With
Elizabeth Anderson

It may be Indian Summer to some folks, but as usual it's Dog Days at Winthrop. There are dogs in dormitories (one or two not long ago); there are dogs in class rooms; there is at least one dog in the dining hall at every meal!

We've always heard that you were all right if dogs and children like you. Well, we sure know how dogs feel about us!

There is another week end with still more footloose. All this afternoon and to-morrow, bunches of happy, happy girls in positively gorgous out-of-uniform clothes will be having us for gay and giddy jaunts hither 'n yon.

The consolation of those who left bald is that tomorrow and Sunday (if we can judge from the past few weeks— and we hope we can), a healthy number of young men will descend upon the campus for a gay, if not so giddy, week end right here.

Prove where we are we think folks are really studying and not just talking. But then we have a ways Correlation thought on the whole. Winthrop has a fine, intelligent, mature attitude towards scholastic endeavors.

And don't you think there's a high correlation here between scholarships and leadership? Just think of the outstanding girls in student affairs and see how they shine as scholars. And whenever heard of a campus leader flunking anything in spite of all the extra work we do?

Anne Tilghman says we're all cordially invited, even urged, to bring out our best. It's a Bon Voyage B & D Invitation night at 6:30 in Johnson hall.

Vesper hour is to us one of the greats of the week and any one of the sermons is good for at least fifteen minutes conversation with even the most taciturn of dates.

The obvious impatience of most of the men teachers this week for afternoon classes to end needs no explanation to pupils who read the World Series news papers. The question paramount in each girl's mind: "Is he for the Cubs or Yankees?"

One girl caught her professor glancing nine times at the clock during the two or three o'clock class. When asked at his desk if he had time, he followed him out the main steps and was eager to see him almost break a sweat as he neared his house and radio.

Now, maybe a few of these base-ball fanatics will understand, or at least tolerate, our 12:15 Saturday restlessness. The bus for Charlotte leaves at 12:30, you know.

Masquers Admit 13 To Membership

As the result of second try-outs held Monday afternoon, 13 girls have been admitted to membership in the Masquers, campus dramatic club. They are as follows:

Rachael Muchnick, Analia Clark, Frances Wards, Sylvia Bogashow, Anna Stern, Margaret Duke, Dorothy Edmon, Elmira Bremser, Hattie E. Jackson, Jean Winter, Nancy Nelson, Catherine Marion, and Frances Jenkins.

One hundred and three tried out in the preliminaries which were held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of last week. All but thirty-two were eliminated. This town of the thirty-two were chosen after second trials Monday.

Three Girls Appointed As Marshals

Brunson, Haigler, Havird Complete Usher Group

Three juniors, Mildred Haynes of Silver Street, Elizabeth Brunson of Sumter, and Elizabeth Haigler of Cameron, have been named College marshals to officiate at the State Fair.

Helen Purdie, Nancy Black, and Beulah Simpson, who did not return.

Mildred is a commerce major, a member of Debate's league, Collegiate Parliament, and Winthrop Literary society.

Elizabeth is a commerce major, Jacqueline is a home economics major, secretary of Delta Sigma Phi, a member of Zeta Alpha and Phi Upsilon Omicron.

Marshals are chosen from the junior class, and must possess the qualities of leadership, poise, and attractiveness.

Marshals chosen last year are as follows: Helen Burke, Margaret Burgess, Blanche Camak, Mary Darby, Edith Gentry, Alice Hollis, Mildred Laurimore, Mabel Hardin, Margaret Mine, Margaret Wiggin, and Peggy Sprout.

Connie Smith Is Freshman Chairman

Connie Smith of Bishopville was elected chairman of the freshman class Monday night at a class meeting.

Catherine Amme, senior cheerleader, led the freshmen in their class song, and Kathryn McCallum, senior class president, presided at the meeting.

In high school, Connie was a member of the Beta club, played basketball, and was cheerleader during her senior year. At Winthrop she is majoring in physical education.

Permanent officers of the freshman class will be elected later.

Carson to Washington

Mrs. Eleanor Carson, extension poultry specialist of the home demonstration department, left on Tuesday night for Washington, D. C. She will spend two days there working with the extension service on the new development of agriculture on a survey. "The effect of extension work in rural communities of South Carolina," which was begun in South Carolina.

Sign up for Johnson Hall

All organizations desiring to hold meetings in Johnson hall may now sign up on the calendar for the entire year.

Figures in Winthrop's History Give Names to Dormitories

Many Winthrop daughters are led to have it called Johnson hall, probably laboring under the delusion that they're attending a woman's college; but if there's anything in names, they aren't. It's been brought to light that all the Winthrop dormitories except one—Margaret Nance—are named for men.

Senior class of 1928 can take a bow. They were the ones who chose North's name for Margaret Nance, in honor of Dr. D. B. Johnson, her mother, who herself never saw the oldest dormitory on the Winthrop campus.

As for South, it is named for General D. W. McLaury, Marion county. There's something exciting and romantic about having a dormitory named for a general in the organization of Confederate veterans. General McLaury was a member of the Board of Trustees and served Winthrop until his death in 1923.

