Visiting Musician Acted With Cantor in "Whoopee"
He's done everything from playing college football at Washington State college to acting with Fiddie Cantor in the stage show "Whoopee". Now he's Mr. J. P. Robertson, Singer of Psalmis, who travels all over the United States demonstrating his collection of Biblical musical instruments to students.
Monday morning in Music hall at Winthrop, Mr. Robertson gave a program for Winthrop girls and Miss Arturberg's Training School class. As he played each instrument, he gave its historical interest, answered any questions, and played an appropriate psalm or oriental air in much the same way as they were sung in the Holy Land thousands of years ago.

Professor "Plays" With Astronomy And Electricity
"You must excise me; I've been my own physician tonight" was the exclamation of a patient of Dr. Paul M. Wheeler, head of the English department at Winthrop college, dashed hurriedly upstairs after leaving his living room.

"Hobby Is a Safety Valve," Says Dr. Paul M. Wheeler
"That's just what the real reason I couldn't see you at first. I was a dirty, muddy mess from working on my new fish pond all afternoon. Wait a minute"—and with characteristic coolness and accuracy he began for a flashlight, turned off all electric lights in the room, and led us to a window to press the latest fish pond he is building in his new yard.

Editorial Asides
Winthrop has done it again—only now and then it has successfully managed and even more successfully participated in one of the biggest forensic tournaments in the South.
Our congratulations go to everyone connected with the tournament. It was what is known as a "smooth" affair.
By the way, didn't the place look good with all the young men and girls in bright colors and our own classmates in their best navy? And the evening clothes! We couldn't stand the pace for too long a time, but for three days it was grand fun.

SPORTS

COMPETITION
There seems to be a spirit of competition growing between physical education classes. Recently Miss Casey's sixth period team sports group challenged Miss Wellner's second-period group to a speed-ball contest. The first score was 2-3, in favor of both teams. "See"—so there were no hard feelings. But now the Wellner group have retaliated by inviting the Casey group to match their skills in a volley ball tilt, so here's good luck to both sides!

"APPLER" AGAIN
They say Miss Fung was really "tripping the light fantastic" the other day. She gave a little Big Apple exhibition in her folk-dancing class.

Did you know that over two billions of dollars are spent in the United States each year in the field of sports?

MEK-UP
Here's a note of sympathy to all those whose recent "check-up" turned out to be a disappointing "mis-up." It's sometimes a little difficult to make good connections between the head and the feet, don't you think so?

TABLE-TENNIS
We may have a professional exhibition of table tennis before the potential Winthrop experts now enrolled in recreational sports classes get too good. Kinsey Evans already has a neat "slice" under control, and Grace Punderbark aims over some powerful "smashes."

DO WE NEED ANOTHER GYM?
You should have heard the jolly little "argument" as to which one of two athletic staff members should have the gymnasium from three to four o'clock Tuesday. It seems that two classes had met with a little commotion in Roddey basement for the fifth period class, and the instructor of each class felt that she had suffered enough during the preceding hour to deserve the gymnasium from the next.

Maybe we just need to build another gymnasium, or else move Roddey basement nearer the main gymnasium and raise the basement ceiling. The note that 40 slugging students make over there is really enough to raise the Roddey roof.

Wardrobe Tumbles Spilling Blue—Makes Girls White
Pictures may fall, curtains and even clocks, but it is a rare occasion indeed when a full-sized, true to life wardrobe comes tumbling down almost bodily upon bewildered students. But that's what happened to two juniors! When the sound of the crash had finally subsided and the echoes had died away, they bravely eyed the debris in an attempt to discover what casualties had been incurred.
A demolished shoe-bag with shoes only slightly flattened, a disintegrated sock, and a mangle array of navy blue clothes covered with white spots suspiciously resembling that well known Winthrop plaster, apparently told the tale of the disaster.
When the two finally recovered their breaths, the paler one said in a betraying small voice, "Just think, two minutes before, I was sitting right there in front of it!"

Three of Faculty Make Talks at A.U.W. Toy Show
Home Ec. Classes Solicit Toys; Majors Is Chairman

Three of the Winthrop faculty spoke at the American Association of University Women's toy show at the Episcopal parish house last Thursday and Friday, according to Miss Etta Majors, chairman of the show.

Dr. Hampton Jarrell, professor of English, discussed "Stories for Young Children"; Miss Janette Anteburn, assistant professor of public school music, spoke on "Musical Experiences Every Child Should Have"; and Miss Stella Bradford, instructor in psychology, lectured on "Development of the Child Through Play."

Miss Dowell, treasurer of the A. U. W., presided over the toy show in the afternoon; Dr. Elizabeth Johnson, president of the association, was master of ceremonies at the evening lectures.

"Soliciting toys from Rock Hill merchants, and arranging them according to age groups, members of the home economics classes had much to do with the success of the toy show," said Miss Majors.

"Wake Up and Live" Stars Bernie, Faye
Walker Wins'ed, Ben Bernie and his orchestra, Alice Faye, Faye Kelly, Ned Sparks, Jack Haley, and numbers of others will be seen in "Wake Up and Live" tomorrow night in Main auditorium.
The plot is built around the Winchell-Bernie feud. Jack Haley, a Radio-Caster guide, fearfully sings into what he thinks is a dead microphone. He proves to be good, and the world in general and Winchell and Bernie in particular are eager to find the "phantom crooner."
Alice Faye promises to deliver the phantom and then tricks him to overcome his "mike" fright.
