing laughter.

"I guess we look pretty foolish," Anita shouted above the laughter. She smiled at Phineas, then reached out for his hand.

Expecting curses, Phineas was surprised to see Anita looking into her eyes (no easy matter, since Phineas was still stuck on the eyes of a pelican). She began laughing too.

"I'm really sorry . . . you . . ." she stammered, "I guess we do . . .

Then Phineas saw advantage and began to think. "It . . . it . . . it's some of your frater . . ." Phineas knew to make it all on this last ditch effort to save face. "An initiation joke?"

"Let's go home," Anita said, reaching for her six foot four seeing eye dog. "Where's your car?"

Phineas experienced the briefest moment of panic as his vision began to blur his ten-speed, then collected the pieces of his life. "Let's walk," he said, leading her off the dance floor past and the awestruck Good from the buffet. "IT'S SUCH a nice night!!"

On Falling Down Quite Hard Somewhereorother and Burbling Half Insanely to Yourself

By Jim Good

This you do when you are quite grows and there's no hiding it, it's a fact of life. And the twig and tree have bent together and the curtvure thereof is of no form or substance you can safely sli to those who stamny watch from stubbornly holed, poly-poor-coased nitches.

This you do when the well has been dug yet the fluid leaks out from below to disbar into mudpots. (One of the dange- crevasses or your suspect the tramp of a tree or the func- tioning divinations with pre- viously mentioned crooked twigs (founded, practically) or one of the famous place of choice at that well-tread spot in the road where the twigs meet lo and twigs do never meet.

This you do when the Ghost of Christmas Future dances a serene PETITE CHANGEMENT DE LA PEES across the chest in jackboots and the sign that light the chambers of your mind reads "temporarilly to let". Chased away by obnoxi- ous invaders who knock the wet washing to the floor before it can be hung. Softly thought (Pianissimo poltergeist). It cannot be admitted (that in let let in, let on, or let out. . . . . as of the bag), especially to your- self. The moments they are afoot. They are after you and you hear the face of what you wish not to know - . . .

This you do when strength and resolve have drifted into gaseous folows on the chill of a blistery October morning, when verify doubts virtue and hart about forace the chase for not know- ing their proper parts. This you do when the weight of your own sagging flesh casts you even more-and clutching at the lightened collar. When the harsh asperity of the land and the regenerative sweetness of new grass speak the paradox to your benumbed senses.

This you do when your art is inchildren, your passions hormonal, your desiers neural, your spirituality a product of ascension, chicanery, your chil- zins, semajical jigsaw. When your life can be the pursuit of a whole, have less than the sum of the parts.

This you do when hope and neces-sity have drifted into leasen harmophride you now your supper and candle with.

This you do . . . "If groupings A through Zed should prove non-utilizable and instruction packet C cannot be justified in terms of cost-effectiveness. (See booklet N44DRP)."

This you do because you can do no other.
Catawba Indians On The War Path

BY RALPH JOHNSON

The Catawba Indians are on the warpath! A well-organized, disciplined, attack-minded, fighting plan, the battle they are fighting this time is a 137 year old injustice that was done to them by the State of South Carolina. Chief Gilbert Blue, of the Catawba Indian Nation spoke to approximately fifty people last week in Big Spring Auditorium about the history of the Catawbas and the present land situation that is before the courts.

The Catawba Indians are descendants of the Sioux tribe. About 500 years ago they began as the main branch of the tribe and moved South. They settled in an area on the river now known as Catawba and their lands included York and parts of Lancaster counties. The whole trouble started when the British claimed South Carolina made a treaty with the Catawbas. They promised them land in North Carolina if they would give up their claims to the land they settled on. The Indians agreed to do this and signed the treaty. The problem was that it was not a legal treaty. In the year 1790, Congress enacted a Non-Intercourse Act which prohibited states and individuals from making treaties with indigenous people. The Indians at that time had no idea of this law and were therefore taken advantage of. They found no habitable land in which to settle and after the treaty was signed and moved back to York County and settled outside of Rock Hill. The area they settled in covered a one square mile lot.

