Federation Completes List of Pledges of Winthrop Social Clubs

Thirteen Additional Clubs Announce New Members
The names of pledges of the social clubs which were not complete in time to make last week's Journalism have been submitted to Estelle Mae Fuller, Federation president.

More about Dr. John B. Hart. He led a group that he was more than a little surprised to find that our judgments of each "Sage" either differed so greatly.

The names of the remaining clubs and the students pledging follow:
Chi Omega Kappa: Marie Bethel, Elizabeth Floyd.

Are we guilty of forming "aspirations"? Do we let first impressions count all others? Are we guilty of placing our classmates into one of two groups - "hones" and "not hones"?

Lambda Phi Alpha: Mary Pittman, Agnes Bowman, May Dicus, Della Bari Davidson, Edna Herr.

Unless we are talking courses that require it, we are all too apt to let current events go by unnoticed.

Phi Delta Xi: Blanche Harvelson, Marjorie Blesaw, Jimmy Lingo, Anne Bell, Hugo Helen Cain, Davene Gray.

However, we should strive to remember that there are some very important things occurring every day in every part of the world.

Theta Chi: Theresa Jean Cooper, Gene McQueen, Martha Rogers, Katherine Myers, Evelyn Davis.

Next Tuesday, we will review magazine articles and sections of the Sunday papers both interesting and concise in their summaries.

Kappa Phi Two: Lila Sparkman, Bess Moore, Sara Burgess, Edna Owen, Nell Ecker, Lilla Lindler.

There are 1,400 students at Winthrop and our press is that at least 1,400 are courteous and courteous? thoughtless at all times and in all places?

Phi Upsilon Omega: national home economics fraternity, will sponsor a fashion show Tuesday night at 8:30 in Johnson hall.

ACT YOUR AGE IN CHAPEL

So we are young ladies now! Well, one might not suspect it if he judged us by our conduct in chapel.
After all, we go to chapel only once a week and remain for not more than 45 minutes. In view of the fact that we manage to conduct ourselves admirably in most of our classes all day long for six days a week, it would seem that we could act our ages just this once.

Tammy's 'Night Out'

In spite of Tammy's enjoyment and appreciation of some morsels of this and that, Miss Lillian Welton requests that girls refrain from feeding her pet Scotch. Penn. Freshman Came 'South' For Education

By MARGARET NORWOOD
In watching for freshman fashion reports get this bit of 'dope' quite by chance. It all came about when Marjorie McClure had a little difficulty in buying a stamp. She wanted to send a letter to Australia by airmail to her former roommate...

NEEDED: SHOCK ABSORBERS IN THE DINING ROOM

"I wouldn't talk so loud in the dining room if everybody else didn't," recently commented a bull-sessioner to a group of her friends discussing noise in the dining room.
And she continued, "But I have to talk about my normal speaking voice to make myself heard by others at the table."
At each table in the dining room not presided over by an officer of the college, there are one or more seniors. These seniors, when they sign up for the table, assume the responsibility of maintaining order at the table.

PHILOSOPHY AT WINTHROP

"Who are we? Where are we? Where did we come from? Where are we going?" These four Voltairean questions and similar ones may form the subject of second semester bed sessions. If a much-discussed course in philosophy is added to the curricula...
Through the study of philosophy we can get a survey of the great thought of the world from the days of Plato and Socrates, through the early days of Christianity, down to the present. If we understand the thought of a country throughout its history, we are better able to understand its people, their attitudes, and their actions.

WILL YOU BE 'CUM LAUDE'?

In June, 18 Winthrop girls may graduate "with honor!" This week the Registrar's office sent notices to these 18 seniors—"Just they forget!" to keep up the good work that will surely win for them that coveted "cum laude" or "magna cum laude" honor.
These girls are candidates for the following degrees: A. B., 10; B. S. Commerce; B. S. Science; 2; B. S. Home Economics; 2; B. S. Music; 1.
And the power of suggestion should work an underclassmen as well as on these distinguished seniors! There is that goal of excellent scholarship, which many can attain. And for those for whom this suggestion comes too late, there is that satisfaction to be gained from having worked toward a goal and having got just so near.

Not a Good Teacher, W. T. S. Pupils Say

Perhaps the student teachers could acquire some tips regarding the merits of their labors by translating some of the comments of their sophisticated pupils.
Recently a W. T. S. girl asked how she liked a certain student teacher.
"OH," she replied slightly, "she's really not a good teacher."
When asked why, she explained with the air of one who knows, "She doesn't attract the attention of the class, and that period is not as interesting as it should be."
Six weeks in Bermuda four summers ago.
Europe via Freight
That is the most heavenly place imaginable," according to Marjorie, who advises everyone to go there on her honeymoon. Last summer she spent six weeks in Sweden, Denmark, Poland, and Finland. She and her mother went over on a freighter. Marjorie should be an example for all homesick freshmen. She came to Winthrop without knowing a person here or anywhere else in the South. She says that she "adores Winthrop" and "loves South" because she is nearest to the world to stream—and I love southern cooking!

THE VOICE OF THE CAMPUS

Dear Editor:
I'm one of the "voices of the campus." I have only a few thoughts to sound—however, I hope the accoutrements of the system provides, I could do a little work. I could see...
In the Tiger, too, we noticed an editorial on learning to dance. It mentioned something about the freshmen who didn't know how. Some of those upperclassmen could take a lesson or two between tests and perhaps they would find a substitute for some of that juggling wiggling and hopping they do on our toes!

