Introducing WC's "Man Of The Year"
And Every Year—Pres. Henry R. Sims

September The Naturally any year's "Man of the Year" is selected with Registration—that day of days when you sign. No Dean or faculty member, thank God, is a real "Man of the Year", and this year's was an outstanding one. Winthrop's "Man of the Year"—President Henry R. Sims—was named--"Newly Arrived."* * *

Winthrop's 1947 "Man of the Year" was President Henry R. Sims. He was selected by the Student Senate in accordance with Winthrop's "Man of the Year" selection procedures. The selection was based on the following criteria:

1. The candidate should be a student or employee of Winthrop College.
2. The candidate should have shown outstanding leadership in their field.
3. The candidate should have demonstrated a commitment to the betterment of Winthrop College and the community.

The selection process involved a jury of Student Senators, who interviewed each candidate and voted on the final selection.

School Traditions Follow Winthrop's Colorful Past

"That will cost you one quarter," said the senior holding out her hand to the bewildered freshman. The newcomer to Winthrop had completely disregarded one of the treasured traditions of Winthrop. "Senior says." This balcony ground is the front steps of the Administration building which are officially dedicated to the rising senior class of which the student body, seniors, and faculty members are allowed to use the steps, and anyone who has caught the tradition is fined 29 cents.

Senior chapel is one of the weekly activities centered around the graduating class as a homecoming, "Senior Week." The tradition's reception welcomes the seniors and their guests at an annual banquet. These dormitories, located at the northeast end of the campus, are divided by drawing the fold of the highy. These rooms are occupied by all members of the class. Two of the larger rooms may be divided by setting the folding doors to accommodate more students who like to entertain their guests in a smaller room. Magazines and newspapers are available for those who like to read. These dormitories, located at the northeast end of the campus, are divided by drawing the fold of the highy. Winthrop grows, so grow her traditions. The class elects a "Junior Follies" co-director who has complete charge of the production. The seniors and faculty are automatized, made co-directors of the play. The seniors' acts are written by another member. "Junior Follies" is given in order to raise money for the Junior-Senior. It is considered one of the biggest events of the year. After the Follies all the juniors dress in the gowns for a reception dance and for their guests.

Alpha Psi Omega is Club For Dramatics "Junior Follies" is a play written and produced entirely by the Freshman class each year. Only juniors may take part in the cast and crew, also on the committee. Frosh Find Homes Away From Home Freshmen and transfer students find their own "home away from home" in freshman dormitories, Breazeale, Roddey, and McLaurin. Miss Frances Crouch and Mrs. W. T. Burdell, housemothers welcome newcomers to Breazeale, while Miss Lila S. Deacon and Miss Martha Willis, housemothers, open the doors of Roddey. Miss Martha Abraham and Mrs. W. S. Turner, housemothers of McLaurin hall, keep the oldest of the freshman dormitories running smoothly. These dormitories, located at the northeast end of the campus, are divided by drawing the fold of the highy. These rooms are occupied by all members of the class. Outstanding Seniors At Winthrop

"Friends of Yours"
Congratulations, 1947
Miss Hi Misses Of
South Carolina!
Honor Medal Offered To PE Majors

The Helms' Medal in memory of Harriet Ione Helms, class of '46, will be offered this year for the first time, according to Miss Julia Post, head of the physical education department. The medal is to be presented annually by Mrs. Gordon Spence to the Winthrop physical education major who shows excellence in that field. The qualifications are based on scholarship, character, leadership, professional achievement, social qualities, and appearance. The medal will be awarded only if there is a qualifying senior, and a committee appointed by the President will select the winner. Babs Helms transferred to Winthrop from Lander college the summer after her junior year, and she attended the summer school on April 19. She was active in many clubs during her senior year, and especially those in PE. "Babs" received the 80 degree in physical education in 1945, and was killed when she dived into an outdoor swimming pool in Aiken on May 20 of the same year. A picture of Babs has been sent to Winthrop and will be placed in library of the gymnasium.

Student Government Is Place For Experience In Learning To Govern Self

Student Government Work Is Carried On By Committees; Organization Is Known For Its Standard Of Honor

It is through the Student Government association that the students gain experience in governing themselves. The executive council is composed of the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, and also the house presidents of each dormitory. In addition to having a house president there is a house council of 10 board members. These handle all the minor student offenses and pass what they consider to be just penalty.

