4 Privilege Bills Passed By Senators

Artist Course "Dates", Electric Gages Pending Faculty Approval

Bills permitting use of electrical appliances in the dormitory rooms, and the privilege of attending Artist courses with dates were discussed and passed by the Senate at its first meeting of the year, Thursday.

Special privileges for class presidents were also discussed. The motion was made and carried that each class head be given the rights of the class above her.

Approved Appliances Only

Only suit electrical appliances may be used in the rooms. Electric clocks, heating pads, fans, and hair dryers may be used only on condition that the equipment be an approved make and pass inspection by the College electrician.

Winthrop students may sit with escorts at Artist courses provided the permission obtained from the Dean of Women is presented three days before the entertainment to the business office. Tickets for dates must be purchased, then, in advance.

Radios and uniforms were also discussed at the meeting. The motions passed by the Senate will not become active until approved by the faculty committee and President Phelps.

Physical Ed. Seniors Teach in W. T. S.

Five seniors in the physical education department are now doing student teaching at Training School, according to Miss Alice Hayden, instructor in physical education.

Practice teachers are Catherine Easterlin, Mary Sanders, Harriet Wannamaker, Louise Wilson, and Margaret Shillineau.

Dr. Peter Marshall, pastor of the New York avenue Presbyterian church of Washington, D. C., will speak at assembly Wednesday. He will be accompanied by Dr. John McEwen, former president of Presbyterian college, Clinton.

New Senior Order To Be Installed

Eight Grads of Last Year Will Return For Annual Ceremony

The eight new Senior Order members announced last spring at Senior chapel will be formally installed with the return of last year's members of the Order Saturday.

New members who will be installed are Harriet Culler, president of the Student Government association; Mabel McAlilly, president of the Y; Elizabeth Rogers, associate editor of The Johnsonian; Christine Riley, president of the Senate; Sarah Rosenblum, editor-in-chief of The Johnsonian; Edith Genay, president of the Senior class; Kate Wheeler, vice-president of Student Government; and Harriet Lawton, business manager of The Tattler.

Begin With Movies

The program will get underway with both the old and the new orders attending the regular Saturday night movie at the College. Formal installation of the new members will take place at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night in Johnson hall. President Shelton Phelps, Dean Kate Bardin, Dr. James Kinard, and Dean Mowat Fraser, honorary members, will witness the ceremony.

Sunday morning the old order will entertain the old order with breakfast. Both groups will be dinner guests of President and Mrs. Phelps in the College dining room.

Old Senior Order members coming back to the campus will be Ruth Benson, Helen Bryant, Louise Fant, Nancy Beatty, Augusta Cothran, Ann Tilghman, Katherine Brabham, Katherine McCollum, Manie Katherine Ritchie, Elizabeth Kennedy, and Eliza Ross.

Senior Order, an honorary society, brings together the most influential members of the senior class. Outstanding scholarship and diversified campus activities are requirements for membership.

Laundry Gets New Steam-Heated Ironer

A flat-work ironer of the latest model has been installed in the Winthrop laundry, according to D. S. Hollis Jr., superintendent of the laundry.

The ironer is 110 inches long and has four rolls. It is heated by steam and is motor-driven.

The removal of the pipe organ in old Main brings up the subject of pipes.

2500 Pipe-Pipe Organ Moves to New Auditorium

The business of moving the pipe organ from old Main to the new auditorium is something! For, says D. A. Woodhall, Henry Pilcher's Son in Louisville, Ky., who is moving the instrument, the organ has 2500 pipes in all, ranging in length from three-eighths of an inch to 16 feet, and in diameter from the size of a lead pencil to a pipe 20 inches. About 10 miles of cable wire will be required for getting the organ into its place in the new auditorium, and the whole job

Return for Senior Order Ceremony

State Budget Group to Meet Here Nov. 2

The State Budget commission will convene here November 2 with President Shelton Phelps to discuss the State appropriation to Winthrop college.

Members of the commission include Governor Burnet R. Maybank, chairman; Senator S. M. Ward, Georgetown, chairman of the Senate finance committee; Representative Winchester Smith, chairman of the House ways and means committee; and J. M. Smith, Columbia, secretary of the commission, and State auditor.

Shortly prior to the commission meeting, the College board of trustees will meet to pass on the budget to be submitted. College officials have heretofore appeared before the body in Columbia in their annual hearing.

Psychology Group Issues Five Bids

Bids to Alpha Psi Zeta, campus psychology organization, have been issued to five students, according to Sederis Lott, president. Those receiving bids are Lavern Jones, Bethune; Ida Ruth Carter, Barnwell; Pauline Hartwell, Johnston; Mary Christine Lohse, Charleston; and Sarah Rosenblum, Laurens.

New members will be initiated at a banquet at the Shack Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

BROTHER OF DR. JOHNSON DIES SUDDENLY

Dr. Elizabeth Johnson, head of the modern language department, will be away the remainder of the week due to the sudden death of her brother, Henley Johnson, of Kingsport, Tenn.

Shine and Lott Have Advertising Plan

A new promotion plan for the advertising staff of The Johnsonian has been perfected by Sederis Lott, advertising manager, and Sarah Shine, business manager. The new system consists of a contest among three small and carefully chosen groups from the advertising staff, each having a selected list of stores equally balanced with those of both the other groups.

Thelma Hicklin, Meadows Lunn, and Anne Willimon, ranking members of the present staff, will be promoted to assistant advertising managers and will captain the groups.

Working with Thelma will be Mary Hayes Calhoun, Amelia Mulrow, and Mary Katharine Littlejohn. On Ann's staff are Adelaide Thompson, Clara Webb, and Maggie Lunn. Meadows will have with her Peg Williams, Catherine Jett and Jo Fant. The division heads are permitted to add as many as three new members to their group.

The element of competition is provided by comparing the lineage of the groups each week. At the end of the semester the losing group must be host to the other two at a party.

Art Class to Send Exhibits to Fair

Art exhibits for the State fair on October 16-21, are now being prepared by the Fine Arts class under Miss Beale L. Garison, instructor.

The exhibits will be displayed by Miss Jane Ketchin, marketing specialist of the home demonstration extension department.

Posters and figures are also being prepared by the class for display in Rock Hill store windows during Business and Professional Women's Centennial, October 8-14, says Miss Garison.

A Capella Elects Blake New President

Alice Blake, junior from Darlington, was elected president of the A Capella choir for this year at a business meeting of the group last Thursday in the band room of the music conservatory.

Other officers appointed at the meeting were Rubie Scott, senior from Union, vice president; Winifred Looze, sophomore from Charleston, librarian; Kathleen Heideman, junior from Florence, social chairman; and Margaret Dukes, junior from Orangeburg, secretary.

The A Capella choir is conducted by Miss Constance Wardle, instructor in voice.

Alice is a member of the Johnsonian staff, the Journal staff, and Le Cercle Français. She is a junior senator this year.

