Black Named New Freshman Chairman

Class Selects Garnet And Grey for Colors; Counselors Praised

Betty Black of Bamberg was elected chairman of the freshman class Tuesday night in the old auditorium preliminary to the selection of a class president later in the fall.

In the meeting that was presided over by Edith Gentry, president of the senior class, the freshmen chose garnet and grey, colors of the last senior class, as a traditional gesture, and named Ferdinand, the Bull, as class mascot. Jane Wright, senior cheer-leader, and Mildred McKeithen, music major, helped acquaint the freshmen with yells and songs of the new class.

"I felt rather weak—in fact, I nearly passed out," the diminutive Bevezelle freshman said in commenting on her election. Betty comes to Winthrop with a string of honors from her high school career. She was valedictorian of her class, editor of the high school paper, "Miss H. Miss" of her school, and winner of the State English contest last year. She was enthusiastic about her first week at Winthrop. "It was so lost but thrilling. The counselors were so grand. I felt I could ask them anything." The new freshman said she likes Tyrone Power, "Rébecca," and any picture show in which Vivian Leigh is the star. Her favorite meat is baked ham, and she is undecided about her hobby.

Education Group Holds Panel Meet

A panel discussion meeting of the education department was held Wednesday at 4 o'clock in the Training School auditorium according to Dr. W. D. Magaña, head of the department.

Reports of the conference on the supervision of instruction held at Pineville, Ky., last summer were given by Miss Edith Gore, assistant professor of violin, to those interested in the department. Mrs. W. D. Rice, Training School supervisor; Miss Mary York, head teacher trainer of home economics; and R. E. Blakely, Training School supervisor.

Symphony Orchestra Call Attracts 51 Students

Fifty-one freshmen and sophomores responded to the invitation call last week by Emmett Gore, assistant professor of violin, to those interested in the symphony orchestra. Mr. Gore says he plans to have a 55-60 piece first orchestra of experienced players, and a smaller number as a beginner's or second orchestra. The orchestra will be one of the largest women's college symphonies in the country, it was said. Mr. Gore expects to add woodwind and brass instruments to the orchestra.

Phelps, Culler Welcome '39-'40 Enrollment

Freshman Class Smaller; Total Enrollment Tops Eight-Year Record

More than 1700 students were welcomed to Winthrop by President Shelton Phelps and Harriet Culler, president of the Student Government association, last Thursday at the first assembly of the 64th school session.

The enrollment is Winthrop's largest in eight years, although the freshmen enrollment of 331 dropped exactly 100 below last year's enrollment of 621. Sophomore enrollment is 513, only seven below the freshman number. The junior class with 361 girls, and the senior class with 259 held steady the deficit in the freshman number.

The drop in freshman enrollment is attributed by some administrative officials to (1) the report of crowded living conditions, (2) the abolishing of the two-year commerce certificate. Actually, the campus can better accommodate an enrollment of 1700 this year than for its better than 1800 last year, because of the addition of 45 large rooms in South.

All new students preceded upperclassmen by three days to participate in orientation week. Upperclassmen arrived on Wednesday and registration began Thursday with seniors signing up during the morning and juniors during the afternoon. Sophomores and freshmen were registered Friday.

Despite the drop in freshman enrollment, school officials predict a particularly outstanding year. "It is the firm belief of the administration that this will be the best year of the last half dozen at Winthrop," says Dr. Phelps of prospects for the year.

An affirmation of his prediction Dr. Phelps pointed to the improvement of campus living conditions, the four new buildings "which offer unexcelled opportunities educationally and socially," and to the steadily increasing emphasis on the number and the quality of the faculty brought together at Winthrop.

Debaters' League Issues Pamphlet To Freshmen

A handbook explaining the work and purpose of Debater's league, campus forensic society, was issued to every freshman this week, according to Dr. Warren G. Keith, head of the history department. The book was compiled by members of the Debater's league.

The possibilities offered by Debater's league are described in the booklet by Mildred Lawrence, grand president of the Debate Tournament which will be held this fall.

Freshmen were invited to enter Clio hall activities by Mary Darby, president of Debater's league. Edith Bedenbaugh, Grand Eastern president, urged them to develop their abilities as hostesses and speakers by joining Debater's league.