Johnson hall isn't the first building on the Winthrop campus to have that name. When the new student building was constructed, the students and alumnae clamored

Hardin Gives "Fair" Notices

"Classes will be suspended Friday afternoon, October 7, so that students may attend the York County Fair. Students will be free to leave the Main building at 12:15 o'clock to go to the Fair and will return to the campus by 6:00 o'clock. Chaperones will be Dr. Stokes, Miss Calvert, and Miss Lea.

"Seniors, marshals, class presidents, and members of the upper class Glen clubs will please have their requests from parents sent in if they expect to attend the State Fair Thursday, October 27.

Mrs. K. O. Hardin
Dean of Women"

Three Added To Faculty in Past Week

Three new teachers have been added to the faculty since the last announcement. Miss Edna Mishler has taken the place of Mrs. M. Ethel Johnson, former head of home economics; D. E. Trammell has been added to the music department to take care of the increase of music students this year, and Miss Crystal Theodore has been added to the art department.

Miss Mishler received her A. B. degree from Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana. She has done graduate work at Indiana university and Florida State College for Women, Miss Jones, whose place she takes is on a one-year leave of absence.

Mr. Trammell was on the Winthrop music faculty the second semester of the session 1935-36 when he filled the position of Miss Ruth Williams.

Miss Theodore was graduated Magna Cum Laude from Winthrop in 1938, receiving her A. B. in Latin and English and a minor in art.

During her student career here she held several outstanding scholastic positions. She was secretary of Book and Key, chief student radio announcer, art editor of the Tatler, a member of the Journal staff, Sta Sigma Phi, Kappa Delta Pi and Secondean Education club.

Phelps at Georgia Tech

President Sheldon Phelps will attend the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Georgia Tech in Atlanta tomorrow.

The nine new Senior Order girls Ruth Benson, Ann Tilghman, Helen Burdette, Louise Farn, Jean McCallum, Elsie Horne, Mamie Katherine Ritchie, Nancy Beatty, and Katherine Brasham, were formally initiated in an impressive ceremony Saturday night at 12:00 o'clock in Johnson hall.

President Sheldon Phelps, Dean Kate Hardin and eight of the 1928 Senior Order alumnas, including Briggs Anderson, Mary Louise Ratchford, Roberta March, Sarah Westbrook, Mary Allen Stone, Jean McLaurin, Mary Odell, and Mary Eugenia Powell assisted. President Phelps presented each new member with a Senior Order pin. Refreshments were served after the ceremony.

S. C. School Heads Here This Month

Dr. Zirbes to Lead Discussion on the New Education

Plans are complete for the conference of superintendents and principals of South Carolina elementary schools to be held at Winthrop October 26-27. Dr. Laura Zirbes of Ohio State University will be the visiting lecturer who will lead conference discussions.

"The New Education at Work in the Elementary School" is the conference theme for the two-day meeting which carries the visiting educators into classrooms of the Winthrop Training School to observe how the elementary supervisors apply new educational principles. The educators will have subsequent meetings, after each period of classroom visitations with Dr. Zirbes, who will guide discussions.

President Sheldon Phelps appointed a committee composed of Dr. M. Mitchell, chairman, John G. Kelly, B. W. D. Megginion, and Dr. A. F. Furtach to plan and execute details for the event, the first of its kind at Winthrop.

Kappa Delta Pi will give a tea for Miss Zirbes Thursday afternoon after her talk.

Mordkin Ballet Opens Winter Entertainment Series Monday

LUCIA CHASE AND DIMITRI ROMANOFF

Ballet Group Will Present "Giselle" and "The Goldfish"

"Giselle," called the greatest classic of all ballets, is representative of the Mordkin troupe who interpret classical works in contrast to the modern group of dancers.

"Giselle" is the story of young innocent love and tragedy. Giselle, a lonely peasant girl, falls in love with Loys only to discover that he is Duke Albrecht and therefore he rejects her simple love. At the dismaying of her lover's nobility, Giselle goes mad with grief and is carried to her mother's cottage, dying.

At II of "Giselle" is the famous scene of the Wilis, the heartless maidens who, having died of unrequited love, dance living men to death. When the sorrowing Albrecht comes to pay at Giselle's grave, she rises as a spirit and invites him to join the fatal reveries.

"The Goldfish" is adopted from the fairy tale by Alexander Pushkin. An old fisherman catches in his net the queen of the mermaids in the form of a golden fish.

Although he offers to buy her freedom, the old fisherman lets her return to the sea. When the greedy wife hears the tale, she demands that he call back the golden fish for the ransom.

Five times the fisherman is summoned to ask the goldfish for increasingly extravagant demands. The fifth time the fish refuses to make the wife queen of the sea, removes all the other magic gifts, and leaves the wife once more complaining before her miserable hut.

First Frosh Debaters' Meet Draws Seventy-Six

Seventy-six freshmen attended the first meeting of the Freshmen Debaters' league held Wednesday afternoon in the Freshmen Debater's hall.

Annie Brile Clements, manager of the Freshmen Debaters' league, explained to the newcomers the purpose of the organization.

Next week, the students will be divided into the three orders, the Hushars, Marlets, and Coronets.