Foreign Plates Excite Campus Wide Interest

A teacher, a matron, and a whole dormitory of students became excited over a battered little green Plymouth bearing license plates from China and Greece.

The question was: Who is visiting Winthrop from those far distant places? A delegation proceeded to inspect the traveled auto. The license plates bore the following inscription: "These souvenir globe-trotting license plates are to be used for humorous purposes only. For fun's sake enjoy the distinction of a 'World Souvenir'."

Son of Former Student To Speak at Vespers

The son of a Winthrop graduate will be the vespers speaker Sunday night at 6:45 o'clock.

The Rev. Paul Hardin Jr., pastor of the Methodist church of Waynesboro, N. C., whose mother is the former Harriet Wannamaker of Cheraw, member of the Winthrop class of 1899, will talk. A graduate of Wofford college and of Emory university, the Sunday evening speaker comes highly praised.

DR. MCCAIN WRITES POEM

"Washington," a poem by Dr. J. W. McCain Jr., professor of English, appeared in the September issue of "The New Age," current magazine.

Colorful Y Candlelight Wednesday

Annual Ceremony Held For Recognition of Old And New Members

The annual candlelight service for the recognition of old and new members of the Y will take place Wednesday night at 6:30 o'clock in the new auditorium, according to Miss Elizabeth Stinson, Y secretary.

The service will be in the form of a short litany and will be led by Mabel McAlilly, president of the Y.

Traditional March

In the traditional line of march will be the Y advisory board, composed of President Shelton Phelps, Dr. James Kinard, Dean Kate Glenn Hardin, Dean Mowat C. Fraser, Dr. W. E. Fort Jr., Dr. Ruth Stokes, Miss Mary Calvert, and Miss Chlo Funk; the advisory boards of Y committees, composed of Mrs. Hampton M. Jarrell, F. E. Harrison, Miss Marion Fugitt, Miss Sarah Cragwell, Miss Christine Wyatt, Miss Broline Hines, Mrs. Reese Massey, Miss Stella Bradford, Mrs. Jack Hayes, Dr. Hampton Jarrell; Dr. Helen MacDonald, Miss Elizabeth Stinson, A. H. Graham, Miss Julia Post, Miss Melvin Ellis, Miss Mary Frances Ivey, and Miss Lila Togneri; and members of the Y student council.

Freshmen counselors will aid in lighting the candles of the congregation.

All students, faculty members, and officers are invited to attend the service.

Membership cards were signed

Over 1500 girls, by signing the Y cards distributed during assembly Wednesday, became members of the Y. W. C. A. for the 1939-40 session.

Radio Broadcasts To Begin Thursday Over WIS, WSOC

Winthrop will go on the air for the first time this season at 2 o'clock Thursday, according to Dr. W. B. Roberts, head of the music department.

Broadcasts will be made from the stage of the new auditorium and will be given for a thirty minute period over hook-ups WIS, Columbia, and WSOC, Charlotte. Three other stations, as yet unnamed, are expected to join the hook-up.

Members of the committee for radio broadcasts are Dr. W. B. Roberts, chairman; Ray A. Furr, director of campus journalism; A. M. Graham, business manager; H. M. Jarrell, professor of English; Dr. James P. Kinard, president emeritus; Dr. Donnie Martin, professor of ancient languages, and Miss Florence Mims, assistant professor of English.

Masquers Lets Bids To Eleven From 65 Try-Outers

From the 65 girls who entered try-outs, 11 were chosen to become members of Masquers, campus dramatic organization, according to Ann Clarkson, president.

Receiving membership bids are Connie Castleman, Mildred Brannon, Sarah Ellen Cunningham, Nell Walling, Virginia Stevenson, Esther Bailey, Martha Harvell, Mauriel Cates, Ann Herick, Josephine Cox, and Elizabeth Mitchell. Basic membership in Masquers includes stage appearance, acting ability, and quality of voice.

Officers of the club acted as judges of the try-outs.

From Soup to Nuts Winthrop Girls Collect and Hobbyize

By Sylvia Ness

The ancient Romans didn't foresee the fancies of Winthrop girls when they coined the expression "soup to nuts".

Because that category falls far short of including some of the objects which various girls—be they seniors, juniors, sophomores, or freshmen—collect as hobbies. Everything from flashing hair ribbons neatly tied and neatly sitting side by side, to breath-taking but useful articles on "How to Improve One's Personality" form a part of a precious collection.

Many are the scrap books stuffed with dance cards and courage ribbons, but Emily Johnson's memoirs, which are exceptionally numerous, beats them all.

In contrast to Cappy Covington's anthology of poetry she learned to type while compiling her collection are Jo Fant's love poems. "The only qualification," says Jo, "is that they're good 'n' mushy."

Pursuing the point on to reality is Susan Jones who collects love letters—just love letters.

Elizabeth Kanitz's interesting collection of China miniatures is dwindling instead of increasing. On the birthday of each of her friends she gives her some particular vase or jar which she has admired.

But the biggest chuckle of them all comes with the collection of Mary Jane Sanford, Louise Fike, and Ganelle Frick. It's chicken bones they collect! Not just any chicken bones but the bone from which comes the best part of the chicken—the wish bone. They started the collection last year when they wished on a turkey bone and got a surprise trip to Charlotte. The girls figured since one wish bone had taken them twenty-six miles, why how far might you get on a large number of bones.

Result—two turkey bones, twenty chicken bones, and no more trips!

Twenty-five freshmen, because of superior rating on French placement tests have been promoted to sophomore French classes. Above are eighteen of the high-ranking fresh. Those who were exempt are: Mary Elizabeth Berman, Betty Black, Janie Louise Brogden, Margaret Emily Burns, Billie Carolyn Bush, Edna Frances Caldwell, Mary Frances Cannon, Dorothea Elizabeth Del Sesto, Rebecca Deschamps, Eleanor Ruth Fulmer, Ann Hope Hampton, Jane Fulton Harney, Mary Ann Henry, Mary Emma Horton, Sarah Duval Justice, Elizabeth E. Kanitz, Virginia Lancaster, Ella E. Linder, Mary K. Martin, Mary Gertrude Murray, Mary Richardson, Marie Louise Schartz, Martha Gentry Sheely, Jane Garlington Todd, and Mary Alice Wingo.

Two Debate Societies Take in New Members

Helen Miller and Roberts Boggs were issued bids to Phi Kappa Delta, national debate organization, at a meeting of Debaters' league Wednesday in Clio hall. Lily Mae Wingate, Grace Blakeney, and Grace Horton were also given bids to Strawberry Leaf, campus debate society, at the meeting.

Frances Gardner and Pauline Laye were chosen as delegates to the North Carolina legislative assembly to be held in Raleigh, N. C. this month. Other delegates will be announced later by Dr. Warren K. Keith, head of the history department.

