SGA Officers Pleased With Voter Turnout

By MARIE WEBBER

Elections for District Senators and Intramural Board Representatives were held on September 13 by the Student Government Association. Debbie Grimes, SGA vice-president, said, "We were thrilled to see how much enthusiasm there was for the election. The turnout was really impressive." Grimes expressed satisfaction with the election process.

According to Director of Student Activities, President Vail, "We're looking for better alternatives to the kind of experience they have in most of the residence halls." However, Grimes said, "We also had high hopes for the new residents in most of the residence halls."

New senators for WOFFORD are: Lisa Jones, Debbie Pruitt, Karen Carter, Gene Cox, Ellen Trowell, Edith Trowell, Cole Thompson, and William Thompson. Intramural board representatives are Bo Chitwood, Lee Alwan, Derrick McCray, Candice Littlefield, Intramural board representative is Julie Jackson.

RICHARDSON voters elected Vernelle Chee, Lisa Cherry, Tammy Grimes, and Gail Boler as senators. Cynthia Wragg is intramural board representative.

THOMPSON senators are John Hayes, Jimmie Williams, Eugene Dennis, and William James. Jerry Martin is intramural board representative.

BANCROFT senators are Susan Chastain, MARGARET NANCE senators are Scott Ruggles, Viola Sherrill, and Janet Adams. Intramural board representative for MEM in Mike Roof.

FHELPS voters elected Kathy Poston, Janice Rogers, Becky Lawler, and Carl Floyd as senators and Leon Roland is intramural board representative.

Senators for LEE WICKER are Lisa Jones, Debbie Pruitt, and Annette Washington. Sherrill is intramural board representative.

The DAY STUDENT senators are Bo Chitwood, Lee Alwan, Karen Carter, Gene Cox, Ellen Trowell, Edith Trowell, Cole Thompson, and William Thompson. Intramural board representative is Billy Riggs. Dick Troy is senator for BREEZEALE apartments.

The main concern though is for community day care programs or school system relationships, but for the Winthrop student. One instructor from MacFeat expressed this concern when she said, "The first priority of a lab school is to supply a learning situation for the students. Off-campus facilities give their first priority to the community."

"They've devoted a lot of my time with the superintendents and principals of the schools around here to streamline the relationships between the college and school districts," he said. "The chances today are considerably greater than they ever were before to achieve a kind of working relation between the college and school systems, and to enhance dramatically the quality of experience that our students have in these teaching situations."

Vail's response to this was, "I would like to see the community get involved in the community education programs. If we focus our attention on our own institution in a kind of sheltered environment, we neither provide a true kind of pre-service experience for students, nor play the kind of role that we ought to be playing to improve the quality of kindergarten and day care programs."

"I would say that he had expectations that the faculty and students would provide a better kind of experience to the beginning day care centers and kindergartens," Vail said. "We can play a particular role by assisting community day care units in developing a richer quality for their programs."

"MacFeat, for the student gets first-rate knowledge of the basics—they learn what to look for in a good day care program. "Off-campus situations are appropriate for upperclassmen and graduates," she said, "but at the beginning students need to be in a more controlled situation. Lab facilities are better equipped to handle their problems and needs."

"The MacFeat Nursery is a very atypical kind of experience to the local communities. They simply fall for the kindergarten and the nursery school. They simply fall for the kindergarten and the nursery school. They simply fall for the highest respect of the MacFeat Nursery. The tendency is to think it is the very best setting when in reality it is a very typical kind of setting."

A Letter From the Editor

As enrollment increases by the hundreds, Winthrop continues to re-evaluate each program and service being re-evaluated are improved to be of greatest use to the students. The Johnsonian has also been re-evaluated and is being improved.

According to the Board of Publications, T.J. is a publication belonging not only to the editors and staff, but to the general student body and to the College as a whole. In addition to voicing student opinion, our functions are to inform, educate, and entertain the faculty, staff, and students. A copy of the newspaper is of value to everyone involved. Valuable to editors and staff for practical learning in journalism, valuable to the college population for its information, and valuable to students for getting a place where they can freely express their concerns.

"Letters to the Editor" are greatly encouraged. It is important to address T.J. staff to know where you stand. Any suggestions for the college, or for us are welcomed.

Other comments or complaints are also welcomed. We need to know what you think. Being informed of how you feel gives us greater insight to better formulate our own opinions. I look forward to writing on concerns and attitudes with hopes of resolving problems and situations that will arise throughout the year.