Four to Attend Alumnae Meeting

Four Winthrop representatives, Dr. James P. Kirard, Dean Kate Hardin, A. M. Graham, business manager, and Mrs. Leila Russell, alumnae secretary, will attend the district alumnae meeting tomorrow in Spartanburg.

The alumnae committee of the Winthrop alumnae, the countess of Gilmore, Lauren Newberry, Union, and Spartanburg. There are approximately 1,000 alumnae in this district, and each has been invited to attend.

The alumnae chapter in Spartanburg will act as hosts in the social hall of the First Presbyterian church. Langhorne will be serving as the Cleveland hotel.

Marion Pastor at Vespers

The Rev. Mr. J. K. Johnston, Presbyterian pastor of Marion, will speak at Sunday evening vespers. The vespers service will be held in Johnson hall auditorium at 8:30.

Winthrop Training School football team plays Heath Springs next Thursday in Rock Hill.

Russian Master Presents Troupe Of Sixty Dancers

The Mordkin Ballet, under the personal direction of Ballet Master Mikhail Mordkin, will be presented in the Winthrop auditorium Monday night at 8:00 o'clock as the opening number of the Artists' course series of nine events.

The 60 members of the Mordkin troupe, in a series of new ballet creations and great classical revivals, are scheduled to present "Giselle" with Patricia Bowman in the title role and "The Goldfish" with Mikhail Mordkin, Lucia Chase, Patricia Bowman, and Dimitri Romanoff as the principal characters.

Artist course tickets for the seniors, juniors and sophomores may be obtained at the business manager's office. Freshmen who are interested in purchasing a season ticket may also get them at the business manager's office for $5.00. Other tickets to be presented in the special Openings program are as follows: Curtis String quartet, October 19; Helen Joason, November 14; Helen Jinay players, November 28; Mozart Boys' choir, January 12; Dalton Frantz, February 6; Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman, February 20; Helen Howe, March 6; and Katherine Meissle, Josephine Antoine, Igor Gorin, and Frederick Jaget, May 27, 28.

Choric Group To Speak at Sumter Meet

Miss Florence A. Mims, assistant professor of spoken English at public speaking and nine members of Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatic fraternity, and Masquerades, campus dramatic club, will present a program of choric speaking at a meeting of the Chapter of Winthrop Daughters Thursday.

Miss Mims will discuss choric speaking, and a choric speaking group, sometimes called a "speaking choir," will give six poems in unison. The group includes Dorothy Anderson, Thelma Moore, Bebe Smith, Anne Clarkson, Anne Williamson, Madeline Ward, and Adelaide Faris. Miss Mims will also give a reading, "Blue Rose," a story for grown-ups.

The meeting will be held at the home of the president of the Chapter of Winthrop Daughters, Mrs. W. D. Boykin, on Saratoga Drive. After the meeting the chapter will serve dinner to the Winthrop girls.

Winthrop Has Float In Parade

Delta Sigma Chi, campus home economics club, sponsored a float to represent Winthrop in the York County Fair parade Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The float won first prize of ten dollars in the school division. Prize-winning floats in the other divisions were sponsored by the American Legion and Kimball's Flower Shop.

Eight girls rode on the float which was decorated in greens and white, and had a tiny fountain in the middle of it. The girls, Misses Gladys Coleman, Jane Morris, Penny Kneec, typist, Helen Bryant, president of the Senate, spoke hopefully of the work of the Senate this year. Several recommendations were passed, which are now in the hands of the faculty committee for approval.

Winthrop Training School football team plays Heath Springs next Thursday in Rock Hill.

Alumnae Association Gives $20,000 to Auditorium Fund

The Winthrop College Alumnae Association will have a substantial part in the erection and equipment of the new auditorium now being constructed on the campus according to the fall issue of the Alumnae News. Contributing $20,000 to the auditorium fund "for the privilege of completing some unit in the building", the report of the Board of Permanent Funds points to the auditorium project as "an opportunity to use the money donated for a Memorial Auditorium honoring Dr. David Bancroft Johnson."

The text of the report follows:

"The Board of Trustees of Permanent Funds of the Winthrop College Alumnae Association has handled them wisely as they saw it, doing this to the best of their ability. Your directions when the sum was created were 'to safeguard and invest' these funds until they could be used."

"At the session of the General Assembly in 1937 a Bill was passed as the College Building Bill was passed. This made possible the erection of the much needed large auditorium here at the college."

"Your Board of Trustees looked upon this as an opportunity to use the money donated for a Memorial Auditorium honoring Dr. David Bancroft Johnson. We were told by the college authorities that we could have the privilege of completing some one unit in the building—a small chapel, for example. The Board met at the call of the chairman on Dec. 7, 1937 and decided unanimously to withdraw and re-enter the Alumnae Executive Secretary, who is also the treasurer of the Alumnae Association, to transfer on or before Jan. 1, 1938 the Memorial Auditorium Fund to the treasurer of Winthrop College for deposit in the Winthrop College P.W.A. dockets S. C. 1242 Account otherwise known as the construction account to be used in the erection of the auditorium and music conservatory building."

"The members of the Board saw in the proposition before them the opportunity for a grant from Federal funds of 45% of what amount we could present hence the action taken. On Dec. 21 the United States Treasury bonds and the cash were turned over to the treasurer of the college and attached to this report is a copy of the receipt given."

"When the bonds were sold the total amount of cash and receipts from the sale of the bonds amounted to $19,800. At the direction of the executive committee $500 was withdrawn from our General Checking Fund and turned over to the college to make the total $20,000."

A. M. Graham, Chairman
Mrs. J. W. Anderson
Miss Betty Harper
Miss Lillian Russell
Mrs. C. Y. Roper
Mrs. R. W. Crawford
Miss Hortense Rogers."

Freshman Debaters Meet

The Freshman Debater's league held its first meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Freshman Debater's room under the direction of Anna Belle Clements, manager of the Freshman Debater's league.

Dr. Naudain to Speak

Dr. Glenn G. Naudain, head of the Department of English, will talk to the students at the Volumes on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in Johnson hall about his visit in Palestine the past summer.

Winthrop Girls Pretty

Recent visitors on the campus, A. F. Pickard, father of Mrs. Paul M. Wheeler, and Mr. Charles S. Pickard, Mrs. Wheeler's brother, remarked on the prettiness and naivete of the Winthrop girls.

Physical Education Party

The Physical Education club entertained the physical education majors last Wednesday afternoon in Johnson hall.

After introductions and games, refreshments were served.

"The habits you are trained in, the sports you play, the music, all add to your having a certain class of ideas of such a nature that, when you have to deal with other ideas, you do not give as sound and accurate judgement as you would wish."

Ritchie Plays Role of Rescuer In Summer Drowning Incident

Mamie Katherine Ritchie, high ranking student in the senior class, reached another top position as a first-rate heroine when she rescued nine-year-old Alfred Lowder from drowning this summer.

Mamie Katherine was on the pavilion of the Ritchie lake, which is about twelve miles from Albemarle, N. C., when her mother sent for her. By the time Mamie Katherine reached the water, she had been whooever rescued a mere skeleton searching the lake for the drowning boy, who had fallen into the water, either accidentally, or as a result of carelessness.

Two men, seeing Mamie Katherine on the point of jumping into the water, held her to prevent her from attempting a rescue and endangering her own life.

Between struggles to free herself from the grasp of the two men, she took off her shoes and stock-

Winthrop Bill Stops Clocks

Turn back the clock—way back to 1891.

The South Carolina general assembly was collecting its papers and paraphernalia preparatory to adjourning.

At that all-important moment, Dr. D. B. Johnson learned that his favorite brain-child—the bill to create a state normal school for women had been pigeonholed.

However, Mrs. Boatwright pointed out that in her visit to different parts of the state the out-of-touch graduates expressed themselves as eager to hear and talk about their Alma Mater.

The text of Mrs. Boatwright's message follows:

"In looking over the distinctly Winthrop flavored events of the past year in which I have tried to serve you as president of our Alumnae Association, I have drawn several conclusions in which you may or may not be interested, but which nevertheless hold true:

"First, it is almost unbelievable how many perfectly fine Winthrop daughters are entirely out of touch with Winthrop and the Alumnae Association.

In traveling about the state and when attending any gathering I have made a point of locating Winthrop daughters and talking Winthrop with them. In one recent gathering, a meeting of Winthrop "girls" was arranged and it was most interesting to hear so often "I didn't know you went to Winthrop!"

Following the conclusion of the meeting, the girls of all ages excused themselves to go back to Winthrop on the slightest excuse, a number of us have for many years, and were completely out of touch with their Alma Mater.

Secondly, they seem distinctly to enjoy this annual gathering of Winthrop.

"This brings me to my second conclusion. Even though many alumnae have lost touch, when Winthrop is mentioned they are eager to hear and talk about their Alma Mater. In other words, many Winthrop daughters do not know much about their Alma Mater or their Alumnae Association, but they would like to know more."

"Such a situation everyone will admit is not best for either the Alumnae or the College. What then can be done about it? Those of you who read this are the ones who have at least kept enough in touch to receive your Alumnae News. There are many who have never seen nor heard their Alumnae office has their correct address and consequently do not receive this."

"Third, I expect meetings to be held weekly, during Teachers' Weekends, between the alumnae and the personnel of the college. Meetings after Commencement are points of contact with many, but I'm afraid the personnel of these meetings stay pretty much the same each year and there are hundreds of Winthrop daughters who never attend any of these, or even a chapter meeting."

Optimists argued that they might not be called on. Pessimists reasoned that they'd probably just bust the course.

The reason for the near riot was finally discovered to be an assignment of seats in the auditorium for classes on (of all things), the Constitution of the United States.

Winthrop girls, in looking wistfully around, seen in familiar orange and white cover, one very much bagged-looking senior made a dive for it. She had a brief, but bitter battle with two other girls with covetous gleams in their eyes. Valiantly and violently she struggled.

The happy winner of the coveted story in Good Housekeeping and that precious story in Collier's? Not at all!

Every little girl in navy (plus the one in the yellow sweater, the one in the slay pink blouse, and the one in the black-and-white checked skirt) was headed for the Atlantic Monthly.