Rose Wilcox was adjudged winner of the oratorical contest conducted during the meet. Tying for third were Katherine Guerry and Margaret Hall.

Three to Attend Red Cross Meet In Columbia Tuesday

John G. Kelly, registrar, Dean Kate Hardin, and Ray A. Furr, director of campus journalism, will attend a meeting of the South Carolina state conference of Red Cross chapters in Columbia Tuesday.

Members of the conference will plan a record-breaking roll-call and mobilize the various chapters for efficient work.

This is the second year that Mr. Kelly has been York county head of the Red Cross. Mr. Furr is publicity director.

Portuguese has been added to the long list of foreign languages taught at the University of Texas.

Enrollment Now Is 1714; Highest In Eight Years

Enrollment at Winthrop for 1939-40 now totals 1714, the highest in eight years, according to John G. Kelly, registrar. This number includes 10 special students, 523 freshmen, 518 sophomores, 345 juniors, and 298 seniors.

The above classification is based on the student's designation of herself and is not according to hours of work recorded in the registrar's office. During the week changes will be made and registrar will be officially recorded.

Article by Dr. MacNair Appears in Journal

An article by Dr. Vera MacNair, assistant professor of home economics and hostess of the home management houses, appeared in the August issue of "The American Journal of Diseases of Children". The twenty-five page thesis deals with the "Effect of a Dietary Supplement on Ossification of the Bones of the Wrist of Institutional Children".

Dr. MacNair, in collaboration with Dr. Lydia J. Roberts of the department of home economics of the University of Chicago, also had an article in the September issue of the magazine last year.

BLACK TALKS ON SOUTH
Miss Lois G. Black, assistant professor of modern languages, made several speeches about South Carolina and Southern life while spending the summer at her home in Geupib, Ontario, Canada.

Calendar Committee Chosen by Presidents

In an effort to avoid conflicting meeting-times, a conference of presidents of all organizations was called upon suggestion of Senior Order last Thursday in Johnson hall.

A committee, headed by Helen Dixon, was selected to draw up a calendar of all permanent meeting dates. The calendar will be posted in the lobby of Main building. Permission will now have to be procured to call special meetings.

Other members of the committee are Sarah Shine and Caroline Marion.

P. C. Debate Team To Clash With Winthropians

Three debate teams from Presbyterian college, Clinton, will attend the regular meeting of the Debaters' league Wednesday, October 18, according to Mary Darcy, president.

A Direct Clash debate between the three societies, Hampton, Curry, and Winthrop, and the P. C. debaters will be staged on "United States Isolation and Cooperation with Europe".

For several years Presbyterian college has sent debaters to clash with the societies at regular meetings of the league.

University of Wyoming students last year spent $64,500 in membership dues in student organizations. $23,272.75 was for national dues, pins and initiation fees.

Lost and Found Bureau Located In Johnson Hall

The Lost and Found bureau, sponsored by the Social Service committee of the Y, will be located on second floor of Johnson hall and will be open on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays from 12:30 o'clock to 1 o'clock, according to Elizabeth Hopper, chairman.

Articles found on the campus are to be turned in at the dormitory offices from which they will be collected by committee members and taken to the Bureau. The list of articles at the Bureau will be posted on the Y bulletin board.

Committee members are Mary Crawford, Ruth Gregory, Polly McGill, Sarah Ellen Cunningham, Alice Timmerman, Dorothy Clarke, Virginia Stevenson, Betty Martin, Alice Martin, and Lucretia Brabham.

KINARDS RETURN TO CAMPUS AFTER SUMMER VACATION NEAR BLACK MOUNTAIN

Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Kinard have returned to campus life from their summer cabin near Black Mountain.

Dr. Kinard made his first appearance before the student body at Wednesday's assembly, and greeted briefly the gathering after a warm introduction by President Shelton Phelps. "I'm always glad to be back at Winthrop, to see you students, and I want you to come to see me—all of you," he said. He received a loud and long applause from the assembly that included many faculty members.

Uniforms to be "Tickets" To '39-'40 Artist Numbers

Students will not be issued Artist Course tickets this year, but will be admitted to performances only if they are attired in full uniform, according to A. M. Graham, business manager.

All seats on first floor, except for the center section, will be occupied by students. Dormitories will rotate as to preferred seating positions, and ten minutes will be allotted for the seating of each group. Anyone arriving after her group has been seated must take a seat wherever one can be found.

Dr. Taylor to Address Presbyterian Students

Dr. H. Kerr Taylor, educational secretary of the Executive committee of Foreign Missions in the Southern Presbyterian church, will speak to the Presbyterian Student association at Oakland Presbyterian church Sunday at 5 o'clock.

All students are invited to hear Dr. Taylor.

Lawrimore Plans Dixie Tourney Features

The first National Direct-Clash Debate tourney in the history of forensics will take place during the annual Dixie Tournament scheduled for December 7-9, according to Mildred Lawrimore, Grand President of the Dixie Tournament.

Six colleges have already accepted invitations to attend the tournament. Those accepting are the University of Florida, University of Georgia, Mars Hill, Wake Forest, North Carolina State college, and Carson-Newman.

Since this is a practice tournament, a series of clinical debates have been arranged for the inexperienced contestants.

Contests for the tournament will be straight debating, direct clash debating, problem solving, best debaters' contest, argumentation, after-dinner, response to the occasion, harangue, oratory, impromptu, extempore speaking, radio announcing, and poetry reading for women.

Social festivities will include buffet supper by the three societies of Debaters' league; a program by the College band; "Cake Cuttings" in each society; and an Artist course program.

The Winthrop college orchestra will present a concert before the annual "Dixie Forensic Wedding."

CASUALLY

"The This club" will meet in the gym at 8:30 tonight. "The That club" will meet in Johnson hall at 8:30 tonight. Class A will meet at 8:30 tonight. The "Dash club" will—and so one girl tries to be in four places at one time. In an effort to remedy this situation a meeting of the presidents of all organizations was called last week. A plan was formulated whereby a committee will make a permanent calendar of all the meetings on the campus. Object in view: To try to arrange the calendar so that there will be fewer conflicts. I imagine that you harassed and over-worked members of untold clubs will enjoy being able to say, "Yes, I have a meeting tonight!"

● Equipped with glasses and spoons, while droves of us stare at every Saturday Destination: the farm. Purpose: at least a pint of caramel and grenou' ice cream with maybe a dash of chocolate. Scallions of us—each with an arm-dreined of capacity for ice cream. We descend like a swarm of locusts and literally eat the farm out in toto. More fun. There's no other way to get it! cheerfully provides afternoon refreshments in such huge quantities.

● Heard a senior—a training "school"—say, "I was so embarrassed the other day. One of my pupils asked me a question about the war, and I simply did not know a thing about it." With a lugubrious sigh she added, "I've had to read the papers ever since." She might be an extreme case, but I'm willing to wager my only out-of-uniform hat that there's other girls up here who know just about as little as she did of what is going on in the world. Better listen, or read, or ask, or something. If you don't, you're likely to feel terribly silly Thanksgiving when you say, "I hope Warsaw can hold out against Hitler," and Elmer eyes you with truly masculine contempt and mutters, "Just like a woman!"

