The Johnsonian December 10, 1979

Winthrop University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/thejohnsonian1970s

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/thejohnsonian1970s/227

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the The Johnsonian at Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Johnsonian 1970-1979 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. For more information, please contact bramed@winthrop.edu.
Winthrop: A Decade of Change

BY GORDON, ANDRAN, MEYERS

The end of this year marks the end of a decade, a decade which saw many changes at Winthrop, the greatest being the passage of a bill to allow men and women to attend Winthrop.

THE JOHNSONIAN believes that the last ten years at Winthrop deserve a final glance as we turn to the decade ahead of us. Knowing where we've been can help us look to where we're going.

Here through the lens of THE JOHNSONIAN, the 1970's:

1970

January:—Dorm phones offer students a new service—long distance. (Where would we be without it? Not broke, anyway!)

—Addresses of senators printed on cards may write concerning bill on contraception at Winthrop.

—Bill passed that allows alcoholic beverages at off-campus social functions. It is still illegal to drink or possess alcoholic beverages on campus or on any college property.

February:—Male students elected Town Student Senators. (Male day students were allowed at this time.)

—David Longndorf was first two males ever elected to a student government office in history of Winthrop. (Getting a foot in the door which Dan and John opened.)

March:—Push for co-education.

—The topic has been number one on our campus this year and we hope the final decision will be in favor of co-education.

—Mary Ann Anderson, TJ editor.

April:—From an article: "Many opponents to co-education feel that those students who protest it are not truly interested in sex. How often we have heard the cry 'co-ed only means co-bed!'

—THE JOHNSONIAN printed with black border. "In mourning the death of Alcohol Bill" a tinge step backward for Winthrop and Pibebate Education in "S.C."

August:—1800 men already enrolled in anticipation of passing of Co-education Bill were allowed to attend Winthrop.

September:—May Day court eliminated by senior vote (an annual Winthrop beauty contest)."
I can't STRESS it enough

The last week of school. Soon it will all be over for a majority, and this week is the main objective of nearly everyone on campus. Now is the best time to think about stress. "Think of all the stress that could have been!" was my constant companion for the last month. I just want it to be over with.

Well, sometimes taking a good look at a problem will help put it in its proper perspective. For this semester, the only solution is to do what you can and don't worry about it. After all, there's always next semester and the chance to make it better.

If you don't know them by now, you should become familiar with the stressful problems particular to college students who have to prepare for exams. According to Lima, 1979, stressors of MADMOISELLE listed and described the five most stressful college situations in the article "How to cope with stress," by Mary Jo Reinhardt. The first is "Stress of Separation" from family. Although most of us want to get away from home, as freshmen we feel a little lost. "No Mom or Dad around to talk to, you get organized, tell you what to do and when to do it," says MADMOISELLE. "In order to survive the student is required to retain herself, to take charge of her own life and to develop new relationships to replace the everyday, support network of family and old friends. A process that may take months or even years."

Second is "Stress of Freedom." At first, you wouldn't think you'd have much of a problem with this one because freedom means freedom. But with process comes the responsibility for your actions. "You don't have anyone telling you how to behave, nor do you have anyone to blame if you do things to yourself and making the inevitable mistakes leads naturally to feelings of failure and lowering of self-esteem."

Third is "Stress of Competitiveness." This problem also doesn't seem as serious, but as job prospectsdiminish and more people plan to attend graduate school, the stress of three mental graduation. "A student may feel compelled to decide between an academic or a social life: Either I spend all my time studying and get good grades or I spend time making friends and risk not getting into med school."

The fourth college situation is more widespread, "Stress of Parent Pressure." MADMOISELLE says, "The desire to be accepted by one's peers leads to extreme pressure to conform. The young woman entering college may feel everybody else is an expert in every subject. If she believes she may be embarrassed and hope no one will find out before she can 'remedy' the situation. Men also may worry about their appearance in being graded to everyone else, feel that can result in impotence. A person may also feel compelled to adopt the attitudes of her friends toward drugs and alcohol, regardless of how she really feels.

