Winthrop's New Freshman Beauty Queen

Vivacious Frances Payne Chosen Beauty Queen of Freshman Class

Slender, blonde, vivacious Frances Payne of Darlington was chosen queen of the freshman beauties Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in Johnson hall auditorium. She was selected from a group of 83 girls who had been picked as the loveliest from their dormitory corridor groups.

"I couldn't believe it. I lost my voice," laughed the pretty first year queen to a court of excited admirers. The first thing she did upon regaining her voice was to put in a call for "daddy".

Frances' reputation as a beauty came with her from her high school where she was voted the prettiest girl in the senior class. Among other high school achievements, she was chosen secretary of her class, was a member of the national honor society, and represented her school in the Miss El Mias section of The Johnsonian last year. She was also a member of the Delta club, scholarship society, and was president of her class her junior year.

Emily Reel, from Beach Island, was awarded second place in the annual beauty contest which was sponsored by Zeta Alpha, campus honorary society for students in chemistry.

Judges were Miss Mashier, Dr. Glenn Naudain, head of the chemistry department, and Mr. Thomas Noel, head of the commerce department. Music was furnished by Margaret McMillan and Sarah Lindsay. Erma Beahn and Sarah Geer sang several selections.

Zirbes to Lead Discussions; "New Education" to Be Viewed

School superintendents and principals from all over South Carolina have been invited to attend the second annual conference of state educational leaders to be held on the campus from October 17 to 19, according to O. "The purpose of the conference," says Mr. Mitchell, "is to show the new education in actual everyday practice in the Training School classrooms."

Last year, forty-six schools were represented at the conference. Forty-three principals attended. A large attendance is expected again this year.

Other members of the committee, appointed last year by President Shelton Phelps, to plan and execute the coming conference, are Dr. W. P. Maginnis, John G. Kelly, Miss Sadie Goggans, and Ray A. Furr.

Dr. MacFarland, who is in his 7th year at Rock Hill, has served three other college centers. He was a pastor at Farmville, Va., where is located the State Teachers' college; at Lynchburg, Va., the home of Randolph-Macon college; and at Gaffney, home of Lincolnton college.

Students' Loan Fund Drive to Be Drafted

A drive to establish a student loan fund for financially unable students will be inaugurated on the campus next week with the sale of five-cent bars of candy and confections in each dormitory and in Main building, according to A. M. Graham, business manager.

Jars of candies will be made accessible to students at all hours through the self-service plan which is based upon the honor system. Each student helps herself and drops her money into a box located on the stands.

This system, based on a similar one at Washington-Lee university, is not intended to conflict with the Y campaign.

Debaters' League In "Exumple" Meet At Assembly

A typical informal discussion was given by the Debaters' league at the assembly program Wednesday in the new auditorium. Winthrop Literary Society, upholding the opposition, was the winner of the debate on the question: "Resolved: Hitler is unjustified in his intensive program of the last three years."

The society may choose one of the delegates to the North Carolina Legislative Assembly at Raleigh, N. C., in October as a reward for its victory.

Janie Ward and Alice Martin were given the oath of membership as members of the league at the chapel program.

Plans for the Dixie tournament to be held in December on the campus were announced by Mildred Lawrimore, Dixie president.

Anna Mae Baskin told of the door-to-door canvass in the freshmen dormitories to describe the activities of Debaters' league.

84 Want Places In College Band

Eighty-four students have reported for a place in the College band, largest college girls' band in the world, according to Mark Biddle, director.

The band will begin work soon on a concert to be presented in December.

Eleven Schools Here For Marine Band

Bands from 11 schools and colleges in South Carolina and North Carolina were present at the Artlet course performances of the United States Marine band here Wednesday night.

Among the band groups attending the nation's largest entertainment concert were Cherryville high school, Cherryville, N. C., with 40 present; Berryhill high school, Berryhill, N. C.; Gaffney high school, Gaffney, S. C., 54; Harding high school, Charlotte, N. C., 54; Davidson college, 50; Cannon Mills, Kannapolis, N. C., 36; and Belmont high school, Belmont, N. C., with 30.

