ON THE CASUAL SIDE

Elizabeth Anderson
Blessings on those thoughtful faculty members who try to beautify their rooms!

Of course some class rooms are almost hopelessly dreary and a few professors don't even have ferns of their own!

Nonetheless for this week's faculty honor roll include Miss Chlo Fink, Miss Sadie Goggans, Miss Maude Hill, and Dr. Helen Macdonald.

We all enjoy reading things that agree with our own opinion, but occasionally it's a good mental stimulant to get hold of something that Parallels disagree violently with us.

The December issue of The Atlantic Monthly carries an extremely provocative article by J. Anton De Haan, "A Hired Man Speaks".

We know little about education, so we cannot take any stand, however, one suggestion of Mr. De Haan, we think, would be almost universally approved. It is to pay teachers more!

Home are the wanderers, some from conventions, meets, and just plain pleasure jaunts.

On Coming Darling - it was-glorious, it was-glorious, it was-glorious, it was-glorious, it was-glorious.

One bus load of Winthrop weekenders at a neighbor school, made driving visits to several other schools en route home.

Sentimental! Sure, but also sincerely grateful, and proud of being "Winthrop daughters".

A frenzied looking group came up to the post office, and just plain pleasure jaunts.

Please put something "Lady gym teacher! She kept us late again today and class and the prof made a crack about looking like a mad woman."

So, ladies of the gymnasium, please remember that although gym's fun, we'd appreciate a little time to comb our curls and powder our noses before the next class bell rings.

A number of the Carolina delegation team here last Sunday said he was delighted to be where girls are willing to do their share of the entertaining on a date.

Well, Winthrop girls may lack many of the social graces, but they do learn how to have parties. Since it's the only kind we can have, it's only sensible for us to try to become adept at 'em.

Y Presents Christmas Play on 18th

Willimon Stars With Houston; Musicians Assist

A Christmas pageant, "The Linkkeeper's Daughters", will be presented December 18 at 8:30 in Main auditorium by the Y, assisted by the music department.

The pageant, a fantasy, tells the story of the linkkeeper's daughter, Demaris, played by Anne Willimon of Greenville, and her love for Aaron, played by Charles Houston, instructor in commerce.

Other characters are as follows: the four shepherds, Ray A. Furr, Emmett Gore, Mark Biddle, and Dr. Hampton Jarrell; the wisemen, Griffith Pugh, Elwood Terry, and W. W. Rogers.

Dr. Kanitz, Composer Likes America Swing

Dr. Ernest Kanitz, typically the musician, with hair a little long, eyes dreamy, and manner reserved and shy, came to this country from Vienna, Austria in the summer. He and his wife and two daughters have quietly made their home on our campus - Catalpa hall - and he has begun his work in the music department here.

Dr. Kanitz was born in Vienna in 1884. Since 1928, he has acted as instructor in all branches of music theory at the New Vienna Conservatory, the largest private conservatory in the Austrian capital.

In his twenty years' activity as a teacher, Dr. Kanitz has taught pupils from all European countries and from the United States, instructing them either in German, English, or French.

Winthrop's new addition to the faculty left Austria "out account of political trends there". Of America he says, "I am glad to be in a peaceful country again."

In 1935, upon the great success of his chamber cantata "Music of the Times", Dr. Kanitz was invited to join the committee of the Austrian Union of Composers, which association he is secretary, conducting administratively and artistically from 1934 to 1938.

As a composer, Dr. Kanitz has been productive in many directions. He has written songs, piano selections, chamber music, orchestral compositions, a full-length opera with his own libretto, and several great choral works. These have been performed with success in Vienna and in most of the other European capitals.

When asked what he thinks is his best composition, Dr. Kanitz said that in his opinion his "Song of the Life of a Simple Man", the so-called romantic European hero, but the average man in every day life.

When asked how he liked American swing music, Dr. Kanitz replied, "I like it very much, but I am a serious composer, you know. He feels that there is not enough good contemporary American music played. Yet, he states, that while art in Europe will be weakened by the turmoil there, American music is developing in a marvelous way.

Devil Talks at Vespers
The Rev. T. P. Devlin, of the Episcopal church of Union, S. C., will speak at vespers at 6:30, Sunday, in Johnson hall.

The A Capella choir under the direction of Miss Constance Wardle, instructor in voice, will sing.