A different kind of peer pressure arises when a student finds herself in a group that expresses disdain toward going to the convention, "It could make me feel inferior," the student says.

The fifth and final college situation is "Stress of Choosing a Career." "While the late teens and early twenties can be a discovery and exploration period, MADMOISELLE says, "the student who is unsure of what her major and career will be may feel guilty about her lack of exploration of different careers. Many parents are spending all this money. People may also find themselves studying not what they enjoy, but what they believe will help them to lean on. So you have to figure things out for yourself because freshmen we felt a little lost. 'Wo Mom or Dad around to talk to you, get organized, tell you what to do and when to do it,' says MADMOISELLE. "In order to survive the student is required to retain herself, to take charge of her own life and to develop new relationships to replace the everyday, support network of family and old friends. A process that may take months or even years.'"

By Bruce McDaniel

The Seventies were no picnic, and their passing is not likely to leave us all unscathed. In this decade, America's prestige sank to new lows, first in the confusion of Vietnam, and more recently in embarrassing stand-offs with fanatical third-world leaders. An American Vice-President resigned in disgrace, due to revelations of former abuses of power in his office as Governor of Maryland. He was soon followed by the President himself, and the 'silent majority' seemed shocked as much by Nixon's vile language, revealed in the famous tapes, as by the illegal actions chronicled there.

For the first time in our history, we were told that we had lost our self-sufficiency in basic natural resources, and the gas lines made the implications of this situation painfully clear.

The myth that Americans are always the good guys was laid to rest in the jungle village of My Lai, and the once-powerful greenback was traumatized by constant inflation and world-wide deflation.

The old times felt crawling elves were driven from dozens of formerly obscure cults, and the Moonies, Krishnas and Satansists seemed scarcely more threatening than some of the Protestant variations: all wanting the same cash come-on of Carl Roberts and Jim Bakker, to the unbelievable barbarity of Jim Jones and his People's Temple.

The Seventies saw Elvis, John Wayne, Charlie Chaplin, Groucho Marx and other great wander on to greater pastures, along with Lynyrd Skynyrd and Hubert Humphrey.

Science marched on to facilitate more-efficient operations and test-tube babies, but nobody figured out how to cure cancer. "I don't think the Banne from turning into the Incredible Hulk every Friday night."

Yet, even with all the tragedies and challenges we faced in the past ten years, we in America still have much to be thankful for.

Our standard of living is still one of the highest in the world, and we can get cocky in the respect to noting that the energy weary pragmatism of two Reagan workers combined would equal to less than the figure set as the American poverty line.

Though the Muslims may damn us to hell for a thousand sins, they don't even exist in our lives, watch our T.V. shows and wear our clothes.

The appeal of the American lifestyle has really dimmed little through all our recent woes, if at all.

Go to Mexico, look around, and tell me where it is that all of those human beings are crawling under fences and swimming rivers to get into, even at their own lower lives.

If you guess Guatemala, you're wrong.

We can't have Billy Joel

Dear Editor:

The Dinkins Student Union officers would like to convey how the Student Union feels about the campus concerts situation, and possibly being a note of finality to the situation.

Since 1975, twelve concerts have been provided by the Dinkins Program Board. Such names as Pure Prairie League, John Hartford, Melba Moore, Starbuck, Mothers Best, Opus 7, Atlanta Rhythm Section, Gene Cotton and the Ohio Players have tried their luck on Byrnes stage. Only one concert, the Mothers Finest Concert, has been my constant companion for the last month. I just want to get away from it. Everyone exclaims.

The Dinkins 50's

R.I.P. 70's

Bruce McDaniel

By Bruce McDaniel

Just who are they?

To the editor:

I refer to Ronnie Laffitte's plea for response to campus concert concerns, here goes:

1) Is there a small wonder only one hundred students attended the Josh White Jr. concert? Don't seriously if a hundred or more students have never heard of Josh White, Jr. before now. The same holds true of woodstock! The answer to the question of a dance, Symphony Square. 8:30. Is what? Are they?