The Johnsonian is a full-fledged business. We have to hustle to keep one step ahead of the news. We strive for efficiency because it is important not only to us, but to you that your information reach THE JOHNSONIAN on time. We would like to stress the importance of cooperation with us on meeting our deadlines. Time and distance make it necessary to lay out the newspaper one week before it is distributed. Story information and announcements must be submitted one, to one and one-half weeks before distribution. This will give us time to collect and write the story. Absolute deadline is 3:00 p.m. Tuesday, the day of lay-out. Material submitted after this time has no guarantee of appearing in the next issue. Deadlines for first semester are:

By meeting these deadlines you will help us in improving your Johnsonian.

To serve you better we have also set tentative office hours. These are times when you can be assured someone will be in the Good Building to answer phone calls or questions. Office hours are:

Mon.-Fri. 8:00-10:00 a.m.

The parking situation is among one of the college's major problems, and Security seems to think that the way to solve this problem is to hand out an abundance of parking tickets. This is a cop out (no pun intended), not a solution. Students are now driving over the handball courts, over the tennis courts, and in curves in order to find refuge for their cars on the main. If the Security intends to ruin the laws in this manner in order to provide parking, they should at least gravel or pave the area. Not only is the lawn being ravaged by constant driving, but a good rainfall causes the area to be muddy, making students trip up great trenches in their frantic efforts to make it to classes on time.

Security rants and raves that there is plenty of parking behind Dishkins Student Center, and admittedly that is sufficient parking, but it is a far cry from convenient parking. Students who have classes at Johnson or Peabody Gym would rather park outside the campus fence, creating traffic hazards, instead of walking three miles in the rain. This is not just, because a student pays for Security protection, among other things, and deserves his $4.00 for his sticker. Students who park in areas other than the one designated... Following A Dream

BY BETH TUCKER AND JULIE COLE

In order to fulfill a lifetime dream, Richard Cummings, Dean of Students, will be leaving the Winthrop staff as of March 1, 1979 and moving to northern Wisconsin.

Cummings, who became Dean of Students this past July, when former Dean Ivy Gibson retired, said that his leaving was not job related, and that he did not have any problems between him and the staff or students. His family has been vacationing at Trout Lake in northern Wisconsin for 26 years, and he said that he has had a personal goal to head north. When he heard of some band up for sale he "jumped at the chance to fulfill a dream."

"Winthrop has been a great place to work...the students are dynamic," Added that it would be an adventure to do it with a new family to do it with, to know you are leaving security, a good job, talented and nice colleagues, and very good friends. I think it will be a fairly frightening experience.

He added that it would be an adventure to be able to share with his family.

He said that his first decision is always going to be his family, that he tried to be as family oriented. "It will be a new life, a pretty good change of direction, but when you have a great family to do it with, it is worthwhile," Cummings said. He also likes the idea of his sons, Brian, 11 and Timmy, 9, growing up at Trout Lake and hopes it will help them learn to be self-sufficient and responsible.

"Winthrop has been a great place to work...the students are dynamic," Cummings said. He added that Winthrop had one of the best student-faculty relationships of any college he had worked with. He expressed a gratitude to Dr. Val and Dr. Littlejohn for having faith in him, and said that his teaching has been exciting and rewarding.

He said that he plans to seek some kind of teaching or school administrative post and have plenty of time for flying and relaxing. "There is nothing like waking up and seeing a bear in your yard or a deer looking in your window," he added. "Call it a life adventure."

Communication Dept.

Appoints Adjunct Faculty

Two adjunct faculty members have been appointed in the Communications Department at Winthrop College.

Evin C. Varner, creative director of Evin Varner, Inc., a Charlotte advertising agency, has been named adjunct instructor of communications.

The position of adjunct faculty recognizes professionals in the Catawba region who contribute their time to college educational efforts without compensation.

Mollie Bethea

New Financial Aid Officer

In the Financial Aid Office, Winthrop has a new student aid officer, Mollie A. Bethea.

"Winthrop is a fine, outstanding college. The students, faculty and administration have been more than helpful. I am liking Winthrop and Rock Hill even more each day," said Ms. Bethea.

In order for students to get the proper funds on time, they must apply early. "It's not any thing more than to tell students who plan to seek financial aid to apply early," said Ms. Bethea.

The Financial Aid Office is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on his sticker should be fined for the violation because he did not pay for the privilege of parking in that area. However, anyone who is parked in the student parking area should pay the proper fee, and the Traffic Committee, forcing them to take some kind of action, other than the general enforcement.

Winthrop's enrollment increase greatly every year, and the parking situation is a problem which needs action now before the problem gets worse.