If the infraction is a serious one, the house council may refer the case to the judicial board which consists of three students and three faculty members appointed by the Senate and three student representatives, the president of SGA, junior class, and the Senate. If it is passed by this group it goes to the president of the College; with his approval, the bill goes into effect.

Some of the bills passed by the Senate during the year 1946-47 have been that students with permanent permission may accept rides home and to other destinations with strangers, or with those persons whose names are specified, and may visit in Rock Hill for the day with necessary permission. Some pending legislation is in draft for considering under circumstances and making privilege in dating parlors as well as in the girls' rooms.

Recreation Is Important In Winthrop Campus Life

"All work and no play" is a phrase that cannot apply to Winthrop life. Something is always popping on the campus, whether it is a big event like a formal dance or a "ball session" in one of the rooms.

The formal dances are main interest to students. Four times a year the girls don their gowns and go out to the Dining hall for several hours of merry-making, while the boys, in either gowns and suits or dinner jackets, are also held often, and informal dances every Saturday night. Sometimes the dance committee does out its blue jean and plaid shirts and goes all out for a real square dance in the gymnasium.

Senate Works Through Students For Improved Conditions On Campus

Method By Which Rules and Regulations Are Passed Is Explained; 1946-1947 Bills Passed By Senate Are Listed

The legislative branch of the Student Government association is the Senate. It is through this body that every student on the campus has a chance to make her suggestions and ideas known for improvement. By this procedure students make the Winthrop they want.

Suggestions are given to the five class representatives or other honorary members of the Senate and their introduction to the Senate at the monthly meeting. It is then discussed openly and voted on. If the majority thinks it is a good idea and wants it, it is passed, if not, the matter is dropped.

Following this, the legislation passed is sent to the Student-Faculty committee made up of three faculty members appointed by the Senate and three student representatives, the president of SGA, junior class, and the Senate. If it is passed by this group it goes to the president of the College, with his approval, the bill goes into effect.

Some of the bills passed by the Senate during the year 1946-47 have been that students with permanent permission may accept rides home and to other destinations with strangers, or with those persons whose names are specified, and may visit in Rock Hill for the day with necessary permission. Sports and Fun on the Campus

Winthrop Has Varied PE Courses

The courses of the physical education department serve a twofold purpose in the welfare of the students at Winthrop. First the department strives to provide for every student an opportunity to be selected from the following: water sports—beginners—regulars—intermediate or advanced swimming; from sports—volleyball, squash, basketball, or hockey; individual sports—tennis, golf, archery, and rhythmic activities which include the courses in dance offered by the department.

Girls Hear Lectures on Physical Ed

It is not quite all work and no play in the physical education department at Winthrop. The department has a serious side that gains prominence in the lectures sponsored by the department as a supplement to class study.

The lecture series was organized last year to present to the students the various fields of education. These lectures are presented monthly and attendance by students taking physical education subjects is compulsory. Each lecture counts as a class period.

The series was opened this year with a movie, "Fit and Fair" in which correct make-up and hair on general health through physical ed were given. The students presented "Win a Win-Domestic Sports Woman Shall Wear," a skill showing the right and wrong ways to dress for sports. Harry R. Payton, production manager, Columbia's Spot Pipe, spoke on "Women in the Sports World," and explained the positions women can attain through physical education.

Scheduled lectures include book reviews by Dr. Paul M. Weirick, of the English Department, and Miss Rose Hughes, assistant professor of English. The last of the series will be a movie, "Working for Fun."

Winthrop Alumnae Are Prominent In All Fields

Winthrop Placement Bureau Finds Jobs For Graduates

More than 13,000 Winthrop graduates and former students are carrying the name of Winthrop college in the corners of the earth, and they are putting into practice the teachings of the College. They are bound in a vigorous, effective Alumnae association which has its offices on the campus in the Administration building.

The purpose of the Alumnae association as stated in its constitution, is the advancement of all educational interests, the promotion of the welfare of Winthrop, and the establishment of a mutually beneficial relationship between the College and the Alumnae.

Organized June 14, 1898, the Alumnae association, working through its offices on the campus and its many alumnae groups, has formed a tie which binds together the 6,800 who have received Winthrop diplomas, 1,808 who have received Winthrop's daughters. This is boasted that "the sun never sets on Winthrop's daughters." This is the Alumnae association, as stated in its constitution. It is also hostess to the "advancement of all teaching in the College. They have been in touch with those nominated Alumnae and coordinating their efforts for the best interests of Winthrop and education. On the campus, the Alumnae association receives a week end in which the Granddaughters, an organization of girls whose mothers attended Winthrop, may invite their mothers and parents to the event. The Alumnae program is a week end in which the graduating seniors are formally inducted into the Alumnae association. This year the association undertook a new project in helping sponsor a week's tour of the College choir.