The Catawbas had been tricked into giving away 144,000 acres of their land. Chief Blue stated that many other tribes had raised the question of the legality of the treaty long before now, but could do nothing about it until now. When asked what the Indians are seeking now in their claim, Chief Blue said that the tribe is essentially seeking land that is unoccupied. They are asking for enough land so that they have a decent reservation and also a monetary settlement to be used to benefit the tribe. He would not comment on questions dealing with how much of a monetary settlement and what lands they are asking for. They are hoping for a settlement by the Spring of the year. Any agreement that is decided upon will have to be voted upon by the whole tribe.

The Catawbas currently number approximately 1309 people. There are perhaps 2 or 3 full-blooded Catawbas left. The Catawba Indian Nation is a state recognized reservation. When asked what state and National officials think of their claim, Chief Blue stated that Governor Edwards was in support of the Catawbas and our Congressmen were also. Chief Blue stated as a final note that the Catawbas are not seeking to dispose any one of their homes. What they are trying to get is what is rightfully theirs. They also use the money they get from the settlement to build schools adequate housing and also to start businesses for the Catawbas.

The Catawbas are trying to regain their cultural heritage and also provide the best opportunities for their people. Chief Blue sees the Catawba Nation as an integral part of the South Carolina tradition in the future.

People Of The River

BY SUDIE TAYLOR

They called themselves Iwa, people of the river. The shores of the 300 mile long Catawba River was their home. They built log cabins on its banks; they blow gun hunted in its surrounding forests. From its clay deposits they formed pottery. Their thousands lived and ruled the land.

Then came the white man, and the friendly Catawba Indians were never the same.

The Catawbas were first cited by historians as early as the mid-16th century. Believed to have migrated from Canada, the Catawbas were of Sioux stock. Their nation was a conglomeration of many local Indian tribes, as noted by the more than 20 different dialects present in the Catawba language.

While men brought trade to the Catawbas, and animosity between the tribes. The Catawbas clashed with the British settlers and declared war with the new colony of South Carolina.

The Catawbas most historical chief, King Haigler was an important link between the colony and the Indians. King Haigler's only objection with the white man was his sale of rum to his tribesmen. "Take away rum," wrote King Haigler to the governor, "and it will settle matters... when my people get drunk and quarrel with the white people."

The Catawbas remained faithful to the British especially during the Revolutionary War. King Haigler vowed to get "the enmity of our Father, the Great King George."

The Catawbas were not without enemies themselves. The Iroquois and Shawnee raided frequently. An unseen enemy was smallpox, which struck the nation to a mere 200 Indians.

With America now united and free, the Catawbas were granted a permanent home. The 1863 Great Indian Congress reserved 144,000 acres of Lancaster and York counties for them. The South Carolina government, though, wanted the land of the Catawbas. So in 1840 a treaty signed on the Catawba River ceded Catawba land to South Carolina. In return, the Catawbas were to be given a tract of North Carolina land or a cash settlement of $5,000.

Neither transpired so the nation was forced to occupy York County land.

The new reservations were a tiny 652 acres, barely a square mile. Of that only 25% could be cultivated but the Indians had no means or money to do so. The only income was from pottery sales in tourist shops, and a tiny subsistence check from the state amounting to a measer $50 a year per Indian.

Chief Samuel Blue sought to keep the Catawba spirit alive. The only Indian left knowledgeable of the Catawba language, Chief Blue passed on his heritage to his tribe and children. Fathering 33 children by three wives, he kept the race flourishing.

Today the Catawba nation numbers 1,300 people as its members, but only a few live on the small reservation. Mormon by belief, 95% of the tribe belong to that faith.

Presently the Catawbas are fighting for the original lands. Their chief, a grandson of Chief Thunderbird Blue, pleads for his land and his people. "We don't want to be any richer or better than you," claims Chief Blue.

The Catawbas no longer roam the Catawba River shores. The lino cloth, blood gun, and log cabin has disappeared. The culture is shaken, but the spirit remains. They are still Catawbas but even if its the river of their mind.
Sound off

Do you think it's a good idea that students have half way into the semester to drop a course?

"Not really, because it's too long. You ought to know what you're going to fail before you sign up halfway through the semester."
-Jeff Sager; Junior-

"Yes, because by then you know the teacher and feel the course is taught the way you want it to be. By then you know whether or not you can handle the course."
-Donnie Campbell; Freshman-

"No. It's too far into the semester. It's too late to add a course then, and you'd just lose your semester hours."
-Robin Smith; Freshman-

"I would like it moved up earlier to two weeks into the semester. Then if a student is having difficulty in a course, they could drop 'it and concentrate on his other courses, not just drop it because he's failing."
-Dr. E. Miller, English professor-

Writing Center Offers Services

Any students who have passed or who are currently taking English 101 or 102 may take advantage of the individualized, tutorial help offered by the Writing Center, 318 Kinard. Students may come to the center upon the recommendation of their English instructor or upon their own initiative. Either way, experienced English Department instructors will provide students the opportunity to learn to write clearer and more effective prose.