At Winthrop, Dr. Kanitz will teach the music theory courses and will direct the Freshman and the college glee clubs, according to Dr. W. B. Roberts, head of the department.

When asked how he liked American swing music, Dr. Kanitz replied, "I like it very much, but I am a serious composer, you know. He feels that there is not enough good contemporary American music played. Yet, he states, that while art in Europe will be weakened by the turmoil there, American music is developing in a marvelous way.

Freshman's Faux Pas Is Social Error No. 1

They were two freshmen still in the "green" stage. They were hurrying to town last Tuesday.

A big car stopped and picked them up. One of the picked-up gratefully began the conversation, by asking, "Do you like in Rock Hill?" Dr. Phelps merely answered "Yes".

Baskin Wins 'Dixie' Title For Extemp

Three Winthrop Girls Place in Preliminaries

Anna Mae Baskin, junior from Bishopville, won the Dixie championship in the women's division of extempore at the seventh Dixie Forensic tournament held on the Winthrop campus last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Reba Thorne, senior from Ellenton, was judged the best practice debater for the girls; Sally Lathrop, junior from Eutawville, was among the ten best girl debaters of the tournament; and Emma Davis, junior from Chesterfield, won the first and third rounds of poetry reading.

This year more than 300 students from about 38 colleges attended the tourney which was sponsored by Strawberry Leaf, Winthrop honor society for fostering public activities among students.

Dixie champions are as follows: Eugene Worrell of Wake Forest, and Anna Mae Baskin of Winthrop, extempore; Kent Herrington of Tennessee State, baroque; William Hugh of Randolph-Macon and Reba June Long of Virginia Intermont, after-dinner; Tom McCutchen of the University of South Carolina, problem solving; Betty Lee Evans of Virginia Intermont.

Two Are Locked, Stocked, and Barred In Library
Time: Sunday night, six o'clock
Place: Recreational reading room, library.

Setting: Two freshmen were deeply engrossed in reading one in the new book, Henry's Six Wives, the other in one of the latest murder stories.

Character: Anne Bingham, and Betty Seabrook. General Action! Lights - what! No Lights! (They had just gone off.)

There was a rustling sound, a grating as of an opening window, and the two emerged, dazed, but free from a basement window of the library.

Moral: There's always an exit.

The Tower of London rime and falls with the tide of the river Thames, acclimated here found. So slight is the movement, however, that only delicate instruments can register it.

Baldwin As Organist Like "Old Maestro"

Strikingly typical of "the old Maestro" with his flowing white hair, starched, formally tucked, and pinned shirt front, and darting eyes under bushy white eye brows, Minor Cae Baldwin, organist, played at assembly Wednesday.

Dr. Baldwin has appeared in concert in all leading cities of the United States, Canada, and Europe. A composer, too, Dr. Baldwin has written 18 pieces and transcripts of organ and various selections for piano and voice.

The 28-year-old musician studied at North East Conservatory of Music, with teachers in the United States and England, and at the German Conservatory of Music in New York.

The organist has given recitals at the World's Fair at Chicago, 1932; Omaha Exposition, 1936; Charleston Exposition, 1937; and St. Louis Exposition, 1934. He also gave a series of concerts at the Royal Albert Hall, London, and Chautauque Assembly, New York.

Included on Dr. Baldwin's program were "The Pilgrim's Chorus", from Tannhauser, by Wagner; his own arrangement of Schubert's "A Hero", and "Reverie", his own composition.

Gore Conducts Sanders, Power, Wilson Soloists

The Winthrop college orchestra will give its first concert of the year Monday night at 8 o'clock in Main auditorium. Piano soloists will be Marguerite Sanders, senior from Greenville; Elizabeth Winthrop, senior from Lawndale, N. C.; and Marie Power, senior from Abbeville.

The first number on the program will be Schubert's "Symphony in B Minor" (Unfinished) by the orchestra. Why this beautiful symphony was never finished is one of the greatest mysteries of music history.

"Voice of Spring", a waltz by Johann Strauss will be the second selection. Miss Sanders, Marguerite Sanders, senior from Greenville; Elizabeth Winthrop, senior from Lawndale, N. C.; and Marie Power, senior from Abbeville.