● I read a book last week—a book so powerful that I have not been able to forget it. I am still reading it. Figuratively, I mean. I can see whole episodes, remember faces and souls, and recite lines I would prefer to forget. I had heard a great deal about this book, "Steinbeck's 'Grapes of Wrath,'" before I read it. I'm sure that you have too. Your reaction to the columns of Steinbeck criticism may be—as mine was—a negative one. Well, if you change your mind, I promise you an experience you won't soon forget—though you probably will wish to.

● I waited in the infirmary for two hours for my turn to be pinched, punched, and probed—waited, muttering all the conventional gripes about how I hated spending so much time in the infirmary, and how I had so much to do. In spite of all my meaningless maledictions, I really think—as all of you must—that this ambitious plan of Dr. DeWitt's to examine all of the students is an excellent idea. Most of us feel this way. We realize that it is futile to examine one class and no others. Our plain old common sense should tell us to give over cheerfully and get it over with.

Steering Body Of Senate Is Reorganized

The steering committee of the Senate, student law making body, will work this year on a shift basis instead of as a permanent body, according to Christine Riley, president.

A different group of senators will be asked to serve on the committee for each meeting. A senator showing particular interest in a subject to be discussed will be made responsible for that subject. She will gather information both pro and con, and will present it at a meeting to be held between the faculty advisory board meeting and that of the Senate.

The in-between meets will be held to correct any misleading ideas and to get a more unified view of subjects to be discussed at the regular Senate meetings.

In the shifting of committee members, each senator will be given the opportunity to serve some time during the year.

English Class Plans To Write Source Book on Poland

All its started when Miss Hall's children literature class chose Poland as the subject upon which to work with the principle of making distant places actualities in the mind of the elementary pupil.

But the class met and reported a fruitless combing of the library for children's books on Poland. They were scarcer than hen's teeth. The members of the class simultaneously had an inspiration. Why not make their own source book of Poland?

No sooner thought than planned. According to the plan set forth, each girl will describe in a short article a different aspect of Polish life, the traditions and customs, the geography, the famous salt mines, the gloomy steppes, the forests.

Lives of heroes and famous composers, such as Paderewski and Chopin, will be included in the book, along with Polish legends and folk-tales, songs, dances, recipes for Polish dishes, and pictures of Polish needlework.

The class plans to have the book ready for exhibit during the Teacher Exchange week in November.

"The only thing," Miss Hall said somewhat sadly, "is that by then, we may have the story of an extinct country."

Salaries of Barnard college graduates and undergraduates who were given positions through the college occupation bureau last year totalled $173,443.

Promoted Freshmen Give Credit To Teachers Back-Home

By ELIZABETH CUNNINGHAM

They may be the "brain trust" of the campus of '40, but outwardly they are no different from the 488 other freshmen at Winthrop—and they aren't conceded either. When asked how they happened to "rate" sophomore English or French, they all answered, "I had a grand teacher in high school," or "Just luck! I thought there was some mistake when I heard about it."

These freshman intelligentsia are no more literary-minded than the ordinary Winthrop girl, but the mention of books is inevitably followed by a frank discussion of "Rebecca." Almost everyone of the forty-two advanced freshmen has either read the book or is fighting madly for a copy.

Tyrone Power is the overwhelming choice of movie stars among the girls with Charles Boyer and Richard Gere as runners-up. But oddly enough, three-fourths of the brilliants prefer other forms of entertainment to picture shows and only attend "when there is nothing better to do."

The average "brain-truster" is not very athletic, but enjoys a game of tennis occasionally. Sport clothes are the order for every-day campus wear with the girls, but when Sunday rolls around, the intelligentsia turn out in "sissy" blouses and frilly dresses (with the exception of one semisophisticate who prefers clothes that "draps").

Like every Winthropian, the underlying love of these freshmen-sophomores at Winthrop is food. They patronize the canteen extensively and merely exist between meals which end with ice cream—although several express persistent cravings for tomatoes, pineapple spread, boiled ham, and peanut candy.

The freshman "brain-trusters" are just ordinary Winthrop girls with only one thing in common—"We love Winthrop," they all agree. "And we wouldn't go to any other school."

STUDIED All but two of the 21 LATIN freshmen who were promoted, to sophomore English, studied Latin in high school, points out Dr. Dennis Martin. "Of the two students who had no Latin, one had had four years of French, the other two years. This seems an interesting illustration," points out Dr. Martin, "of the contribution the study of foreign languages makes to a knowledge of English."

Classics Fraternity Invites Four For Membership

Margaret Dukes, junior from Orangeburg; Arminia Langston, junior from Laurens; Nell Ecker, junior from Columbia; and Alice Blake, junior from Darlington, were issued bids to Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classics fraternity, this week, according to Helen Dickson, president.

Miss Mary Macdonald, hostess of McLaurin dormitory, and Miss Sarah Davis, assistant librarian, were asked to become honorary members of the club.

Initiation will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday night in Johnson hall.

Secondary Ed Club Makes Plans

Plans for the coming year and a trip to King's Mountain were discussed at the first meeting of the year of the Secondary Education club, campus organization, at 8:30 o'clock Friday in Johnson hall.

Committee chairman and their assistants for the year were announced at the meeting. They are as follows: program committee, Ruth Feagie, chairman; Margia Denny, and Sally Lathrop; publicity, Catherine Metzgar, chairman; Lois McKay, Frances Adams; socials, Sara and Lois McConnell.

A special course in the Russian language and literature has been added to the Cornell university curriculum.

Three Will Attend Columbia Music Meet

Dr. W. B. Roberts, head of the music department, Mrs. Roberts, and Miss Constance Wardle, instructor in voice, will represent the "Dorian and College music clubs at a meeting and luncheon of the officers of the South Carolina Federated Music clubs at Hotel Columbia, Columbia, Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. Roberts constitute the committee on college music and folklore. Miss Wardle is on the College choral directors committee.

Gold Fly, 'Big Butch', Is Only a Gold Brick

By Morrell Gipson

"Big Butch—five hundred dollars—Big Butch—five hundred dollars" echoed down the corridors of North dormitory the other night and brought a curious crowd to the door of Virginia Herring and Eugenia Chandler. Inside, they found the room-mates and Margia Denny sitting like three of the Marx Brothers over what appeared to be an ordinary fly crawling across in a bottle.

Between screams, they explained that it wasn't an ordinary fly—it was Big Butch, the fly that the Phi company had painted gold and let loose in Columbia a month before. "Butch's" worth five hundred dollars, dead or alive!

"Bee!" Eugenia pointed to a tint of gold on the fly's back. "There's the proof—all we have to do is take him to Columbia and collect."