NEW "BIG APPLE" STEP?

Julia Thomas was practicing soccer one afternoon when one of her hockey students on the side lines recognized her and pointing joyfully cried, "There's my favorite teacher!"

And a faculty member, hearing the story, asked if "drinking" is a new step of the "big apple."

FOILED!

Margie Mitchell thought she was waiting a long time for the college bus to pull out of Columbia the other day. But imagine her surprise when she looked up and found she wasn't waiting for the college bus at all—because there stood a dry cleaning bus instead.

By the Small Shall You Know It

Miss Lee really got "knock" on that idea of student typewritten clearance into her rollbook. She was used, and all girls isn't easily pleading ignorant, you know. The first time the roll was called from one of the good pairs, students noticed that their instructor gapped a little between names, and soon they became aware of a peculiar "aroma" emanating from the rollbook.

Whereupon Miss Lee declared, "Well, it was a good idea, but I fear I'll soon be aphorized by this 'family' ghie."

"But now you won't have to worry about losing the roll," remarked an optimistic class "wit."

"I Won't Be a Phlyt Focall!"

Edith Cramer, physical education major with a penchant for French, thus explained why she's not a language major.

"Oh, lots of people can get French," she said, "but it takes a pretty lively-minded person to stand on her head. And the listening professor severely refrained from saying anything about 'blockhead'."

The "Flood" of the Seasons

I went out to cast a critical eye on holiday practice the other day, and the best prospect on the field seemed to be a little girl named W-Well-ye. Well, she has possibilities!

S. P. OFFICIALS TO BE GUESTS OF COLLEGE NOVEMBER 2

Senator Lieutenant-Governor Harley, Speaker Bob Blatt, Senator B. Mortimer Ward, chairman of Senate Finance committee, and Neville Bennett, chairman of Ways and Means committee.

College marshals will be on duty in seating the assembly group. Checks will be distributed at 11:45 to permit all students and faculty to attend the exercises.

After the assembly hour, the group will go to the dining room where they will be guests of the college for dinner. The visitors will share tables with students. It is planned at present to have no more than four guests at each table, with a student as hostess. The college orchestra will furnish the music during the meal. Invitations to sit at certain tables will be extended to the visitors by students.

A campus tour follows at 3:30. Under the general direction of President Phelps, and with the assistance of the marshals and chaperones, the tour will include various points of interest, such as the amphitheater and book campus, Knorr hall, front campus, the library, Breasale, and Johnson hall.

Legislature Day has been set, first, to make the General assembly and state officials better acquainted with their state college for women; and second, to stimulate an interest among Winthrop girls in state affairs.

I Wanna Get Out 'of Here' Theme Song of Patients

"I wanna get out 'I wanna get out 'I wanna get out!" was the refrain of the patients of the infirmary.

Prapped up in snow-white hospital beds in the surprising fashion of the athletic field, five girls with varying degrees of cold sniff with indignation and cold.

"Oh, no," says one girl, "it's not that the infirmary isn't all right. It is; but I've got class to meet."

"And I wanna go to the fair," croaks another girl, hoarse with cold.

"And I've got to teach today," declares a senior, discarding her hat piece of kismet, and borrowing another from the girl in an adjoining cot.

"I like the food, though," says another of the five girls. "I feel like a queen—having meals in bed... and what else!... We have live cream every day, and fruit juice between meals, and all the 'ice water' we want!"

Then the talk shifts to the usual topics of conversation among girls—

"Forever Yours" Is Saturday Night Show

Reminade Otti, "the world's greatest star," will sing in "Forever Yours" in main auditorium, Saturday night, October 23, at 7:15.

The story begins on the B. S. "Orchestra," heard from South-Castles to New York. Helen Carlton has a shipboard romance with the first officer, Hugh Anderson, but they parted before the best deals. Reunited in the Metropolitan to hear the tenor, Eugene Curti, and to evince with Marie Power. Later, she meets Curti, who cannot speak English very well. He awakes with the aid of a dictionary and is accepted.

On their first wedding anniversary they set off on a world tour, and Helen meets Hugh, who has now to run away with him. Somehow the story ends happily.

This picture will appeal to music and opera lovers. For Gleti stage sine operatic acts, from "El Trovatore," "Mikaelita," "Faust," "Lohengrin," "Ariadna," and others.

Elliott Discusses Child Labor

Y cabinet members were assigned faculty from whom they are to collect Y pledges at a meeting Tuesday in Johnson hall.

Child labor was discussed by Ollie Ruth Elliott, chairman of the Wednesday night vespers committee. Emphasis was placed on the educated becoming familiar with all problems of a working child. As a group of future school teachers, compulsory school attendance methods should be noted, Ollie Ruth said.

Fair Chaperons Enjoy Fair Despite Fair Chaperones

Winthrop's three most eligible and only available bachelors, Broadus Seigler, Charles Houston, and Frank E. Harrison, were pressed into service as chaperones for 1,400 fair maidens going to the York county fair.

From observations made at different points on the fair grounds, by different observers, the fair chaperones were more chaperoned by fair chaperones than they did chaperoning. In fact, they were not even in the time they threw their first penny into the "Win Your Money Back" wheel, as won hallowed Mickey Moses; as they peeped through the penny chow; until they tried their luck at putting nickles in a machine to get out silver dollars. Why there was even one chaperoning each month of rotten candy.

Dr. Farrell played chaperon for only one fair maiden—but she was a handful. The other hand was full of a great big doll that his five-year-old daughter Nell had won.