The final selection by the orchestra will be Mendelssohn's Overture "Pina's Cave". Assisting in the concert will be Reba Thorne, senior from Ellenton; Mildred McKeithen, junior from Florence; and Betty Lee Evans, junior from Virginia Intermont.

W.T.S. Juniors Present 'Peter Beware' Tonite
The junior class of Winthrop Training School will present a three-act comedy, "Peter Beware", in Training School auditorium, to-night at 8 o'clock.

In the play Ennie, a smart scheming half-sister of the handsome hero, plans to get the money intended in their uncle's will for Peter. The rest of the play deals with plots to prevent Peter from doing the things the codicil provides for.

Miss Hortense Rogers, mathematics supervisor, Mary Carey and Susie Clardy, Winthrop seniors, are directing the play.

Members of the cast are John Jeann Howell, Riley Little, John Bert Brund, Dick O'Hair, Dewey Marshall, Ruth Sellers, Shirley Lewis, Betty Barron, Frances Craig, Jennie Scroggs, and Mary Jeter.

Seniors Juniors, Masquers, and music majors may attend the performance. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

Band Plays for Parade
Winthrop's new band, under the direction of Mark Biddle, instructor in music, played downtown during "Boo'd'Em" Band Class parade last Friday afternoon.

Stationed on the steps of the First Baptist church, the band played before and during the parade. The five drum majors were called twice to perform.

Gore Conducts Symphony Orchestra In Fall Concert Monday Night

The 42-piece Winthrop college symphony orchestra, conducted by Emmett Gore of the College music department, will be presented Monday night in its annual concert in the Winthrop Main auditorium. The program will include Schubert's "Symphony in B Minor", "Voice of Spring" by Strauss, Mendelssohn's Overture "Pina's Cave", and a MacDowell concerto "No. II in D Minor". Miss Marguerite Sanders, Greenville; and Miss Marie Power, Abbeville; and Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Lawndale, N. C., will be soloists in the evening's program.

"The Johnsonian" Has Fifteenth Birthday

By BETTY RICHARDSON
Fifteen years ago the first Johnsonian, called off the press into the hands of eager Winthrop daughters who had asked for a campus paper reflecting campus life.

Out of the Winthrop Weekly News, a paper edited by members of the faculty to give South Carolinians a conception of what Winthrop was doing, had come the idea of a paper published by students for students, to interpret life on the campus to those living here and those interested in college events.

Thus November 21, 1913, a publication "to speak the news of thousands of Winthrop daughters" was launched. President Johnson heartily approved.

Selection of the staff was turned over to the junior and senior classes. The seniors chose Josephine Weinberg editor-in-chief and Mark Roof business manager. The juniors elected Katherine Petterman assistant editor and Elizabeth Workman assistant business manager.

Benson Announces Three New Rules

Three new rules passed by the Senate at its last meeting were announced by Ruth Benson, president of the Student Government association Tuesday night at a student body meeting.

- 1. No girl shall be allowed to hold the same office for two successive years.
- 2. Girls may have dates in the amphitheater on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.
- 3. A committee of 15 girls will be appointed, whose duty it will be to first warn students who are out of uniform, and on their second offense, to impose a one-week campus penalty.

Announcement was also made of the plan to have "open house" on Saturday afternoon for students and faculty in the dormitories, to be invited to these open houses in Johnson hall according to classes.

Mitchell, Maggini, Kelly Go to Meets

Three representatives of Winthrop attended educational meetings during the past week. On Monday and Tuesday, O. M. Mitchell, superintendent of Winthrop Training School, and Dr. W. D. Maggini, head of the education department, attended a meeting in Orangeburg. "The Main Criteria for Evaluating Secondary Schools" was the topic of discussion.

On Wednesday, John G. Kelly, registrar, attended a meeting of the Greenwood county education association in Greenwood.

On Thursday, Mr. Kelly participated in the evaluation of the Woodruff high school, in Woodruff. The new criteria developed by the National Cooperative Study of Secondary School Standards was used in evaluating the school. This association is under the sponsorship of the Regional Accrediting association of the United States.

Winthrop's Enrollment Expected To Exceed Top Figure of 1898 Students By 1943 Session

Even if the freshman enrollment does not show an annual increase, Winthrop's total enrollment will reach 2000 by 1943, if there are no serious economic changes in the meantime. The statement is a conclusion drawn from a study of the enrollment record of the past fifteen years, compiled by A. M. Graham, College business manager, and used by President Elliott Phelps in his appeal to the General Assembly for a new residence hall.

Statistics show that the freshman enrollment may remain the same or decrease for two years and the total enrollment will increase 100 each year. With this increase, Winthrop should surpass in four years, its peak enrollment of 1,898 students in 1927-28.

Seven Hundred Bulbs Light Christmas Tree

Seven hundred lights illuminate the Christmas tree on front campus, according to W. T. Clawson, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

The star which tops the tree is made up of 100 lights, while 600 multi-colored bulbs decorate the tree itself.

Beta Alpha Has Tea

Beta Alpha, following a talk by John Martin of the Rock Hill Printing and Finishing Company, entertained approximately forty commerce students with tea last Friday in North parlor.

Elizabeth Anderson, president of the organization, greeted the members of Beta Alpha. Mrs. Martin, Miss Abbey, Miss Erickson, Mrs. Erice, Mr. Houston, and Mr. Noel were present.

CHRISTMAS TIME IS EATING TIME
So Visit ROGER'S ON MAIN

After today, there will be only 13 more shopping days until Christmas and only eight more shopping days in Rock Hill for Winthrop students, inasmuch as they are scheduled to go home for the holidays on Wednesday, the 21st.

Referring to shopping, the merchants of Rock Hill have never had on their counters a larger variety of Christmas merchandise than at this time. Therefore, it may not be amiss to suggest to Winthrop students and faculty members who will not be in Rock Hill during the holidays to do their shopping before they leave, as the counters of the merchants "back home" may be somewhat bare by the time they arrive, and in which event it will be just too bad. We make this suggestion especially to students who live in small communities without shopping facilities. So when you are down town, go in and pick out your gift items. If requested you will find the merchants glad to mail them to your home address. Buy your needs EARLY while the merchandise is fresh and not picked over.

British Student Writes of Work in Fitting Gas Masks

Editor's note: In this with our message for Christmas we will send you a special gift in the form of a Christmas card from a 15-year-old British student.

Pembroke Gardens Hotel
Notting Hill Gate
London W. 1.
28th September, 1938.

My dear Caroline:
Very many thanks for your letter, which arrived yesterday. I hope you will forgive me for writing to you in pencil, but I am writing in bed—I am not ill, but just terribly tired—you will understand why when I tell you of my last few days.

As you will know from the newspapers, the situation in Europe has been really tense for a fortnight now. There was renewed hope when Mr. Chamberlain first went to Germany, but things looked black when the second conversations were cut short. I think that the country as a whole was really on the brink of war when they began.

It was then that they began, in large numbers to be fitted for gas-masks. I was fitted for mine on Sunday afternoon. However, it was made clear that the masks would not be distributed until early emergency areas.

On Sunday, also, I volunteered for "Air Raid Precaution" work. On Monday evening, I was called to work at fitting masks—and was at it from about 8 p.m. until after midnight. It is a job, for me, because the fitter has to stand the whole time—try on different sizes of masks to see which fits the person, teach him (or her) how to use and handle the mask, and give him a card stating the size of mask he needs.

As you probably know, the masks have been stored for some time, but in these places. On Monday night, an order was apparently given by the government that the masks must be distributed to civilians. So—in our borough, Kensington—volunteers worked from 1 a.m. to 7 a.m. on Monday night (rather, on Tuesday morning), and assembled nearly 7,000 gas masks. But on Tuesday morning it was found that everyone had been done wrong. There was nothing for it but to take them to pieces and do them correctly which is what a group of about 20 volunteers has been doing yesterday and today. I was at work yesterday night until 1:30 a.m. and started at 9 again this morning and worked until 2 p.m. They are all done and distributed now—thank goodness! The index finger on my right hand is swollen and absolutely raw from rolling rubber bands over it.

Last night everyone here really thought that only a miracle could prevent war. Thousands of people have left London, and arrangements are complete for evacuating children any time—London is expected to suffer very heavy casualties during the first air raid.

This business has been hanging over us for so long now, that everyone is jittery. The people really look haggard and strained. But the calmness and order with which had news has been received, is really remarkable. And—which I think is so important in a time of crisis (this—the whole nation is united in its support of the government.