They had an explanation for Big Butch's extraordinary yen for traveling. "Margia's parents had brought her up from Columbia from a week-end and Big Butch just hopped in the car and came along. And when she got out he did, too."

Big Butch was carefully smothered and sprayed with Phi's. The Phi was supposed to kill him, but his owners weren't taking any chances. Fortunately enough, the gold began to fade—they strongly suspected the Phi—so the problem was to get him to Columbia immediately. Arrangements were made, and Big Butch departed in the care of trusted friends.

While they were waiting for the good news, Virginia, Margia, and Eugenia tried to divide the expected five hundred dollars evenly by three.

News came—but not the expected. The Phi contest had closed September 23!

Juniors Elect Representative And Two Senators

Rosalind Karns was elected a Student Government representative from the junior class at a class meeting Friday in Main auditorium. Helen Atkinson was chosen a permanent senator and Kate Macfie, a temporary senator.

Rosalind, from Spartanburg, is vice-president of the Y. Helen, from Timmonsville, is a member of Le Cercle Francis, and Debutiers' League. Kate is from Fairfield.

Definite plans for a party for the freshman class, sister class of the juniors, were also made at the meeting.

The University of Illinois is constructing new campus buildings at a cost of $3,400,000.

Honor Bright

Honor is being put to the test again. Candy is to be sold in each dormitory. The proceeds from the sales will go to make up a Student Loan fund for financially dependent students.

The jars of candy are to be left unguarded and unlocked. The girls are strictly on their own. They are being trusted implicitly to serve themselves and drop the correct change into the bank. College girls deserve this trust and responsibility.

In addition to being placed on your honor to purchase and sell, you have the commendable proposed use to be made of the loan fund to encourage you to make more and bigger purchases.

A Plan for Weekends

Freshmen, you have two weekends granted to you a semester. In addition, there are the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. Four opportunities to go home—and five months (twenty weekends) to chase those precious away-from-campus days.

Some freshmen, so we've heard, have rarely used both weekends—and only four weeks of the semester gone. Now the other four months (with both the holidays seeming coast away) stretch before them.

But the rest of you plan a little in advance for those few-and-far-between weekends! Space them all through the semester—use in October, perhaps, then the Thanksgiving holidays for November, Christmas in December, and there's still one last weekend for the month of January.

That's a trip home a month—and you'd be surprised, freshmen, how that spreading out helps the time to fly between visits and how much happier that time will be.

Traffic Rules for P.O. Jams

Seventeen hundred girls and each and everyone of them is in a dither and rush to get that letter and be off to the next class. Girls going out push girls coming in, and girls standing still are squeezed out and in. And it's all utterly useless.

There's a very definite, orderly, and simple organization about trafficking the post office jam. Simply walk into the post office through the back door and come out through the front. Always walk to the right and keep moving. It'll surprise you how smoothly and easily the crowd will move through the building. And no one will get shoved, and no one will get stepped on, and everyone will get her mail and also get to class on time.

Permit Us to Ponder

Some meditation should have been given to the student body before Wednesday's assembly that it would be asked to vote on a question of vital interest to it at that session.

The failure to do so neatly was the cause of the wavering sentiment when the question was put.

We suggest, too, a called meeting for such matters, rather than the use of regular assembly program time.

Of Readers

To the Editor of The Johnsonian

Every Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock, the patter patter of marching feet, together with the trooping of bows and beams of drums, can be heard coming from the back behind the auditorium. For the Winthrop college band has started to work this year with a bang! Filled with enthusiasm and interest, we band members have for the past three weeks been practicing unceasingly. Three times a week we gather—twice in the music hall auditorium to practice concert music, and once on the field to march. Morning, noon, and night we band the music hall.

Marching, memorizing parts, practicing scales, getting our instruments in "apple-pie order"—we are getting ourselves ready for the best year possible.

For us, to be in the band is one of the biggest thrills a Winthrop girl can have. We are proud to be a part of such a worthwhile, constructive, and growing organization. Also, we realize that the band is an excellent advertisement for our Alma Mater.

We are proud of our band and the progress it has made in its one year. We feel too that the whole school shares in this feeling of pride. And we believe that in the next few years it will not only be dubbed the "band of the future" but also the "biggest and best all-girls' band in the world".

Early classes left trees, later ones scholarships; a long and varied list of

Gifts From Seniors Memorialize Old Grads

In addition to the impressions made by their personalities, their activity records, their campus accomplishments, Winthrop graduating classes since way back have left with their Alma Mater more tangible mementos of their having passed this way.

The early custom of tree planting gave way to that of leaving gifts to the college in the form of a check. The senior class of that year established the precedent with the presentation of a book of Johann Heinrich Pestalozzi, Swiss educator.

The class of 1909 followed the artistic trend with two plaques, hung in Bancroft hall. There are no records of the gifts by the classes of 1910 and 1911.

The class of 1913 beautified back campus with a rustic bridge built over a small stream. Stream and bridge alike are now gone, to make way for the present athletic field and amphitheater.

The class of '18, evil luck, failed to leave any memento of their gift.

The 1914 group left a massive stone fern box, embossed with classical figures. The box is today at the front entrance of Main building, at the right of the senior steps.

The seniors of 1915 may have forested the influenza epidemic of later years. They provided the infirmary with a book case of novels for the pleasure of convalescents.

Concerning the gift of the class of 1916 there is speculation. The president of the class reports the establishing of a scholarship fund, held a year or so by a "girl from Chester". How much the fund was, where it is today, and who the "girl from Chester" cannot be verified by College records.

When in 1917 plans for a student building were undertaken, the senior class contributed a sum of money to the construction of what today is Johnson hall.

What 1918 left is again a matter of some mystery. The class of 1919 gave $110 to the United States War campaign, and presented the college with a service flag bearing 39 stars.

That which the class of 1920 left is so much a part of the daily life of the college that students are unaware that it is a class gift, a gift that has become the symbol of Winthrop college—the tower clock.

In keeping with the time, the 1921 class furnished the newly completed Johnson hall with its handsome chiming Grandfather clock.

1922 makes another gap in the record. That was given nobody seems to know.

At commencement in 1923 the president of the graduating class handed Dr. Johnson a check to buy the first amplifying system in Main au-

Designated, no doubt, for the up-shipment of feminine vanity, 1924's gift still stands in the front hallway of Main building. The great tall mirror, during its 15 years of being there, has doubtless met every Winthrop girl face to face.

The 1925 class invested its class gift fund in the marble benches and the crystal stand that are at the left of Main building.

The class of 1926 had portraits painted of Dr. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson. The portraits face each other down the length of the lobby in Johnson hall.

Thanks for the brick summer house on back campus is due to the class of '27, and for the marble drinking fountain at the right of Main building, to the class of 1928.

In 1929, when Dr. Johnson died, the senior class had the privilege of leaving the stone slab memorial for his grave on front campus. The memorial is now placed over Dr. Johnson's present resting place in the little chapel.

