We Reiterate:
Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year

Editorial Asides

One week from today will be the long awaited, much discussed day of days. We know you greetings will have a glorious, gorgeous time not only that day but also the three preceding and the nine following days. Not to mention the night!

We sincerely hope that a Class is generous to each and every one of you and that every single moment will be even more exciting than you might have planned or dared hope that it might be.

We realize that this is a peculiar time to talk of summer school but it really should be done. If you are planning to finish in summer three years, or you just school want to get in a couple of extra courses, or you have a few hours to make up—then it's summer school for you.

W. D. Mapstone sends word that it might be wise to spend some time discussing the situation with your parents come the holidays, for the curricula must be planned before second semester. Begin now to decide what you want and what you have to have so that the courses may be arranged to suit everyone.

How festive we are with all of our holiday decorations! The Christmas tree on front campus breath-takingly personal—it makes you years to hang up your stockings and climb into bed to dream of angels singing with harp of gold, and of a jolly old man with a long white beard, loaded down with a pack of joy and love, peace, and good-will.

Johnson hall is another place lovely enough to invoke visions. Its Christmas tree is like all Christmas trees—just grand. The rooms decorated by the classes are all different and all beautiful. In them one can relax and grow calm, and drink in beauty—becoming happier and better for having passed there.

The dramatists, too, have been elaborately decorated and the spirit of camaraderie and gaiety which seems to have descended upon every heart almost makes us wish this season would never end.

With everyone excited about the course in philosophy which has just been announced there New Courses are already means and means of our need for enlightenment in our fields.

Our greatest need now is to course on marriage. For all those who are "budd-sensational" so enthusiastically for such a course, we recommend an article in this month's American magazine.

New Bed Warmer Proves To Be Not So Successful

Found: New use for electric light bulbs.

If your feet are cold why not put a burning electric light bulb in your bed?

So Cappy Covington thought last week when he was unable to sleep because of cold feet. Pulling the burning bulb under the cover he planned to take it out as soon as his feet got warm.

Sometime later the night mirror, in making her rounds, smelled smoke. She finally decided to burn the bulb under the cover and she was surrounded by thick wreaths of smoke. Was the smoke coming from the bed? Definitely not! And in the midst of it all Cappy, snoring happily with warm feet.

Since a hole was burned in her blankets and in the mattress Cappy's invention will not be patented until perfection has removed all danger.

Tammy Weekends In Greenville—Minus Permission

Tammy, a vagabond by nature, went roving again last Saturday in Greenville.

Miss Lillian Wellier, accompanied by Tammy, made a visit to several schools and ended up in Greenville Friday evening. So far Tammy had behaved beautifully, and nothing, not even the gleam in his eyes, had given away the fact that he had plans for the next day.

Up before anyone else Saturday morning Tammy up by the door waiting his chance, and the first time the door was opened out he slipped. Sneezing under the hedge he found himself out in the open and proceeded to have a big time. All day long he roared up and down, chasing cats and turning over trash cans.

Toward evening he began to get tired and decided maybe he had better go home. He picked out a person who looked as if it might be going his way and followed her. The lady, knowing that her neighbors had a little Scotty dog, encouraged him; but upon reaching home found that her neighbor's dog was still in his yard and that she had one dog too many.

The shut Tammy up in a nice warm garage and called the police to notify them that she had found (Continued on Page 8)

SEASON'S GREETINGS!

"Merry Christmas" will be said over and over again this week and next. But in spite of the number of times it has been said during the last 1937 years and will be said in the future, the words will never become hackneyed.

Therefore, The Johnsonian, in sending its holiday greeting to the student body, faculty, officers, alumnae, and friends of Winthrop, can think of no better words to express it than a sincere MERRY CHRISTMAS and a very HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Famous "Letter to Virginia" Recalls Naivete of Childhood As Christmas Draws Near

The Johnsonian takes pleasure in reproducing the famous editorial written more than forty years ago by Editor Church of The New York Sun.

It ought to be particularly refreshing to us who may feel a certain sophistication and wisdom in the naive innocence of children at Christmas time. It follows:

IS THERE A SANTA CLAUS?

We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communicator below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that his faithful author is numbered among the friends of The Sun:

Dear Editor:

I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says "If you see it in The Sun it's so." Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?
VIRGINIA O'HANLON.
115 West Ninety-Fifth Street.