Today—at the eleventh hour—Hitler has asked Mussolini, Dalcroix, and Mr. Chamberlain to confer with him in Munich tomorrow, which means that we have now hope of a peaceful settlement.

When I heard the news this afternoon I was so relieved that I could have wept—you can't imagine what the tension here has been like for the last few days. I feel very sorry—the tension, combined with work, insufficient sleep, and the knowledge that my brother and other boy-friends would be among the first called-up, and probably killed, is enough to make anyone nervous.

Your Frenchman week sounds marvellous—you certainly kept you busy!

And thanks very much for the list of addresses—it was very nice of you to get it for me.

Well, I must end—I'm awfully sleepy. Write soon.
All love,
Pat.

Social Scientists Hear W. E. Fort

Dr. W. E. Fort Jr., associate professor of commerce, spoke on "Collectivism versus Individualism" at the Debater meeting of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science society, last night in Johnson Hall.

The Winthrop branch of the Pi Gamma Mu is a recently organized society, its first meeting having been held last spring. Its membership consists of both students and instructors. Dr. Helen G. Macdonald, instructor in political and social science, is president of the society.

French Lecturer Speaks On Chateaux Monday

Madam Caro-Delvalle, a French lecturer sponsored by the modern language department, spoke in French to about 350 students Monday night in Johnson Hall. Her topic was "The Chateaux of the Loire." The talk was illustrated with slides.

Following the lecture, an informal tea was given in honor of the speaker. Members of Beta Pi Theta, national honorary French fraternity, Le Cercle Francais, faculty, and out-of-town guests were invited.

Madame Caro-Delvalle also spoke Tuesday morning on the French traditions about St. Nicholas.

DELEGATES to the Dixie Forensic to the Dixie Forensic Tournament held here last week came from far and near. This group represents many sections of the country. Seated are the following delegates: Bernard Sykes of the University of Alabama; Miss LaGrange Trussell of the University of Georgia; Athens; E. J. Sanderson of Union College. On the back row are Frederick Dow of Bridgewater college in Virginia; Vance Grams of Sison college in Florida; Rex Dwyer of Eastern Carolina Teachers' college at Greenville, N. C.; Robert Ramsey of Davidson college, Davidson, N. C.; John Leith of Erskine college, Due West, S. C.; G. A. Wridley Jr., of Dartmouth college, New Hanover, N. H. (Photo by Jim Allen, Rock Hill. poetry reading; Eugene Worrell and Betty Lee Evans, oratory; Eugene Worrell and Daphne Penny of Mars Hill, impromptu; and Beulah Jane Long of Virginia Instemout, and CMC Stratton of Dartmouth, debate.

Thelma Chandler, senior from Greenville, posed as the "bride" at the wedding Friday evening in Johnson Hall to symbolize Winthrop's forensic relationship with the institutions at the tournament, and Eugene Worrell of Wake Forest symbolized the other colleges.

Miriam Exell, grand master of ceremonies, performed the emblems rites.

A resume of the Strawberry Leaf tourney was presented by Mary Ellen Adams, grand president of the tourney, and a group of members of the organization spoke over radio station WSOC at Charlotte, Saturday afternoon at the close of the meet. Girls who spoke are Anne Cox, Grand Alpha of Strawberry Leaf; Mildred Laurimore, "godless" of the tournament and chairman of extempore; Edith Holsenbaugh, manager of debates; Ruth Feagle, chairman of accommodations; Mary Barnes, president of Grand Eastern tournament.

Dr. Warren C. Keith, head of the history department, gave a talk on the tournament Monday afternoon over WHI at Charlotte.

Shades of The 1860's At Debating Tourney

Debaters from above the Mason-Dixon line seemed to have had a hard time becoming acclimated to Winthrop ways.

The two simple words "Wade Hampton" practically caused a repetition of the 1860's, when two of the delegates were asked to wear the badge of the Wade Hampton society, they first insisted upon knowing if they would have to wear red-shirts and vote for "Cotton-Ed" Smith.

Brown Heads New Art Club

Jean Brown, sophomore from Wilmington, N. C., was elected president of the recently organized Art club at a called meeting Tuesday. Other officers elected are Carolyn Anderson of Rock Hill, vice president; Jane Toy of Delancey, N. J., secretary, and Peg Williams of Clemson, treasurer.

Forty students attended the meeting.