Lancaster, Fort Mill, Union, and Queen's college also sent small band groups.

U. S. Marine Band "Enjoys Encoring For Enthusiastic Winthrop"

Drums and horns and clashing cymbals, brass buttons and scarlet jackets and glittering epaulettes. From the Bear Barrel Polka to Wagner's "Lohengrin" from the cakewalk of the 1890's to the March of the 1890's, the United States Marine band upheld its national reputation. A thunderous march, a capering modern swingeroo, a wistful fantasy quickened the pulses of a foot-patting audience. Spontaneous applause drew encore after encore from a band completely in harmony with the enthusiastic audience.

The bandmen commenting on the excellent acoustics and the responsive audience said that it was an inspiration to play. One of the most frequent queries was "Do all the girls play in the band?" Three or four of them were puzzled by the number of twirlers in the college band until one resourceful bandster decided "They must be upset in case any of them gets sick". The most obvious thing about the school made no impression at all on them—the overwhelming popularity of white.

Winthrop seconded the general opinion that the United States Marine band is the best of its kind. They have to be good, for, after all, they are the "President's own". Constantly ready to fill the bill for official entertainment, members of the band must be able to play several stringed instruments as well as the regular wind instruments. Their duties range from playing symphonic music and dance numbers at White House receptions to greeting foreign dignitaries with rousing martial music. They know the musical alphabet from A to Z and many of them teach music themselves.

The audience itself presented almost as impressive a sight from the stage as the uniformed band did from the house. The side aisles were crammed with the white-clad, enthusiastic Winthrop girls. Flanked by the row upon row of white was the central aisle of town, folk and faculty, dressed in bright-colored evening dresses and gleaming shirt fronts.

Dr. Buckner Calm, Efficient As She Plans 1700 Examinations

By Morrell Gipson

Dr. Margaret Buckner, new resident physician, is getting down to the business of examining every girl at Winthrop.

"This new un-efficiency Winthrop M. D. points out: 'It's not enough to examine the freshmen—upperclassmen could bring in any kind of disease. It is essential that each girl have a thorough going-over for the sake of everyone. It won't take long if the girls cooperate by coming to the infirmary as soon as they can. And I'm sure they will.'"

The task before her of giving these examinations to seventeen hundred girls would dismay most people, but not Dr. Buckner. "I never allow myself to think of the number of cases I have before me—it is the one on hand that matters, whether it takes an hour or a day is of no consequence."

A gracious soft-spoken voice, a calm air of efficiency, a sympathetic interest in her surroundings—these are Dr. Buckner's chief characteristics.

"I heard many good things about Winthrop before I came here, and they're all true," she smiled. "The spirit of the girls is beautiful. Their willingness to cooperate, to do what is best for the group as well as for the individual—that to me is a goalpost in progressive education."

Little Termite Haunts Hall's "Land's End"

"It's a speck," declared Miss Maude Hall, instructor in English, as she spoke of her prime nuisance—a termite who has been her pet worry for four years.

The little "critter" has made his home in the roof of Miss Hall's study, "Land's End," and there he contentedly bores and bores and bores. What's more, she's never even seen him, nor where his home, nor even the hole he lives in, but each time she enters her study these are the neat pile of sawdust. The longer she stays away, the larger the pile of sawdust, and the nearer is an open view of the heavens in Miss Hall.

Not only is he a speck, but he's immortal, too, for the little fellow seems to thrive on portions of any kind. Miss Hall has even tried shelling him, but he still bores on.

In desperation Miss Hall offers a reward for any advice anyone can give on the subject of how to get rid of a mysterious, hard-working termite!

"STRENGTH"

The American Bankers Association has been in annual convention this week at Seattle, Wash. The A. B. A. is perhaps the strongest national organization in the United States, representing not millions but billions of dollars. One of the principal addresses delivered at the Convention was by the Honorable Preston Delano, Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, which office has supervision of all National banks, examination of them, and everything pertaining to their activities.

Mr. Delano said in part, "The resumption of hostilities between the major European powers would seem that we are witnessing the beginning of a fundamental struggle between economic and social regimentation on one hand and the forces of an individualistic society and a free economy on the other.

"There will be heavy responsibilities placed on all leaders of men. Banks are the nerve centers in the intricate and involved system by which we live, and there will be need for steady hands. America is equipped for the job. Whether we consider wealth in terms of the necessities and conveniences of life or in terms of gold and banking assets, we have it.

"National banks have held and still hold their all important position and influence in this greatest of free societies. Their resources today exceed Thirty Three Billion ($33,000,000,000.00) Dollars. Never in your history, gentlemen, have you been collectively so strong to play your part in the great decisions which lie ahead."

The "Old Reliable" possesses a feeling of pride that this institution operates under a National Charter and never in the history of this bank has it occupied a stronger position, a position to adequately take care of not only the financial needs of its present patrons but additional business that may come to us. Loans on other good securities are invited.

She wore a brown tweed suit with accessories to match and a corsage of sweetheart roses at the ceremony.

The couple went immediately to Wadmalow Island where Mr. Glover is employed in the service of the United States government.

Here and There

This is the first time in many a year that Winthrop girls haven't been in the throes and tows of club rushing. But the society-minded, like the poor, we have with us always. And so, parties for "freshman from home", and those good old-fashioned Dutch affairs fill up the void left when social clubs were voted out.

Last Friday night, Charleston upperclassmen gave a banquet for Charleston freshmen at Mrs. Williams' Beverly garden. They gathered together about four o'clock and Harriet Lewton and Catherine Essarlin directed games and contests. The placecards were made by Doris Graber and Harriet Lewton with original drawings characteristic of each person.

After a Roddy house meeting last Friday night in Johnson hall to set the freshmen on the right track about rules and regulations, Miss Melvin Ellis and Mrs. Beatha Wills, hostesses of Roddy, served chocolate and vanilla ice cream guests. Dean Kate G. Hardin was a guest.

South dormitory will continue its looked-forward-to after-dinner coffee hour this year. Elizabeth Calvepper, president of Writers' club, has announced that twice each week, coffee will be served after supper. South is also making plans for its annual reception for faculty and officers which will be October 6.

Maybe the economists of the nation are trying to get us out of the red, but the stylists and hairiers are putting us right back into red. Or so it seemed to look at the touches of red, red hats, red dresses and bouises at the Artist course Wednesday night. Maybe the weavers of the red were inspired by patriotic reasons—any way we liked it all—even the musicians' red coats.

Miss Dora Harrington, Miss Iva Bishop, Miss Rita Higgins, Miss Sarah Cragwell, Frank Harrison, and Bill Gilchrist spent last weekend at Crescent Beach.

Miss Constance Wardle had at her guest last week, Miss Mary Fishburne of Columbia, who is now instructor in piano at the University of Michigan.

C., where they spent the summer.

Togs and Trapping

By ROSANNE GUESS

I saw a round hat hooded loudly on a pair of round cheeks Sunday, which reminds me that nothing is so distasteful as a hat that clashes with the face, and that nothing is quite so good and flattering as a hat and head to match. And that I'm opposed to the silly fancy boxes and paws for face frames, but that I'm in favor of selecting them with a careful eye for shapes that will.

And, then, please manage smartly the curls beneath the bonnet. Don't pile a dozen of those tight rolls on the forehead if the forehead is hard to find anyway. And curls cannot be saved by not combing them. Smooth is the word for coiffure—smooth is the word for your whole appearance.

And if you're tired of the same old way you're doing it, try a new part, a different twist on the top, a new length—try anything—try everything 'til you find the right thing. Nothing is so new as a new hairdress, and nothing is so good to dispense of the frayed feeling.

Are you yet so unfortunate as to be without a winter coat or a raincoat? Then, buy them in a neat reversible—one on one side navy blue uniform—one on the other a bright tweedish thing for-out-of-uniform dress.