The Alumnae News, published by the Alumnae association, keeps Winthrop graduates informed about Winthrop, its activities and objectives. In the class files are listed the students still in school. These lists are kept up to date and finally transferred to the master file where the student joins the ranks of the Alumnae. Winthrop Placement Bureau finds jobs for graduates. "Winthrop college doesn't consider that it has discharged its full obligation to a student until it has given that student every possible assistance in securing a position in which she can be successful and happy," John G. Kelly, Register, and concerning the Winthrop College Placement Bureau. The Bureau, set up in the Registrar's office in the Administration building, is operated on a centralized basis by which all departments are served. All contacts are made through the central office rather than through individual departments. By this method all departments are given an equal opportunity for good job placement of their students.

The positions accepted cover a wide range including teaching, secretarial and other office positions, scientific laboratory work, and clerical work.

Others find employment in various types of government work, insurance companies, public utilities, land sales and service departments of large business firms.

Requests also come in for girls as newspaper work, dietitians, recreational directors and many others.

Placement of teachers ranks highest, with 90 per cent of the total number of placements, while librarians and other secretarial positions rank next highest.
Winthrop not only has students from many different states in the union, several from Puerto Rico and Cuba, but she also has a French student on her campus.

Mademoiselle Annemarie Loux, 20-year old French exchange student, is from Saint Louis, France. She arrived on the Winthrop campus November 1, 1964, for a year's scholarship, which was made possible through the establishment of a foreign student scholarship by the College by the Winthrop Young Women's Christian Association. Selection of Annemarie was made by the College through the Institute of International Education in New York.

Before coming to Winthrop, Annemarie was a student at Toulange university in France. She speaks English, German and her native French. Her hometown, Saint Louis, is in the upper Rhine region of France. She has one brother, Jean-Louis, an official of the French government, and one sister, Christiane, both younger than she.

During the war, Annemarie worked nine hours daily on a German farm, and lived at a work camp for young German girls. Everyone was forced to work for the Germans one day a week. At the camp, she had one hour to rest and do her own political education, taught by German teachers.

After her work, Annemarie was permitted to go to a German university, Freiberg in Germany. After France was liberated by the American troops on August 25, 1944, she went to the University of Strasbourg, and then to Toulange where she made apply to New York University.

When Annemarie was asked what she thought of Winthrop and her American life, she says, "So far, I have worked very well here, since I don't work much as a French student. The days here are not so long. But I like it so much!"

Libraries Are Needed Today

There are many fields of work open to the art major. For the past three years, most of these students have gone into the teaching profession, and one graduate in his charge of a department class in General Biology.

Art students may also go into commercial art or further their knowledge by going to some school for design.

Art structure is a course in structure, lines, and light as the elements of all space art. Principles of design, color, theory and mixing of colors are studied. The student learns to use pencil, charcoal, ink, crayons and watercolours.

There are also fashion and costume design courses. History of art is a study of art, beginning at the Renaissance period.

The course growing in popularity is art appreciation. It is composed of lectures with illustrations and demonstrations.

Kappa Pi, national honorary art fraternity, opens to all junior and senior major art students with a high scholarship rating. Kappa Pi has 10 members at present.

Beauty and Paleta is another art club for students who are interested in design in the field of art. Break and Paleta, which is a Spanish word, is one of the most active clubs on the campus.

Miss Annie Dunn is head of the Art department, and Miss Bertha E. Gervacio is an associate director.

English, Commerce, Journalism Offered

English Subjects Varied For Student Requirements

All students entering Winthrop come in contact with the English department. This contact is continued through half of their college career as all students are required to enroll in courses in English their first two years at Winthrop.

Freshmen English deals with the mechanical aspects of grammar, the fundamental and basic principles of writing. Sophomore work develops fully with literature. Seniors not minoring in English in no further study is necessary for an A.B. degree. Starting next year there will be a sub-minor course in English for all freshmen not qualified for regular college English of writing. Sophomore work deals with a related subject and takes, instead of literature. For majors in English, junior work deals with the writing, preparation, and presentation of the written word; play production, teaching, writing, preparation, and performing a play; the stage, emphasis being given to the growth of personality, and the machinery of the stage, and dramatic improvisation which will stress acting and the use of a variety of public address. Class in public address will meet twice a week, giving one hour credit, and will serve as a laboratory for speech practice.

