10-29-1979

The Johnsonian October 29, 1979

Winthrop University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/thejohnsonian1970s

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/thejohnsonian1970s/222

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the The Johnsonian at Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Johnsonian 1970-1979 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. For more information, please contact bramed@winthrop.edu.
Goggins feels WC needs 'alumni push'

BY CYNTHIA J. WILSON

"Winthrop College alumnus doesn't push you . . . you have to wake up your graduates.

"You've got to get people in various counties to impose their legislators to vote money for Winthrop."

State Representative Jaunita Wilson Goggins made these comments during her talk to a class of State and Local Government students Oct. 19 in response to questions about why Winthrop receives little financial assistance from the state as compared to the University of South Carolina and Clemson.

Goggins made history four years ago when she became the first black woman to serve as a member of the House of Representative in South Carolina. She defeated 12-year veteran George H. Petty for a York County, District 49 seat in what many said was a one-in-a-million chance.

Describing herself as a legislator who combined her judgments with that of the opinions this includes all aspiring legislators, Goggins said, "I couldn't get in good conscience sleep at night if I felt you asked me to vote a certain way, and I did; simply, because you asked me, and I wanted your vote next term.

Goggins stressed the importance of the voters sharing their ideas with their legislators while he or she is in the first stages of deciding a bill. According to Goggins, legislators are less likely to change their minds in a quick telephone conversation with a voter a day before the final reading.

Although legislators welcome calls from the public, Goggins commented on the misunderstanding of a legislator's duties. "You get a lot of calls that really should go to the police department because it has to do with law enforcement. In a lot of calls people are complaining about something that happened to them and they feel you can solve the problem where they need a lawyer to do it."

Five years ago Goggins critiqued South Carolina legislators in the December issue of the Columbia Record for not establishing sufficient educational improvement policies. Commenting on the progress made in the legislature since her observation, she said, "I think that the state is continuing to progress, but we still have a lot to do."

Goggins cited the Minimum Competency legislation and the Kindergarten which she initiated to include more children into the state's program.

By the December issue of the Columbia Record, Goggins is undecided if she will seek reelection. Expressing no interest in a Congressional seat, she said, " ... in my first term I might have had ambition for running for Congress. Not that I had a particular time to do it, I just thought that might be a good thing to do. I have a son who needs me . . . I don't think that I would be able to uproot my family and take them to Washington, and I know that I would not go to Washington and leave them."

Fine Arts Series is student gain

BY WYNDY AMERSON

Opportunity is the real reason for attending college. College provides students the opportunity to meet different people, get away from home, set their own limits, learn about their interests, and eventually prepare for a career. Yet, one of the best opportunities students quickly push aside for another big night of watching "Happy Days" or because it's too far to walk to Byrnes, is free for the watching.

The Fine Arts Series, performed at Byrnes, offers various forms of entertainment that might prove useful in the future.

"Dr. Vanilla" cast announced

Dr. Christopher M. Reynolds, associate professor of drama, has announced that the cast for "Dr. Vanilla," to be presented on November 17, in Johnson auditorium.

The cast includes Kathy Bishop, Reggie Beunson, Selena Caugman, and Bob Arbtree.

Also performing will be Don Savelle, Carol Sullivan, and James McLeary.

"Dr. Vanilla" is a children's play written by Reynolds, which will be performed at the South Carolina Theatre Association meeting in Charleston.

Reynolds said, "Dr. Vanilla" will also be performed at the South Eastern Theatre Commission in February in Nashville, Tennessee. "The SECTC is the largest theatre conference in the Southeast," said Reynolds. "At the conference the play will be exposed to and performed in front of some of the best theatre personnel in the U.S."

Basketball tickets still available

A limited number of season tickets are still available for Winthrop College's 14 home basketball games this season. The Eagles of Coach Niel Gordon had a very successful first season last year winning 25 of 35 games, setting a NAIA record for most wins by a first-year team. That entire record-setting team returns this season.

Also included in the season tickets are seven doubleheaders with the Eagles' men's team.

For more information or to buy tickets, contact the Winthrop Athletic Department at (803) 323-2129 from 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday-Friday.
Grants and loans

Now is the time to think about how you are going to pay next semester's tuition. Of course, we all want to avoid this problem to worry about because of generous and prosperous parents. However, those whose meagre and dregs are not either one or the other must find their own source of education funds. Luckily, Uncle Sam has good news for us penny-pinchers. And the state of South Carolina even has loans for students whose folks make too much for them to qualify for federal grants and loans.

Many students don't take advantage of the monetary benefits available to them. Even if you've already paid the entire tuition, you can get a refund if you qualify for the Basic Grant. The way to find out is to go by the Financial Aid Office and pick up a Financial Aid Form, where you and your parents must fill out. The last time I filled out one was at income tax time, but for this year's tuition you can use last year's records. In December you should pick up another form.

The Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEQD) has paid the majority portion of my tuition for the last three years. Last year's increased paid my tuition in full. The next time you fill one out is at income tax time, but for this year's tuition you can use last year's records. In December you should pick up another form.

According to a booklet from the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, all eligible students will receive the Basic Grant. To be eligible for the Basic Grant you must: (a) be determined to have financial need based on the Basic Grant eligibility formula and the Federal Tax Form, (b) be an undergraduate student enrolled in an eligible program at least half-time; (c) meet citizenship requirements; and (d) have used your full eligibility for Basic Grants.

You can apply for the 1978-80 award period between now and March 15, 1980. If you still have to pay for next semester's tuition, it would be a good idea to apply now so that they can determine if you are eligible and how much money you will receive before the due date for paying fees rolls around. Also a refund for last semester in time for Christmas shopping would be a real bonus.

Other financial aid programs offered at Winthrop are the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG), College Work-Study (CSW), and National Direct Student Loan (NDSSL). These are campus-based programs because the Financial Aid Office determines which students are eligible and how much they will receive after receiving funds directly from the Office of Education.

The SEOG is for students of exceptional need who, without the grant, would not be able to continue their education. College Work-Study provides jobs for students who need financial aid and must earn part of their expenses. Lastly, the SEOG is the cafeteria or library is an example of CSW.

The National Direct Student Loan is for both undergraduate and graduate students who are enrolled at least half-time and need a loan to meet college expenses. This program is also based on financial need, and you must repay the loan within 10 years of the time you have graduated, and interest is only 3% on the unpaid balance of the loan.

The Supplemental Educational Opportunity Program is offered by a representative of South Carolina to any student regardless of financial need. It is a way to borrow money from educational and financial institutions at a low interest rate (7% according to Winthrop's Financial Aid Office). Payment on this loan begins 9 months after you graduate and interest is only 3% on the unpaid balance of the loan.

The Supplemental Educational Opportunity Program is offered by the state of South Carolina to any student regardless of financial need. It is a way to borrow money from educational and financial institutions at a low interest rate (7% according to Winthrop's Financial Aid Office). Payment on this loan begins 9 months after you graduate and interest is only 3% on the unpaid balance of the loan.

The only way for you to find out if you are eligible for one of these could be getting for school is to go by the Financial Aid Office at the Student Union Building and fill out an FAF.

The forms are a little bit of a hassle, but they're worth it when you get that check in the mail and you're paying your college fees. Besides the suspense of the body count, there is little to hold. Is it worth the pain or to make it memorable. The end, which depicts a chubby Marine being shot in the head with his own gun, is an anti-climactic affair. A scene such as this should be more properly referred to the S.P.C.A. as the cursing and the shooting was not the point. If Apocalypse has a moral, it probably doesn't begin until 9 months after you graduate.

Besides the suspense of the body count, there is little to hold. Is it worth the pain or to make it memorable. The end, which depicts a chubby Marine being shot in the head with his own gun, is an anti-climactic affair. A scene such as this should be more properly referred to the S.P.C.A. as the cursing and the shooting was not the point. If Apocalypse has a moral, it probably doesn't begin until 9 months after you graduate.

“Every night we watch one stupid infantile show after another! Don't the networks have ANY respect for our INTELLIGENCE?”

THE JOHNSONIAN

Editor-in-Chief: Bonnie Jordan
Managing Editor: Brenda Meyers
News Editor: Kelly Gordon
News Staff: Richard Podmore
Feature Editor: Penny Therrell
Sports Editor: Lori Ridge
Contributing Editors: Sarah Daniels
Business Manager: Bruce McDaniel
Advertising Manager: Dennis Mayo
Assistant Advertising Manager: Patricia Frost
Layout Editor: Dennis Mayo
Layout Staff: Lee Goodwin
Photographer: Anne Page Cooley
Typists: Jana Faxon, Lori Ridge
Faculty Advisor: Marie Goodwin

Everyone has been published weekly since 1980 and is now printed by the YORKVILLE ENQUIRER.

Mailing Address: The Johnsonian
Box 9500
WGS, Rock Hill, SC 29733
Telephone: 803-323-2292

If you mean to profit, learn to please.
Winston Churchill
Religious egotism and "The Life of Brian"

BOB FORD

They have gone too far this time, I think, we live in the Bible Belt, that Southern stronghold of Christian revivalism. We can expect them, we protest liquor-by-the-drink, rock concerts, and anything that has anything to do with sex.

But censorship is another matter entirely.

Censorship is repression that we must fight, repression that we must have the courage to be unpopular with. I refer, of course, to "Monty Python's Life of Brian," the latest movie from Britain's outrageous comedy group. It is ripe, with satire, parody, and the subterfuge of the Bible. Monty Python is known for. Brian is a Jewish peasant born down the status ladder of society who is mistaken for Messiah. Therein lies the tale, as only Monty Python can tell it. Except that they were nearly burned from telling it in Charlotte. A small, but vocal, group of people preserved a pro-Christian picture code. The city council, the Eastland Mall Cinema into canceling the movie. One priest called the movie, "a crime against religion." Another said, "There are a lot of things you can do in a weekly church bulletin that you can't do with the Son of God." So General Cinema, the Eastland mall, in which the company, yanked the picture off its schedule. Fire and brimstone and ridicule.

Fortunately, the Capri Theatre in Charlotte started showing it the other past Friday. They displayed the courage to stand up to these fanatics.

You may think them fanatics is too strong, but what else do you call reactionary advocates of censorship? They were trying to ban this movie simply because they disagreed with it and found its content offensive, even though none of them had ever seen it! That, my friend, is very dangerous. I oppose the same fundamental attitude which had produced religious bigotry, puritanical repression, and violence and murder in the name of God.

One predominant characteristic of religion is its exclusiveness, the feeling of "us against them." This is especially true of the Western religions. Islam, Judaism, and Christianity. Protectors of these religions only display "religious egotism." This is the belief that one's religious doctrine is correct. Ethics, morals, values, and lifestyles should conform to the teachings, i.e., dogma, of the particular religion in which one believes. This is especially dangerous because most followers of a religion do not question or explore the ideas they hold to be the truth. They merely follow them.

Which is odd as long as they do not insist that the rest of us go along with their beliefs. That is where the danger lies. When a religious fanatic tries to force others to accommodate his beliefs, religious repression begins. And it is the most damaging kind of repression. Fanatics fought for greater freedom in overthrowing the Shah. Now, with the Ayatollahs, they are free to practice Islam. The Arab, during the Middle Ages, except the MidEast, southern Asia, and North Africa in a bloody jihad bent on converting the world to Allah. The Roman Catholic Church killed and imprisoned many for committing heresy. Such heresies as postulating the theory that the Earth is not the center of the universe, or that life may exist on other planets, as Galileo and Bruno were nearly killed for suggesting. The Inquisition was one of the bloodiest chapters in European history. In the early days of Christianity, Jews often reported their forbidden meals to the Roman authorities. Since then, the Jews have experienced more than their share of religious hatred. Even now, in Northern Ireland, Lebanon, and elsewhere, the killing continues in a quest for religious supremacy.

All of this boils down to what I called religious egotism. The attitude that what I believe you must believe. This very idea is garbage that should have been flushed centuries ago.

"Life of Brian" will continue to face opposition as it travels through cinemas. I think the film is great. I will try to help keep the movie alive.

Rick Wilton-freshman

"I would say yes because with all the things that are going on around campus, the students have a chance to get really involved."

Rick Wilton-freshman

Governmental pig pen

BETH TUCKER

If you decide to fight City Hall, or any branch of the government, don't expect to come out on top. Like I don't think anyone should expect to be immaculate after rolling in the dirt. In this case, that is what happens when the average citizen tries to individually affect the laws (the names of speech, representation, etc.) by bucking the system.

The reason why is because of the various loopholes and down-and-out fallacies in the governmental set-up. If John Hancock knew what kind of "free and represented" government which would evolve after 1776, he probably would have been last in line for the signing. The problem is that one in a million wants to close those loopholes, because it would diminish their power.

Power is another big problem with the U.S. governmental system. It is distributed so widely, that there is none. HOWEVER, none will ever admit it, so they use what little they have in the most flagrant, and often disastrous ways. For example, a representative has little chance of introducing an act which might seem so basic as the Equal Rights Amendment. So, in order to show their power, they gang up to vote plans and die-bill endlessly to keep Americans in suspense. And, of course, if the President, has enough power to control the wishy washy Congress. Yet another problem with our system of government is the unreliability of our leaders. Before an election, all kinds of promises are made. Basically, a person in office has a job-to represent the view of the people in his area. Unfortunately, most politicians forget that job once they are elected. Mostly they concentrate on (a) what everyone back home will think come next election (b) what much is the kickback going to be. As far as closing up the government goes, Californians know how to get the job done. The people themselves decide what they want done. They eliminate the "middle man."
Students claim sexual harassment

Female students are starting to bring lawsuits against professors who offer them grades in exchange for sex. Administrations are beginning to formulate grievance procedures for sexual harassment allegations. But those involved, while claiming the sex-for-grades theory was widespread, never had statistics to verify their claims until last week.

That's when three California psychologists released the results of their study of sexual psychologists released the results of their study of sexual promotions. The study found that if you were a female psychology student sometime during the last six years, there was nearly a one in five chance that you had sexual contact with a professor, administrator, or dissertation advisor.

Dr. Kenneth S. Pope, director of psychological services at Gates Hospital and Mental Health Center in Los Angeles and one of the study's three authors, says about 17 percent of the women psychologists who answered the questionnaire said they'd had some sexual contact with their professors. Only 3 percent of the male psychologists said they'd had any sexual involvement with professors.

Things changed, though, when the students graduated into professional practice. Thirty percent of the women psychologists who answered the questionnaire said they'd had any sexual involvement with professors.

The study found that if you were a female psychology student sometime during the last six years, there was nearly a one in five chance that you had sexual contact with a professor, administrator, or dissertation advisor.

Dr. Kenneth S. Pope, director of psychological services at Gates Hospital and Mental Health Center in Los Angeles and one of the study's three authors, says about 17 percent of the women psychologists who answered the questionnaire said they'd had some sexual contact with their professors. Only 3 percent of the male psychologists said they'd had any sexual involvement with professors.

What might have become a significant freedom of speech case at the University of Kansas has been dismissed, partly because prosecutors were afraid that an ultimate jury would find the speech issue.

At last spring's commencement ceremony, UK graduate Ron Kuby was arrested for displaying political banners on the campus. The university code of conduct, for example, forbids the display of political banners like Kuby's in certain enclosed areas.

Kuby thus spent much of his time prior to the trial publicizing his case as a free speech issue. The Lawrence city prosecutor decided to agree with Kuby, and asked that the municipal court dismiss the case. The court complied.

Prosecutor Colt Knutson argued that the police had arrested properly, but that certain factors made the case "unwinnable at first inspection." Among those factors were the absence of any violence or injury, the fact that the banner had been ultimately removed, and, perhaps most importantly, that Kuby, who issued invitations to the trial, was trying to make the case into a political show trial. The city didn't want to be part of it. Knutson even agreed that Kuby had only been exercising his right to free speech, although he'd been exercising it "in the wrong forum."

Kuby still maintains "the arrest was political, the charge was political, the trial would necessarily be political."

Tom Gleason, Jr., Kuby's lawyer, also attributes Knutson's motion to dismiss to fear of a political trial. "I think (Knutson) recognized there was a legitimate first amendment question involved."

SOUTH POLE

The first explorer to reach the South Pole was Roald Amundsen of Norway, who with four men and dog teams reached the South Pole Dec. 14, 1911. — CNS

About sex, being touched, and suffering professional flirtations while in school, Only 14 percent of the men remembered enduring the same kind of behavior.

Some women who responded to the survey said they felt harassed and anxious through school, and a number claimed they'd been threatened with

"Conceivably," Pope understated with scientific detachment, "there would be graduate students who have failed for refusing sexual offers."

He is strongly opposed to any sexual contact between psychologists and clients or students, but thinks the damage to teacher-student relationships can be most destructive. "When a client has a problem with a therapist," he says, "he can find another therapist. When a teacher must evaluate a student, you could have what might be construed as a hate crime."
First annual Eagle homecoming

BY KAREN SILLIVANT

Winthrop's First Annual Eagle Basketball Homecoming will be held the weekend of February 8, 9, and 10, 1980, according to Patricia Matthews, Eagle Homecoming chairman.

The Winthrop Eaglettes will sponsor this special weekend and will be aided by various campus organizations. Matthews said, "I'm very excited about Eagle Homecoming. It will be starting a tradition at Winthrop which I hope will promote student interest in athletics and Winthrop." Matthews said that the tentative events planned include having a Home Coming Queen; displays by various school groups, clubs, and organizations; a pep rally, a dance, and other special events. The basketball game will be played Saturday evening, February 9, at 7:00 against the Wofford Terriers. Eagle Homecoming weekend will also feature the annual Winthrop Invitational in women's basketball.

According to Matthews, Eagle Homecoming will not take the place of the annual Winthrop alumni homecoming held in the spring. "Eagle Homecoming is more directed to promoting current students' interest and to give clubs and campus organizations a chance to invite their alumni back for special events."

Matthews said, "I've been working with the administration and students since May of 1978 on Eagle Homecoming. It will be a great event and something everyone who participates will remember," Matthews said. "If anyone has any suggestions, I'd be happy to talk with them."

Matthews can be reached at extension 3066.

Satellite nursing program

BY BECKY ALLEN

Faculty of the Satellite Nursing Program will work until January on a required report to meet accreditation with the National League for Nursing (NLN), according to Dr. Jean Watson, director of Satellite Nursing Program.

The NLN is a professional accreditation for colleges with Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) degrees. "Having the NLN," Watson said, "will help nursing students if they wish to go on to get their Masters."

The Satellite Nursing Program at Winthrop is an extension of the Medical University of South Carolina (MUSC) College of Nursing. This is the first year for such a program at Winthrop. A HEW Special Projects Grant made the program possible. According to Watson, the program was needed to serve York, Chester and Lancaster counties, all medically critical areas.

Watson said, "Two new courses will be offered for the program's spring semester: Community Health Nursing and Psychiatric Nursing." Currently, eight new applications have been received for the program, both transfer and WC students.

For further information, contact the Satellite Nursing Program, room 101, Crawford Health Center or call 333-2134.

ENERGY:

We can't afford to waste it.

Take a trip to Africa, South America, a planetarium, or see the 1800's, live animals, a free film and more

MUSEUM OF YORK COUNTY

MON.-FRI.—9-5 SAT, SAT. & SUN.—1-5

MT. GALLANT RD., ROCK HILL, S.C., PHONE: 366-4116

SCIWYC Inventory

BY BECKY ALLEN

Ron Chesekiu, head of Special Collections, announced that the Archives will be supplying an inventory of the South Carolina International Women's Year Committee's National Women's Conference records to any person interested in research.

The SCIWYC formally terminated in June of 1978 and transferred its records to the Archives. An inventory to the SCIWYC records was made in agreement with the transferring and is being supplied to other institutions of higher learning in the state and all women study centers in the south. "The inventory," Chesekiu said, "describes the records of the 1977 South Carolina International Women's Year Conference."

Ann Yarborough Evans, Special Collections assistant, processed the records which contain "materials, artifacts, and memorabilia." The collection totals 53 folders and 26 tape recordings. Interviewees include white and black civil rights activists, educators, women graduates, homemakers and social workers, according to Evans. Minutes, correspondence, financial records, resolutions, and other related materials are included in the folders.

Anyone wanting a copy of the inventory can contact the Archives at 323-2131 or write the Archives, Dacus Library, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, South Carolina 29733. "Copies of the final report of the South Carolina Conference are also available for free from the Archives," Chesekiu said.

Phi Kappa Phi on lookout

Phi Kappa Phi, National Honor Society, is currently screening Winthrop juniors, seniors and graduates in search of students eligible to join the organization, according to Dr. Connie Lee, president of the Winthrop Chapter.

The primary objective of Phi Kappa Phi is the recognition of superior scholarship in all academic disciplines. The Society is convinced that in recognizing and honoring those persons of good character who have excelled in scholarship, in whatever field, it will stimulate others to achieve excellence.

Undergraduate students are eligible for consideration if they have senior status and are scholarship in the upper 10% of their class; or if they have reached the final period of their junior year and are scholarship in the upper 6% of their class. Graduate students who have a grade point ratio of 4.0 are also eligible for consideration of membership in the Society.

Interested students should write Dr. Connie Lee at 112 Withers Building or call 323-2131.
QUALITY TYPING

Fast, accurate typing of term papers, reports, resumes, letters, and much more for only pennies per page!

ALL PAPERS ARE TAILORED TO YOUR SPECIFICATIONS.

Weekends: Call anytime.

Weekdays: Before 9:30 a.m. or after 5:30 p.m.

Phone 328-0763 today

---

Student press' biggest foe is student govt

COLORADO SPRINGS, CO. — Vicki Evans, an editor-senators were angry because the to cut off funds for the News, to afford to publish this newspaper.

She can't afford to publish the paper because last June the student senate at the Community College here voted to cut off funds for the News, the student paper. Some senators were angry because the News May 7, 1979 edition quoted an "informed source" with a provocative claim: pornographic films supposedly for their pleasure. There's also the hammer technique. In April, a University of Wisconsin Daily Cardinal reporter tried to photograph student senators constructing a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a new newspaper's content is challenged, and its negativity, and its membership policies. The senate then formed a task force to investigate the paper.

David Reed, an officer of the Student Federation, and an assistant journalism professor at Eastern Illinois University, in an attempt to control college newspapers, says he is about administrators.

He says the main reason for most attempts to shut down papers is not budgetary, as many student governments ultimately claim. Instead, it's because "somebody is uncomfortable with what the newspaper is printing."

"If you don't want a newspaper poking around and looking into what you're doing, you either get rid of it or you control it," echoes Evans. "And if you take away (the paper's) money, you get rid of it."

There's also the hammer technique. In April, a University of Wisconsin Daily Cardinal reporter tried to photograph student senators constructing a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

More typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wielding a hammer. The senator confiscated the reporter's film.

Typically, University of Hawaii student senators were so angered by editor Diane Yukihiro's politics last spring that they officially resolved that the paper had "deteriorated into a feminist newspaper." The senators constructed a mock Statue of Liberty, paid for with student funds. One senator objected, and chased down the reporter while allegedly wieldin
UT student sues prof for nearly half million

AUSTIN, TX (CPS)—Michael Gable thinks an academic record is worth $450,000. Gable, a former University of Texas business graduate student, says the F he got from one of his professors ruined his career. Last April, Harry Maue, a business grad student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, also sued a professor over a grade. Maue asked to be awarded an MBA as his damages.

Gable’s suit may be the first grade litigation that asks for money. Recent lawsuits over grades, however, have generally not given students any of the other remedies they asked for, from new grades to reinstatement in academic programs.

Most recently, Robert D. Miller sued the Hamline University law school in St. Paul, MN, twice after being dismissed from the law program. He originally sued in 1976, claiming that “irregularities” in test grading and the unavailability of tutors amounted to a denial of his constitutional rights, and that he should therefore be allowed back into the law school. The court ruled against Miller, who had previously carried a C average.

He sued again in federal court, claiming Hamline’s refusal to allow him to reappear before the admissions committee was a denial of due process. On July 20, the U.S. Court of Appeals also ruled against him, and present a plan for the courses. Maue’s suit claims that he failed the course by writing four papers. Maue’s suit claims that he failed the course by writing four papers. Maue, asked to be awarded an MBA as his damages.

James Horst, director and chairman of the self-study steering committee, said that the program has 11 principal committees covering the areas of educational programs, purpose, faculty, student development, special activities, research, organization and administration, finances, library, physical resources and graduate programs.

Some of the self-study goals are monitoring enrollment by Winthrop College within the context of higher education in South Carolina, institutional decision-making and priority planning processes, and help plan the future course of the college at it enters its second century of development.

Horse said the program’s success leads to his dismissal from grad school.

The fair is sponsored by the state’s Energy Division, the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and Duke Power Co. No admission charge to visit the displays and encourage broad participation, including a survey concerning student reaction to the coming exhibit. The committees will cover all areas of the exhibit and encourage broad participation, including a survey concerning student reaction to the coming exhibit. The committees will cover all areas of the exhibit and encourage broad participation, including a survey concerning student reaction to the coming exhibit. The committees will cover all areas of the exhibit and encourage broad participation, including a survey concerning student reaction to the coming exhibit.

Wilson’s letter to the dean, written when Gable appealed the grade, noted that “Gable simply did not show up for the final exam last spring (1978) when I was teaching the course, and as a consequence I gave him an F.”

The whole case that has been missed on account of those statements,” Gable contends in his suit. There has been no trial date set.

Energy Conservation Fair

News Release

CHARLOTTE — Regional Department of Energy Conservation, the state’s Energy Division, the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and Duke Power Co. No admission charge to visit the displays and encourage broad participation, including a survey concerning student reaction to the coming exhibit. The committees will cover all areas of the exhibit and encourage broad participation, including a survey concerning student reaction to the coming exhibit.

The native Texan is a graduate of the University of Texas. Oxfam is a senior consultant firm. He has been with DOE since early 1974.

Oxfam fast

The annual Oxfam Fast sponsored by Winthrop College Cooperative Ministry will be held on November 14, according to Rev. Richard Brabham, Methodist Campus minister. "Oxfam is an international organization that supplies developing countries with farm implements, seeds, and other materials and services that will aid them in their development," Brabham said.

According to Brabham, students sign their names to miss one meal in the cafeteria and Episciple sends the money for the meal missed to Oxfam.
Volleyball team captures tournament win

BY DAVID JACKSON

The Eagle Volleyball team won another tournament trophy at East Carolina but lost an important State match to the College of Charleston in matches played the other week. Coach Elaine Mozino's squad captured the championship of the six-team East Carolina tournament played on Friday, October 19, and Saturday, October 20. In addition to Winthrop, the field included North Carolina Central, Kentucky State, and Florida A&M.

The largest Inventory...

The lowest prices...

The lowest fees...

The Johnsonian. The Athletic Department's share of this take is much larger than anybody else's, but this is because it also pays the salaries of all athletic personnel. Why all of the Athletic Department's people are paid through the Student Activity Support Fees which make up a part of every student's tuition.

This support fees fund such student activities and organizations as the Dinkins Student Union, intramurals, and (yes) even the Johnsonian. The Athletic Department's share of this take is much larger than anybody else's, but this is because it also pays the salaries of all athletic personnel. Why all of the Athletic Department's people are paid through the Student Activity Support Fees which make up a part of every student's tuition.

For one thing, the men's seasons in these two sports are longer, thus their operating expenses are greater. Gordon added that "at the present time, Ann Ellerbe (associate director of athletics) is in charge of the women's sports budget. I have final approval on all money spent, but it is my philosophy to let each coach run his or her program as he or she sees fit."

There are two major reasons why this is so. For one thing, the men's seasons in these two sports are longer, thus their operating expenses are greater. Gordon added that "at the present time, Ann Ellerbe (associate director of athletics) is in charge of the women's sports budget. I have final approval on all money spent, but it is my philosophy to let each coach run his or her program as he or she sees fit."

Still, many students wonder about this monetary discrepancy between the sexes. Actually, there are only two men's sports (basketball and baseball) which make up this difference. Men's basketball outspends women's roundball $19,000-$9,000, while baseball outspends softball $10,000 to $3,000. There are two major reasons why this is so.

Another reason for the men's athletic average is the fact that they have to pay guarantees in the form of meals, housing, and travel to get visiting teams to come and play. Men's teams do not have to do this. However, according to Gordon, "the day will come when women will be doing the same thing." — and, presumably, their budget will go up accordingly.

However, many people (particularly women) still may not be satisfied. They feel that women are being discriminated against athletically. This has been a constant problem ever since Gordon arrived here in September of 1977. No one wants to talk about it, but the problem must be confronted nonetheless. The Johnsonian will discuss this issue next week.

The largest Inventory...

The lowest prices...

The lowest fees...

The Johnsonian. The Athletic Department's share of this take is much larger than anybody else's, but this is because it also pays the salaries of all athletic personnel. Why all of the Athletic Department's people are paid through the Student Activity Support Fees which make up a part of every student's tuition.

This support fees fund such student activities and organizations as the Dinkins Student Union, intramurals, and (yes) even the Johnsonian. The Athletic Department's share of this take is much larger than anybody else's, but this is because it also pays the salaries of all athletic personnel. Why all of the Athletic Department's people are paid through the Student Activity Support Fees which make up a part of every student's tuition.

For one thing, the men's seasons in these two sports are longer, thus their operating expenses are greater. Gordon added that "at the present time, Ann Ellerbe (associate director of athletics) is in charge of the women's sports budget. I have final approval on all money spent, but it is my philosophy to let each coach run his or her program as he or she sees fit."

There are two major reasons why this is so. For one thing, the men's seasons in these two sports are longer, thus their operating expenses are greater. Gordon added that "at the present time, Ann Ellerbe (associate director of athletics) is in charge of the women's sports budget. I have final approval on all money spent, but it is my philosophy to let each coach run his or her program as he or she sees fit."

Still, many students wonder about this monetary discrepancy between the sexes. Actually, there are only two men's sports (basketball and baseball) which make up this difference. Men's basketball outspends women's roundball $19,000-$9,000, while baseball outspends softball $10,000 to $3,000. There are two major reasons why this is so.

Another reason for the men's athletic average is the fact that they have to pay guarantees in the form of meals, housing, and travel to get visiting teams to come and play. Men's teams do not have to do this. However, according to Gordon, "the day will come when women will be doing the same thing." — and, presumably, their budget will go up accordingly.

However, many people (particularly women) still may not be satisfied. They feel that women are being discriminated against athletically. This has been a constant problem ever since Gordon arrived here in September of 1977. No one wants to talk about it, but the problem must be confronted nonetheless. The Johnsonian will discuss this issue next week.
Field hockey team beats UNC-G

BY DAVID JACKSON

Coach Ann Ellerbe's Winthrop field hockey team split two games the other week as they lost to Clemson in overtime and beat UNC-Greensboro. Their season record is now 6-6.

The Clemson loss, on Tuesday, October 16, was a painful one. Clemson went into the game with an 8-0 record, having only been scored upon once. However, the Eagles burst into a 2-0 lead within the first 17 minutes.

Evelyn Ryan scored the first goal at the 8:50 mark of the opening half. WC increased its lead when Jane Polansky scored an assist from Chris Sherman at the 16:05 mark. But the Tigers rallied with two goals to tie the score in the second half, thus a 7½ minute overtime was required. Clemson scored a goal with 4:15 left in this period and held off the Eagles to record a tough win.

It could be said that Clemson dominated the game, as they led Winthrop 40-10 in field shots and 22-2 in penalty shots. However, a tremendous goalie performance from Lisa Ward, who had 26 saves, kept the Eagles in the game.

Winthrop bounced back from this disappointment to score a 4-0 victory over UNC-Greensboro on Friday, October 19. Jane Polansky and Ann Horton had two goals apiece to pace the victory. Horton was given an assist on the first of Polansky's goals.

Volleyball tournament win

(Continued from page 8)

Longwood, Wake Forest and host East Carolina.

Before the match, Mozingo commented that "Charleston parlayed this into a big 4-0. We were flat, didn't block, and just got beat," said a dejected Mozingo after the game. "We're every bit as good as them, we just didn't play tonight."

One bright spot for the Eagles was their excellent come-from-behind play in the second game. At times during this match they trailed 4-10 and 10-14, yet rallied each time to clinch a 17-15 win. Later that same evening, Winthrop bounced back to score a 15-3, 15-9 win over Western Carolina.

Winthrop returned home on Monday, October 22, to face a very tough College of Charleston team as part of a tri-match also involving Western Carolina. Before the match, Mozingo commented that "Charleston will come in here with a lot of incentive with our being undefeated."

Charleston parlayed this into a big 9-11, 9-15, 3-10 victory over the Eagles in front of a loud capacity crowd at Peabody Gym, thus laying claim to the number one volleyball ranking in the state.

"We were flat, didn't block, and just got beat," said a dejected Mozingo after the game. "We're every bit as good as them, we just didn't play tonight."

In the tournament semifinals, Mozingo's team defeated Kentucky State 15-8, 15-10; Longwood 15-8, 15-7; and East Carolina 16-14, 17-15. These five victories made the Eagles the top seed going into Saturday night's championship round.

In the tournament semifinals, Mozingo's team defeated Kentucky State 15-8, 15-10; Longwood 15-8, 15-7; and East Carolina 16-14, 17-15. These five victories made the Eagles the top seed going into Saturday night's championship round.

The Eagles took the championship by blowing away East Carolina 15-7, 15-7, making their overall record 20-0.

BOONE'S SUNOCO
Complete Auto Service
Coldest Beer In Town
Snack Stop Open 24 Hours
Drinks, Munchies, Cigarettes

Next To Winthrop At
Cherry Rd. and Oakland Ave.
Soccer team rallies to beat Charleston

BY DAVID JACKSON

The Winthrop Eagle soccer team recorded three district wins the other week, including an amazing comeback over the College of Charleston.

Coach Jim Casada's Eagles, who have won five straight since the fall break, defeated Coastal Carolina 3-2, Wofford 1-0 (for the second time this season), and Charleston 3-2, thanks to two goals in the final ten minutes. The Eagles' record is now 10-3-1. They are 7-1 in matches within the district.

On Tuesday, October 16, Winthrop traveled to Conway and defeated the Coastal Carolina Chanticleers 3-2.

Carlos Gonzalez opened the scoring, with an assist from Tim Peay, midway through the opening half. A Coastal goal tied the score just before halftime.

Winthrop took a two-goal lead in the second half, thanks to goals by Tim Peay, who had scored but one goal all season up to this game, and Peay scored his first goal twelve minutes "to the half when the Coastal Carolina goalie made an unbelievably stupid mistake. While looking one way the Congers had a 2-1 lead. By the time the horn had sounded, the Eagles had stolen a 3-2 victory. Charleston got on the board first at the 5:50 mark of the opening half. Carlos Gonzalez got that one back with 12 minutes left in the half on an unassisted goal in the pouring rain.

The only problem was that the Eagles had but one of those shots get into the net.

Winthrop held on for the victory.

Tomorrow, Tuesday, October 30, the Eagles face their toughest district match of the year when they host Erskine at 3 p.m. "Erskine is a traditionally strong small college power," says Casada, "but if we play the kind of soccer we can, we have a realistic shot at beating them." The Eagles can take heart by the fact that earlier this season, Charleston tied Erskine.

Intramural report

WOMEN'S FLAG FOOTBALL

WEEK OF OCTOBER 15, 1979

AFF STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Saints</td>
<td>8-0</td>
<td>5-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sophisticated Ladies</td>
<td>4-0</td>
<td>0-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unquestionables</td>
<td>2-1</td>
<td>0-0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FALL SOFTBALL STANDINGS

WEEK OF OCTOBER 15, 1979

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Saints</td>
<td>8-0</td>
<td>5-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sophisticated Ladies</td>
<td>4-0</td>
<td>0-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unquestionables</td>
<td>2-1</td>
<td>0-0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MEN'S NATIONAL LEAGUE STANDINGS

WEEK OF OCTOBER 15, 1979

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Saints</td>
<td>8-0</td>
<td>5-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sophisticated Ladies</td>
<td>4-0</td>
<td>0-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unquestionables</td>
<td>2-1</td>
<td>0-0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Saints</td>
<td>8-0</td>
<td>5-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sophisticated Ladies</td>
<td>4-0</td>
<td>0-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unquestionables</td>
<td>2-1</td>
<td>0-0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Professor of the week: James Mulligan

BY LORI RIDGE

Mr. James Mulligan, of Green-} die research methods and on a no cut policy; that is, we have no limit on the number of ly, but I also know that there are a greater number who cut for choice and we misused the freedom. A new cut policy is being trusted view of the student body. They gave us freedom of er and a decrease in interest, the administration is losing their services. YMCA, 500 West Broadway, San Diego, Calif. 92101.

that the administration trusts the students to attend classes are involved with Ph.D. work in sociology at Emory and at the University of Alabama. He specializes in social stress and chronic disease, and his research has been in social epidemiology.

Mulligan has previously taught full-time at several other colleges and universities, but he

The bulk of my exper-ence has been at Emory at Oxford, and at the University of Alabama."

Mulligan said that as of yet, he has not joined any clubs or organizations on campus because he has taken a primary concern with completing his dissertation and has obligations to his research. He is, however, a member of the Young Democrats.

Mulligan believes that students in all fields of study should have at least some introduction to liberal arts. He said that in order to be socially well-rounded or informed, one should take a wide variety of courses in the liberal arts because, as a member of society, one should be able to understand and discuss social concepts and issues.

"Sociology courses are really useful in liberating the mind," Mulligan said. "Everyone should be exposed to the current thinking of society... I would say that an education is not complete without an introduction to sociology (among a variety of other liberal arts courses)."

Mulligan's wife is a student at Winthrop. He said that she transferred here from Emory when he came. When asked what inspired him to come to Winthrop, Mulligan replied, "I wanted to come back to this area. I thought it would be a good place to teach."

While Mulligan's non-academic interests include traveling and playing handball, he said that these things have taken a back seat to his research, dissertation work, and his teaching career.

Christmas mail call

Armied Forces News Release

For just about anyone who has ever been in the service, mail call was one of the most welcome events, perhaps especially for those who were away from home for the first time. Picture a scene from many of the old war movies (or from M*A*S*H).... the clerk yells "MAIL CALL!," and all the guys (and gals) crowd around... waiting... hoping.... The lucky ones delightedly tearing open their letters, while those who receive no mail shuffle away dejectedly.

As difficult as serving in the Armed Forces may be, the worst time is probably at Christmas, one of the traditional times for families to be together. Many thousands of our military men and women will not be able to take "leave" in order to be with their families during the Holiday Season.

That's why ARMED FORCES MAIL CALL, an independent, nonprofit organization, is now conducting its fifth annual Christmas Mail Call. Christmas greetings are received from around the country (this is an ideal project for school classes, church groups, families, and individuals) and forwarded to Armed Forces Mail Call, c/o Armed Forces News Release, TOBER 29, 1979

SPECIAL TO WINTHROP STUDENTS WITH I.D.

10% OFF on all blouses and skirts week of Oct. 29th-Nov. 3rd.

We have T.G. Hosk, Gave, Newyork, Prophecy, Emily Just Emily, etc.

P.S.-We also have a line of men's clothes!

Come to see us.

½ block from campus
Clark returns from Spain

By Gene Knight

Dr. Edward W. Clark, associate professor of English, has returned to Winthrop after teaching English for one year at the University of Valencia located on the Eastern Mediterranean coast of Spain.

Clark taught three classes of English: one class of advanced second year students and two classes of third year students.

"I taught and spoke in English which proved to be somewhat of a problem since the Spanish students were used to British English," Clark said. "I taught the students with newspaper and magazine articles and by the end of the term taught some American Literature short stories."

Lady's sitter for a fee

Austin, TX. (CPS) -- Statistics show that increasing numbers of male and female college students are living together. There are no comparable surveys of how many parents of those cohabitating students know about the practice. Now, sure enough, there's a business that tries to help students keep parents ignorant of their sexual habits a little longer.

Pamela Douglas, a University of Texas student, opened a business called Basic Strategy four months ago. For a fee, Austin women can use Douglas' address as their own. Douglas, in turn, forwards mail to the daughters' correct addresses. Parents' telephone calls are recorded on a phone answering device, and Douglas lets her clients know when to call their parents back.

"I know there were times when I'd maybe spend five out of seven nights somewhere other than home," Douglas recalls. "It's always thought it would be nice if there were a service like this available. It's better than renting half an apartment to the time of $150, and not even living there."
There is a game that most of you probably have never heard of and even fewer have played. It is an expedition into fantasy and an unleashing of the mind's greatest imaginative and creative powers. This is a game where your dreams become a reality and triumph over evil is an experience. It is "Dungeons and Dragons."

According to Gary Gygax, author of ADVANCED DUNGEONS AND DRAGONS, it is "a fantasy game of role-playing which relies upon the imagination of participants, for it is certainly make-believe, yet it is so interesting, so challenging, so mind-unleashing that it comes near reality."

The players take on the roles of such characters as "Falstaff the fighter" and "Filmar, the mistress of magic." The "Dungeon Master" is a sort of referee and is responsible for the design of the playing environment. He also has the final say on the rules of the campaign.

According to Marvin Chappell, an avid fan of Dungeons and Dragons, the "expedition usually lasts four hours. You use your imagination and put yourself into a position, such as fighting dragons."

Marvin has been playing Dungeons and Dragons for about three years, averaging about a game a month, which he says is "not as much as I should. The problem is getting everyone together." A good effective game of D & D usually consists of four to eight players.

According to Marvin, "If you like things that use imagination and games that use creativity to accomplish things, it's a pretty good game to play."

Marvin Chappell is an expert chess player, as well as being an accomplished Dungeons and Dragons player. He came in third place in the South Carolina Chess Championship in 1977 and also won both the backgammon and "hunts tournament that were held on campus in Dinkins last year.

Sophomore Marvin Chappell plans his next play in one of his many games of skill and strategy. (Photo by Tim Hartis)
COOL IT!
RENT A
REFRIGERATOR

Larger Capacity
Choice of Sizes
Immediate Service or Exchange

CALL AND RESERVE YOURS TODAY!

HALF YEAR          FULL YEAR

TO ORDER:
CALL SGA, Ext. 2179
1-5 P.M.

RENT AT PRORATED RATE
Chess tourney

Chess Tournament registration begins October 29 and continues through November 6. According to Edie Meyer, T&G chairperson, there is no registration fee. Interested persons can sign up at the Dinkins Information Desk.

Tournament play begins November 7. The winner may be eligible to represent Winthrop at the Association of College Unions-International tournament at UNC of Charlotte in February.

Halloween Happening

Halloween Happening will be held in Dinkins from 7-11 p.m. on October 31. There is no admission charge. Programs listing contests, activities and booth locations will be available at the door.

The Dinkins Program Board is preparing for what may be the biggest Happening yet.

"The response from organizations wanting booths is amazing," says DSU president Ronnie Laffitte. "We will hold a costume contest at 9, with $25 going to first place. Second and third places will receive $15 and $10. There will also be a $25 prize going to the best booth. Booths and costumes will be judged for originality and creativity."

All DSU committees urge students to put on a costume and join in the fun.

The Films Committee will show two Halloween movies on October 30. The films, VAULT OF HORROR and FRANKENSTEIN, will begin at 9:15 in Tillman Auditorium. According to Shawn English, films chairman, persons wearing a costume can get in free. Persons without costumes must pay 50 cents with WCID, $1 for guests.

Boris Karloff stars in FRANKENSTEIN and VAULT OF HORROR features Drew Addams and Tom Baker.
“The inherent virtue of socialism is the equal sharing of miseries; the inherent vice of capitalism is the unequal sharing of Budweiser.”

Winston A. Churchill

Misquoted without permission by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., St. Louis