Parts of the constitution were read and voted on, and questions concerning the club were discussed. The members decided to meet the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 4 o'clock in Room 34 Main building.

A name for the club will be decided upon at the next regular meeting Tuesday, December 12. Everyone interested is invited to join, Jean says.

Aurundel Seay Becomes Bride of L. J. Strait Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Seay, Columbia, S. C., announce the marriage of their daughter Aurundel to Louis J. Strait, Jr., of Lumpkin, Georgia and Rock Hill, S. C.

November 28, 1938
Columbia, S. C.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, 2222 Park street, Columbia, by the bridegroom's brother, Rev. Bernard B. Freeman, pastor of the Methodist church of Pickens. He used the ring service.

Mrs. Strait received her education in the Columbia public schools and at Winthrop college here, where she was a member of the senior class. She is a talented violinist and has appeared in many public performances in Columbia.

While at Winthrop Miss Seay was a member of the Winthrop music club, the string ensemble, and was president of the Winthrop orchestra.

Mr. Strait is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Strait, of 321 Saluda St., this city. He received his education in the Rock Hill public schools and at Wofford college, in Spartanburg where he graduated last June. He was a popular student and attained a high scholastic record. During his senior year he was president of the Calhoun, Snyder Literary Society.

At present Mr. and Mrs. Strait are making their home in Lumpkin, Ga., where Mr. Strait is an officer at a CCC camp.

Miss LeCroy Feted With Dinner Party

Mrs. Harriet Johnson, Miss Evelyn Tibbets, Mrs. J. P. Hollis, and Mr. Frank Harrison entertained Miss Georgia LeCroy, bride-elect, at a six o'clock dinner party, Tuesday evening at Adeline's Tea Room.

Place cards were small silver wedding bells, and the bride's place was marked with a silver bell and a miniature bride.

After a three-course turkey dinner, two waitresses appeared bearing a large platter piled high with gifts for Miss LeCroy.

In addition to the hosts, the following people were present: Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Noid, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Houston, Mr. J. K. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Don Matthews, Dr. Elizabeth Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bender, Misses Iva Bishop, Annie Felder, Rita Huggins, Mary East, Elizabeth Campbell, Alice Hollis, Dora Harrington, Katherine Slaughter, Marika Abbey, Mrs. Veda Brice, and Mr. E. K. Hardin of Chester.

"Reporter" Reports on Mock Groom's Charm

The mock groom at the mock wedding during the Dixie Tournament was besieged by fair lady questioners, following his mock marriage to the mock bride, Thelma Chandler. Then Reporter Mary Hart stepped up to address groom: "I should like to interview you for The Charlotte Observer, Mr. Warrall" (Note: The Charlotte Observer has never heard of Mary.)

A scariet riot ran up Gene Wornell's handsome face as he needed escort.

Mary learned many interesting facts about this Wake Forest junior. First he has an average of A in college. Second he has been voted the prettiest Wake Forester. And third: he was fined $10 for hunting out of season recently.

Christmas Program Given for A. A. U. W.

The A. A. U. W. held its Christmas party in Johnson hall Wednesday night. A musical and dramatic program was presented by Mrs. Elwood Terry, Mr. Lloyd Bender, and twenty-five Winthrop students.

Miss Margaret Buchner greeted the guests and directed them into the auditorium where the formal program was given. The assist and Mr. Lloyd Bender, baritone soloist, gave several musical selections.

Mrs. Terry read a modern Christmas story. Also a chorus of nineteen students, led by Anne Williams, read seven Christmas poems. Miss Florence Mims directed the chorale speaking.

Dr. Elizabeth Johnson, president of the A. A. U. W., invited the guests into the foyer where the hostesses served fruit cake, coffee, and mince.

They were Mrs. Harriette Johnson, Mrs. John Hargrove, Florence Andrews, Gladys Smith, Alice Hayden, Marion Pughitt, Mary York, Mary Crowder, Lila Toomer, Mildred Onwaka, Evelyn Rhodes, Jeannette Arterburn, Mary Armstrong, and Alma Bentley.

Jaycees Give Banquet For Football Teams

Winthrop Training School and Rock Hill high school football squads will be entertained with a banquet by the Junior Chamber of Commerce December 14 at the Armory.