Courses already offered by the department are the introduction to the study of English, advanced grammar, and advanced composition. Or for less advanced students, there is an introductory course in English literature called "Home Was Never Like This." This course is to enable students interested in writing to get further ideas on the subject and overcome their weaknesses. The lab work consists of the student completing a regular work under the direction of Dr. Griffith T. Weekly, a special function of the department. Course is held Monday and Tuesday of each week from 1:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m., and attendance is voluntary. Students may elect on the recommendation of a teacher or of their own wish.

Journals and magazines are edited by students and are designed for the best work that influential students can do. The requirements of a minor in English are one hour credit in the field of English.

Journalism Students Are Given Practical Experience

The department of journalism is comparatively new at Winthrop and offers a major or minor in journalism with an A.B. or B.S. degree. A major is required to take 28 hours credit in the field of journalism and two other related courses under the direction of Fred J. Montgomery, department head. The requirement of a minor is 15 semester hours. Journalism is applying the trend of independent work and students majoring in other fields are combining these studies with journalism to prepare themselves to write with a different viewpoint.

Courses are offered in reporting, news editing, publicity, advertising, history of journalism, editorial writing, and advertising. These courses are supplemented by actual class training in publicity writing for the news service, newswriting and advertising for a class project, the Winthrop Daily News, and the WSPR radio station.

The students of the newspaper club under Miss Ida H. Brittain, department assistant, are assigned "beats" on the campus for weekly coverage.

This department is one of the few on the campus to have its own library. The books are used for class study and are provided by the department for further study of the students of the "Journalists," as they are called. Students of this department are encouraged to become members of the staff of The Johnsonian, student newspaper. The Journal, the magazine published by the students, is a monthly publication.

Additional supplements to class study have been the arrangement and discussion of several prominent men as Edward Jewell, art critic for The New York Times; Stuart Chase, economist and author; Mrs. Pauline Gilbreth, newspaper journalist; and Louis P. Locke, economist.

"The home of the English majors" is located on the first floor of Kirnall hall and is a main attraction in the people who spend a great deal of their time there.

"The home," or conference room as it is better known, is the place where the majors go for a speech or paper over a particular difficult construction that might make an appearance in a test in advanced grammar. Or for less trying subjects there is always the general English majors' party. This is also the place for a long awaited visit with a good book.

The conference room is equipped with living room furniture for that home-like atmosphere. The small library contains a collection of late fiction and a file of English journals. The walls are decorated with prints winning awards of Winthrop students since 1956.

Psychology Courses Include Practical Studies For All

Courses in psychology are designed to "give students information about themselves and others, an experiencing and reacting in situations, who desire a better home, professional, or business adjustment.

Beginning with a general course, the psychology student advances to more complex studies. The curricula includes children's psychology, a course beginning with a study of selfhood as it influences the development of the individual, and of the drive and emotional reactions of the body.

Psychology of personality is a study of the organic basis of personality, the development of personality, and the different approaches to a study of personality.

Psychology of motivation is the study of the instinct, desire, emotion, and habit of a person.

Social psychology is a study of the individual as a member of social group. Psychology of adjustment is the study of the development of personality and guidance and control for adjustment during the adolescence.

Dr. W. H. Rogers, head of the psychology department, is assisted by Mr. William B. Nichols, assistant professor.

Alpha Psi Eta, honorary psychology fraternity, is a club for those students who maintain a grade of at least a "B". Alpha members must meet once a month, and try to have a banquet at least once a year.

Geography Has Many Phases

Geography, the subject that has come a long way in the past 8 years is important to every college student.

The main purpose of geography is to bring students the knowledge of the economic, social, and political life of different peoples of the world. It also teaches the student the climate and physical conditions of the surface of the earth.

Human geography is the study of the shape and size of the earth. It is important to know the earth's area, the map, the time, weather, and soil. Geography is a course of world resources, a study of oceans, water, land, and forest. The geography of North America, South America and the Southern States are other courses for the student who is interested.

The department is under the leadership of Mr. Edmund E. Tetterton, with Mr. William B. Nichols as assistant professor.