Students may take advantage of the individualized, tutorial help offered on a non-credit basis by the Writing Center. If they do not know what their specific writing weaknesses are, students may write essays in the Writing Center to improve their writing, or if any of the thirty-plus units available in the Writing Center will help these students—they may work on a unit, guided by an instructor. Students may also take advantage of the two available commercially prepared programs on cassette tapes, one of the "The Mechanics of Spelling" and the other on "Rhetoric and Critical Thinking."

The Writing Center is open:
Monday 10-12
Tuesday 9-5
Wednesday 10-5
Thursday 9-5
Friday 9-5
To make appointments, students may call the Writing Center (323-2138) or, preferably, come by the Writing Center office (318 Kinard) during the hours the Center is open and make appointments. Students will be given an appointment slip indicating the hour of their appointment. Students are welcome to stay longer than an hour at the Center unless, of course, the Center is closing.

Most appointments will be made on a first-come, first-served basis, because staff and space are limited, priority will be given to freshman students. In the event that a student must cancel an appointment, that student should call 323-2138; then some other student may take the opening. When a student has on two occasions during a semester either cancelled Writing Center appointments or failed to keep the appointments, that student cannot make another appointment for the remainder of the semester.

SAVE-RITE
HAIR & BEAUTY AIDS

"the place where people care about your hair"

Clairol
Jerry Redding
Loréal
Revlon
Rouix
Vidal Sassoon
Wella

SAVE-RITE
Hair & Beauty Aids
1219 East Main Street
next to cloth world
ph 327-9727
UPCOMING EVENTS
NOVEMBER 1-7, 1977

SPORTS
Tuesday, Nov. 1-
Intramural Flag Football; 4:30-8 p.m.; same time Sims Field Nov. 2 and 3
Intramural Women's Volleyball games and practice; 5-6:30 p.m. Peabody 106 same time Nov. 2, 3, and 7; also 7-9:30 p.m. on Nov. 2, 3, and 7; Peabody 201.

 Intercollegiate Women's Volleyball matches against College of Charleston and Appalachian; 6 p.m.; free
Peabody Gym

COURSES/SEMINARS
Tuesday, Nov. 1-
Dinkins Program Board Short Course: International Wines and Cheeses; 7-8 p.m.; same time Nov. 8; fee: $2 for both sessions
Dinkins Aud.

Wednesday, Nov. 2-
Managing The Marginal and Unsatisfactory Performer; a seminar sponsored by the Rock Hill Chapter of the American Society for Personnel Administration; Jerry Smith, speaker; fee: $50; 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
Jynes Center

CLUBS
Tuesday, Nov. 1-
Association of Ebonites choir rehearsal; 8-10 p.m.
Dinkins 222

DELTA ZETA SORORITY MEETING
9:30-11 p.m.
Dinkins 221

WINTHROP OUTING CLUB MEETING
5:47 p.m.
Sims 105

SIGMA GAMA NU MEETING
Charlton Baseball Coach, speaker, 7 p.m.
Sims 209

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS CONTINENTAL CAFE MEETING
8 p.m.
Dinkins 220

 CHINESE DINNER: prepared and sponsored by the Winthrop International Students Club; 5-7 p.m.; cost: $2 per person
ATS, Dinkins

FILMS/VIDEO
Sunday, Nov. 6-
Dinkins Program Board movie, "The Bib.;": 7-11 p.m.; free with Winthrop ID
Kinard Aud.

MUSIC
Wednesday, Nov. 2-
Children's Music Workshop; 4:15-5 p.m.
Byrnes 203

Saturday, Nov. 5-
Juvenile Music Club meeting; 10-11:30 a.m.
Conservatory 101

TAKE THE FAMILY TO:

Pilot Wheel
Featuring:

SUNDAY BUFFET
Serving From 11 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Fresh Meats, Vegetables
Salad & Dessert

$1.50

$3.25 plus tax

SERVING SEAFOOD-STEAKS-CHICKEN

Tues.-Thurs. from 4 p.m.-10 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 4 p.m.-11 p.m.
Sunday 3 p.m.-10 p.m.