In any event, the response seems to be one of waiting for something "bigger" and "better."

A final decision has not yet been made. The response to THE JOHNSONIAN (two letters) and the Josh White questionnaire (45 out of the 200 distributed) may in itself be a response: "We don't care."

We can only say that Dinkins Student Union will consider every realistic option that is available, and continue to ask why.

Thank you.

Sincerely yours,
Ronnie Laffitte, President Sally Gries, Vice President

EDITORIAL POLICY

Opinions expressed on the editorial pages and in editorial columns on the features and sports pages are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily reflect the views of the administration, faculty, or student body as a whole.
An open letter to Iranian students in the U.S.

Bob Ford

Five weeks have passed since a mob of Iranian students invaded the American embassy in Tehran. They still hold 50 American citizens as prisoners. Some of the prisoners have apparently been executed throughout the city. Their fate is uncertain.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini — and the medical body of the embassy — have threatened to try the Americans as spies if our government fails to extricate the Shah. Virtually all economic ties between Iran and the United States have been severed. The crisis has steadily deteriorated until such a situation exists on the brink of war. Naval forces in the Indian Ocean and the Mediterranean — with a total of four aircraft carriers — are poised to strike Iran if necessary. Khomeini is calling for the extradition of the Shah. He apparently made your country responsible for the deaths of thousands of your fellow citizens. The only real freedom allowed in Iran is the freedom to worship, Allah, and, otherwise, to do as the Ayatollah dictates. Even under the Shah Iranians possessed more freedom than that! Both regimes displayed the same mockery of justice, the same political repression (Islamic dervishes sitting in front of ballot boxes instructing people to vote "yes" only — what kind of election is that?), the same totalitarianism.

Yours was a fruitless revolution trading national boundaries. He envisions a united nation of Islam.

The forces of Islam appear to be spreading in the Moslem world. The forces of Islam are at a crossroads. Will Iraq banks finance the rebuilding of your beleaguered nation? I think not.

And what of you who are here in America? Do you think you will enjoy the personal freedoms in Iran that you possess here? Certainly not.

The world community is trying to tell your government: Cease this senseless act. Return the hostages. Then we will investigate the Shah. America is trying to tell Iraq: Please do not make America move in and devastate Iran. We will, if necessary, read the map and protect our country.

Should it be necessary, we will certainly fight to avenge our brothers held captive.

Do yourself — and the world — a favor. Overthrow Khomeini and install a true republic. I think your nation has suffered from one-man rule long enough.

Bob Ford
This is my final

Beth Tucker

Well people, this is it. No longer will you have to listen to my pet peeves, because next semester I won't be around. Unfortunately it's because of the lack of night classes (being taught in Rock Hill), and not due to any other causes that I'm leaving, and it really grieves me that a school the size of Winthrop can not adequately fill the needs of all its students. If I were a freshman or a grad student, there would be an abundance of classes for me to choose from. But no--I have to be a Junior English major, and there's 90 plus classes in that field to begin with...

Really, the hell with it. I've started on my career after school--a young exec, without a college degree, and I'll just have to groove myself to a company, rather than a school.

Another thing; I just want to throw up when I hear someone talking about graduating early, but having absolutely not one idea what they are going to do after that. Shape up kids--most of us have an expensive three-times-a-day habit, and I believe, it doesn't fall from the sky.

And I'll just have to miss the Winthrop pranks, the meaningless parties, the "cool" people, and the social cliques. One of these days you guys will learn. And I hope the world shocks you enough to shake you out of your child's game.

Save the children

Laura Malis

As we brace ourselves for the onslaught of holiday shopping, parties, and the annual ritual of over-indulgence, the faces of starving Cambodians stare vacantly at us from the pages of daily newspapers. "The children of Cambodia await the final tragedy: extinction. One third of the population has perished. The living face death by starvation. And the children are too weak to cry. "Soon there won't be any Cambodians left at all," mourns an exhausted refugee.