Now if he's a well-dressed college man, he'll be wearing a quite blue or definite green hat with wide brims which flatter. The college man, if he's other than a uniform from Clemson or Citadel, will sport leader-than-ever rough tweeds, with broader shoulders and suppressed waists. Ye ladies can do much to make those laddies who come through the eye to Winthrop look super super best.

Are you yet so unfortunate as to be without a winter coat or a raincoat? Then, buy them in a neat reversible—one on one side navy blue uniform—one on the other a bright tweedish thing for-out-of-uniform dress.

"Tails-pin", Saturday's Show, is A Thrill of Planes, Spills, Speed

When a bunch of ambitious girls, a crop of speed planes, a cross-country race, and an air derby get scrambled together, thrill and "Tails-pin" are the resulting Saturday night merle.

Poor girls Alice Faye, Nancy Kelly, and Joan Davis are in the air racing game for glory and financial reward. But a rich girl, Connie Bennett, with uncom millions and a fast plane, gusses up the works by entering the "Power Puff Derby" to grab acclaim as the greatest female speed flier.

Thrills from crash-ups and parachute jumps make up for the subordination of romance to its rival, ambition.

Practically the only male to hold any of the spotlight is the unlikely "Speed" Allan. His fate is linked with one of the most poignant scenes of the show.

Connie Bennett's ship flies rings around the crates of her rivals and the audience all but swoons from the excitement.

Thrills and spills and crashes revolve around the premise that "no woman likes to lose in anything, and every woman likes to win in everything".

You'll love its smart circles of shimmering Pearl and Jet, a wholly original and exclusive style. And there's nothing like its silken-smooth Point of 14 K Gold, coated with Platinum and tipped with polished Osmiumium, twice costlier than ordinary iridium.

Tennis Group All Set to Go in Tourney

☆ ☆ After Classes ☆ ☆

By Margaret Brice

"I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream"—so say the freshmen anyway. The road to the farm is all crowded on Saturday afternoons with desert-conscious campuses.

Tension over the out-come of the tennis tournament grows tense—or whatever it is that tension grows—as each day brings forth better and better prospects for the championship. Two freshmen likeliest are Frances Burns and Marjorie Holzmendorf. Frances played in the finals of the state doubles tournament as the partner of Sara Rushton, state women's singles champ. Marjorie was the winner in the state high school championship last spring. All in all, forty people have signed up to play and it all promises to be a hard-hitting fight.

Proverbially, the Winthrop wasteline is supposed to expand from the freshman to the senior year. Reasons given are various—regular hou, potatoes and more potatoes, or just the change of climate—but ardent research on the typical Roddey girls' between and after classes smack tells its own tale—potted meat, peanut butter, and cake between bites of more potted meat and more pea-

Post Gives Rules for Recreational Swimming

The College swimming pool, located in the gymnasium, is available for recreational swimming on Saturday afternoons and evenings, according to Miss Julia Post, head of the physical education department.

Swimmers must observe the following regulations: 1. Two senior life savers must accompany the group. 2. Keys for the check room and pool may be secured from the check room upon presentation of a permit which must be secured from the office of the physical education department before noon Saturday.

All in all, forty people have signed up to play and it all promises to be a hard-hitting fight.

Skating has begun again. Evenings after supper the driveways are filled with roller-skating enthusiasts. But the bicyclists are still faithful to their mode of travel. One wheeler even brought her bicycle back to school with her. No longer will she look longingly at the passing cars. She rides her own "lily".

Very loud have been the splashes and very loud the screams

'that have been heard coming from the gym pool of late. This spot has been rated one of the most popular on the campus whether it be for class, recreation, or a plain old traditional Saturday night bath.

Jesse James came roolin', lootin', and shootin' back to life Saturday night and entertained a record crowd for nearly two hours. Many a lassie has been heard threatening to line some things up and "shoot 'em down like dogs".

Faithful football followers of Clemson, The Citadel, P. C., and Carolina took time off Saturday to attend various games (via radio). The girls yelled and cheered and to all effects enjoyed the games as much as if they were actually sitting in the bleachers.