With longing looks, heart breaking appeals, impatient outbursts and almost with tears and tantrums—several hundred maidens spent hour after hour in the library, striving in vain to get a firm grip on just one corner of said masterpiece.

Kirby Page Speaks Here October 22

Y Will Present Noted Author in Three Addresses

Kirby Page, noted author and lecturer, will be on the campus October 22, announces the Y, under whose auspices the speaker will appear.

He will make three addresses on the subjects, "How Can I Know?"; "How Can I Tell?"; "How Can I Do?". The theme of the three lectures will be "Spiritual Resources for Personal and Social Action." A question-and-answer session will follow each address.

Mrs. Page is the author of 18 volumes on social, economic, religious, and international questions. One of his first books, "Living Creatively," is listed as one of the outstanding books for college students. He has also lectured throughout the United States and in foreign countries. His books have been translated into ten different languages.

The schedule for Mr. Page's addresses will be announced later.

Tatler to Have Record Count Of Pictures

"The Tatler will have pictures of the entire faculty and officers of Winthrop for the first time in 31 years," announced Elizabeth Kentley, editor of the yearbook.

Plans for the Tatler are incomplete, but as far back as records are available, there has been no complete roster of the faculty members and officers since 1907.

An increase of pictures—100 faculty and 200 student pictures—and enlarged cut space will make this annual almost as large as last year's book, despite the lack of the social club pages.

Another feature of the yearbook is the draped pictures of the undergraduates—the first time in the history of The Tatler.

Announcement of new staff members will be made within a few days.

Biddle Organizes W. T. S. Ensemble

A string ensemble in the Winthrop Training School was organized this week by Mrs. Mark Biddle, instructor in music, who will act as director. The ensemble will consist of four violins and a pianist chosen from the seventh and high school grades of the school.

Mrs. Biddle expresses the hope that the ensemble will be able to compete in the music contests held at the college in the spring. The group will be interested in playing at various times on the college campus.

Those taking part are Dorothy Sims, pianist; Edith Tribble, Sarah Doris Bowditch, and Bertha Mae Rogers, violinists.

Typing Opened to Non-Commercial

A typewriting class offered to non-commercial students was opened last week by John G. Kelly, registrar.

The class was created in order to meet the demands for typing by students not taking a commercial course and the class of 32 students was filled immediately after the announcement of the opening was made. The course is being taken for credit and without credit.

"The first woman to get her medical degree was seated in a reserved seat with the guests and her brother went up to get her diploma for her."

Story-of-Month For State High Schools on Again

Announcement of the second annual Story-of-the-Month contest, sponsored by the Press Club and the Columbia State was sent this week to 250 high schools in South Carolina.

Eleven awards will be given at the end of this contest. To the high school papers having the largest number of points in each of the five divisions of newspaper writing—news, editorial, feature, interview, and sports—will go a loving cup. The paper having the largest grand total will be awarded the Columbia State Award for sweepstakes.

The new awards to be given will be for the best single piece of writing in each of the five divisions for the year.

The contest is open to all high school papers, whether printed, mimeographed, or sectioned in a town paper. The contest was originated and sponsored last year by the Press Club of The State.

The contest editor will select the best stories and the State will publish them each month. The winners in second and third places in each field will also be announced and given point credits toward the annual awards.

Three Added To Complete Marshal List

JACQUELINE HAIGLER

MILDRED HAVIRD

ELIZABETH BRUNSON

Elizabeth Brunson, Sumter, Jacqueline Haigler, Cameron, and Mildred Havird, Silverville, have been appointed to fill vacancies in the 1938-39 marshal roster left by three girls who did not return. (Story on page 1)

Chapel Seats Assigned

Chapel seats will be assigned to freshmen, sophomores, and seniors at the regular chapel hour, Wednesday, October 12.

The juniors are called to meet at 12:30 Tuesday, October 11, for the purpose of having chapel seats assigned.

John G. Kelly
Registrar.

Twenty-Four Twin Names Baffle Girls

On the Winthrop campus are twenty-four pairs of "twin" names. Most of the girls had never heard of their "twin" until they came to Winthrop. Now their chief worry is trying to keep themselves separated.

A double with a phone call or a package; a notation from the post office; a name on a gift at mid-term; or an A on English or math from home; these are only a few of the troubles that beset these forty-eight sisters.

Nicknames for some and an extra initial for others are a great help to the post office clerks. For, in addition to the student mix-up, they have to worry over the fact that Miss Frances V. Williams is a member of the home economics faculty and Frances L. Williams is a sophomore from Chester. Postmen assume a new importance in letters addressed to any of the doubles. And in only one case is the post office problem solved by giving the two girls the same box.

Mary Mangum, Alice Martin, Margaret Martin, Rachel Nassau, Elizabeth Richardson, Mary Richardson, Sarah Rosenblum, Ruth Smith, Martha Todd, Frances Ward, Elizabeth Wilson.

I. R.: At this rate I might as well close up shop and go home! No, here comes Bert March.

Bert (upon being asked "for whom") Oh! I like it fine; but I just the person to give me a brilliant statement for the paper.

Rolle: Oh, no I won't either. Why things that get into the Johnsonian about me have followed me all over the state! Even my superintendent wanted to know for sure what my name was, Ralle Sue Fuller, or Margaret, Nancy Hall, etc., darling, no statements from me!

I. R.: Well, we'll just march on to the next town. That might interest our dear readers.

Hert: Well, all I could see was glass flying, so I then flew.

I. R.: Very interesting—Yes, but can you tell me, is it Winthrop or State College? Listen, Bert, I'm through the Charleston Terminal. I've got to get to it.

I. R.: Well, just tell them that I've got to get to it.

I. R.: Sorry, I do not choose to make any comment. And, anyway, I've got to get to it.

I. R.: Well, just tell them that I've got to get to it.

I. R.: All I can say is that I'm glad I don't have that "school girl's-look" yet.

Mary: Well, just tell them that I wish I were back to stay.

I. R.: I'm just about where I started from. I think I'll go along with you and forget that all you return to your old ways.

I. R.: (desperately): Marlie McMechan and Mary O'Dell! Please come here and make a startling announcement for the press. I'm at your wits' end.

The Johnsonian wants to worth a reputation for accuracy, thoroughness and fairness in covering the news of the State. Will you kindly call our attention to any points to which we may tip in these three fundamental of good journalism?

to tell a Watteau from a Cezanne? Why can't the biology department have nature study to train school teachers to look appreciatively about them? And why can't these broad, getting-acquainted courses be offered with or without credit for her who wants to come to them?

The twentieth century man on the street must know a little physics if he is to fix his stalled Plymouth. He must know the principles of economics if he is to read his newspaper intelligently. He would like to entertain his friends with a steak supper some Saturday night. He enjoys Shakespeare and also Sandburg, Wagner and Gershwin. He's a college graduate and he sells insurance, but he lives a rich full life and the rush and jazz of it all doesn't "get him down". He's the twentieth century man-on-the-street—a marvelously versatile, well-informed, capable somebody. He's a college man...

months in a room built for two. Under such adverse circumstances, naturally, the quality of all work suffers. Stated economically, students get a poorer return for their dollars invested than formerly—and so does the State.

The authority for relieving these conditions lies with one body. One and only one group has the power to give us enough buildings to adequately, to comfortably, house all who wish to come here. That group is the legislature of the State of South Carolina.

BRITTENESS IN WOMEN

By MRS. JAMES P. KINARD

Don't mistake, men, too, are brittle. But you will not find out much about women, by merely comparing them with men. Instead of brittle, use the words tender, fragile, flower-like, and women would be pleased; but call to mind instead other connotations of the word, such as hard, glittering, dry, easy to break. Not so pleasant, eh? College-bred, even university-bred for fifty years now, American women daily become more articulate.

They write many, if not most of the best-sellers among the successful novels. I have just finished one and feel that I have been following an intricate pattern of sharp, shining icicles.

Yet in "A Modern Reader" (Lippincott & Nevins) made up of seventy-two essays by writers influencing thought today in the domains of science, politics, business, philosophy, government and literature not one woman is included. It is, as the French say, to think.

In college, four years of intensive training lie before a girl. Why not do some of it yourself? Select deliberately the biggest mind with which you have come in contact. When you make a decision or react to a situation deliberately measure your mind by this bigger one. Having done so, try to take a broad human view, catch the rhythm of life, adjust to the big difficulties and laugh at the small ones.

And above all learn this, there are many more small ones than big ones.

Three-in-a-Room

Wintrop girls are good sports—when they have to be. Living three in a room—a small dormitory room—is a strain on the healthiest of nerves, but Wintrop is accepting its discomforts with as good grace as possible.

But Wintrop is losing greatly because of its lack of proper living quarters. From all we have heard, at least several hundred girls failed to come to Wintrop for the simple, the sole reason that the dormitories are overcrowded.

Dissatisfaction, inefficiency, discontent—these seem to us to be quite unnecessary at the only South Carolina teacher training institution, the only South Carolina state college exclusively for women. The State owns a good low-cost education to all who desire it. The State should provide adequate living quarters for those who wish to obtain such training. Certainly it shouldn't submit the young women of South Carolina to the discomforts and hardships of too cramped living quarters at the only college provided solely for them.

The college administration objects just as seriously to the present arrangement as do the students. They realize that in the rhythm of the universe things go in pairs—never in threes. They know that studying is more difficult, dispositions become frayed, nerves frazzled, friendships strained when three people try to live for nine reading three chapters of same, and discovered that economics is much more practical—and interesting. And so, to bed after a morbid conversation on the horrors of war.

STUFF 'N THINGS

MARGARET BLANTON

That football knocked me forty mud-puddles from nowhere! It hit me along at the eyes the moment I saw it along with nine fellow pigskins in a shop window. "Fifteen rabs", yell we at the sight of the glorified ball on the way to a touchdown, but "sixteen rabs", we fervently murmur at the sight of one of these balls doing a bit of "touch-up" by way of being an accessory. They're only four inches long, and a zipper down the side opens a purse for all the feminine gadgets that clutter up after the big bag. As a matter of fact, a big bag is about as useful as a handbag, and when one of these all-purpose pigskins is in evidence, and the little fellows just hitch on to your ring or bracelet or watch by a chain and that's all there is to it. Belches a nuclei that stile will be having to reorder 'em pretty quick like a rabbit.

With your permission, Mary, I'd like to relate a poem about you and your dear little lamb.

My dear had a little lamb
 Whose feet were black as soot.
 And everywhere that Mary went
 A sooty-footed boy!

Outside the family album, a wasp-waist has been reserved exclusively for Windup Wrap and perfume, but yo yo's minouette is what we have now in the kitchen, from parents to housecats. It is no matter how much failure is pleased or gathered from waist-down or waist-up—in fact, the more the better—as a nose swooped swooped-in-waist is just one of those things.

Then along comes a freshie
 With admiring in her eye,
 And I know that to this freshie,
 My praises are sky high.

And so I am a wise, wim wop,
 And I like it lots, you bet.
 To the higher I may be smaller,
 But to the smaller I know I'm taller,
 So it's great to be a寿翁!

Seen Around: Students teachers acquiring grey hairs.

A number of last year's grads back on the campus last week end. We wonder how it feels to be on the outside looking in!

A Clemson endet on the campus last Sunday wishing that Clemson had a fountain like ours—for ducking "rats". Why not bring them over here and duck them? The pleasure would be all ours.

Life (At Wistaria)
 A train of days, and days, and days,
 Sprinkled here and there with holidays.
 Books to inspire us, teachers to praise.
 (And diplomas to enclose to us our grave.)

In a quatrain on life at Wintrop (modeled after Lowell's "Life"), submitted by nameless student.

Definitions—
 The Sophomore—does anything others don't do; simply loves Vague and Greppe; calm and cool and self-contained; raised-eyebrow attitude; wonderful capacity for ignoring people.

The All-Round—oo, too versatile, rushing hither and thither, with a dabble hither and a dabble thither.

The Poliitian—practices all the rules for winning friends and influencing people; smiles, smiles, and smiles.

And contrary to war abode where we ended the controversy with the same opinion of war as the late General Sherman, who should know. Then, on to history, where the European situation was bitterly re-hashed. On to "inch" and in the afternoon to the show where we were again bawled by the Czechs the nervousness and in despair attempting to "get away from it all" were strolling on back of campus. Afterwards, to trying ige psychology, in which the subject changed...rom war to "truly". To the Library, and a long browse over the literary efforts of South Carolinians. Lawyer J. J. Ethelberts
 142½ North Main Street
 Lawtertown, R. C.
 Dear Mr. Ethelberts,

I go to school at Wintrop college. There are a lot of people that I would like to bring against. I will give you a list of the people and the grievances, and then I would like to have your advice on the matter.

I would like to sue my roommates for:

1. Making noise up at 7:30 instead of 7:45.

2. Reading when I want to talk, and talking when I want to read.

3. Hanging her clothes on my side of the closet, using up my cold cream, taking a bath in the tub of water I drew, and then fusing when I forget to sweep under her bed.

4. Having friends who giggle.

I would like to sue my professors for:

1. Assigning torts Monday.

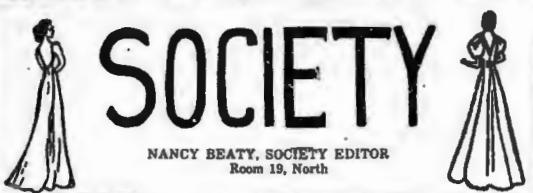

2. Not remembering my name from day to the next.

3. Thinking I know as much as I look like.

4. And appearing disappointed when I don't do well.

5. Not making me sit six times in one lecture, and expecting me to take notes the whole time.

Sincerely,
 Phyllis

Names That Make News

Dear Kelly, and her cohorts are doing an excellent job of assisting Miss Fugitt in coaching the freshmen in hockey ... Mary Kuske and Frances Lepore have taken upon themselves the task of correcting that ever present fault in new comers to the hockey game—that awful foul called "sticks". It is believed that Connie Smith will be able to do some good work for her class in the swimming meet ... Yvonne McKeithen and Christie Riley certainly do some smooth Virginia Reeling in folk dance class ... We're glad to see that Catherine Easterlin and Mary Sanders are brushing up on their tapping skills, for they'll probably be doing the dancing honors in Junior Follies ... Over Roddy way the girls think it sports to entertain the Sunday afternoon dates with a game of lawn croquet. Margie McNeese, 1937-38 president of the Athletic association was on campus last week end. Helen Maud Murray and Alice Willmett were back, too. They're teaching physical education in Greensboro High and Waccamaw High, respectively.

The students of The Dance have become so tom-tom conscious that it was quite difficult for some of the girls to refrain from "going into their dance" when Clark Gable's South American natives did some beautiful drum-slapping in "Too Hot to Handle".

Miss Causey and fifteen interested kinesiology students had been discussing the finer points of planes, axes, and movement of the human body for fully fifteen minutes when arose from their midst an apologetic freshman, begging to be excused and mumbling: "I'm sorry; I believe I'm in the wrong class. I thought this was hockey." There was dead silence; the little girl slipped from the room; and as the door closed, the class burst into laughter. The kinesiologists are still wondering how anybody—even a freshman—could over confuse kinesiology with anything.