In witnessing a tragedy of this magnitude, the individual often stands by, helpless, unsure of what to do, unable to believe that he or she can really make a difference. And meanwhile, the dying continues.

The fact is, of course, we can make a difference. Any contribution, no matter how small, means something to those who have nothing. The price of dinner and a movie could mean the difference between life and death for a Cambodian child.

The proceeds from a fund-raising event by a club or dorm could supply desperately needed medical supplies to a refugee camp.

But time is running out. The deathwatch has begun. Our help is needed now. Let's not be passive observers to a tragedy that may have no parallel in history. Save the Children can now provide these desperate people with food, medicine and health care. But they need our help.

Mail your contribution to Save the Children, Cambodian Relief Fund, Dept. P, Westport, CT 06880 or call toll free 800-243-5075.

This year, celebrate the holiday season with the best gift of all--a gift of life.

ENDANGERED SPECIES

The children of Cambodia

The condemned people of Cambodia await the final tragedy: extinction. One third of the population has perished. The living face death by starvation. And the children are too weak to cry. "Soon there won't be any Cambodians left at all," mourns an exhausted refugee.

Laura Malis

As we brace ourselves for the onslaught of holiday shopping, parties and the annual ritual of over-indulgence, the faces of starving Cambodians stare vacantly at us from the pages of daily newspapers. "The children of Cambodia await the final tragedy: extinction. One third of the population has perished. The living face death by starvation. And the children are too weak to cry. "Soon there won't be any Cambodians left at all," mourns an exhausted refugee.

In witnessing a tragedy of this magnitude, the individual often stands by, helpless, unsure of what to do, unable to believe that he or she can really make a difference. And meanwhile, the dying continues.

The fact is, of course, we can make a difference. Any contribution, no matter how small, means something to those who have nothing. The price of dinner and a movie could mean the difference between life and death for a Cambodian child.

The proceeds from a fund-raising event by a club or dorm could supply desperately needed medical supplies to a refugee camp.

But time is running out. The deathwatch has begun. Our help is needed now. Let's not be passive observers to a tragedy that may have no parallel in history. Save the Children can now provide these desperate people with food, medicine and health care. But they need our help.

Mail your contribution to Save the Children, Cambodian Relief Fund, Dept. P, Westport, CT 06880 or call toll free 800-243-5075.

This year, celebrate the holiday season with the best gift of all--a gift of life.

ENDANGERED SPECIES

The children of Cambodia

The condemned people of Cambodia await the final tragedy: extinction. One third of the population has perished. The living face death by starvation. And the children are too weak to cry. "Soon there won't be any Cambodians left at all," mourns an exhausted refugee.

Laura Malis

As we brace ourselves for the onslaught of holiday shopping, parties and the annual ritual of over-indulgence, the faces of starving Cambodians stare vacantly at us from the pages of daily newspapers. "The children of Cambodia await the final tragedy: extinction. One third of the population has perished. The living face death by starvation. And the children are too weak to cry. "Soon there won't be any Cambodians left at all," mourns an exhausted refugee.

In witnessing a tragedy of this magnitude, the individual often stands by, helpless, unsure of what to do, unable to believe that he or she can really make a difference. And meanwhile, the dying continues.

The fact is, of course, we can make a difference. Any contribution, no matter how small, means something to those who have nothing. The price of dinner and a movie could mean the difference between life and death for a Cambodian child.

The proceeds from a fund-raising event by a club or dorm could supply desperately needed medical supplies to a refugee camp.

But time is running out. The deathwatch has begun. Our help is needed now. Let's not be passive observers to a tragedy that may have no parallel in history. Save the Children can now provide these desperate people with food, medicine and health care. But they need our help.

Mail your contribution to Save the Children, Cambodian Relief Fund, Dept. P, Westport, CT 06880 or call toll free 800-243-5075.