PHONE 366-1586
Out Mt. Gallant Rd. & Follow The Signs

FOR ORDERS TO GO

PAGE SIX
Monday, Nov. 7 -

 School of Music lecture LLI., "Lizenb: Music for Intermediate Pianists" by Eugene Barban; 8 p.m.; free

RELGION

Thursday, Nov. 3 -

Winthrop Campus Cooperative Ministry lunch for employees and students; $1; 11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Sunday, Nov. 7 -

Full Gospel Fellowship meeting; free; 6:30-8 p.m.

FACULTY

Wednesday, Nov. 2 -

College of Arts and Sciences department chairman meeting; 2-3 p.m.

Psychology Department meeting; 2-5 p.m.

Friday, Nov. 4 -

Committee on Undergraduate Instruction meeting; 10-11 a.m.

Monday, Nov. 7 -

Administrative Council meeting; 9 a.m.

Sociology Department staff meeting; 2-3 p.m.

Academic Council meeting; 4-6 p.m.

MISCELLANEOUS

Saturday, Nov. 5 -

College Entrance Examination Board; contact the Counseling Center for more information, 8 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Rock Hill Ballet rehearsals; 9 a.m. - 1:15 p.m.

Board of Trustees meeting; 9:30 a.m.

Monday, Nov. 7 -

Royal Richenstein Sidewalk Circus; noon - 1 p.m.; sponsored by Winthrop Cooperative Campus Ministry; free

....... OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

DEADLINE FOR CALENDAR INFORMATION, 4 PM, MONDAY, TILLMAN 126

---

1711 CHERRY RD.

PHONE: 366-5191

HUNGRY BULL

FAMILY STEAK HOUSE

OUR STEAKS ARE A CUT ABOVE!

ALL STUDENTS AND FACULTY

25% DISCOUNT ON MONDAYS

LUNCH AND DINNER

MAKE YOUR SELECTION FROM CHOICE SIRLOINS,
FILET MIGNON, T-BONE, NEW YORK STRIP AND
PRIME RIB EYE

ENJOY OUR FRESHLY GROUND BEEF
W.C. Eagles
Making It All The Way

BY DAVE BURLAGE

The 1977-78 WC men’s soccer team, a team that began their fall season not fully knowing how good or bad they really were, is closing out their fall season earning in the District Six Playoffs at Due West, S.C. The Eagles, under the coaching of Dr. Jim Canada, upset their record to 11-7-1, and gained a berth in the playoffs following victories over Francis Marion, Wofford, and Baptist College.

Francis Marion pulled back eight early and nine late on defense in an effort to stop the Eagles on Thursday, October 20th. Their strategy failed as the Eagles posted a 3-0 win. “It was a pleasing match for us, in that it was necessary from the viewpoint of making the district playoffs,” said Canada. “Also we’ve had something of a rivalry with Francis Marion (even though WC’s program is only three years old).”

Tim Peay booted home two goals and Lebron Sutton added one for the Eagles as they recorded their first shutout of the year. Wofford, a team that had beaten the Eagles 3-2 only one week earlier, came to town on Friday (21st). Entering the game, the Eagles needed to score only two to get into the playoffs. “We showed the kind of quality that I feel we have, by winning decisively 5-0,” Canada said.

The second shutout in a row brought praise from Coach Canada on a fine defensive job by the Eagles, especially goalies Tim Mahon, Frankie Griffin and Tim Peay kicked two goals each, and Mithe Long added another for the offense.

One of the top soccer teams in the south (ranked 8th in all colleges in the south), Warren Wilson, arrived at the College Farm on Saturday (22nd). Playing their third match in as many days, the Eagles came out on the short end of a 2-0 score. “We played very well in losing 5-4,” Canada said, and added, “Our offense proved it could perform with anyone. On the other hand we did not have a good day defensively and I think that we clearly showed that we were tired after three matches in three days.”

Nevertheless, the Eagles have proven time and time again that they are capable of playing with anyone in this part of the country, and even highly-ranked Warren Wilson had their hands full with a tired Eagle team.