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible to their little minds. A little Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childish faith then, no poetry, no romance, no make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal lights with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

How believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus, but what if they did? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen, unnameable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a well covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the wisest woman, can see with the strongest eyes that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the unperceived beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Oh, Virginia, in all the world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God, he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, may ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

S. C. Service For Women Heads Up at Winthrop

On the third floor of Main building, behind the big double doors, are the offices which house an interesting and active organization. This group is the home demonstration department which, although it has headquarters at Winthrop, is a branch of the Clemson college extension service.

The home demonstration department is situated at Winthrop instead of Clemson by a special agreement. Before establishing cooperative extension work in all states, this type of work had gained a foothold in South Carolina.

The first work of this kind was by Helen by Miss Marie Cramer David Bancroft Johnson, first president of Winthrop college, aided in this early extension work and allowed the teachers to make their headquarters at Winthrop. When the State Extension Service's headquarters were placed at Clemson the branch of the service for women was allowed to remain at Winthrop.

At present there are five people on the office staff here and nine agents and specialists who make their headquarters at Winthrop, but travel about the state supervising the work of county and district agents and club leaders.

There are about fifty county home demonstration agents in South Carolina. A large majority of these agents are Winthrop home economic graduates. These agents organize clubs in the counties. They teach the farm women the newest methods of poultry raising, dairying, home beautification, home-management, and other subjects of this type. They contact about 2,000 women and 1,200 girls.

Besides the fact that its headquarters are at Winthrop and that most of its agents are Winthrop graduates, the home demonstration department is connected with Winthrop in still another way. It sponsors the Council of Farm Women which gives the Johnson-Walker Loan Fund in order to assist 4-8 girls to attend Winthrop college.

Wanted: Photos That Deplet South Carolina

The Winthrop Journal wants a "Palmettos" section in its big Winter issue to come off the press early in February.

Primarily pictorial, this four-page section on enamel coated paper will attempt to portray the South Carolina that has been made famous in various literary forms: fiction, biography, history, editorials, and magazine articles.

Interesting snapshots of contemporary life and conditions in the State will also be used.

Any one who has such photos or who knows where such can be had will do The Journal a great favor if she will notify Lois Young, editor, or Mr. Parr. Photos must be in by January 15.

Burns and Rape Team In "Mountain Music"

Bob Burns and Martha Hays will send you rolling in the aisles when "Mountain Music" is shown in Main auditorium at 7:30 tomorrow night.

Seeing this picture is like taking a vacation up in the Ozark mountain country and associating with hillbilly folk. To end a feud, Bob Burns is supposed to marry the girl who loves his brother. He gets scared on the wedding day and, after creating a scene, leaves the mountains just ahead of a charge of beaters. His disfigurement leads people to believe that he has been killed, and his brother is arrested on a murder charge.

Advertising into a foreign land on the other side of the mountains, Burns loses his memory because of an accident. Thinking he is someone else, he falls in love with Martha Hays, an ambitious entertainer who he thinks is the most beautiful girl in the world.

Light dramatic and romantic complications ensue, thanks to the characters but amusing to the audience.

Christmas Spirit Fills Rooms of Johnson Hall

Suds And Tinsel Decorate Students As Well As Trees

BY NANCY BEATY

"Well, I guess I ain't gonna wash stained James the snow-washer," he tried to establish cleanliness in Johnson hall amid the scurrying girls who were setting up lighted, gold-washed trees, libelous scenes, silver wreaths, and satin bows Saturday.

For five years the Y has financed assistance in their decoration of the student building. With a combination of Y spirit, class spirit, and holiday hilarity students changed the scene from the ordinary to one of well-known beauty.

This year the freshmen attained an exact little sort of perfection in the music room. Everything possible is in blue and silver. Cotton is tacked on the corners of the windows so realistically that one can almost see more snow falling outside.

Over each light are graceful silver sprays of evergreen with bows of shimmering cellophane around them. In the windows blue silver wreaths with soft, shining blue ribbon gracefully tuck about them.

Nor did the modern patterns suit the manger scene. On a table in miniature is Mary, the shepherd, the kings, and the Christ child. A brocade ground of blue with a light shining through to supply the silver keeps uniform the color scheme even here. The soft blue light, broken suddenly by the spot light on the white tree, make the music room an ideal spot for the romantic.