This year, celebrate the holiday season with the best gift of all--a gift of life.
NEW YORK, NY (CPS)—An organization of immigration attorneys has agreed to do free civil liberties lawsuits over the government's attempts to deport "out-of-status" Iranian students until American hostages in Iran are freed, and as long as the government treats students fairly.

Association of Immigration and Nationality Lawyers (AINL) President Jonathan Avirom says his group, which represents about 1,000 immigration lawyers, has compiled with a government request to hold up lawsuits arising from President Carter's order that Iranian students report to the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) by Dec. 14.

Avirom urged monter attorneys to withhold the lawsuits after acting INS Commissioner Edward Croes said he would personally investigate reports of government abuse of Iranian students' civil rights in the reporting process. Avirom says, "Croesland has made his offices available to me on a private hot-line basis."

The INS has already demonstrated a "harrow of good faith" when it directed field offices to stop trying to get high school-age Iranians to report to the INS, President Carter's Nov. 19 order, Avirom says, "applied only to college level Iranians. There was a lot of confusion, and a lack of communication" over who was liable under the order.

After receiving complaints that high school-level Iranians were being interviewed, Croesland mandated that district INS agents leave them alone.

Otherwise, Avirom says INS behavior has been devoid of "any pattern of harassment of Iranian students.

Avirom has got to be either blind or have his head in the sand," contends Choc Sims, a national staff counsel at American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) headquarters in New York.

Sims, whose organization filed suit last week in Washington, D.C. on behalf of the California-based Confederation of Iranian Students, says the ACLU has heard of numerous instances of harassment.

Without naming names, Sims charges INS agents have been making Iranians "political questions, like If they support the Shah or the ayatollah. Those questions are plainly improper.

Indeed, after learning of the complaint, Croesland reportedly sent out a directive Nov. 25 that waved district INS offices that such questions were improper.

As the ACLU suit indicates, there is some litigation over the round-up, despite the AINL's request.

The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee filed suit Nov. 19 on behalf of all Iranian students here, claiming Carter's order violated several constitutional guarantees. Indeed, in a Nov. 27 court the case to "block enforcement in any way" of the presidential order. Both cases will be heard in Washington the first week of December.

Avirom's request to withhold litigation over the order did confirm Iranians lawyer Dale Schwartz to delay his class action suit against the government, according to the NATIONAL LAW JOURNAL. Schwartz's suit had brought AINL lawyers to New York for a Nov. 19 strategy meeting, where, it turned out, it was agreed to practice restraint.

The administration, Avirom says, apparently feared that such lawsuits might convince Iran that America was opposing a government policy during the crisis.

Sims, however, thinks the AINL request for restraint "misses the point" of the threat to Iranian students' civil rights.

"The issue involves two questions. First, are people being singled out for special treatment? and, second, being discriminated against. "

Iranian debate still heated

(CPS)—"The bill is our way of conveying feelings about the way they're treating our people over there."

The bill, introduced in the Arizona House of Representatives, would do nothing less than lift sanctions for Iranian students at state schools to legislators are sending Iranians a message, "We know." Ralph Savage, president of Chattahoochee Valley Community College in Phenix City, Alabama, told College Press Service.

Savage had moved to ban all Iranian students from enrolling in the college for winter quarter at the 2,500-student campus. There were 12 Iranian students enrolled for fall quarter.

Savage rescinded his order after talks with U.S. State Department officials.

Similarly, the board of Greenville Technical College in Greenvile, S.C., passed and then rescinded an order banning Iranians from winter registration.

"The board took the action because of their sentiments about the ban," explains Dr. Thomas Barton, president of the college, which currently has 104 Iranians on campus. The ban was to last until the hostages were released from the American embassy in Tehran.

"The board took the action because of their sentiments about the ban," explains Dr. Thomas Barton, president of the college, which currently has 104 Iranians on campus. The ban was to last until the hostages were released from the American embassy in Tehran.

Soon after the resolution passed, however, the South Carolina Board of Education, a general's office told Barton that Greenville college assemblage that INS would not hold back as long as Iranians could be inhibited.

The bill is our way of conveying feelings about the way they're treating our people over there."