Beginning in 1930 and continuing through 1933, senior classes left varying funds to be used as scholarships: $500 in 1930, $600 in 1931, $500 in 1932, $250 in 1933, $180 in 1934, $125 in 1935.

In addition to money for scholarship funds, several of these recent classes left other gifts. The class of 1933 gave the high-backed benches at the Shack. That of 1934 placed the brick Winthrop college markers on Oakland avenue. The group of 1935 gave the chair in which President Phelps sits on the stage.

The fountain at the side of the library was the gift of the class of 1936, and the frame of Dr. Kinnard's portrait in Main building, the gift of the class of 1937.

The handsome desk and desk chair in Dr. Phelps' office was given him by his "own" graduating class, the class that entered Winthrop with him, in 1934.

The gifts of the class of 1939 are still shining with their newness—the two mirrors in the lobby of the new auditorium.

Down through the years have the senior classes kept the tradition, each class leaving something of itself in the gift it gave to the college.

Looks at Books and Things

Reviews and journals and surveys of this and that . . . American and English and French publishers . . . statistics and humor and stories and household hints—all inclusive is the scope of the nearly 300 periodicals accessible in our college library.

The journals and reviews of professional status lead in number—as many a harassed parallel reader can tell you. A score around the shelves, however, will bring to light many a magazine that hits the spot when you're on a let's-get-away-from-it-all browse around the library.

"Scientific American" and "Discovery", for example, cover modern curbs from the mind with their popular treatment of the latest finds in science, from microscopic animals to cancer or bias or photography.

Or maybe you are the aesthetic type and prefer to dip into those two magazines of beauty, "Magazine of Art" and "The Connoisseur". Excellent photographs of works in various media, from the masters to the moderns, illustrate both these publications. If you have any sort of weakness for old silver and furniture, don't overlook, please, the advertisements in "The Connoisseur".

For a peek into fashionable, luxurious suburban living, read "Country Life", replete with beautiful pictures of homes, dogs, sporting events, and homes of the wealthy who lead the "simple life".

If you're a student in a special field you'll find your hobby, no doubt, discussed in some of the more specialized magazines. For star gazers there is "The Sky" or "Popular Astronomy". For current events fans are numerous periodicals interpreting the news of the world, as well as "Vital Speeches of the Day" for the individualist who likes his oratory undisturbed.

Are your world-tourists on track to get their heart's delight through the pages of "Travel", "The National Geographic", "Aids", and "Mexico". Students of music can keep up with their favorite acts—Duke Frensi or Nelson Eddy—in "Musical America".

A magazine for every field, our library offers, and a magazine, in fact, for every whim. Find your favorites during your next recess period.

He'd never noticed the year-old hat before!

The person that wrote this for The Davidsonian has an admirable command of tense-forms as well as a pretty good idea:

I'd rather be a could-be
If I could not be an are,
'Cause a could-be is a might-be
With a chance of reaching par.
I'd rather be a has-been
Than a might-have-been by far,
For a might-have-been has never

And a has was once an are.
Here's a motto for the wall of bull-essentials who rapacize over edibles—anything from lemon chiffon pie to the lowly hamburger. Ogen Nash puts it this way:

Food,
Yes, food,
Just any old kind of food,
Push for the cook,
And push for the priest
Some of it's slower, but all of it's solid!

Food,
Just food,
Just any old kind of food,
Let it be sour,
Or let it be sweet,
As long as you're sure it's something to eat.
Through thick and through thin
I am contentedly in
The mood
For food.

And speaking of food—the knee-length socks that haunted us in grammar school days have made their appearance at Winthrop, thanks to the Johnson sisters. Anyhow, it means an ice-cream soda from one who predicted that it would take them (the socks, not Emily and Benjie) a year to get here.

Perhaps your feeling about the European war is expressed by the girl who says she's neutral. "She doesn't care which country kills Hitler." From Julia Ledbetter's scrap-book (oh, those scrap-books) comes an ode, "To Any-one's Boy-Friend":

It seems to be a thing quite and
That you, like love, are gratis,
And that you say the same sweet things
To one of any status.
While deep within I chuckle with
All that most serene bliss,
As I note your delicate point
Of life democracy:
A kiss from servant-girl or queen,
A Mary, Grace, or Lola—
All from you reap a like reward,
An ice-oh! coc-cola.
This newest version of an old jingle speaks to us:
"Thirty days hath October,
April, June, and November,
All the rest have passed better,
Even December,
And it has the best week!"

AAU.W. Reception For New Members Given Monday Night In Johnson Hall

The annual reception to honor new members of the American Association of University Women was held Monday night at 8:30 in Johnson hall.

Dr. Helen G. Macdonald, president, greeted the guests. In the absence of Mrs. Loraine Simril, membership chairman, the new members and friends were introduced by Mrs. Kate Glenn Hardin to the social chairman, Miss Lois Black, who presented them to Dr. Helen Macdonald, the new president of the A. A. U. W. Receiving with the president were Miss Tompkins, Dr. Margaret Buckner, and Miss Mary Calvert.

The other hostesses were Miss Florence Andrews, Miss Bessie Garrison, Miss Edna Miehler, Miss Ethel Owings, Miss Bessie Poag. The guests were welcomed as they arrived by Miss Ruth Stephenson, Elizabeth Stinson, and Pansy Strong.

Dr. Macdonald, in the course of the evening, welcomed the guests as a group, and gave a brief sketch of the development and growth of the American Association of University Women. Miss Constance Wardle, accompanied by Miss Ermine Willong, sang several selections.

Mrs. Ernst Kanitz gave an account of her life at the University of Vienna as a student.

The original folk songs from the Austrian Alps, arranged for women's chorus and piano by Dr. Ernst Kanitz, were sung by a group of members of the Winthrop College Glee club, Emily Beebe, Nell Hamilton, Nell Moore, soprano; Reba Smith, Katherine Gurley, mezzo-soprano; Frances Carville, and Edna Holmes, contralto. Margaret E Nims accompanied the group. Miss Ruth Roettinger had arranged an exhibit of international interest, including maps of Europe and the latest books and pamphlets on the European situation.

Sherbert and crackers were served.

Back-to-School Birthday Party Given By Y For Those Born In September

The YWCA party for those having birthdays in September was given Saturday night after the show in Johnson hall. The theme was "back to school" with Rose Wilcox as the school teacher and Mrs. Reese Massey, Methodist student secretary, as the superintendent.

Rose gave lessons in the 3 R's and Mrs. Massey directed games during recess.

Special guests were Miss Chlo Fink, Miss Gladys Smith, Mrs. Reese Massey, and Dr. and Mrs. William Fort.

Refreshments, typical school lunches, which were served in brown paper sacks, were ham biscuits, apples, and crackers.