Outstanding play from Mike Collins in net, Steven Miller fullback in all three matches was cited by Canada. Also, Tim Peay scored three goals Saturday (his second hat-trick or treat of the season). For the three matches, Peay scored seven, count ‘em, seven goals! These goals were scored against top-notch competition. Freshman stand-in Alan Rikard scored the fourth goal for WC. Bad news from the WW match was that Eric Rae was lost for the remainder of the season with torn ligaments. Rae, a freshman, was operated on Sunday (23rd). Good news is that Pat Fierro and Bobby Mizes were a collarbone in the early season, should be back in time for the playoffs.

WC defeated Baptist College 3-2 (Monday 24th) despite playing poorly. Tidying much of the match, the Eagles pulled even when Alan Rikard scored the crucial tying goal (Mithe Long had moved the Eagles’ first goal on a head shot). On assist from Steve Gibson, Tim Peay scored the third goal.

On November 3rd, WC will begin in the NAIA District Six Play-offs against Erskine at the W.C. “At the beginning of the season, I, despite only three goals (of district play-offs), had no idea that we had the capability of going that far,” said Canada.

WC is 11-7-1 on the season (our first winning season) with one regular season match left. The 1977-78 WC Men’s Soccer team has not fully known how good they really are.

Volleyball Takes Trophy

The WC Women’s Volleyball team brought home their first “Runner-Up” trophy of the season, after weekend tournaments hosted October 14th and 15th by Francis Marion.

The Eagles flew in Florence this past weekend in a tournament featuring Georgia State, Appalachian State and College of Charleston.

“The team played well together and had an exciting week,” said Maniba Gale, manager.

In their first matches WC defeated Francis Marion 15-3 and 15-6 and overcame Georgia State 15-2 and 15-7 on October 13th.

On Saturday, October 14th, the women’s team beat Appalachian State 15-12 and 15-3.

1977 WINTHROP FIELD HOCKEY TEAM—Members of the 1977 Wintthrop Field Hockey team are, first row, left to right, Pat Grisby, Diane Strickland, Jeney Norris, Christine Sherman, and Vicki Hawkins; second row, Robin Lowe, Jane Polansky, Lynn Walker, Stacy McLellan, Pat Bailey and trainer Vicki Costas; third row, manager Rhonda Hartzell, Louise Smith, Shirley Ford, Karen Leman, Jodye Jennings, Natalie Backley, Penny Bostain and coach Marbetta Bobb. (Winthrop College photo by Joel Nichols.)

Field Hockey Adds 4

The Field Hockey team added four victories to their season record.

Winthrop scored four of the twenty-six shots made in the game against Converse. Lynn Walker scored two of the four points while Jenny Norris and Pat Bailey scored one point each. The Eagles (winning 4-0) held Converse scoring one and Pat Bailey scoring the next. Davidson in turn made three attempts at Winthrop’s goal, finishing the game Winthrop 2, Davidson 0.

On Tuesday (24th) the Eagles played a fine offensive game in downing Furman, 6-1.

Deadline To Study P.E. Abroad

Deadlines for booking the ’78 spring program to study physical education in Britain are April 1st. Students interested must consult with the curriculum coordinator of the physical education department in their home college prior to enrolling in the program.

1978 courses offered are: Comparative Physical Education In Britain (select one from the following): Principles of Movement Education-Physical Education Administration-Principles of Learning and Classroom Management-Outdoor Pursuits in Physical Education, (select one or two of the following): Principles and Teaching of Lacrosse and Soccer, (option) Special Project.
JOB OP TIPS

Frank Joseph, career counselor at the Placement and Career Planning Center, said ten tips on job hunting should be noted.

1. "Never need to spend a month after graduation.
2. "Learn all you can about the position and the employing organization that you are interviewing for in order to be a good candidate.
3. "Contact the nearest Placement and Career Planning Office to apply for a position.
5. "The Foreign Service Exam is available at the Placement and Career Planning Office.
7. "The Foreign Service Exam is available at the Placement and Career Planning Office.
8. "The Foreign Service Exam is available at the Placement and Career Planning Office.

FOREIGN SERVICE EXAM

Applications for the Foreign Service Exam, available at the Placement and Career Planning Office, must be received by November 10, 1977, according to Frank Joseph, career counselor.

OCTOBER 31, 1977

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

Applications for the Civil Service Exam may be obtained at the Placement and Career Planning Office in November, according to Frank Joseph, career counselor.