While the freshmen were still in the process of decorating their masterpiece, they amused themselves with a dance of ivy and cellophane. Suspended from her head beyond her feet to the floor around, the tree-trunk looked weird as she pranced among a cellophane and ivy chorus.

In the foyer, transformed by the juniors, is a ceiling-high, twinkling tree hung with the conventional multi-colored lights.

Another scented tree whitens the senior's rose room of gold and blue. A madonna scene quietly framed by red burning candles on either side, is the center of the library which the sophomores decorated.

Yes, Johnson hall has the Christmas spirit!

Cabinet To Help Needy Families

Group decides To Take Care Of Three This Year

Three needy families will be prepared for Christmas by different groups of Y cabinet. Individual donations from each member will supply funds for one family. Sponsors of the social service committee will each give food and toys to the other people they have selected to aid.

Once again Senior Forum will sponsor the opera hour each Saturday afternoon in Johnson hall. The Y cabinet is to be the group. This year this hour proved popular and successful," remarked an opera fan.

After the business meeting was adjourned Helen Maude Murray, chairman of the social committee, surprised the Cabinet with refreshments. A novel peppermint candy straw stuck in an orange was served.

Faculty Reveal Dramatic Talent In "Il Sauto Bambino"

The lights are turned off—two at a time. Silence. The curtain parts slowly—silence. The audience is silent. The applause of approximately 500 students rings in the ears of the actors and actresses.

"Il Sauto Bambino" (The Holy Child), the faculty play which was written by Dr. Donna Martin and presented for the Christmas program, is the story of the American Association of University Women, is about to be presented to the public.

The play begins. The audience seems astonished. Are these and these presents by the girls who daily hand out assignments and tests much more real than they hand out the money for Julia's massage treatment? Yes, they must be. There's Miss Hayden's well-known brogue and Miss Calver's "Oh . . . d'you see?"

The play progresses . . . the audience cannot suppress its "Ah" when Miss Lillian Welner appeared "draped" in black, ready for her visit to the Pope! One student whispered, "Ochidie to Dr. Johnson!" Her portrayal of the Italian maid was unique. And some of the students seem to think P. E. Harrison and E. I. Terry "please their audience as much as they do their pupils."

The Winthrop student-body can fully appreciate the fact that they are not the only students who say "bravo" until the next check comes from home—especially with Christmas on the way.

Music At Assembly

Three selections by Glee Club. Bender sang "Three Kings"

The music department had charge of the assembly program Wednesday night. The program consisted of Christmas music by the glee club and Lloyd Bender of the music department.

The glee club sang the following selections, "Shepherd's Christmas Story," an Austrian folk song, "Virgilia's Cradle Hymn," and "Shepherd's Story."

Mr. Bender sang "Three Kings" accompanied by the sextet.

Library Addition Completed

The new textbook reference room above the stacks in the library which includes better lighting facilities and a few individual study desks, was opened last week for student use.

This new room makes provision for a student to use reserved books without checking on a card.

Chinese Missionary To Speak At Open Meeting In Johnson Hall

Dr. W. H. Hudson, a native of Greenville, who has spent his life as a missionary in China, will speak to Johnson hall auditors at 3 o'clock Sunday. His topic will be "Political and Moral Conditions in China Today."

Dr. Hudson had a daughter to graduate from Winthrop. Each time she has been home on furlough, it has been his custom to talk at Winthrop at least one hour.

Student Volunteers will sponsor Dr. Hudson's visit, and they have announced an open meeting.

PARLEZ VOUS L'ESPAGNOL?
 Imagine Edith Oestre's dismay when the French Christmas card she ordered turned out to be worded in Spanish! Maybe the publishing company didn't think this customer would know the difference, but, in fact, she looked them and sent the cards back. So it looks as if Oestre's major professors on the athletic staff will have to consent this year with just a good old American "Merry Christmas."

"ANNAH!" GOES ON FOOD STRIKE
 It was wonderful weather for the observation tour over Greenville, way, but complications may set up under the most favorable conditions, you know. "Annabel," Miss Post's chocolate-colored cat, managed to chase down and give out of gas during the journey. Fortunately the gas gave out at the St. Johns hospital just up the hill from a filling station, so the girls in the car just jiggled about enough to get themselves routed downhill until they reached the filling station.