Boston Tea Party Given Masquers

Miss Florence Mims entertained the members of Masquers with a real Boston tea party in the Masquer room in Johnson hall yesterday afternoon. The guests were met at the door by Miss Mims and the officers of Masquers.

Reba Smith sang "The Boston Tea Party", and a contest was held for which pictures copied from the Holy Grail Painting in the Boston public library were given as prizes. During the afternoon Miss Mims told of some of her experiences in Boston where she spent a part of the summer.

Miss Mims served sandwiches, cheese crackers, stuffed olives, salt water taffy from Boston, and tea from Amoy, China (the kind that was thrown overboard at the famous Boston tea party).

MISS HALL GIVES TEA FOR JOURNAL STAFF

Miss Maude Hall entertained the Journal staff with a tea last Friday afternoon. The guests were invited out to Miss Hall's home, Parma Sed Apts, on Lucas street.

The staff members discussed new ideas for The Journal as they were served tea and sandwiches.

The junior class gave its annual party for the freshman class yesterday afternoon. The party, which was given in North court room four to six, followed the theme of Ferdinand the Bull, the freshman class mascot.

The invitations and decorations were in keeping with the Ferdinand theme and the freshman class colors, garnet and gray. The program, directed by Sylvia Noss, was begun by several violin solos by Margaret Fink, Maggie and Messadors Lunn sang, and Mary Jane Sanford, accompanied by Louise Fike, gave a saxophone solo. Margaret McMillan and Sara Landrey gave piano duets. Angeline Towill sang, and Frances Jenkins, class pianist, played. Susan Jones tapped as Emily Johnson read the story of Ferdinand the Bull.

The committee heads, appointed by Mary Riley Whitaker, junior class president, were Jean Brown, invitations; Joe Strubling, decoration; Sylvia Noss, entertainment; Dorothy McCowa, refreshments.

Refreshments were garnet and gray block ice cream and crackers.

Here and There

Clever and novel ideas were the themes of parties given this week. The "school-days" party last Saturday was a big success. The guests even had to form lines in a common school to come in the front door. Rose Wilcox was the perfect school "marm", even to the horn-rimmed glasses, and the guests were the typical "brats" even to the spitballs.

The Ferdinand party given by the juniors to the freshmen was another party with original ideas. Emily Johnson, the matador, and Susan Jones, the bull, gave a good interpretation of the story.

Another of the informal get-together parties was the one given by the Jewish girls Wednesday night. The party was a waffle supper at Adeline's. The purpose was to become acquainted with the freshmen.

Faculty notes: Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Noel spent the weekend in Winston-Salem. Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Gove and Miss Ruth Stephenson attended the wedding of Virginia Campbell, former Winthrop student of the class of '38, last night in Charlotte. Mrs. Kate G. Hardin and Miss Ruth Stephenson will attend the wedding of Dorothy Stroud, former Winthrop student of the class of '37, tonight in Chester. Miss Ida Dacus spent last weekend in Columbia.

The freshman counselors, under the direction of Messadors Lunn, have organized themselves and now have regular monthly meetings and refreshments. Their first meeting was held Monday night.

Another engagement of a former Winthrop girl is that of Miriam Lancaster, Woodruff, of the class of '38, to J. Todd Hope of Sharon. The wedding will take place in October.

They Leave the Campus—Cappy Covington spent last weekend visiting Phyllis Harris, former Winthrop student in Atlanta. Lois Williams spent the weekend with Frances Yates in Darlington. Martha Marion Jordan played a violin solo at the wedding of Virginia Campbell, former Winthrop student, in Charlotte last night. Edwina Ryle and Irma Blackstone spent the weekend at Davidson. Ann Rachel and Rae Hussbaum spent the weekend in Columbia. Edna Sleeper spent the weekend in Durham. Jennelle Brown, Martha Allen, and Toas Hope spent Sunday in Columbia. Margaret Cockrell spent the weekend in Spartanburg with Grace Cockrell. Frances Bates spent the weekend in Charlotte with Mrs. Frederickson. Jean Fawcett spent the weekend in Spartanburg. Jean Winter spent the weekend in Spartanburg with Evelyn Lister. Nina Watson attended the wedding of Mary Ritter in Kingstree last Saturday. Wilhelmina Stuckey spent last weekend with Katherine Douglas in Columbia. Gladys Johnson spent the weekend in Charlotte.

Tri Beta Bids Ten Students, Four Faculty

Ten students and four faculty members and officers were issued bids to Beta Beta Beta, national honorary club for biology students, recently, according to Lois McKay, president.

The following faculty members have been asked to become active members of the club: Dr. Margaret E. Buckner, infirmary physician; Dr. Margaret Hess, head of the biology department; and Miss Alice Tingley and Miss Mary Schuchart, instructors in biology.

Committee to Help Graham Vary Saturday Program

A student committee to cooperate with A. M. Graham, business manager, in varying the Saturday night movie program with plays, glee club concerts, and other forms of entertainment will be appointed Monday night by the Student Government council, according to Harriet Culler, president.

The question of varying the Saturday night entertainment was before the student body by Harriet in assembly Wednesday. To send a committee to Mr. Graham was decided upon by student hand vote.

Hudson Speaks at Volunteer Meet

A discussion on "Jesus, the Greatest Missionary" was led by Sara Lee Hudson at the regular meeting of Student Volunteers, religious organization, Sunday in Johnson hall.

Taking part in the discussion were Violet Long, Margaret Hayes, Mureida Rector, Eleanor Foxworth and Elizabeth West.

Tryouts for "The Color Line" a play to be presented by Student Volunteers at vespers, were held by Bess Moses, chairman of deputations, Thursday.

Girl Scouts and Advisers Honored

Miss Sadie Goggans and Miss Dena Lochhead gave a garden party Saturday night at their home on Myrtle Drive from 8:30 to 1:30 o'clock for their freshman and sophomore advisers and the Girl Scouts.

Games were played and punch and cookies were served by the Girl Scouts.

Togs and Trapping

By Rosanne Guess

Of course you know, didn't you, that you must not button but one, the top, button of your outer sweater - garment. That to make it more hanging. Also an unbuttoned a bit style-error would be to wear the sleeves in their original smooth - wrist - length shape. You must give them a push-up above the elbows. After ever after, be worn in the same wrinkles.

Now the kerchief that has been quite the most wonderful cover for screwed-up-bobby-pinned hair or rain-straightened-and-straggled locks can be used on sunny days for a bag or a belt.

The long-sleeves forecast will probably be long-lived, so long as Miss College Girl doesn't tire herself of rolling them up in the mornings. The designers of the long-sleeved or any-sleeved shirts feel that it really doesn't require much effort to button all the buttons and tuck in the tails. But, of course, the practical-minded maids who know how to dress will avoid anything so neat as stuffing the tails beneath the skirt. Tails must either be flapped out all the way or better still, pulled out and tied into a knot where the belt buckle rarely ever is.

