The festival will spotlight eight plays directed by advanced theatre students, and the pieces range in genre from drama to comedy. Each piece features student lighting design, and all plays are recommended for mature audiences due to adult situations.

"While the students work hard on all productions they are especially intense with the one-acts as they are truly student driven," said Russell Luke, the festival's faculty adviser.

"The plays are directed, designed and acted by students so they feel 100 percent ownership."

The festival will include performances Nov. 18-20. The plays, divided into Groups A and B, will be performed separately. Performances of Group A's four plays will be Nov. 18 at 8 p.m. and Nov. 19 at 2 p.m. Group B plays will be performed Nov. 19 at 8 p.m. and Nov. 20 at 2 p.m. All performances will be held in Johnson Studio Theatre.