Contributors to the handbook are as follows: Lucille Gregory, Torrence Jacques, Anna Mae Baskin, Margaret Wiggins, Mary Ruff, Ruby Meeks, Marie Johnson, Ann Brown, Pauline Lay, Patricia Moran, Sarah Shultz, Mildred Gardner, Clio Lawrence, Margaret Hall, Ruth Feagles, Sally Lathrop, Miriam Esau, and Marjorie Rowe.

Work of Debater's league was explained personally to freshmen in a door-to-door canvass of freshman dormitories by members of the league Tuesday night.

The President's "Own Band" Plays First Artist Course

The pulse-quickenng marches of the United States Marine band will usher in the 1939-'40 Artist Course series Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the new auditorium.

Only with the permission of the President of the United States can this, the oldest and foremost band of the country, desert Washington to tour the nation. Its long history so closely parallels the history of the Federal government that it is only logical that the Marine band should have earned the sobriquet, "The President's Own." John Adams made this honor official on July 11, 1798.

The Marine band has performed by official command from the bewigged days of George Washington to the New Deal days of Franklin Roosevelt. Resplendent in scarlet and blue, hailing a foreign monarch with "God Save the King" to supplying rollicking tunes for the Easter egg-rolls on the White House grounds. A barometer of the nation's emotions, the band mourns the dead, acclaims the great, welcomes peace, and staidly patriotism during time of war.

tion's emotions, the band mourns the dead, acclaims the great, welcomes peace, and staidly patriotism during time of war. Since 1927, Captain Taylor Brunson, as the nineteenth leader of the band, has carried on in the footsteps of such a great bandman as John Philip Sousa. His 40 years with this organization has developed his genius in arranging programs wide in their appeal. Building around the standard symphonic works especially arranged for concert bands, he departs from custom and includes novelties and stirring marches.

The United States Marine band comes here to interpret the history, the religion, the customs, and the patriotism of the nation. The "President's Own" band will express the soul of the nation in music.

Student Leaders Express Hopes and Plans For New Session

Placed with the remodeling and improvements made on the campus during the summer, the 1939-40 leaders return to Winthrop with high hopes for the coming session.

Harriet Culler, president of the Student Government association, says, "The Student Government council in making its plans for this year hope to initiate a number of constructive projects in various areas. We feel that such a program with the support of the entire student body will lead to a happier and better rounded life for Winthrop students."

Mabel McAlley, in planning for the Y of which she is president, puts out the hope that "Not only will each of the students, faculty and officers become a member of Winthrop's Y, but also that each as a member will take an active part in making fuller and more creative life at Winthrop."

The Athletic association, headed by Mary Sanders wishes "To increase interest in the athletic clubs and get new members so that everyone can enjoy some form of recreation. Demonstrations and entertainments of various kinds will be given throughout the year."

Meadors Luna, chief freshman counselor says, "Because orientation week is over that doesn't mean all is over for us counselors. We are organizing and planning to have monthly meetings for discussion and a social hour."

"We seniors will be busy, but we won't be too busy to do everything in our power to make 1939-40 a record year," says Edith Gentry, president of the senior class.

Alice Hollis, chief marshal, says, "I hope that the marshals can uphold the standards that Winthrop marshals have always had, and will be able to please and give courteous service to all patrons and visitors to the college."

"As sophomores, the class of '43 will do its part to make this year one of the best that Winthrop college has ever known," says Mary Katherine Littlejohn, sophomore class president.

The junior class, according to its president, Mary Riley Whitaker, plans to "get up the best Junior Follies yet, and hope to give the seniors a Junior-Senior banquet that they will always look back on with pleasure."

"There are great things that the Senate can do this year and we want to do them. We would like to make this year the greatest year in the history of the Senate at Winthrop," plans Christine Riley, president of that organization.

The publications are also looking forward to big things for this year. Lwisa Ellerba, editor of The Teller says that "The dummy was laid out this summer and we hope to get the staff organized so well that the book will be out by April." "We are striving this year for a Winthrop Journal that will reach the highest standards attainable in literary expression," says Margaret McMillan, editor. Sarah Roebulum, editor of The Johnsonian, says, "We're putting out a different-looking paper this year. We hope the student body will like it better and continue to give us suggestions and criticism."

Mary Darby, president of Debaters' league, says, "From the interest shown by the freshmen we expect the largest group of freshmen we've ever had in our Freshman league. In short, we expect to make this our outstanding Forensic year at Winthrop."

Culler Reads Constitution To Students

Standing Officers Are Introduced At First Meet

The constitution, by-laws and regulations of the Student Government association were read and explained to the Winthrop student body by Harriet Culler, president, at the first meeting of the year in the new auditorium Monday night.

Chairmen of the standing committees of the Student Government association were introduced. Each spoke briefly on the function of her committee. Chairmen of the committees are as follows:

Ruth Pease, uniform; Cappy Covington, fire chief; Pauline Watkins, auditing; Jane Kennedy, dining room; Margaret Nims, library; and Florence Lawson, campus.

The tradition of reserving the front steps of Main building for seniors was explained to freshmen by Edith Gentry, president of the senior class. She urged that all classes observe the custom.

Naudains Earn Sobriquet "Traveling Naudains"

Probably the most extended and versatile travels of the summer were the trips to New York, South America, and San Francisco of Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Naudain.

Leaving the campus last June the Naudains went to New York where the Winthrop chemistry head did some special study of New York university. They then toured the Bahamas Islands, Cuba, Jamaica, Venezuela-Andes, Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico.

From South American regions the Naudains went to San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, back through Montana and Idaho, to Iowa for a visit with the parents of Dr. Naudain.

The travelling Naudains saw both World Fairs.

Even a Railroad Spike can't take it like this Jewel of a Parker Pen

GUARANTEED for LIFE!
(against everything except loss or intentional damage)

We're using more than 250 college papers to fill students of the 5 demanding and devastating tests recently performed by the Parker Vacumatic to prove it will last for life. No other pen we know has ever faced such torture. Yet the Parker Vacumatic did it—no do it any time—and comes forth in perfect working order.

1st—Filled with Acid (strong ferric chloride solution which acts away a railroad spike) instead of with ink, this incredible pen wrote a 5-mile line with the acid on a revolving paper-covered drum and finished in perfect working order.

2nd—"Bomb" Test: Parker's Diaphragm files succeed in an average length FOR WEEKS, where a single day equals 6 months' normal use—to prove its long life.

3rd—"Electrocution": Every Parker Diaphragm proved 100% acid-proof by exposing it to 5,000 volts of electricity which flashes a red light if there's even a pinhole leak.

4th—"Belt Test": Pens filled and hung points down for hours in frigid temperature, then in torrid temperature.

5th—Dropped 3,000 ft. from an airplane to prove the heavily laminated pen barrel and cap are Non-Breakable.

You never saw such a pen. You never owned one. A unique pen that holds far more ink than ordinary rubber sac pens—shows the ink level at all times, hence won't run dry without warning, in class or exams. So go and see it now and get it for college and for life.

More Advice
For Freshmen
Freshmen counselors, advisers from "junior sisters" and from sophomores who always begin, "Well, when I was a freshman..." Now we're going to add our bit—our advice about what to do about advice. Don't be too big to ask for it, or too smart to take it.

The same blue spreads and white curtains that we've used for three years—but what a difference! Every time we open the door, we say,

Re-decoration
"Excuse me, I thought this room—the same old things, but we almost look like an illustration from 'House Beautiful'."

Then we remember. New rooms—the same old things, but we almost look like an illustration from "House Beautiful". North is a new place. South is bright and creamy. And all the girls have become inspired interior decorators. Even Careless Carrie has spent some time fixing her room because those new walls, deep closets, and hardwood floors possess—even for the most undomestic girls—unlimited possibilities.

And the rooms aren't the only things we've noticed that look "specially good." The girls look like "Vogues" or "Vassar." The freshmen are wearing their new blue and white outfits. The seniors are spic and span for training school. We're all still in the habit—re-acquired during the summer—of neatness. We've taken the trouble to look nice all summer, and now we're still doing it.

Stoppiness is accepted as collegial, but don't take it to the extreme of being carelessly grogged.

I heard some freshmen discussing the senior party at the shack. "I had a swell time," remarked one ginger-haired greenie, "but I was so surprised at the seniors. I didn't know seniors were silly."

I gleefully repeated this remark to one of the seniors in charge of the party. Blank surprise. Then she gasped, "But we were trying to make them feel at home, you see." At any rate, the party was a hit, enjoyed both by the dignified freshmen and the silly seniors.

Saturday Movies to Be Continued; Price Cut to Ten Cents

Saturday night movies at the College will be continued by regularity of the student body, according to A. M. Graham, business manager. A cut in admission from fifteen to ten cents has also been granted.

Discontinuance of movies at Winthrop was considered because of poor attendance and financial losses. The situation was explained by Mr. Graham at a Student Government meeting Monday night in the new auditorium.

"We would be glad to have suggestions as to pictures students would like shown," says Mr. Graham, "but two factors must be taken into consideration. Some companies do not sell pictures to schools, and some pictures are no longer in circulation."

"Jesse James", with Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda and Nancy Kelly, will be shown for 10 cents admission Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock in Main auditorium.

Freshmen Make New Boners, Improve Traditional Blunders

By Sylvia Ness
Another group of Winthrop freshmen—another bevy of bright assured smiles, ultra-collegiate pleated skirts, frilly white blouses, and sassy ribbons! Despite all this swishing of fashions, there are hearts which beat not as confidently as their nonchalant attitude would have us believe.

That race of traditional green freshies has not completely disappeared in spite of the understanding freshman counselors who explained what the bells at dawn and the long sentences in the hand book mean.

This can be easily evidenced by the counselors who sweetly told their groups to "Ask Me" if there was anything they wanted to know. Many were the requests and many were the counselors awakened from a sound sleep before the break of dawn to explain what the registrar's office opened or whether a blouse was marked as a shirt or shirt-waist on the laundry slips.

There was the bewildered freshman who simply couldn't understand what had happened to her trunk. After several days even the hostess became alarmed. Finally, in a last desperate attempt she asked the girl if she had turned in her trunk's key.

"No," came the determined answer, "when Daddy gave me the key he told me not to turn it loose until I got my trunk."

Debby Baruch Is Cousin To Bernard Baruch

Finance runs in the family. It must, or why else would Debby Baruch, cousin of the prominent financier, Bernard Baruch, elect commerce as her major?

"I guess I've always liked commerce," says Debby, a sophomore transfer from Lander college, "but I don't understand anything about Wall Street or what Cousin Bernard does or anything." "Cousin Bernard" to Debby is not a Wall Street "big shot", but rather a man of very simple and unpretentious tastes who entertains his little cousin sometimes on his Georgetown estate. His generosity, his casual dress, and his remarkable eyes—blue and changing with his moods—are the characteristics that most impress Debby.

Never having seen Winthrop before matriculating here, Debby confessed that its size held her in awe. "And the professors are the most impressive I've ever seen," she said. "Why? Well, because they are so well-equipped and well-traveled, and they are so very friendly and helpful."

Debby's ambition in the commercial world is to be a business executive, or a personal secretary, but her "dream" future is to model clothes.

Summer Brings Numerous Improvements To Campus

Three major improvements and minor alterations of the campus during the summer months have brought about better facilities and greater conveniences for this year's increased enrollment, according to A. M. Graham, business manager.

First among the improvements was the conversion of Music hall, annex of McLaurin cormitory, into 48 dormitory rooms which take care of more than 100 girls. The interior of McLaurin is being painted throughout.

Margaret Nance hall has been replastered throughout and painted. In addition, the floors have been sanded and refinished. Closets were built in every room and shower baths have been installed on every floor.

Minor improvements in Bancroft hall brought about more lavatories in the washrooms and the installation of showers on each floor.

There have been changes in the location of various offices in the Main building. The Johnsonian and Winthrop News Service office and the uniform room exchanged places.

The Canteen, the mimeograph room, and sewing room were re-located in the basement. The rooms in which they were formerly located will be repainted and equipped as class rooms for the use of the history department. The addition of two classrooms, an office, and a stockroom increases the facilities of the art department on third floor.

New equipment for Thurmond hall has been restored by an amended grant of $9,000 recently made by the P. W. A.

Planting of grass and the beautifying of the grounds around the new buildings has been begun. A colonnade is being built to connect the wings of Brezales hall. The court will be landscaped and beautified.

The boiler house is being enlarged and altered in order to accommodate a new boiler which will be installed by December.

The installation of new tele-phones and the distribution of 750 new mattresses are among the minor improvements.

Twenty-five Guernsey cows have been sought to improve the dairy herd.

32-Page Alumnae News Off the Press Soon; To 10,000 "Daughters"

In a 32-page anniversary edition, The Winthrop Alumnae News soon off the press, will honor the 50th birthday of the Alumnae association, according to Miss Lella Russell, executive secretary.

Founded in June, 1889, the association's first president was Miss Julie E. Bonham, sister of Miss Annie E. Bonham, former popular Winthrop teacher. The picture of Miss Bonham will appear as will that of Mrs. Louise Y. Eerie of Sumter, present head of the association.

Pictures of student leaders, college officials, and campus buildings will be run in the issue of which there will be 10,000 copies.

Fifty-Seven Transfers Find Winthrop 'Wonderful' Change

By Morrell Gipson

From schools not only in the South, but as far away as California, Connecticut, and Michigan have come fifty-seven transfer girls (almost twice as many as last year) to continue their college life at Winthrop. What do these girls who have experienced life at other schools think of Winthrop? The answers were varied, but the general reaction was unanimous—they like it.

"They spoke readily, with enthusiasm. 'I haven't been homesick at all—the girls are grand.' 'Winthrop is a little bewildering, but I like it.' 'I'm pleasantly surprised; everything is much nicer than I had hoped.' Most of them had something to say about the size of Winthrop. 'I'm always getting lost, but I don't mind,' laughed Elizabeth McMahon. 'And please thank everyone for me—they've all been so nice.'"

Frances McCown, graduate of Anderson Junior College, said, "This is my first taste of dormitory life, and I love it!" Elizabeth Timmerman, formerly a student at New Haven college for Women, Connecticut, likes everything, but is still amazed by seventeen hundred girls in navy blue and white. "This uniform business," she exclaimed, between a smile and a sigh.

Virginia Barker, from Ward Belmont, St. Mary's and other points west, says that she is "one of those people who don't know exactly where they are going," but she is very well satisfied at present. "And my major," added "Boggs," as an after-thought, "is on the primary level!"

Charlotte MacLaughlin, chief counselor for the transfer girls, and her assistants, Claudine Derick, Emily Beebe, and Alva McLellan, are responsible for much of the satisfaction expressed by the new upperclassmen. "You see, I was a transfer myself last year, so I know their problems," said Charlotte. "So much attention is given to freshmen during orientation week that the transfers sometimes feel rather left out of things, especially during those days before the rest of the upperclassmen come. We saw to it that the transfers were included in every invitation extended to freshmen during orientation week. And to tell you the truth, there isn't much now that we can find to do for them—they certainly are a well-contented bunch of girls."

So here they are—fifty-seven girls from everywhere, ready to start all over again here at Winthrop!

Here and There

Even in the midst of registration, first meeting of class and room-deciding, some few gadabouts found time to weekend off the campus. The Funderber-Crum wedding in Darlington took Alice Blake, Lib Hapler, Susanna Wilson, Nancy Coggeshall, Margaret Gandy, Wessie Dargan, and Margaret Sasbury home. Nancy and Lib were attendants, and the others served at the reception.

Ann Clarkson and Elizabeth Mansfield went over to York to spend the day Friday. Miss Dora Harrington spent the weekend in Darlington.

Winthrop girls always look forward to what Mrs. Phelps will wear at formal occasions, and the crowd net dress fulfilled all expectations at the Y reception Thursday night. 'Twas cool and neat and as utterly charming as the President's lady herself.

Even though weddings of Winthrop students call for new filing cards in Miss Russell's office, she is always very happy about the whole thing. Here are a few weddings reported during the summer to Miss Russell's office.

Lillian Lorraine Bush was married to Dr. John P. Tucker, and their address is Rock Hill. Augusta Godbold is now Mrs. C. R. Bevanston of Henningway.

Togs and Trapping

By Rosanne Guess

It's flip around fares to your blue bottoms and a sloppy sag to tops for looking your best, lassies. Skirts are flared and pleated and gathered and are definitely, but beautifully full. And sweaters must have that hang-on look—minus waist-line.

For a neck brightener I'm told by one of us who learned it from an ingenious lady fashionist, there's a cord to twist into a chain with golf tenn stuck into every fourth loop. You can try it, but for directions, well, I was only given the idea which I'm passing, if roughly, to you.

Small leather belts are suggested, not to hold up your skirt, but for that extra dash between the blue and the blue. Or wide belts that are red or green—but bright, mind you—are also good in between the shirt and the skirt. And, course, you've at least one frilly outer and one fancy inner blouse to make you look fresher and younger—or mistaken a freshman.

And, oh, you dear freshmen—what once we were and now, alas, would fain again be—along with your careless, casual, your sit-on-the-back-of-the-bright-head caps, your inevitable grey shapless moccasins, or shiny uncreased "saddles"—with it all, could you mix in a kind of up-town dignity? It will go ever so nicely with your Sunday slippers and heels and his.

The seniors have done it! Tradition was flung to the wind Monday night at Student Government association meeting when the 1940 class voted to occupy the center section of the new auditorium during chapel. For the first time in the history of Winthrop college, juniors are occupying the left side of the auditorium, always the section reserved for the seniors. Sophomores are to be seated in the right center section, and freshmen will occupy the seats in the back center section.

Where and What to Play

After Classes

By Margaret Brice

To town, to town to buy a fat hen. Or maybe a curtain for the room or a spread for the third roommate to match the color scheme. Anyway, this year's crop of freshmen take their hiking to town in their stride. One Roddey-ite claims that she's never missed a day trekking to town.

There's a snap to the air these last few days and the girls answered the call of the courts in droves. Many of the maidens eye that gleams with glee when she remembers that Kinsey Evans, long Winthrop's Alice Marble is now an alumna. This year's tennis tournament is anybody's tournament! And great has been the dusting of racquets thereof.

Even the faculty has taken to court with racquets. Mr. Gore and Mr. Nichols waged mighty war Tuesday afternoon, and Mr. Hollis and Dean Fraser have a match in the making.

The jumping-jivers... the in-the-groovers are taking advantage of the "new" gym floor, Sanders, shellacked, and waxed, this floor is a jitterbug heaven.

Preparation Begins for Annual Hockey Meet

Tentative plans have been made for the annual class hockey tournament, scheduled for November 13, according to Dot Clark, chairman of the hockey club. Freshmen will begin practice Wednesday.

Players from all classes will meet Wednesday, October 3, to elect managers and choose practice days.

And the freshmen advocates of jitterbugging have increased the fun no end. Registration and schedule changing kept the Winthrop daughters sprinting all over Main building.

Summer school had its own Aquacade. Fanny Jenkins broke the all-time record for high diving at Winthrop. Not satisfied with the diving board, not satisfied with the winner's prize.

Modern Dance Club Formed for Beginners

A modern dance group for beginners was organized Monday afternoon by the Modern Dance club, according to Miss Alice Hayden, instructor in physical education.

All persons interested in modern dancing may come to the gymnasium for instruction every Tuesday at 4 o'clock. Instruction will begin Tuesday.

With from the balcony, she did a double tumble-sault dive from the sky-lighted roof of the pool. That the dive was accidental and not intentional does not keep her from claiming the Winthrop high diving championship.

The after-school strollers were doubly entertained last Tuesday. Back to childhood girls from North played "statue" on the campus. Grotesque and imaginative were the poses struck by these adolescents. But they enjoyed it. And so did the on-lookers.

Fall Tennis Competitions To Begin Friday

A fall tennis tournament, tentatively scheduled to open Friday, September 23, will be held at Winthrop this year, according to Miss Marion Fugitt, instructor in physical education. Balls will be awarded to the winner's prize.

Any Winthrop student, regardless of class, is eligible. She must sign on the Athletic association bulletin board in the gymnasium or Main building by Wednesday, September 27.

Umpires must be secured by players, except for the finals.

Volunteers Make Plans for 1939-40

Tentative plans for 1939-40 were discussed by members of Student Volunteers, campus religious organization, at their first meeting of the session Sunday in Johnson hall.

Each member of the club plans to correspond with someone living in a foreign country and will present during the year a program typical of the country she has chosen. Bea Moses, junior from Sumter, and chairman of the deputation team, will conduct try-outs soon for a play to be presented at Vespers sometime during the year. The play will also be used when the team goes to nearby towns.

The Student Volunteers will also do charity work this year for a needy family in Rock Hill. Students interested in joining the Student Volunteers are invited to any meeting, according to Elizabeth Pitts, president. The regular time has been changed from 2:30 to 2 o'clock every Sunday afternoon.

15 Admitted to Curry Society

Fourteen new members were taken into Curry Literary Society, campus forensic organization, at a meeting at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday in Clio Hall, according to Annie Belle Clements, president. The society song was taught to all the members.