The Professional and Administrative Career Exam, which is required for employment with the Federal Government, will be given on November 10, Thursday, 1977. The exam will consist of written tests in English and mathematics. The test is open to all applicants, regardless of race, color, creed, or national origin.

INTERVIEW SCHEDULE

November 2, Wednesday, 1977 - Chester County Schools, 9:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
November 3, Thursday, 1977 - Charleston County Schools, 9:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
November 4, Friday, 1977 - Greenville, S.C., 9:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

For every hundred people who took the PACE last year, Joseph said only four obtained employment with the Federal Government.

JOBS AT THE BIG APPLE

A great new store with a great big difference. Stop in, you'll discover all the latest name-brand sportswear. Then check the price tags. It's all been reduced at least 50% and it's all first quality. The Big Apple doesn't sell seconds. The Big Apple does get new clothes almost every week. See for yourself. At The Big Apple, you can dress like a Million--without spending a fortune.

The Big Apple's in Rock Hill right next to the new Pizza Inn.
EVENTS FOR NOV. 14

SHORT COURSES

Tuesday the first session of Wine and Cheese Courses will be held in downtown Dinkins or AIS. The session will begin at 7:00 p.m. and last for one hour.

MOVIE

On Sunday night at 8:00 p.m. in Tillman Auditorium, Films committee will show the movie "The Bible." Admission will be Winthrop ID.

TOURNAMENT AND GAMES

The chess tournament will begin Wednesday, November 7, and last approximately a week.

“Burlesque”

Yes, “Burlesque” has finally come to Winthrop. The Winthrop Chapter of A.R.P.A. has been instrumental in enlisting “Wild Bill’s Side Show” for one dynamic evening. The show will feature various professors who “moon-light” under disguise along with students of Winthrop College, who care little for life, limb, or reputation. So, come and see the MAIN ATTRACTIONS will be:

1) A convoluted leg show featuring “Over the Hill Bill” and his arthritic knees
2) Abdula the Sword Swallower
3) Roger the Dodger whose act is SO secretive we fear repeat if we divulge it at this time.
4) Maharaj, The Bearded Stone
5) And his dancing VAGS
6) Exotic Dancers, featuring talents never seen in this area and probably never will be again.

SHOW TIME WILL START at 8:30 p.m.

Dear Mom and Dad,

Things are swell here at college except, of course, the food, which is so bad that I’m down to 91 lbs. living on salted water and sending samples to the biology lab. I’m hoping you’ll buy me a prepaid Trailways ticket home to get a decent meal.

I sure could go for some of Mom’s good ol’ apple pie. Can someone get a prepaid Trailways ticket for me?

Dad, next time we get together, I want to tell you how I suddenly realized what a truly wise and magnanimous fellow you are where I left your car last New Year’s Eve. Thanks for making this trip possible with a prepaid Trailways ticket.

I also need some advice on a personal matter. My backhand, where one can hire decent servants these days to how to separate you from a few bucks for a prepaid Trailways ticket.

Got to sign off now and go to class. I’m sure we’ll do better next time.

Love,

P.S. Just go to the Trailways station and pay for my ticket. Tell them who it’s for and where I am. I pick the ticket up here when I go to catch the bus.

There is a $.50 service charge for prepaid tickets. You may be solicited by the various Trailways personnel when you get a ride. Prepaid round-trip tickets are good for one year from the date of purchase. Prepaid one-way tickets are good for 60 days from the date of purchase.

For more information call Trailways (803)827-3426
Social Work Club

The Social Work Club met Tuesday, October 18, to discuss community service projects and to have their fall picture taken. President John Ellis, advisor of the club.

Two community service projects have been approved by the members of the club. The first was the idea of being Big Brothers to underprivileged children. Students in the club will help the children who have been put on probation by periodically taking them out or just talking to them, said Ellis. The second project approved was the idea to serve as relief parents to children in foster homes. Students will act as relief parents by caring for foster children when the official parents need to be away from home, said Ellis.

The Social Work Club will hold elections on November 8 and 20 to discuss plans for the current term. The club will meet Oct. 20 to discuss plans for Halloween Happening said Joyce Flyer, Club secretary.