The bill, introduced in the Arizona House of Representatives, would do nothing less than lift sanctions for Iranian students at state schools to legislators are sending Iranians a message, "We know." Ralph Savage, president of Chattahoochee Valley Community College in Phenix City, Alabama, told College Press Service.

Savage had moved to ban all Iranian students from enrolling in the college for winter quarter at the 2,500-student campus. There were 12 Iranian students enrolled for fall quarter.

Savage rescinded his order after talks with U.S. State Department officials.

Similarly, the board of Greenville Technical College in Greenvile, S.C., passed and then rescinded an order banning Iranians from winter registration.

"The board took the action because of their sentiments about the ban," explains Dr. Thomas Barton, president of the college, which currently has 104 Iranians on campus. The ban was to last until the hostages were released from the American embassy in Tehran.

"The board took the action because of their sentiments about the ban," explains Dr. Thomas Barton, president of the college, which currently has 104 Iranians on campus. The ban was to last until the hostages were released from the American embassy in Tehran.

Soon after the resolution passed, however, the South Carolina Board of Education, a general's office told Barton that Greenville Tech college assemblage that INS would not hold back as long as Iranians could be inhibited.

Injuries from roller skating

Hospital emergency rooms treated almost 7,900 roller skaters injuries received throughout the first seven months of 1979.

Over one-third of these injuries were fractures and while most of the injured were children and teen-agers at least 40 percent of the injured were 25 years old or older. — CNS

Discover: COUNTRY PINES GREENHOUSES

It's nice in the country. And the country's beautiful at Country Pines Greenhouses, where you can browse through the newest arrivals in plants and hanging baskets. Choose a plant for dorm or for a friend.

We offer gift wrapping and personalized service to help you with your plant's problems. It's beautiful at Country Pines.
Scholar Competition

A team of scholars from Rock Hill High School placed first at the second annual invitational mathematics tournament for high school students at Winthrop College Nov. 17. Three of the team members also placed high in the individual competition.

Members of Rock Hill's prize-winning team were Douglas Allen Gebhart, Terry Guettler, Jimmy Clute and John Gregory. James K. Colbert, Jr., was a team alternate. In individual competition, Gebhart placed second, Gebhart placed third and Chris was fifth.

Clover High School placed second in the team competition, and one of its members, Scott Applegate, placed first in the individual contest. Other members of the Clover team were Wade Austin, Bradley Brown and Scott Williford. Alternates were Maria Davis and Evelyn Love.

Placing third in the team competition was Union High School. Team members were Stanley Simmons, Jane Williamson, Jimmy Floyd and Mary Magnier. Alternates were Beth Cunningham and Robbin Oakes.

The fourth place winner in the individual competition was Thad Jennings of Northwestern High School in Rock Hill.

Other participating teams and their members and alternates were:

MAYEWOOD HIGH SCHOOL, Sumter: George E. Pack, Deborah Wheeler, Jackie Clark, Samuel Ball, Millie LeGrand and Anthony Anderson.

LANCASTER HIGH SCHOOL, Lancaster: Chris Lane, Blair Higgenstaff, Benji Clyburn, Stacie Hefner, Amelia Parr and Brenda Outlaw.

GREAT FALLS HIGH SCHOOL, Great Falls: Cindy Starnes, Maeve Blalock, Yromm Waters, Mike Talbert and Sydney Stevens.

LUCY ORTWIN HIGH, Logan: Chip Wright, Earl Tai, Jennifer Chatto, Susan Oliver and Rob Noah.

NORTHWESTERN HIGH SCHOOL, Rock Hill: Rene Herlong, Thad Jennings, Beth Heckans and John Nielson.

GAFFNEY SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL, Gaffney: Derek Persons, Ronnie Cobb, LaDonna Turner, Marcia Crocker, Jeff Greene, Margaret Moore, Frankie Steele and Chris Stephens.

CUNSTFIELD COUNTY CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL, Pageland: Ashley Brooks, .Teresa Miller, