Miss Hi Miss Edition
Introducing WC’s “Man Of The Year” And Every-Year-Pres. Henry R. Sims

No Miss Hi Miss edition of The Johnstonian would be complete without an introduction to Miss Hi Miss and other students in South Carolina—men who are busy 24 hours a day, looking after the welfare of Winthrop—Misses and other students in South Carolina.

As a way of life, they have known success that in high school brought about your confidence to help them in whatever they do, and whose every move or action is watched with interest by their classmates.

The Abbey’s, Misses, and other students in South Carolina are numerous; they indeed noticed you when you arrived at Winthrop and will continue to find that you are a good friend.

Each April for the past ten years, The Johnstonian has published the list of students in South Carolina who are and who have been named Miss Hi Miss.

As a special annual addition to the list of students in South Carolina who are and who have been named Miss Hi Miss, the list of students who are and who have been named Miss Hi Miss for 1946-47 calendar year is presented.

September 29

Nationally known personality toured with Registration—day that day when you sign up. As they do not have a parlor conference with the pitcher of victory, received President’s own grandchild and personal care for every student. In your own words, President’s administration stated in its message:

"Winthrop College expects to create an atmosphere that will support your educational advancement, and we are ready to make every effort to help you succeed in your studies."

The campus town hall was there to help you succeed in your studies. You will find here friendly college men and women, whose every action is watched with interest by their classmates.

School Traditions Follow Winthrop’s Colorful Past

Frosh FInd Homes Away From Home. Froshmen and transfer students find their “home away from home” in freshman dormitories, Breazeale, Roddey and McLaurin. The dormitories, located at the northeast end of the campus, are modern and well-equipped. Furnaces and reading rooms provide means of relaxation and time off from the routine of classes.

Senior Class Gives Yearly Production “Junior Follies” is a play written, produced and published entirely by the Junior class each year. Only juniors may take part in the cast and crew, also in the management. The class elects a “Junior Follies” chairman who has complete charge of the production. The writer or writers are automatically made co-directors of the play. The acts are written by another member.

Senior Class Live In Grand Hotel, Dream Dormitory Of Campus To become a resident of Senior Hall automatically raises the student to heights of society and high standards. Autumn Hall, furnished in full color, is a private suite of rooms of the same. In the Spring. Only seniors and students are allowed to use the steps, and anyone else caught breaking the tradition is fined 29 cents.

“Seniors” are the first in line during the year freshmen are at the mercy of the upperclassmen. Their costume for that day is planned by a committee organized to plan other “Rat Day” activities. Several of the most popular “Rat Day” activities are planned.

A dormitory is planned for those who like to have their guests in a smaller room. The “dorm” rises to the height of “the State,” and “The New York Times.” “Classical and well-lighted reading rooms are located at the far right end of the parlors. Some of the magazines and newspapers are the most popular. The “dorm” is the place of honor with both the President’s house and the dormitory.

Senior Order honors faculty, students and their guests at after dinner coffee at 1:30 every Sunday afternoon in Johnson hall. Music, conversation, and coffee are the order of the day. The birthday of President Henry R. Sims and his twin brother, Hugo, both hold a place among traditions of the South Carolina College for Women. On the night of that memorable day, December 4, the student body gathers in front of the President’s home and sings “Happy Birthday.” The Student Government presents a program of gifts from the students. Winthrop girls, in their gowns, follow the “Blue Line” to the steps of the President’s house, which is planned by the Student Council.

Honor Medal Offered To PE Majors

The Helles' Medal in memory of Harriet Helles Hellem, class of '46, will be offered this year for the first time, according to Miss Julia Peet, head of the physical education department.

The medal is to be presented annually by Mrs. Gordon Speiser to the Winthrop physical education major who shows excellence in that field. The qualifications are based on scholarship, character, leadership, professional accomplishment, social qualities, and appearance. The medal will be awarded only if there is a qualified senior, and a committee appointed by the President will select the winner.

Babs Hellem transferred to Winthrop from Lander college the summer after her junior year, and attended the summer school on April 19. She was active in many clubs during her senior year, and especially those in PE. "Babs" received the 80 degree in physical education in 1946, and was killed when she dove into an outdoor swimming pool in Aiken on May 26 of the same year.

A picture of Babs has been sent to Winthrop and will be placed in lounge of the gymnasium.

WC is Represented At Azalea Festival

Winthrop was well represented at the Charleston Azalea Festival this year with Jean Crouch, Miss South Carolina; Claudia Anne Simms, Miss City Miss; Catherine Green, Miss Fore, Miss Dillon County; Joanne White, Miss Orangeburg; Betty Hindman, Miss Lancaster; Joanne Eitel, Miss School; and Claudia Ann Neely, Marriot Plowdon, Betty Roddey dormitory counselors are Roddey dormitory counselors.

Freshman Counselors Aid Students New To Campus

The freshman counselors are the first to greet the new students on the Winthrop campus and to make them feel at home. These girls have the major portion of their first week devoted to the making of freshmen, and through the first year they help the new student to adapt herself to living in a large group.

The counselors spend much time preparing themselves for their jobs. A training program is held during April and May, and they return early in September for a few days of planning and instruction before the arrival of new students.

The position of counselor is an honor for any girl as they are chosen for high ideals and whole-some attitudes in the whole of campus life. Any opportunities may apply to the chief freshman counselor for the position, then a committee-selects the applicants and chooses the one who meets the best for the job.

The freshman counselors assist the new students in their transition to campus life. They help them to find their place in the academic community, and they offer support and guidance through the first year of college.

New Uniforms Are Selected

Uniforms for the 1947-48 term were chosen by students at a fashion show in Assembly on Tuesday morning, April 14.

The navy suit, number one in the fashion show, has a collarless coat with lapels giving a "eisen effect. Two large inverted pockets are copied after the jacket flaps and facings with a silver button. The skirt has two kick pleats over either knee and one in the center. The blouse of the suit has three grooms. Inside number six, featuring a paired neck and four groups of buttons extending from the neckline, was chosen. This blouse opens down the back with seven buttons and has three-quarter length buttoned sleeves.

The dresses chosen at the show, navy blue and white, were six and seven, respectively. The white dress has a round neck with sun-burst extending to an eyelet at the center of each skirt. The skirt is made up of a center panel in the front with two darts on either side forming a pinched waist. The back of the skirt has three grooms. The dress opens down the front and is finished by six small buttons. The blue dress in two pieces, the blouse has a round neck, opens in the back and is finished by a deep peplum. The skirt has four grooms.

The Johnsonian, college weekly newspaper, was first published in November, 1883 and was named in honor of the late President John- son.

The Heliums' Medal in memory of Harriet (Babs) Hellams, class of 1946, was named in honor of Gavernor J. Strom Thurmond. Miss Crouch is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Crouch of Elko.

Winthrop Junior Officers

Winthrop's senior officers were named in honor of Governor J. Strom Thurmond.

THE Student Government Is Place For Experience in Learning To Govern Self

Student Government Work Is Carried On By Committees; Organization Is Known For Its Standard Of Honor

It is through the Student Government association that the students gain experience in governing themselves. The executive council is composed of the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, and also the house presidents of each dormitory. In addition to having a house president there is a house council of 12 board members. These handle all the minor student offenses and pass what they consider to be the most serious to the judicial board.

The judicial board which checking of uniforms, personnel, etc., is in charge of 10 board members. These handle all the minor student offenses and visit the residents of each dormitory.

The executive council is composed of the students in governing themselves. The students gain experience in this and have the privilege of enlisting the help of fellow students.

Each member of the student body is an automatic member of the Student Government association and has the privilege of enlisting the support of the Student Government organization which they feel are desirable.

needed legislation and making recommendations to the administration which their feel are desirable. The organization at Winthrop is known for its high standards of honor and its belief in honesty in all phases of college life. The officials pledge themselves to uphold the standards and to be as much service as possible to their fellow students.

Each member of the student body is an automatic member of the Student Government association and has the privilege of enlisting the support of this organization which they feel are desirable.

The association welcomes all prospective Winthrop girls into its ranks. It is an important part of campus life.

The legislative branch of the Student Government association is the Senate. It is through this body that every student on the campus has a chance to make her suggestions and ideas known for improvement. By this procedure students make the Winthrop campus what they want.

Suggestions are given to the Senate, which is composed of four or five class representatives. The Senate meets once a month and the bills are passed by any three of the members present. Some pending legislation is involved during meetings for unification and making privileges in dating parties as well as in the girls' room.

The formals are of main importance in Winthrop life. Something is always being put on the campus, whether it is a big event like a formal or a smaller event like a "best ever" student production. The campus is always held before the movie goers on and this year a matinee program was continued with the films.

YWCA Membership Is Open To All Students

Student May Choose Own Phase of Work

The Young Women's Christian Association at Winthrop College, for every student is automatic in membership, and all wish to associate actively in the club. A list of the activities of the student body was found upon arriving on the campus.

Communities from which a student may choose membership, which already have active membership at Winthrop, is Winthrop, and others, the group of the same name. Furthered by the group of the same name, and magazines for leisure, and the use of posters and the newspaper and the newsletter of the organizations through the editors of the student association. This year the LSA has been divided into various committees, and is often the scene of banquets, parties, breakfasts, and other picnics and outings of this type. M. E. Hill, the chairman of the committee, and is available at all times for conferences, talks, and committee work.

Student associations are invited to become affiliated members of St. John's Methodist church, a national organization for Episcopal college students. The center, which contains a lounge, chapel and kitchen, is often the scene of banquets, parties, breakfasts, and 'tuckers,' as well as worship services, reading, studying, and 'self-shipping.' It is always open to the students. This year there are 60 members.

The club is student managed by 18 officers and executive personnel and committees under the guidance of Mrs. James E. Barlow and Rev. Alfred P. Chalmers. These offer an opportunity to meet students from many colleges over the state. For Activities

Methodist Girls Have Center For Activities

When a student comes to Winthrop, she may become a member of a religious organization, such as the Methodist Student Union, which is the Winthrop student center. The club is hoping also to go to the Southern Regional conference, and is available at all times for conferences, talks, and committee work.

Winthrop Has Varied PE Courses

The courses of the physical education department serve a broad purpose in the welfare of the students at Winthrop. First, the department strives to provide for every student an opportunity to participate in physical activities and an understanding of the importance of physical fitness. This understanding is necessary to help the same time maintain their physical fitness.

The Spring Festival, the annual event and a Play Day which brings representatives from several colleges in South Carolina to the campus to compete in a variety of events. The Festival is sponsored by the Athletic Association, so whatever your sports taste is, there is a club for you.

SPORTS

Hockey and Horseshoe

Hockey was a sport for the athletic and non-athletic students. Twice a week Winthrop's "Robin Hoods" took careful aim and let those arrows fly to the bull's eye, and even beyond! Tournaments are held to test the skill of the student body and the members of this club present a colorful water pageant in the spring. An annual tournament is held to determine the champion.

Just Like A Boid

The modern dance recital is anticipated on the campus with much enthusiasm. The girls shown above are performing the number called "Goosey."

French Girl Likes Life At Winthrop "So Much"

Winthrop not only has students from many different states in the union, several from Puerto Rico and Cuba, but she also has a French student on her campus.

Mado Anne Marie Louca, 20-year old French exchange student in her second year at Winthrop, arrived on the Winthrop campus November 1, 1946, for a one year scholarship which was made possible through the establish-ment of a foreign student scholarship by the College by the Winthrop Young Women's Christian Association. Selection of Mado was made by the College through the Institute of International Education in New York.

Before coming to Winthrop, Mado was a student at Toulouse university in France. She speaks English, German and her native French. Her hometown, Saint Louis, is in the upper Rhine region of France. Her father, Louis, is an official of the French railroad. She has a brother, Marc, and a sister, Christine, both younger than she.

During the war, Anne Marie worked nine hours daily on a German farm, and lived at a work camp for young German girls. Everyone was forced to work for the Germans on any day.

At the camp, she had one hour daily of political education, taught by German instructors.

After her work year, Anne Marie was permitted to go to a German university, Freiburg in Breisgau. After France was liberated by the Allies, in the fall of 1944, she transferred to the University of Toulouse where she made applied science, her major.

When Anne Marie was asked what she thought of Winthrop and American life, she said, "I didn't expect Winthrop to be so nice. But I like it so much.

Chemical Phases Of Life Are Taught At Winthrop

The chemistry and physics department at Winthrop teaches students that knowledge which aids with their chemical and mechanical phases of life.

General inorganic chemistry is a course which presents a study of the occurrence, preparation, properties and uses of the most common elements and their compounds.

Chemistry laboratory comes once a week for the chemistry student who does not plan to major in science. In this period girls prepare, with guidance and instruction from the teacher, many different elements and compounds.

There are many other valuable courses offered to the student who is interested in science.

Appled physics is a course for physical education students, with practical application to the problems in the field of physical education.

Mr. Ralph E. Blakely, Miss Evelyn Street, Mr. Ralph E. Blakely, Miss D. H. Calvert and Mr. C. A. Hays teach in the chemistry and physics department.

Justice, honorary chemistry fraternity, is open to junior and senior chemistry students having a B average in their chemistry courses. This club is the local chapter of the American Chemical Society, in order to get every-thing, work in the library of the Winthrop training school.

Librarians Are Needed Today

"There is a great need for librarians today," Dr. Frances Lander, head of the Library Department, said. "We have many college students, but we cannot fill the demand." The library science department trains both school and teacher librarians. The work is accredited by the Southern Association and by the South Carolina Department of Education.

In her freshman year each student takes a short elementary course in library science. The purpose is to teach her how to use the library in finding the material which she wants in the quickest and most convenient way. Students may elect one or more courses in library science, which may be in her major or minor field.

Le Cercle Francal is the French club in which every student who has an average of an "A" or "B" in her courses has a membership. Club members endeavor to keep themselves informed about the historic, political, literary, and social affairs of France.

Winthrop is the home of the American Association of Biblical Studies, an organization that promotes interest and enjoyment of library and other fields.

The department of biology, under the leadership of Dr. Margaret Hess, endeavors to give the student a better understanding of her environment through a study of the structure, function, habits, life histories and inter-relationships of plants and animals with which she comes in daily contact.

General biology is a course for all students. Nearly 500 students, mostly freshmen, are enrolled in this course at present.

Le Cercle Francal is the French club for students who are in French courses. It is open to junior and senior major and minor art students who have a "B" or "C" in art. There are 100 members at present.

Brush and Palette is another art club for students who are in French courses. It is open to junior and senior major and minor art students who have a "B" or "C" in art. There are 100 members at present.

There are many fields of work open to the art major. For the past three years, most of these students have gone into the teaching profession, and one graduate is in charge of a department down in Georgia.

Art students may also go into commercial art or further their knowledge by going to some school for design.

Art structure is a course in human, space, line, and light as the elements of all space art. Principles of design, color, color, and color-mixing are studied. The student learns to use pencil, charcoal, ink, crayon and watercolors.

There are also freehand and costume design courses. History of art is a study of art, beginning at the Renaissance period.

The course growing in popularity is art appreciation. It is composed of lectures with illustrations and demonstrations.

Kappa Pi, national honorary art fraternity, is open to all junior and senior major and minor art students who have a "B" average in their courses.

English, Commerce, Journalism Offered

English Subjects Varied For Student Requirements

All students entering Winthrop come in contact with the English department. This contact is maintained through half of their college career as all students are required to enroll in courses in English their first two years at Winthrop.

Freshmen English deals with the acquisition of grammar, the fundamental and basic principles of writing, improvement work dealing completely with literature. Seniors not majoring in English no further study is necessary beyond the English 100 courses.

For majors in English, junior and senior courses are available. The first semester of freshman English is offered for students not working and carries no credit and is a prerequisite for English 100. For majors in English, junior and senior courses are available. The first semester of freshman English is offered for students not majoring in English of writing. Sophomore work deals in English staff which includes Dr. Walker, Miss Mary McCown, and Miss Chlo Fink, Miss Florence.<

English Majors’ Room Is Haven

"The home of the English majors" is located on the first floor of Kinard hall and is a main attraction to the people who spend a great deal of their time there. It’s also the place where the majors gather. Mrs. Britton, a professor of English, and others associated with the department are members of the staff. The room is a haven for the majors in English.

Community gives major in four different fields

The commerce department offers majors four fields to choose from when prospective students decide that the college is the place to which they wish to go.

For majors in English, junior and senior courses in advanced grammar, history of the English language, literature, and English are available. The first semester of freshman English is offered for students not majoring in English of writing. Sophomore work deals in English staff which includes Dr. Walker, Miss Mary McCown, and Miss Chlo Fink, Miss Florence. The students in the above picture are showing resting between classes in the English conference room in Kinard hall.

Journalism Students Are Given Practical Experience

The department of journalism is comparatively new at Winthrop and offers a major or minor in journalism with an AB or BS degree. A major is required to take courses in reporting, writing, and editing, in which special writing and editing equipment will be taught; voice production, teaching the writing, preparation, and content of a news story; the mechanics of grammar, and the machinery of the English and dramatic impersonation of a teacher or of their own choice.

The requirement of a minor is 18 semester hours. Journalism is applying the trend of independent work and students majoring in other fields are combining these studies with journalism to prepare themselves to write with a different viewpoint.

Courses are offered in reporting, news editing, public relations, history of journalism, editorial writing, and advertising. These courses are supplemented by actual class training in public relations writing for the news service, newswriting, and advertising for a class project, the Miss Hi Miss edition of The Johnsonian and other related courses under the direction of Dr. H. Montgomery, department head. The requirement of a minor is 18 semester hours. Commercial graduates of Winthrop have formed regular colonies in various parts of the country while working on responsible positions. Former students are graduated and are employed by the Standard Oil company, the Tennessee Eastman company which has always employed a large number of Winthrop graduates, has invited 11 students to be that college for a trip to Kingsport to view the company before accepting positions with the concern. Requests have been received from the office of the FNL in Charlotte and Atlanta and from the Retail Credit company in Atlanta. Teachers are also in New York, Chicago, and Boston and former students are students who are now employed in many sections of the country.

J. H. A. Plans New Field At Winthrop

Winthrop's home economics department boasts a comparatively new division that is beginning to come into its own. This is the J. H. A. Plan. Every year Miss Sarah Craigwell, head of the home economics department, receives more applications from Winthrop graduates educated in dietetics than she has produced qualified to fill the positions. There is a great demand for women teachers with this training to fill positions in hospitals, homes, and other concerns.

The Winthrop home economics department has for its primary function the preparation of individuals to be effective family members, and to assume home and community responsibility through which family life is sustained.

Other functions include the preparation for leadership in this field in discovery and extension of knowledge in the field of home economics; (preparation for a profession whose services facilitate, supplement, or replace activities commonly carried on in the home.

The department strives to help each girl plan her life course, and education, gain experience in independent thinking, self-directed activity, maintain delightful personal habits, and contribute, and learn to take advantage of the opportunities in the field of home economics.

JHAs are for those girls whose ambition in life features a development of homemaking skills, whose interests lie in the field of homemaking, whose major interest is in learning how to make home comfortable and its inhabitants happy. There is a large number of girls whose interests lie in the field of home economics. It is for these girls that the Winthrop home economics department was created.

Aims Of Math Department

Form Three-fold Program

If you are one of those fortunate individuals with a special aptitude for numbers and formulas, you will feel at home in Winthrop's mathematics department. On the other hand, if you are one of the many individuals, with no great interest in mathematics, you will find the teachers at Winthrop understanding, helpful, and interested in each student.

The aims of the mathematics department are:

1. To provide a broad program in mathematics and statistics for young women who contemplate teaching as a career. The serious student who, whether desiring to major in mathematics or not, wishes to add to her general culture by becoming familiar with mathematics as a powerful method of thought.

2. To provide instruction in mathematics for students majoring in other fields of study. This is where hundreds of people earn thousands of dollars in Rock Hill.

3. To provide guidance for students majoring in mathematics who contemplate graduate work in mathematics. Students majoring in physics, chemistry, biology, sociology are advised to consider a minor in mathematics.

4. To provide courses which will aid the work of other departments of the College by acquainting their students with mathematical techniques essential to the student's mastery of her major field of study.

5. To provide comprehensive courses in mathematics for young women who contemplate teaching as a career.

6. To provide instruction for students majoring in other fields of study. This is where hundreds of people earn thousands of dollars in Rock Hill.

Music, Talks Featured in Artist Series

One of the most valuable opportunities offered Winthrop students in the Arts and Letters series which is sponsored each year by the College. Programs and concerts by outstanding artists and performers are presented frequently throughout the year. Each student is able to become acquainted with the best in musical entertainment and to keep up with current affairs of various kinds. Attendance is encouraged by the faculty and the administration.

Among the prominent artists appearing at Winthrop this year have been Charles Weidman, dance company after the Cobble Hill dance company, and the Metropolitan Opera Artists Ensemble. The spring program features a presentation of American College opera, and the suburban community is to be regular and excellent.

Beauty Contest For Freshmen

With the new year the student body is ready to have a fresh start in their school work. One of the activities planned for the freshmen class is the Beauty Contest. The competition is limited to those girls who have just entered Winthrop, and a certificate is to be given to the winner. The contest will be held in the College auditorium; before judges selected from the faculty and the contentants appear at their most attractive upon their arrival. The judges will be divided into groups of three judges, selected according to their individual appearance.

The slate of judges is now in the hands of the faculty, and the names of the girls will be announced as they are selected. The contest is to be held in the College auditorium upon the day set by the administration.

Winthrop Senior Leaders

Editors of the popular class at Winthrop college, the Winthrop Senior Leaders, are chosen each year from the senior class. The selection is made on the basis of the students' activities and achievements during their four years at Winthrop. The seniors have the opportunity to express their opinions and ideas on various topics, and their contributions are published weekly in the Winthrop Daily Telegraph.

Roettinger Is New President Of State AAW

Miss Ruth Roettinger, inspector of government, was elected president of the South Carolina division of the American Association of University Women at the annual spring meeting held April 13 and 14 at Myrtle Beach.

Johnsonian Coffee Time

Members Of Debating Team

Five or six! The debating team journeys to other colleges and plays hosts to other teams to battle about the problems of the day. The Winthrop team is shown with the Wofford group in the picture above.

Spring Is Time For Sunbathing

In the spring the Winthrop weather changes from "When do we start?" to "When are we going to put the Ungerfischer?". The reason for this is the scene of students, which comes in with the first burst of warm weather in the calendar month of the season.

College Shack Is Scene of Festivity

The Shack is the social center for the students, who have a picnic with a whirlwind of entertainment. It is located near the College farm away from the campus in a real back to nature setting. The building itself is a large, rustic house complete with a ringless bell, which is made of the whole collar fans, warming on chilly nights.

Campers work up an appetite by hiking out to their own special area, and then sit down to the shack, where they are served with hamburgers with all the trimmings. The food is prepared on the spot, and the cooks are well and truly enjoyed by the campers.

The Shack is the main center of the campers and the students, and it is the place where they come together to enjoy the fun and entertainment.

We like to show our appreciation of Winthrop in the way we serve Winthrop girls and Winthrop boys. We like to give them the kind of service and the kind of merchandise that makes them our friends.

In every way this firm does its part to make Rock Hill a great city for a great school. Make our store your headquarters while at Winthrop. We would like to take this opportunity to welcome you to Winthrop and Rock Hill. Our heartfelt congratulations to the Miss Hi Misses of 1947!

The Winthrop College music department has recently become a full member of the National Association of Schools of Music. Dr. Walter B. Roberts, head of the music staff, announced recently that Winthrop has been an associate member since 1940. The association is a standardizing agency and is composed of 116 members, and 53 schools are negotiating for associate membership in the year.

Full membership was received by the Winthrop department after a series of examinations set up by the National association.

Music majors now receive their degrees in courses that have been thoroughly approved by a national organization. All students in music, and all students in music major, may seek entry in piano, voice, public school music, and instrumental subjects, and must pass an entrance examination in their elected field of study.

Many opportunities are available to music majors today. Positions in high schools and colleges as pianists or voice teachers or directors of bands are open. The training may prepare the student for further study and lead to professional careers, or for leadership in the musical world in the radio, motion pictures, and affiliated fields.

The Winthrop department offer to its students numerous courses available, and many of them in the development of the appreciation of music. Numerous recitals allow the student an opportunity to observe and appreciate that music, allows extra training. The lives of well-known instructors give extra training. The lives of famous composers and famous instrumentalists, and all students may belong to various music organizations after passing an entrance examination. Before each March meeting, the Winthrop music club is composed of juniors and seniors. The purpose of the music club is to bring about a better understanding of famous composer, in talks and discussion groups at monthly meetings. Before each March course emphasis is placed upon the war or composer to be featured on the program."}

Three Groups Aid Study In Music Work

The College orchestra, the band, and the Swanks are the three instrumental groups at Winthrop. Music organizations cater to music students who are interested in further study of the instrument of their choice.

The orchestra is composed of string, brass, wood-wind, and percussion instruments, and all students may belong to this organization if they have had some orchestral experience. Beginning students may first study melody before becoming a member of the Swanks orchestra. All violin students are required to belong to this group.

The band presents two formal concerts each year, and is composed of 50 pieces also. Players of the orchestra who have had experience are invited to join this group.

The Swanks is one of the largest all-girl orchestras in the state, and independently organized and managed. The Swanks play for various College functions and have provided music for dinners at other schools and colleges. Both the orchestra and the band have formal programs during the school season, and have played in other towns and cities. The band often plays for football games, and toured to Charleston for the Azalea festival. The girls held an honor choir college faculty in New Jersey during the spring festival. Spring Festival Brings Many To Winthrop

The twenty-first annual spring music festival was held this year on the Winthrop campus on April 10, 11, and 12. The contest included voice solo, gliss simphonies, clarinet, piano, instrumental, and band competition. The schedule of events took place in the Conservatory of Music. Bands were presented on the College athletic field, and band twirling was a feature of the competition. Numbers for the contests were selected by school officials from the list sent to them before the festival.

Winthrop girls were classified according to a criticism or rating plan, and all solo and group events were adjudicated for criticism only, unless a rating was rendered. In the National association competition, the ratings used were Rating I, which represented the best possible performance; Rating II, an unusual performance; Rating III, a good, but an uninteresting performance; Rating IV, an average performance, and Rating V, a performance showing much room for improvement. Students and teachers who entered the festival were from all sections of South Carolina, and approximately 1,000 people were present.

The prizes for the events were Dr. H. W. Landers, of the city, who judged the band; Dr. Edwin Hughes of New York City, who judged the bands; Dr. Edwin Hughes of New York City, who judged the bands; and Professor Harold Norval L. Church of Teachers' college, who judged the bands. The ratings used were Rating I, a perfect performance, and Rating V, a poor performance.

The Conservatory of Music also has a symphony orchestra and a music major, and has been used for various musical events. The Conservatory of Music also has a symphony orchestra and a music major, and has been used for various musical events.

More complete and effective UFA. The Swanks, college senior and public school music major, are majoring in piano, violin, voice, and piano. Majors in any one of music, piano, violin, voice, and can major in—there's public school music major from the Winthrop campus. And even if you major and head music club for freshmen and sophomores, and the Winthrop Dorian music club for freshmen and seniors, and the Winthrop chorus for seniors.