And the new long-legged socks for legs that feel the cold will also not be worn as designed, but will get a big push downward till the whole long sock is back down around the ankle. If you're neat minded, though, or if you're enough of a radical to buy a pair at all, you may roll them carefully down instead of the preferred form of pushing them carelessly down.

Such things as heavy chain necklaces—you can snap around your waist if it's small enough.

And such same dirty saddle shoes are still smart. Indeed, you violate the college code and mode if you polish shoes. They look so much better when they're worn up at the toe, down at the heel, and dirty all over. Shoes, too, must cultivate a personality. And the pair with the most and the brightest character are the one-shoe-red, one-shoe-silver shades of a Miss "Baggage". Maybe you have met them. For if you meet the owner it's not easy to miss the shoes. Don't know their age and forget their size, but... Here's to this year's distorted fashions!

"Alexander Graham Bell" Stars Ameche, Young on Saturday

From the efforts of a hungry inventor tinkering with copper wires stems a great invention and a great movie. Alexander Graham Bell—his to above and his tender love for a deaf girl unfolds in a poignant Saturday night movie.

Don Ameche and Henry Fonda join forces and struggle and starve and struggle some more until—a drop of spilled acid uncovers the telephone. Lorena Young, who keeps his creative fire burning even when starvation and defeat are hounding him, is rewarded by becoming Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell. Their love letters figure in the dramatic court scene which is the highlight of the movie.

And still skates furnish pleasure—but this time to faculty members. Miss Tingley and Dr. Buchner were seen recently gliding in and out of the shadows under cover of darkness.

Visiting for popularity with the Saturdays' afternoon football games are the Sunday afternoon Columbia Symphony orchestra concerts. Numerous were the remarks and sighs over a series of Strauss' waltzes last Sunday.

Folk Dancers The Folk Dancing club held its first meeting of the year last night at 6:30 o'clock in the gymnasium, according to Harriett Wannamaker, chairman of the club.

Each member of the club chose her costume for the year. Plans were made for a party next week.

The freshman hockey players really have what it takes. In spite of the heat they've been out there every afternoon watching, trying, questioning, learning. And now they're ready for anything!

ARCHERY Fifty would-be archers joined the Archery club Monday afternoon, bringing the total membership to eighty-four, according to Wilma Abrams, chairman.

At a meeting Tuesday night in the gymnasium, members were divided into six groups of fourteen each. Practices started on Wednesday, and will be held every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons from 4 o'clock to 6 o'clock.

Comic tournaments will be an amusement feature of the club. Plans have been made for many socials during the winter.

It would take one person 141 years to complete all of the courses offered by the University of Texas.

RULES Rules for the use of the College tennis courts have been posted in the gymnasium so that misunderstandings may be avoided and better use of the courts encouraged, according to Miss Marion Fugitt, instructor in physical education.

The following rules must be observed by tennis players: 1. Players must sign for tennis courts on the bulletin board in the gymnasium; 2. No person may use the courts for more than one hour at a time; 3. Players who have signed for courts may claim them at any period of a game from players who have not signed; 4. Courts may not be signed for more than one day in advance; 5. The names of all players must be signed; 6. Courts will be reserved on designated days for use of tennis club members only; 7. Courts four and five will be used for match play; and 8. Tennis shoes are required.

A beginner was having a tennis game. She might not want me to tell you all her name. High into the air soared her ball. She thought maybe it would not fall. And 'bout that time along came a bird. Behind him a second, then a third. And before the player could make an objection The bird greeted the ball with filial affection. "Hi, Bud."

There are all kinds of pins—straight pins, safety pins, clothes pins—in the kind that furnishes most fun here is ten-pins. Bowling is still popular, especially 'round about supper time.

SENIOR LIFE SAVERS TAKE PRELIMINARY COURSE Senior Red Cross life savers can take the 15-hour preliminary to the instructor course in the pool at 6 o'clock Mondays and Fridays beginning today, according to Miss Margaret Lee, instructor in physical education.

The instructors course will be given by Charles Mix, famous authority, from November 2 through December 1 inclusive. The preliminary course is a prerequisite to the instructorship.

The Ohio university football team was defeated in a home football game from 1927 to 1937.

Fall is here, fall is here—we know it, we know it, we know it. Pecans are beginning to come down to earth and many have been the nuts nutting in front of North.

Modern Dance Approximately 17-40 girls are reporting weekly for beginners' modern dancing, according to Miss Alice Hayden, instructor in physical education. The club for beginners was organized this year by the Modern Dance club.

Any student interested in costume designing, percussion instruments, photography, stagecraft, lighting, or any other phases of the arts are asked to report at the regular club meetings on Tuesdays at 4 o'clock.

Weekends mean something different to every Winthrop girl—and the same for you. No, it's not a riddle. To some weekends mean a time to rest, to others a time to study, but to all it means men on the campus.

Freshman Lois Rhave has one of the quickest serves in the game, and she is going to give plenty of people some moments of anxiety before the tennis tournament is over.

All these stiff legs that may have you puzzled are from modern dancing. Even the extensive setting-up that has been going on doesn't seem to help much. But don't be too sympathetic, because the dancers love it and they'll tell you any day in the week that it's worth it.

SWIMMING CLUB GAVE FAIR EXHIBITION Members of the swimming club gave a fancy exhibition for approximately sixty people at the gymnasium Friday night at 8:30, according to Marion Andrews, director of the meet.

Miss Margaret Lee, instructor in physical education, spoke briefly on the purposes and accomplishments of the club. Those representing characters in the take-off were as follows: Connie Smith, Mitchell Smith, Martha Claus, Marion Andrews, and Agnes Leland. Club members served as officials and timers also.

THREE ATTEND FESTIVAL Miss Janette Arterburn, director of public school music, Miss Florence Smyth, supervisor of music in the Training School, and Miss Constance Wardle, instructor of voice, will attend the first Artist course of the Columbia Festival series Saturday night.

With beat of drums and blaring horns, Winthrop's "biggest girls' band" paraded for the visiting United States Marine Band. To the extreme left is Mandy Morgan, drum major. To the right is Major W. F. Santelmann, acting leader of the "President's Own" band, who seemed to be overwhelmed by the six prancing twirlers.

Frosh Show Vim in Opening Hockey Play Forty determined freshmen have been reporting regularly for hockey practice in preparation for the annual tourney, according to Miss Marion Fugitt, instructor in physical education.

Physical education majors who have been helping Miss Fugitt with instruction think the beginners "look good". Practice for upperclassmen will begin Monday, with all classes reporting at 4 o'clock. Miss Fugitt said.

Mims Has Article in "S. C. Speech Bulletin" "Some Phases of Choral Speaking", an article by Miss Florence Mims, assistant professor of English, appeared in the May number of The South Carolina Speech Bulletin, according to Dr. J. W. McCain Jr., professor of English and editor of the magazine.

Dr. McCain's editorial section, "Speech and Speakers Throughout the World", was included in the issue.