In addition to a booth at Halloween Happening in Dinkins, the Theatre Club will be applying Halloween makeup to children. Club members are to participate in the auction for Halloween Happening. Flyer said students will be able to bid for the chance to throw a pie in a professor's face at the club's booth.

Zeta Phi Beta

Zeta Phi Beta won third place at the York County Fair for an educational exhibit on "Energy to Burn," according to Gwen Crome, pres. of the sorority and Winthrop student.

The win of the fair, also called Halloween Happening, will go toward the Summer Missions.

Religious Currents

BU S

The Baptist Student Union will sell hot dogs for 35 cents tonight at the annual Halloween Happening and the proceeds will go to Summer Missions, according to Mrs. Dena Lucy, Associate Director of BSU.

A student talent sharing time will be held on November 3 at 6:00 p.m. at the BSU building. Coordinators will be Anna Dowell and Sharon Duncan.

BSU will sponsor a Flea Market on October 5 from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the BSU building. "We have everything from baked goods to plants to crafts to junk," Mrs. Lucy said. The profit will go toward the Summer Missions.

Forever Generation

The Forever Generation, a non-denominational Bible Study Group open to all students, has changed its meeting schedule, according to Coach Evans Brown, Advisor.

The Group will meet every Thursday at 7:00 p.m. in the Lee Wicker Parlor instead of on Tuesday.

"The members will be discussing the topic of 'What does it mean to be born again?' during the next two meetings," Coach Brown said.

ONKYO

Artistry in Sound

ONKYO'S DISTORTIONLESS TUNER
CAN NOW BE FOUND IN THEIR
NEW TX4500 RECEIVER
AUDITION THE QUALITY OF ONKYO
IN OUR SOUND ROOM TODAY!

ONKYO

1708 Eberhart Rd.
Audi Connection
Village Square
360-3458

Add-a-Bead Necklace

The perfect gift! Start with a beautiful centerpiece of one or more 14 karat solid gold beads and our solid gold 18 inch chain. Then, on birthdays or anniversaries to come (or any special occasion), add another bead until you have a complete necklace.

15 or 16 inch-14K Gold Chain with one 14K Bead $688

ONKYO

14Kt Solid Gold Beads on 14K Gold Chains

Additional 14K $150 Jade Beads $100 ea.

Design your own necklace from our assorted beads
- Jade - Onyx - Green Onyx - Lapis - Ivory Pearl - Sterling and Others

CONSUMER WHOLESALE

OPEN 10 AM - 6 PM Mon.-Sat.
CHERRY PLAZA SHOPPING CENTER
492-346-7161
BOYSE"
FOR SALE
Gibson Firebird Guitar and case. Great condition. $475.
Jim Byrd, 323-3335, PO Box 5878.
1) Sweaters–size 7 or medium
2) Shoes–size 5
3) Expensive competition gowns with matching shoes
4) Houses–size 7
5) Perfume samples–Germaine
6) Western Boots–size 5 1/2 or 6
Prices are fair. Call or come by! Lisa, 323-4015 Roddey Apt. No. 115.
One pair Bose 501 loudspeakers. 3-way direct-reflecting. Like new. $500.
Larry Jordan, 323-3915. Rte. 1, Box 283, Rock Hill, S.C.
Avon Products. Call for an appointment after 8 p.m. 366-1851.
76 Fender Stratocaster guitar; Sunburst body, maple neck. Very good condition. $1000.
Romero guitar. Light brown finish. Comes with case and 2 cords. Contact Ed Moon or Thomas Ray at 323-3363 or come to Thomson 418. Serious inquiries only.
Queen size headboard–$10, and complete shower door. Call 327-3674.

HALLOWEEN SPECIAL
Costume Party with winner receiving $50.
$1 admission at door with proceeds being donated to help keep the chimes on the Winthrop Campus.

Champagne being given away at 12:00
So come on out to
THE MONEY for the
Halloween action!

You’re The Coach
That’s right. Here’s your chance to choose your own basketball team. Just fill in the blanks (below) with the names of the five Winthrop faculty members or students you would enjoy seeing as the members of the opposing team in the second half of the Eagles benefit game to “SAVE THE CHIMES.” The eight Winthropians receiving the most votes will be suited up to take on the Soaring Eagles. Fill in the blanks, clip the coupon, and TURN IT IN AT THE DINKINS INFORMATION DESK.

1.
2.
3.
4.
5.

HELP US SAVE THE CHIMES!!!