The banquet is a reward for the fine record of the two teams during the past football season. Coach Rex Enright of the University of South Carolina will be the guest speaker.

At the banquet Rock Hill high will award to its own squad trophies for the best lineman, the best backfield, and the best all-round player.

Three Societies Give Tourney Teas

The three literary societies entertained visiting debaters to the Forensic tournament Thursday afternoon at five o'clock with teas.

The Curry literary society carried out the idea of a Forensic tea. As the guests arrive, they were welcomed by Sarah Taylor, president of the society. Anne Highnam presented each debater with a souvenir, a tiny gavel, tied with purple ribbon.

Evelyn Weed, mistress of ceremonies, initiated the visiting debaters into the society with a Forensic quiz. Music was furnished by Helen Dunlap, Christine Hilly, Mildred McKeithen, and Miss Caldwell, one of the guests.

Pat Gardner and Thelma Chandler presided at the tea table.

The guests, which numbered about one hundred and fifty, were directed to the register, a book made in the shape of a strawberry leaf, which each one signed before leaving.

Wade-Hampton Literary Society

The Wade-Hampton literary society was host to the debaters at a Gypsy party.

The guests were greeted at the door by the president, Nettie Wells, and Marjorie Burgess, Clio Lawrence, Bea Moses, and Marion Mayfield, who were dressed in gypsy costumes. The room resembled a real gypsy camp with tents, a covered wagon, fortune tellers, trees, and flowers. Each guest was given a pine cone tied with garnet ribbon as a souvenir.

Entertainment was provided by Augusta Cochran, accordionist, Frances Jenkins, and Mary Darby, fortune tellers for the occasion. Tea, pinquito cheese sandwiches, terrapins, and mince were served throughout the afternoon.

Winthrop

The Winthrop society entertained a group of the debaters at a Winthrop tea.

The guests were greeted by Roberts Boggs, Helen Miller, Louise Woodson, Tragan Barron, and Anne Cox.

A big portrait of Mr. Winthrop was placed at one end of the room. Yellow candles, gold chrysanthe-

"The Johnsonian" Sends S.O.S. For Fool-Proof Taffy Recipe

By PHYLLIS HARRIS

We have reached an impasse. We, the eyes, ears, nose, and tongue of the campaign—we, the supposedly know-all, tell-all of these 1641 girls—we, who should be the very personification of knowledge, are up a tree. We don't know how to make taffy candy.

The one refers to The Johnsonian staff. It's like this: the staff is going to have a party—not just a stiff, starved, plain, old party, but a candy pulling. And the main thing about a candy pulling is the candy.

It was at this point that the realization dawned—we had no recipe for fool-proof candy.

So here the S. O. S. comes. Why, among our vast audience of readers, can make fool-proof taffy candy?

Remember—fool-proof.

SPORTS

By EDITH GENTY

Saturday members of the physical education staff and some of the junior and senior physical education majors attended the meeting of the South Carolina Physical Education Association in Columbia. All returned with great reports of the trip, but particularly enthusiastic over the trip were Mary Sanders and Catherine Easterlin, Juniors, who are one hundred per cent for state meetings and who just can't wait to get out in the world and become senior members of the State Physical Education Association.

Mis Hayden's dance classes are already very much filled with the Yuletide spirit. They've begun to work out movements and patterns to "Twas the Night Before Christmas" and "Jingle Bells" and before the holidays actually begin they will have worked up movements to one of the prettier Christmas carols.

With the recent surplus rain and inclement weather, the physical education classes have been driven inside, so indoor baseball and basketball are predominant in all classes—except, of course, in the dance ones. The dancers are still threatening to "crash through" with their "bicycle built for two" stunts.

Mis Post and her folk dancers are going to celebrate Christmas in the good old Norwegian, Swedish, English, German, and French way. They're planning to work up the various Christmas customs of those lands and practice them right on the old gym floor. Of course they'll do the traditional dances, too, so you might inquire the date of this celebration and go over for a ring side seat.

The performance should be most interesting and entertaining. There'll be such artists as Kat McCollum, Augusta Cochran, who adds so much to the dancer programs with her accordion music, Tootie McKeithen, Christie Riley, and Lee-We Ellerbe. So you see, the celebration is bound to be an excellent one.