Hockey chairman, Inez Kelly, says that the field is by no means crowded with freshman material. Come on, you fresh! You're all eligible for the hockey team. And you're as great a chance to win the hockey cup as any class. Come on out to the hockey field, grab a stick and pair of shin guards and take the ball down the field!

For you people who find a team sport a little strenuous, there's archery. Miss Causey and Chairman Laura Mae Brown of the Archery club would love to have you come out to shoot with them in the afternoons.

Tododoloco was a bonny cock robin. He tied up his tail with a piece of blue bobbins. His tail was no longer than the tail of a horse. Well, what has all that got to do with SPORTS?

Little Nell Presents Mable To "Campus Canine" Society

Little Nell Jarrell, daughter of Dr. Jarrell, mascot of the Winthrop campus, stealer of the glories of every May Day, delightful subject for Mrs. Lockhead and Miss Goggan's "ed" discussions, was being "especially nice" to the inquisitive reporter because the reporter had come to interview Mable.

Crinkling up her little nose, she laughed at the reporter for inquiring about Mable's—shall we say, nationality?

"Why Mable's jus' a mongrel," she said. "But," she added loyally, "she acts like a thoroughbred."

Mable thumped her with adoring affection and then explained that Mable understood all about her. Mabel, you see, is an unusual dog, but that is to be expected—entirely a matter of heredity and environment. Mabel's owner was a college graduate, working on her M. A. Duke when Mable was born. Mable was given to Nell and has spent all her life—a whole year—receiving her education at Winthrop.

Nell dressed Mable in little silk dresses. "It's really Sunflower's dress," Sophomore Nell's dollie, but Mable didn't mind. Nell explained—and got her to bed in the little blue crib "all her own." Mable's ears were flat, her eyes were sad, but she submitted without a whimper.

Nell regarded her with maternal pride. "Mable is a very patient dog," she remarked.

Mable pricked up one ear and muttered, "you're telling me..." Dr. Jarrell, mascot of the Winthrop campus, stealer of the glories of every May Day, delightful subject for Mrs. Lockhead and Miss Goggan's "ed" discussions, was being "especially nice" to the inquisitive reporter because the reporter had come to interview Mable.

"Mable and I like chocolate ice cream better," said Nell, "but we think this is good, too. It's just a little and freezes it quick. That's the secret of mother's success with ice cream."

Stroking Mable's curly varicolored coat, Nell looked at the reporter anxiously. "I don't want you to think Mable's lazy. She's not. She's really a very happy puppy. Why, the other day Mable caught a squirrel."

Mable had chased the squirrel around the tree escape of Tillman hall Wildcats clattered their way to victory over Clover's Flying Fleet on September 27th, with a score of 27 to 7.

The Clover star of the game was co-captain Forbes. Coach Blakely proudly stated, "We didn't have just one star; the whole Training School team played well."

Who Among Campus Canines? Mable is no ordinary dog, but then she has an extraordinary mistress. Jarrell himself acquired which, then, shot across the campus and jumped into the air and recaptured her prey.

"I told Miss Moore," Mable is named for Miss Moore, Nell's kindergarten teacher, "about Mable and the squirrel, and she said that she thought it was a sad story. Mable killed the little squirrel."

Nell checked and added, "But it wasn't. It ended happily. So cause we cooked the squirrel, and he was good."

Mable is a paragon among dogs. In fact, she deserves to be placed at the top of the list of "Who's

Sports To Fit The Individualities Of 1635 Girls

Offering a field of sport to suit the fancy and prowess of every one of her 1635 students Winthrop emphasizes a program of intra-mural athletics that includes archery, basketball, hockey, bowling, tennis, softball, table tennis, golf, soccer, swimming, dancing, and other recreational sports. The girls in the picture represent sports especially popular in the autumn—Anne Leland, golf; Cappy Covington and Jane Wright, field hockey; Elizabeth Anderson, archery; Kinsey Evans, tennis; Helen Atkinson, soccer.

Beta Beta Beta Votes State Meet

That the South Carolina Junior Academy of Science has invited to Winthrop for the regular meeting of the Beta Beta Beta in November was one of the major motions adopted at the business meeting of the club last week.

The club voted also to take in as associate members sophomore biology majors and junior and senior majors who have a good scholastic record but have failed to meet club entrance requirements. The club limit is twenty-five members, all of whom must be approved by the biology faculty members.

Johnsonian, Journal Enter State Contest

The entries of the Johnsonian and the Journal in the annual competition for the Gooder Cup Press association have been sent to Erskine college, Due West, S. C., where they will be judged. Entries were submitted in the poetry, formal essay, informal essay, book review, short story, one-act play, news story, feature, editorial, and sketch divisions.

Five girls from the Johnsonian staff and three from the Journal will attend the 1938 convention of the Association, which will meet November 3-5, at Erskine. Awards to the best newspaper and magazine will be made at that time.

Last year the Journal won in the magazine division and for the past two years the Johnsonian has been judged best in the newspaper division.

The purpose of the Association is to maintain at the highest, the literary standard of the member-colleges of the Association.