Dear Editor,

It seems to us that Day Students have become second class citizens. We come back to school only to find that parking on the "circle" has been given to the faculty and staff. That "circle" was given to Day Students. It might be different if the FAS needed it, but they don't. Their parking is usually filled. The situation is this: unless a day student arrives on campus by 7:30 a.m., parking on the main campus is impossible.

Distinguished Professor Award Re-evaluated

BY KATHY KIRKPATRICK

Each year Winthrop honors an outstanding scholar and teacher on its faculty with the Distinguished Professor Award. Established in 1961, the prestigious award includes release time from teaching, a $500 Alumni Fund award and recognition as the year's most distinguished faculty member.

This year's procedure for selecting the distinguished professor has been changed, according to Dr. Charles B. Vail, president of Winthrop College. Finalists for the professorship are no longer required to present activities to be pursued during release time.

"In the past if the committee came upon two professors who were the same in qualifications, then the definition given by the candidate as to what would be done with the release time would be the deciding factor," Vail said. "But apparently the feeling began to grow that the award was to honor research and scholarship and that caused some problems.

Vail said that some professors also feel that to become a candidate is a handicap from the pleasure and recognition of the award.

"Abandonment of the concept of a plan of action for release time is a return to what has always been the central issue of the award—to identify each year's outstanding teacher...by all they've done as a professor, distinguished themselves."

One common misconception about the distinguished professor award that bothers Vail is the belief that the award must be distributed equally among departments.

"This is an all Winthrop award," he said. "If there are two, three, four, or five people in succession from one of the academic schools or colleges, then that's the way it is. We're not identifying with the award that PERSON who really is outstanding.

Anyone may nominate a candidate for the distinguished professor award by contacting the office of the dean of the school of the professor nominated. Likely candidates are those who use scholarship to enhance their teaching effectiveness.

"When someone is an active student of his own discipline, he brings a fully fresh, energetic and vigorous approach to the task of teaching," Vail concluded. "There is an assumption on my part that those who are the best of our faculty are energetic students themselves, and that's what we're trying to promote with the distinguished professor award."

Criteria For Selecting Distinguished Professor

The task of selecting one superior scholar from among a pool of very fine faculty is most difficult. The following two criteria will be applied with each criterion being given equal weight.

1. Teaching effectiveness
   a. Evidence of excellence in teaching as demonstrated by a careful and impartial evaluation of course and instruction, and evaluation by administrative and student colleagues...
   b. Evidence of ability to organize, record, and document his teaching efforts in ways that will help his professional colleagues and the world at large by sharing his procedures, insights, and unique contributions to the art of teaching.

The second criterion, scholarly attainment and professional recognition, is easier to quantify and evaluate than is teaching. It is required that a candidate for the Distinguished Professor award support a record of good teaching with scholarly and professional recognition. Recent activity, for example, is easy to document since this can be done in the form of publications, grants applied for, and received, and the like. A careful evaluation and weighing of published effort should be made to give more weight to those items that require rigorous review for acceptance and publication. Public service work can be quantified by checking at the number of professional public service appearances in the discipline, and evaluating the level of the audience involved. Professional recognition can be documented in a number of ways: papers presented at professional meetings, offices held in important state, local, and national professional organizations, honors, and other awards.

Short Courses Offered

BY ELLEN DODD

The Short Courses Committee of Dinike Program Board will sponsor a Basic Photography Short Course beginning Wednesday, Sept. 20 and continuing on the next two Wednesdays. According to Lorraine Campbell, the aim of this class will be to instruct the amateur photographer on how to take a better picture. Due to the fact that a majority of students on campus use an instantaneous camera, the class will be directed in that direction. Admission to the course is only with a W.C. ID. The course will be from 7:6 o'clock in 221 Dinkins. The instructor will be Mr. Andy Hawkins from the "Photography in" studio in Rock Hill.

Other short courses being offered are "Counseling Cross-stitch" which will be from 8:00-9:00 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 11 and 18. There is a limit of 15 and cost will be $3.50. A macrame class has been planned for Oct. 34, and the two Wednesdays following it. Cost will be $3.50 with W.C. ID. Class Limit is 15 and will be located in Dinkins 221. The course will cover the many uses of knot tying.

An International Wines and Cheeses short course will be offered on Nov. 1 and 8 between 7-8:00 p.m. There is a limit of 50 and cost will be $2.00 with W.C. ID. The two week course will cover wines and cheese from Japan and Greece.

Dinike Program Board will sponsor a Basic Photography class will be directed in that majority of students on campus picture. The instructor will be Mr. Lunt, director of the Winthrop Dance Theatre, said Dr. Lunt. The course will cover the many uses of knot tying.