When we look out on the athletic field and see the numbers of brightly dressed players, we think that Winthrop is doing mass athletics. But a recent news item shows thousands of Russian youths engaging in mass athletics on the great city streets. It was the hugest, healthiest, most vibrating group one could imagine.

Singer Course Teaches Latest Methods to 150

One hundred and fifty home economic students are taking the Singer Sewing Machine course now being offered by Miss Ethel Tipton, representative of the Educational department of the Singer company. The purpose of the course is to teach the modern Singer methods for the care and use of the sewing machine.

The company furnishes, without obligation, 25 of the latest electric machines, all sewing materials, and textbooks.

"This course," said Miss Tipton, "is being offered to Winthrop college because of its importance in educational fields."

Band In Air Debut Thursday

The new Winthrop band made its debut over WIS and WSOC Thursday, as a feature of the College weekly broadcast. The new 42 piece band is under the direction of Mark Eldred, instructor of music.

Other features on the broadcast were a book review read by Miss Crystal Threlton, instructor in art, and prep. of Dr. Hampton Jarrell, professor of English, and several musical numbers played by the Winthrop sextet.

Sports Club Issues Special Invitation

All Winthrop students and faculty members are invited to take part in the Recreational Sports club, according to the chairman, Beulah Hays Eddy.

The initial meeting of the year was held Tuesday at 6:30, the regular meeting time.

This club, Beulah points out, affords an opportunity to become skilled in sports, with regular attendance, one may get a sports season to apply on a Winthrop athletic association pin.

Fifteen in Recital

The music department presented fifteen students in a recital Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Music hall auditorium.

Those performing were Margaret Nims, Mildred Pries, Eleanor McEdden, Carolyn Gunn, Mary Esther Gaudin, Harriet Shillinglaw, Elizabeth Weathers, Carolyn Miller, Mary Hayes Calhoun, Frances Nickan, Lillian Bethers, Elizabeth Hilton, Susie King, Sadie Battle, and Reba Smith.

Anne Tilghman Wins Crown as Winthrop's Champion Walker

"Oh, no," moaned the reporter, reading her assignment. "It's too hard. How on earth will I ever find both of them with a spare minute?"
"That's up to you," barked the hard-boiled editor.
"I'll never be able to find them they're not busy. It's just impossible," the reporter rebelled.

The editor merely reiterated, "That's up to you."
The reporter resignedly began the search. All over the campus she pursued Anne Tilghman, to be greeted everywhere by the words, "She was here, but she just left!"

Wearily the reporter gave up the search of the fast-working, faster-walking, always busy Anne and started the search for the equally fast-working, equally faster-walking, and also always busy Mabel McAlley. The second verse was ditty. Mabel had always just left. After two days of pursuit, the reporter finally took a firm grip on the elbows of each of the two active Yers, and told them her problem: to have a race to determine which of them really walks faster for the benefit of those who have seen, marvelled, and then wondered at their perpetual rush and hurry. They agreed to act as guinea pigs. The contestants took their stand at the dining room door. At the reporter's excited "go," they were off, weaving their way through the crowd and calling greetings as usual.

Mabel was leading when they got to North dormitory. Anne was gaining fast. Mabel dodged around three buxom arm-lined lassies. She lost her balance. She was down, sliding several feet on knee, but up like a flash.

Neck to neck, a final burst of speed and the walkathon was ended. The proud and panting champ of Winthrop walkers was proclaimed to be Anne Tilghman.

Library Science Group Visits Greenville Plants

A group of library science students went on a tour to Greenville yesterday to visit the Greenville high school library, the Curranville Bureau of Purman university, and the Curriculum Bureau of Parker district.

The students who went were as follows: Virginia Deane, Elizabeth Ballenger, Belle Hemmingsway, Margaret Hunter, Grace Watson, Ruth Jones, Anita Miller, Margaret Parks, and Mary Gray Withers. Miss Sarah Wells and Mrs. Frances Lander Spain of the library science department accompanied the students.

Anna Dixon sang at the First Presbyterian church in York last Sunday morning.

SANTA'S A SMARTY

He knows what a lady loves to find among her Christmas gifts—and Santa wouldn't disappoint her for anything. He knows she adores nice stockings—those luxuriously sheer ones that do such nice things for her legs. And he realizes that the more she gets the happier a holiday she'll have. So take a tip from Santa, and give lovely hosiery to all the gals whom you like best.