TWO GPS ARE WC GRADUATES

Three students at Winthrop have represented the third generation of Womack family to graduate from Carolina College for Women.

The girls whose mothers and grandmothers attended Winthrop along with their father, the late Winford Womack, are Mary Jane Womack, daughter of Dr. W. H. Womack, and Nancy Womack of Beaufort.

Many Studies Obtainable To Sociology-Minded Students

There are many studies obtainable to sociology-minded students. Many varied courses are offered in the sociology department, under the leadership of Dr. Allen D. Estes.

Sociology is a study of man, relationship to his environment. Man and society and principles of sociology are an introduction to more advanced courses. Women in modern life is a subject of education and occupational open to women. History of sociology is a study of social theory from early times. Anthropology is the study of society, the culture of different peoples, and the consumer movement, postwar legislation, and the local church.

Social Service Federation of South Carolina college is an organization of faculty members, students of social science, and members of the community who desire a better understanding of the problems of the family. Career counseling by discussions and reading are available. Social work, economic and educational problems that confront the family. Sociology students do one year of case work, which qualifies them for certain jobs in public and private agencies.

Geography Study Boosted By Organizations

The Sociology club is open to all freshmen and seniors majoring or minoring in sociology. The purpose of the club is to improve human relationships, especially in the international field. Students from Denmark, France and Greece spoke to the members at meetings this year.

Among the clubs open to students, the United Nations Organization is a study of international understanding and cooperation.

Vital And Living History Is Stressed By WC Department

The history department at Winthrop believes that history is a vital and living thing that the great movements of history are presented from this point of view. This department has many interesting courses for the student who does not plan to major in the subject, but who wants a good general background of American and European history.

History majors have opportunities to further their knowledge by taking advanced courses in history.

Such courses are colonial history: the federal period; Civil War reconstruction: recent America: the western movement: Old and New South; Ancient history: Medieval history: Reformation and Renaissance, and Europe since 1513.

Each of these courses is designed to help the student get a better understanding of the period in which she is interested.

Dr. Austin Venable, head of the department, and Dr. J. Harold Wolfe, professor of history, have written several history textbooks. Dr. Venable also writes a book, "Nationalism in South Carolina."

Dr. Venable is at present writing a full-length biography of William L. Yancey, prominent South Carolina man, and he also teaches in the history department.

The department has recently been granted a charter by Phi Alpha Theta, national history fraternity, which is open to students who have the prerequisites for any of the courses in history and who have met the grade requirements.

Students Care For Children In WC Nursery

Twenty Beck Hill mothers have their pre-school children in the care of junior and senior nursery school maids from 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. five days a week. Mrs. Dorothy Forrester is advisor to the nursery school majors.

The nursery school is a small red brick cottage which looks like an ideal home. Decorations there is a living room, a dining room with small tables for four, a playroom, and a kitchen where food is prepared by a hired cook assisted by nursery dietetic majors. The bedrooms, where the children take naps every afternoon, are on the second floor.

In the school girls take care of the children, help prepare their food, eat with them, play games with them, and in general play the part of mothers to each other. One girl stays in each room to watch the children. When the weather permits, the children play in the yard with rubber, swings, and tricycles. Besides taking care of the children, the girls observe the physical and mental development of each child.

In addition many students do nursery school daily and on occasions so arranged that the children are unaware of their presence.

Dietetics Is New Field At Winthrop

Winthrop's home economics department boasts a comparatively new division that is beginning to come into its own. This is the dietetics field.

Every junior Miss Sarah Craig, head of the home economics department, receives more applications for Winthrop graduates trained in dietetics than she has had in all her years of teaching. There is a great demand for women doctors with this training to fill positions in hospitals, hotels, and other concerns.

During the war Winthrop graduates distinguished themselves in both war and service.

Winthrop offers four courses in dietetics. One of the most popular courses is a kitchen economy in which the girls figure amounts of food and other commodities used in the management of various diets, and how to prepare food to be used in the complete diet.

One of the highlights of a Winthrop major's curriculum is the study of nutrition and a small scale. These girls keep one of the two apartments in Thurmond hall for 10 days under the supervision of Miss Frances Williams. The girls plan, market, prepare meals, and entertain at seven functions such as teas, luncheons, formal dinners, dessert parties, and buffet suppers.

Five girls live in the cottage for six-week periods. They practice running a household on a smaller scale than the girls in the house. Winoma Maize, of the house economics department, is advisor to the girls in the cottage. Although they observe the same plans in the dormitory student, the girls in "The House" and "The Cottage" both also enjoy and help create a home-like atmosphere.

For Girls Who Want Homes Or Careers, There's Home Ec

There are a great many girls whose ambition is to be a wife and mother and whose major interest is in bringing up a small family. To make life comfortable and its inhabitants happy, they need to understand the health and nutrition of the human body, the importance of rest and recreation to physical and mental development, the care of clothing and the home, and general play, and activities.

The requirement of extensive home-making apparatus, and knowledge of the field of home economics is preparation for a profession whose services facilitate, supplement, or replace activities commonly carried on in the home.

The department strives to help each girl plan her own life and education, gain experience in independence, and develop self-trained habits of health and economy. Girls learn by experience how to manage for themselves.

Sophomore plans, "Cook, Live in "High Style"

The home economics department offers unusually complete facilities and equipment to provide the home-economics girl with opportunities to become familiar with a variety of the materials and techniques of homemaking.

Final year. One of the most important aims of the faculty is to help each girl decide which phases of homemaking she is best fitted for or most interested in, and to skill her study of biology and other sciences enables her to form a deeper understanding of her environment.

Aims Of Math Department
Form Three-fold Program

1. To provide courses which will aid the work of other departments of the College by acquainting their students with mathematical techniques essential for the understanding of their major field of study.
2. To provide a thorough and comprehensive course in mathematics for young women who contemplate teaching this subject after graduation.
3. To provide instruction for those students who, whether desiring to major in mathematics or not, wish to add to their general culture by becoming familiar with mathematics as a powerful method of thought.

For majors in mathematics a broad program is offered including algebra, trigonometry, analytic geometry, two courses in calculus, engineering mathematics, statistics, history of mathematics, a course in differential and integral calculus, and the mathematics of finance. A course in directed study is offered for senior majors who are unable to complete a regular graduate work in mathematics.

Students majoring in physics, chemistry, biology, psychology, or sociology are advised to consider a minor in mathematics.

Dr. George W. Nicholson is head of the mathematics department.

These Winthrop college students, who are studying to become teachers in the State's classrooms, are here observing in the training school. Mrs. W. D. Rice is teaching an elementary class while the future teachers observe.

Pierians Develop Writing Talent

Pieriana, campus poetry club, is for the development of students in verse writing. Anyone who has written poetry whether published or unprinted is eligible for membership. The poems are judged and voted upon by the members, then the writer is invited to join. At each meeting original verse is submitted for constructive criticism by the members, and at certain times there are poetry slams at which verses and readings of the great poets are enjoyed. Dr. Paul W. Wheeler, head of the English department, is the sponsor. Poetry in this club is also used for publication in The Jounal, campus literary magazine.

Three Clubs Aid Education Study

The education department sponsors three clubs through which the study of education and educational methods is furthered. Kappa Delta Pi is the national education honor society and club for which girls interested in education desire to become eligible for membership.

The Childhood Education club is made up of girls whose interest is in young children and who plan to teach in the elementary grades. The Secondary Education club is organized for future high school teachers and for girls planning to teach older children. Methods of psychology and teaching are discussed at meetings of these organizations.

Music, Talks Featured in Artist Series

Winthrop Senior Leaders

One of the most valuable opportunities offered Winthrop students is in the Artist and Lecture Series, which is sponsored each year by the College. Programmes and concerts by outstanding artists and entertainers are presented every term. Each programme, students and alumni have been the most popular and enjoyable events of the year.

Among the prominent artists appearing at Winthrop this year have been Charles Weidman, dance company director, and the Charles Weidman dance company, won the first prize in the Metropolitan Opera Artists Ensembles, 1947. They are expected to return in the fall of 1948. The Jooss Ballet and the Metropolitan Opera Artists Ensembles have also presented concerts, as did the Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Klinken. "Eloise Pinau, head of the Metropolitan chorus, will appear in a concert on April 25.

Roettinger Is New President of State AUAUW

Miss Ruth Roettinger, international officer of the American Association of University Women, will be inaugurated as president of the South Carolina division of the American Association of University Women at the annual spring meeting held April 13 and 14 at Myrtle Beach.

Spring Is Time For Sunbathing

In the spring the Winthrop weather changes from "When do we wear our coats?" to "Where on earth can I put the Unguentine?" The reason for this is the type of weather which comes in with the first burst of warm sunlight in the springtime.

The last follows only when some warm, yet overcast days and rainshower walks in with a coating of a little sun-shine. However, these days will be found at the same place just as much as the top layer peels off of the red gone away!

Beauty Contest For Freshmen

The Freshman Beauty Contest this year promises to be much more interesting and successful than any contest of its kind that has just entered Winthrop, and a greater success than any contest of this kind that has been held in the College at any time.

Girls are chosen from the YWCA groups in freshmen dormitories to compete in the contest. The event will be held in the College auditorium before judges selected from the faculty, and the contestants appear in their formal evening dresses on a stage appropriately decorated.

The illumination is given off to play and noise every contest, to play in every contest, and to play in every contest. The illumination is given off to play and noise every contest, and to play in every contest. The illumination is given off to play and noise every contest, and to play in every contest.

The Shack is the destination for many initiation ceremonies, and on top of the covered ways and under the arches and on the steps leading to the Shack, the girls off to bed overstuffed with the food and drink and then satiate the appetite by hiking out to their destination, and then satiate the appetite by hiking out to their destination, and then satiate the appetite by hiking out to their destination.

Music Department Gets National Membership

The Winthrop college music department recently became a full member of the National Association of Schools of Music, Dr. Walter B. Roberts, head of the music staff, announced recently. Winthrop has been an associate member since 1929. The association is a standardizing agency and is composed of 156 members, and 53 schools are negotiating for associate memberships in the year.

Full membership was received by the Winthrop department after a series of examinations set up by the National association.

Music majors may now receive their degrees in courses that have been thoroughly approved by a national association. All students in music, and all students of music major, may seek private instruction in piano, voice, public school music, and instrumental subjects, and must pass an entrance examination in their elected field of study.

Many opportunities are available to music majors today. Positions in high schools and colleges as piano or voice teachers or as directors of the musical world in the movie industry, radio, concert, or local fields.

The Winthrop department offers 165 members. The Winthrop college music department offers 105 music majors today. Positions may prepare the students for future study and lead to professional careers, or for leadership in the musical world in the movie industry, radio, concert, or other fields.

Music Clubs Talk Of Composers

Two music clubs are open to all music students and other interested Winthrop girls. The Doran club for freshmen and sophomores, and the Winthrop music club is composed of juniors and seniors. The purpose of the music club is to bring about a better understanding of famous composers, in talks and discussion groups at monthly meetings. Before each April concert emphasis is placed upon the star or composer to be featured on the program.

The Doran club presents two formal concerts each year, and is composed of 56 pieces also. Figures of the composers who have had experience are invited to join the group.

The Band presents two formal concerts each year, and is composed of 56 pieces also. Figures of the composers who have had experience are invited to join the group.

Success Hails First Tour Of College Band And Choir

Music tours have been inaugurated for the first time this year by the Winthrop college band and choir for the purpose of presenting musical programs for the entertainment of other towns and cities in the State. On April 22, the band traveled to Charleston for the Azalea festival address. They attended a concert which was the feature of the competition. Num-

Margaret Petrikov, a junior at Winthrop, has been interested in all the sports and activities that the college has to offer. She is an active member of the basketball team and is looking forward to the upcoming season.

Margaret Ann Lewis

Margaret Ann Lewis came out of nowhere to give her life to the Winthrop club. She did so by taking up the challenge of the Lantern Club and spending all her free time in building and maintaining it.

In history lab she has had experiences that have been of the utmost importance. She says the Winthrop Stock is next to nothing, because in the past it was a much larger and more significant event. And, Margaret Ann is a major from Pickens.

One of the first things she decided to do was to show you around when you arrived at Winthrop the next year. In fact, she made it a point to show you around the campus in the first few weeks. She even showed you around the potential clubs and organizations you might join.

But Margaret Ann didn’t have any of that when she entered college. She had no idea what to expect. She didn’t even know what a college was. She was just a normal student, trying to get through her studies. But then something happened. She met Winthrop.

Margaret Ann was a new president for the Student Government Association when she entered college. She was the first woman in that position in the history of Winthrop.

Margaret Ann came out of nowhere to give you the latest on Winthrop clubs. She has a photographic memory and always knows what’s going on in the world of Winthrop clubs. She has a passion for the college and its history, and she is always eager to share that passion with others.

Margaret Ann says that Winthrop is a wonderful place to be. She loves the campus and the people who make it what it is. She says that Winthrop is a place where you can truly be yourself and find your true calling.