Winthrop Dance Theatre

BY ARNETHA PERKINS

The Winthrop Dance Theatre, an extra-curricular activity, is offered to students at Winthrop who are interested in the art of modern dance. Auditions are being held Tuesday, Sept. 19 to determine whether a student becomes a member of the theatre.

Dance theatre membership is divided into two categories, performer and apprentice. The performer category consists of the members who participate in the performances as well as attend the required technique classes. Apprentices are members of the dance theatre who do not have opportunities to perform, but must attend classes.

"Once a student becomes a member of the dance theatre," said Dr. Lunt, director of the Winthrop Dance Theatre, "he remains a member throughout his college career, provided that he keeps an interest in the dance theatre. However, there are some students who have lost interest, therefore becoming inactive members."

Students of the dance theatre do their own choreography for dances, ranging from two to seven minutes in length. All dances are designed for a minimum of three performers. Dance theatre is open to men and women. "We welcome people with lots of experience and people who are just beginners," said Dr. Lunt.

The dance theatre has three performances during the school year. They are the fall studio workshop, the Christmas concert, and the spring concert. If there are any questions about membership in the Winthrop Dance Theatre, contact Dr. Joanne Lunt or Ryn Felder.

Baptist Student Union Helps Students Find Their Place

BY SUSAN CODY

Rev. Emeny Smith, State Director of the Baptist Campus Ministry, will speak Thursday, Sept. 21 at 6:00 p.m. at the Baptist Student Union, 620 Oak-land Ave. According to Downes, assistant director of BSU, Rev. Smith is interested in having contact with as many students as possible. The BSU sponsors a Soup and Sandwich Pray'r Luncheon every Monday at 12:00 noon at the Baptist Student Center. The hour of fellowship and food is available to students for fifty cents, Lucy said.

Rev. Bob Porterfield, director of BSU, said that BSU wants to help students to find a place to use their interest and talents to help others. According to Rev. Porterfield, several possibilities are available to students, including the following:

- Help prepare meals-One of projects for Baptist Ministries is to prepare and serve meals to church or civic groups.
- BSU Choir—BSU choir practices weekly and will perform for local churches, entertain at banquets, etc.
- Drama Group—BSU will direct a drama to be presented at BSU in December. "With Whistle—BSU has two groups going weekly to local convalescent/nursing homes to spend about one hour with some of the residents."
- Children's Attention Home—This home is located one block from campus and is a temporary shelter home for abused, abandoned, neglected children, ages infancy through 17 years old. Student help is needed from time to time to tutor, babysit, to relieve houseparents and mainly to spend time with individual children.
- Backyard Bible Club—Will meet one Saturday morning each month at a local apartment complex. Any students wishing to help are asked to call Lauren Harris, ext. 5127.
- How to Read a Bible Study—This group will be meeting weekly to look at some of the basics in having and leading a good Bible study.
- BSU Choral—BSU choir practices weekly and will perform for local churches, entertain at banquets, etc.

Daydream—Review

BY SIDNEY A. BREEZE

There are many people on this campus who do not realize what fine things abound here. Tillman Tower, the fountain in front of it, a good reputation and Daydream.

Daydream consists of two very talented people, P.J. and Gwen, who are good guitarists, good performers, and dam good singers. I was fortunate enough to see their Friday night show, and, after reviewing them, I went back to see them again. No kidding—they're that good.

The show started off with "I Believe in Music," then went to a song entitled "Daydream"—a very nice piece with some very nice lyrics to go with it—which is the group's theme.

From there on, the show included some familiar songs by familiar artists, but that wasn't all. Several of the songs performed were written by P.J. all which showed the very apparent talent and skill that reminded all of Daydream's originality.

"Blue Lullaby" was especially beautiful.

There were, of course, some faults. The microphones were necessary and unfortunately in the way of the singers, the group does not yet have a backdrop to hide the necessary and unfortunate fire exit door, the group and the sound man seemed to have a slight gap in communication and the performers were a little stiff (hey, but what else can one do while one is singing a love song and playing a guitar other than sit there and sing and play the guitar?). But the lighting was very good and imaginative, and Daydream was a true pleasure.

It is unfortunate that many of the ATS crowd concentrated on excessively loud talking and wandering around. Not only did they serve to distract the people who were listening to Daydream, but they themselves missed a very enjoyable show. The distractions and noise bothered me, but it didn't seem to bother P.J. and Gwen too much. They kept on rolling smoothly and easily and continued to encourage more listeners.

I had heard many good things about Daydream after they had played at the Canterbury House a while ago, and I know for a fact that they have gained more fans from their stay at ATS. And I'm one of them. I wish them much luck, and with a few more improvements and a few more original songs, I'm sure they'll have it.

Open your eyes, Winthrop—we've got something here that's bound to go a very long way—and I'm extremely proud and happy that I can one day say, "Gee, and I knew them when they were just a group playing at Across The Street.

*FOUR STARS! You deserved it, girls.

Job Interviews Can Be Tricky

BY SUSAN CODY

Seniors and graduate students have the opportunity to interview with many employers on campus through the Placement and Career Planning Office, 142 Bancroft, according to Jerry Smith, director.

Many businesses, school districts, and government agencies send recruiters to campus to talk with students interested in their future, Smith said. "All students must fill out our Placement Papers before they can interview on campus."

"The Johnsonian" publishes a list of employers coming to campus each week," Smith said. "Interested students should also check the bulletin board outside of the Placement Office for updates.

Smith said that students should first research the employers they plan to interview. This can be done in the Career Planning Library. Smith also offered some other tips on interviewing:

- "How you portray yourself is as important as what you have to present," Smith said. "Dress appropriately, coat and tie for men and dress or suit for women."

Smith said that the employers are looking for self confidence and that nothing conveys a lack of this more than a limp handshake, shaky voice, restless hands or wandering eyes.

"Relax, but don't slouch," Smith stresses. "Be enthusiastic. Job offers are often lost because of seeming indifference. You have to sell yourself."

Students should listen carefully and follow recruiter's leads, Smith said. "Some questions recruiters like to ask are: Why do you want to work for us? Tell me about yourself. What can I do for you? And what are your strengths?"

The interview is not only for students to find out about employers, said Smith. Smith encourages students to ask questions about training programs and responsibilities. Don't ask about salary, retirement benefits and vacations in the first interview.

According to Smith, the student should find out what the next step in the hiring process is and whether the employer will call or write, or if they expect the student to...

Fungus Threatens To Destroy Books

BY LASHEILA MACK

The Ida Jane Dacus Library is facing a serious problem with books being deteriorated by mild and mildew, said Shirley M. Tarlton, Associate Professor and College Librarian.

This problem was first discovered during the second session of summer school when librarians found fungus growing on the surfaces of several books. The cause of the deterioration was the hot and humid weather. Also, the library's air conditioning unit did not provide sufficient cooling to maintain room temperature at 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

According to Tarlton, "Everything is being done to wipe out this deteriorating growth of mold and mildew, but it is a tedious task."

Solutions to this problem include cleaning all infested books from shelves, washing shelves to prevent further growth, placing these books in an air tight room, usage of chemicals and moth flakes, and plenty of light.

Librarians have been instructed by engineers who are working to keep the humidity low, to keep lights on at all times, to keep the air conditioning unit running continually.

A Priest In The Modern World

BY MARIE WEBBER

If you expect a long flowing "priestly" robe to complete the picture of Father David Valtierra, the Catholic campus minister for the Newman House, then you are in for a surprise. His education might seem ultra-traditional, but Valtierra typifies the contemporary view which he so freely shares. As a matter of fact, few students have ever seen Valtierra in clerical robes.

Valtierra is the oldest of seven children, born to Catholic parents. His upbringing in Stockton, Calif. was traditionally Catholic. His education began in a Catholic grammar school taught by nuns. Following eighth grade, he attended minor seminary in the San Francisco Bay area. This consisted of four years of high school and two years of College where he received a B.A. in Catholic philosophy. He then attended a Theology School which is required of those who want to become ordained priests.

When asked if such traditional education ever bothered him, Valtierra responded, "No, I was never bored. The fact that the Church was going through a great deal of change and we got to help with the transition was exciting to me." He states that most of his education took place during the "transitional period for the church... A lot of change was going on. I was at a seminary which was trying to meet that change."

His reason for becoming a priest seems forthright. "That is the way it was. If you wanted to help people, you became a sister or a priest."

His reason for coming to Rock Hill's campus is a little more involved. "I started out expecting to be a priest in my own diocese. (A diocese is a district of churches under the jurisdiction of a bishop.) In explaining the move to Rock Hill, Valtierra expresses the feeling that priests and church leaders should set as models for people. They should be a part of the community life.

These feelings led Valtierra to search for a form of ministry, which would allow such community life. Valtierra says of the Oratory, "It is a small enough group that we can be concerned about people and social justice issues. There is a community life and there are people committed to this area."

Valtierra stresses two main points about the present state of the church. The first is pluralism. Valtierra says that Vatican II stated that priests should not stay home. They should be among the people "preaching in a language they can understand."

Also, Valtierra sees a challenge to fit contemporary society. "The big thing is the idea of trying to reach out to people where they are and not where we think they are. The major question is: Where are the people?"

Concerning the ministry, Valtierra says the Churches should work cooperatively and explore common ground of faith." Valtierra points out that for South Carolina, ecumenical work has real implications, since only 2 percent of the population is Catholic. "I think that is why Westminster, Newman and Wesley are so important in my life. It is the beginning of that type of work."

Whoever coined the phrase, "Only crazies see shrinks," sure came from the dense part of the jungle. In that certain part of the jungle there are head-shrining witch doctors and people who practice serious mental disorders are said to be "getting small". Literally.

However, Winthrop is not located in a dangerous voodoo practicing, head-shrining community, and the only immediate danger we face is having a Big Mac attack at 1:30 in the morning. We have a tendency to overlook the dangers of living with a roommate who seems to have an ice cube for a tongue, or two exams on the same day that fire a double round on our tiny but intelligent brains. If these events are daily occurrences and you can handle it, more power to you. You are contributing to the tranquility of the human race. However, if all this happens, and the straw that breaks the camel's back is waking up one morning and discovering that you have five minutes to get to class and a ten-pound book in your hand with two pounds of unread assignments, and a headset full of greasy hair, and you want to scream, "AAAARRRGH! Stop. Slow down. What DO you DO when you get the blues?"

"If you're not as happy as you want to be and you've observed that other people are happier, come see us," answers Dr. Gary Kannenburg, head of the Counseling Center. The center is open from 8:30 to 5:00, Monday through Friday. The number is 323-2233. Two Heads Are Better Than One

BY CINDY DEAN

Kannenburg grew up in Wisconsin, graduated from U.S.C., and has lived in Rock Hill for a year. In the process he has married, and shares his life with a wife and a dog. He is well-equipped to handle the problems of those who have not yet obtained a degree, a wife, or a dog.

"The center was started out of a student initiated program. Winthrop students just didn't have anywhere to go for personal counseling," says Dr. William Chllders, director of the Counseling Center. Chllders graduated from the University of Georgia and has been director of the Counseling Center for two years.

"Students rarely come in for one type of problem, but the more common phenomena is a person unsure of himself," Kannenburg said.

If you're worried about records—don't. The Communores, or the Bee Gees, couldn't record the tune because they're poor anyway. You should be tuned in to what's going on within you," reminds Chllders.

Chllders and Kannenburg's goal is to set up different problem-solving groups, and personal growth training group. This type of rap session is especially difficult because "people are not as secure enough to sign up," says Dr. Chllders.

So if you have a hang-up and you think you're going to crack up, crack down. Check into Children's and Kannenburg's programs. If you want to rap about social injustice, social disease, or soda rip-offs, set up a visit at Croft Center. The center is open from 8:30 to 5:00, Monday through Friday, but the hours are flexible. The number is 323-2233.

"You only need a phone call away to a brighter day, and if you want to scream, remember, the visitors are free."

Winthrop's Men Soccer Team dropped a tough 3-2 match to the College of Charleston Sept. 9 in Charleston. Coach Jim Casada explained that the score did not indicate the closeness of the game. The College of Charleston had two goals, one a penalty shot. Another goal on a "fluke" shot proved to be the downfall for the Eagles.

Coach Jim Casada was optimistic after the game saying, "We played much better than against The College of Charleston." and added, "We are getting better although the score doesn't indicate this." Casada also said, "It is a quiet that we play two of our toughest three matches at the first of the season." The Eagles play tomorrow against Davidson at the soccer field at 4:00 p.m.

Basketball coach Linda Warren announced that anyone interested in women's intercollegiate basketball should meet in the Peabody Lounge Tuesday, Sept. 19 at 4:30 p.m.

Three Shotgun Division winners: Fred Winthrop, Larry Warren, and others have been named. The season looks "terrific." Hie Eagles are up next against Davidson on Sept. 19 at the soccer field at 4:00.

Volleyball and Field Hockey Season Opens

BY BONNIE JERDAN

Women's intercollegiate athletics open their season this month in volleyball and field hockey, according to Mary Bobb, associate athletic director in charge of women's athletics. Volleyball starts on Sept. 21 at Clemson. Coach Maeberta Bobb said, "We have very stiff competition this year, and it will be a demanding season."

Winthrop lost five seniors according to Bobb, and they will be doing a lot of rebuilding this year. Griffin said that although there are no field hockey scholarships, the Eagle Club gave partial payment for the players to attend camp.

All-State goalie last year and this year's team captain Karen Isern is one returning player who Bobb sees as being a big help defensively. Vicki Hawkins was also an All-State player, but will be playing a different position this year. Lynn Walker is the only returning starter from the forward line. Other returning players include Chris Sherman, Shirley Dunford, and Pat Graham.

Lind Ward and Ann Horton are the only two freshmen on this year's team. Bobb said that Horton was named Deep South center halfback her last two years in high school. "Field hockey is similar to soccer," said Bobb. "It is a low scoring game, but an exciting one to watch."

Volleyball season opens on the 26th at Clemson. Coach Linda Warren said that the season looks "terrific." The team lost only one senior, said Warren, and others have been replaced with potentially strong players. According to Griffin, the Eagle Club will supply the first volleyball scholarships this year.

Warren said she has eight returning players: last year's most valuable player Beth Amick, and three SCAIA All-Stars, Joby Williams, Judy Kirkpatrick, and Adell Harris.

According to Warren, the team will play its first game at the beginning of the season, but should improve with experience. "The biggest problem is having a lot of new players," said Warren. "With my starting six this is probably the best team we've had in my four years of coaching. If we can develop mental toughness as well as physical toughness, we'll go a long way."
Zoo Trip
Planned For Saturday

Dinkins Travel Committee will sponsor a trip to the Riverbanks Zoo in Columbia Saturday at 9 a.m. Winthrop students will meet at main desk of Dinkins. Sty- dents may decide among themselves as to the return time, said Jane Thompson, Chairman of the Travel Committee. He added, however, that students will return no later than 3 p.m. and will stop for lunch on the way back.

Thornton encourages students to attend the trip because, according to him, the zoo is one of the best in the Carolinas. He particularly urges foreign students to participate to get a first-hand look at an American zoo.

SGA Notes

Pat Abbott, Senate Press Secretary, said that the first Senate meeting will be Sept. 20 at 7:30 p.m. New legislation will be discussed at the meeting. Two things to be included are the distribution of basketball tickets for home games and new club charters.

Abbott said, “Everyone is invited and encouraged to come. A Board of Visitors will be present.”

Concerning additional business Abbott said that the textbook exchange conducted in cooperation with Delta Zeta Sorority was very successful, doubling the previous year’s profits.

Classes Night will be Oct. 5 and co-ordinator is Sherrill Wilson.

Handbooks for Senators and judicial board members are being prepared to provide “clearer guidelines.” Sept. 20 is the last day for activity funds to be submitted to the Student Allocations Committee. A booklet has been provided, “HOW TO QUALIFY FOR STUDENT ACTIVITY FUNDS,” for any organizations that are interested.

Reservations can be made at main desk of Dinkins. Students having questions are asked to call 327-7010, 326-6139, or 327-5648 said Rev. Valtierra.

Outing Clubs Plan Trips

The Winthrop Outing Club, one of the most active clubs on campus, is planning a variety of activities including hiking, rock climbing, camping, and canoeing for the 78-79 year, according to Joe Ann Manning, president.

Everyone is invited to attend Outing Club meetings held every Wednesday night at 6 p.m. in 105 Library.

The first trip planned is a hiking excursion to Litvile Grove this weekend, Sept. 22-24. A trip to Grandfather Mountain is scheduled for Oct. 13-16.

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority

Zeta Phi Beta will hold a Rush Party to recruit new members on Sunday, Sept. 17 from 8:00-10:00 p.m. in their sorority room, 191 Margaret Nance.

Janet Adams, president of the Phi Beta, said that all interested women are invited to attend the party. Each will fill out an interest application so that the current members can learn more about them. Cheryl Samuel, vice-president of the sorority, is in charge of the Rush Party and will explain the requirements and goals of the sorority.

According to Adams, the ones chosen for the sorority must go through three stages of learning before they are officially installed. They must first go through the Archonian Stage. During this time, the new members learn basic information, such as the Greek Alphabet and sorority creed. Next, they go through the Omega Stage when they learn information about the sorority on the national level. The final phase of installation if Hope Week. This week is the relaxation period, and pledges are involved in a wide assortment of fun and activities led by the already installed sister sisters.

And Then
There's Parking

BY BILL FLOYD

Each morning nearly 1500 day students are faced with the problem of where to park their cars. Chief Williams of the Security Department offered helpful hints for us. "All registered vehicles coming to campus after 8:30 a.m. are requested to go directly to the area behind Enkina across from College Ave. There is an available block of parking area there," he said.

Chief Williams said that we have 3,535 cars registered in the parking area there, "The Security Department explained that the students' attitude has been greatly appreciated in these first three hectic weeks of moving in and getting settled in the college community.