AN OPERATION IN TIME
 Miss Thomas must have thought that sister Julia was pretty anxious to attend the meeting of the South Carolina Physical Education association. At least she got her appendicitis operation over in time for Julia to go to Greenville Saturday with Miss Cassey and Dr. Vogt.

WE CAN COUNT ON THE FRESHMEN
 "Liz" Dunbar, basketball manager, was nothing but appreciative in greeting the freshmen players as they go into their second week of practice with her as their coach. "About 20 girls come out the every practice," she says, "and they're getting so good that I hate to think of playing against them myself."

YOU CAN'T CALL US SISSIES
 Winthrop girls can "take it!" Our physical education majors attended the all-day session of the South Carolina Physical Education association in Greenville Saturday at through a lecture on deformities in children, given by Dr. White of the St. Johns hospital, and didn't blink an eye, whereas a man swooned.

"Let's clear away these chairs so we can breathe," suggested someone whereupon Margie McKeekin and "Dino" Mitchell began singing chairs with surprising dexterity.

And when Dr. White asked hesitantly if his audience would like to see some interesting slides of operations, it was perhaps the concerted "Yes" from the Winthrop girls that showed him how on, because several members of the audience weren't so sure of themselves and remained quiet.

DIVER'S PALSY
 "What do you know about 'diver's palsy' if you're interested?" question Frances Legare. They say she knows all about it—now!

"COME AND TRIP IT"
 Dolly Bledge and Marjory Mitchell report a tendency toward a very slight improvement on the part of the little sixth grade boys in their folk dancing class.

Deepest apologies to Miss Lea and her sixth-period team sports class! It was the Lea group instead of Miss Cassey's that was recently charged so a "big" ball game by Miss Wellner's class.

PHYS. ED. MAJORS VISIT SCHOOLS IN NORTHERN S. C.

Attend State Meet At G.W.C. Saturday

Athletic programs in the schools of Greenville, Parker District, Spartanburg, Greenville, and Greer, were observed last Friday by senior physical education members of members of the athletic staff, who stayed in Greenville Saturday to attend the all-day session of the South Carolina Physical Education association held at the Woman's college of Furman university.

Both the observation tour and attendance at the State meeting were instructive and enjoyable, according to participants in the two-fold project.

On the morning program of the Saturday meeting were lectures by Warren Winters of the St. Johns hospital and Dr. Paul Rhoads of Furman.

On the afternoon's program, following lunch at the Folsom hotel, were a rhythmic program by a group of boys and girls from Parker high school and a modern dance demonstration.

Miss Julia Post presided at a round table discussion on problems of college women. Miss Lillian Wellner made her treasurer's report. Miss Alice Hayden was put on a committee to draw up a report on the State board concerning the organization of teacher training courses in South Carolina.

Following are the students who went to Greenville: Alice Williamson, Mrs. Thomas, Louise Ostrom, Mary Finson, Helen Maude Murray, Marjorie Mitchell, Margie McKeekin, M. E. Martin, and Florence McPherson.

Among Winthrop graduates present at the meeting were Anferna Bryan, Annette McCullum, Mary Seale, and Eleanor King.

any 15 respectively. "Stow-away" with Shirley Temple, Robert Young, and Alice Faye; "Easy Living" with Jean Arthur and Edward Arnold; the "Arada and Modest" with Jack Benny and Carl Patrick.

This new privilege is to be on a provisional basis, and its continuance will depend upon its usage by the students.

As far as the plans have progressed, it is understood that students going to a movie will be required to "be back in the dormitories by 10:45 and they will not be allowed to stay up more longer than 3 o'clock on Saturdays.

Girls will not be allowed to meet boys at the theater, and after the holidays, students are required to check in at their dormitories before attending a show. There will be no going to shows at night.

No definite number of times per week has been decided upon, but Mrs. Kas. Otten Hardin, dean of women, reports that the number will depend on the students' judicious use of the privilege. She also states that if there is any conflict with the studies the privilege may be executed according to academic ability.

It's simple arithmetic that the more cars General Motors sells the greater this organization grows. And the solid fact back of that growth is this: General Motors cars must continually offer more in terms of extra value to win those sales. It is only because General Motors is great that it can maintain the research and improvement program responsible for such modern betterments as the Turret Top, the Unisteel Body, No Draft Ventilation, Knee-Action and advanced Hydraulic Brakes.