Security will continue to enforce the illegal parking by towing vehicles at owner's expense. Towed cars will be impounded for in a college.

Dove said that the questionnaire will help make Winthrop more responsive to what graduating high school students are looking for in a college.

Dove and Pepinsky plan to distribute the questionnaire to two groups of freshmen-those who applied and didn't come. The questionnaire went to the freshmen who came to Winthrop will ask such questions as why they came to Winthrop, where they heard or read about Winthrop, and what they were looking for in a college when they chose Winthrop.

Dove said that the questionnaire will help make Winthrop more responsive to what graduating high school students are looking for in a college.

Different questions will be presented to those students who applied and didn't come to Winthrop, such as why they didn't come and what were they looking for that Winthrop didn't have.

Dr. Laffitte thinks that it is important for Winthrop students to be patient when looking for a parking place and park in the correct area. Ticketed drivers can pay fines at the Security Office directly across from Peddoby Gymnasium. Security is here for your protection, and they will do their best for the Winthrop community.

And Why Did You Come To Winthrop?

BY KATIE LEE

The Winthrop College Admissions Office has completed the first draft of a market questionnaire to be issued to freshmen in three weeks.

Dale Dow, Admissions Counselor and Winthrop alumnus, is working with Pete Pepinsky of the Public Affairs Office in compiling the questionnaire.

Dove said that the questionnaire will help make Winthrop more responsive to what graduating high school students are looking for in a college.

The questionnaire will be an enriching and rewarding experience for her.

During the coming week, THE JOHNSONIAN will be conducting a survey to determine the sexual attitudes and outlooks of the Winthrop campus. This will be a random sampling and all answers and identities will be kept strictly confidential. Everyone's help is needed to make this an accurate and honest appraisal.

Festival At UNC-C

A trip to Charlotte to attend the International Festival at UNC-C on Saturday, Sept. 30 is scheduled according to Thomas A. Shealy, Foreign Student Advisor at Winthrop. The trip is being coordinated by the Winthrop International Club.

At the International Festival there will be many attractive and interesting activities including ethnic dances and music, arts and crafts displayed and sold, ethnic cooking demonstrations with opportunities for sampling various dishes, and puppet shows. Many of these activities are free of charge.

First Female V.P. Nominee To Speak

Frances T. (Sissy) Parent hold, the first woman to be placed in nomination for the vice presidency of the United States, will deliver the key address at a conference on "Women in Political Decisions Makers" at Winthrop College Saturday, Sept. 23.

The conference, co-sponsored by the South Carolina Commission for Women and the Political Science Department at Winthrop College, will be held 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Joyce Center for Continuing Education.

Frances Parenthold, president of Wells College in Aurora, N.Y., will speak at the luncheon. She will discuss the newly-organized Public Leadership Education Network which is funded by a two-year grant of $250,000 from the Carnegie Corporation. The program is aimed specifically at improving the opportunity for more women to enter politics.

Mrs. Parenthold, 51, served two terms as the only woman in the Texas House of Representatives (1965-69), and was the first woman governor for 1972, finishing second in a six-candidate race for the Democratic nomination.

She won 400 delegate votes at the 1972 Democratic National Convention, which made her a candidate for vice president.

The morning session of the conference will be devoted to discussion by three humanities scholars on various aspects in the development of women's roles in politics. Annette Smith, assistant professor of history at Winthrop, will speak about the lives and works of prominent historical figures, Marlene Misler, a lecturer in sociology at Winthrop, will discuss the effects of sociological findings and statistical data on the changing roles of contemporary women, and Arnold Rankin, associate professor of history at Winthrop, will present a detailed case study of South Carolina women's struggle to serve on juries.

Following these presentations, there will be a discussion by several prominent South Carolina women who have held elective or appointive positions that influence policy. They will discuss the reasons for their involvement in the political process. The panel consists of: Mrs. Elizabeth Pemberton of Spartanburg, former member of the Spartanburg County Commission.

M. Betty Jo Rees of Rock Hill, first woman to be elected to the SC House of Representatives and a recent appointee to the National Committee on Parks and Recreation.

Catherine Smith, mayor of Clemson.

Betty Yow of Sumter, former mayor pro tem of Sumter and unsuccessful candidate for Congress in the 1975 Democratic primary.

During the afternoon session, participants will be divided into small groups for further discussion and evaluation.

Mrs. Jean Blye, director in Winthrop's Political Science Department, will chair the session. She said the session is aimed primarily at women in the liberal arts colleges in South Carolina, but men are also welcome.
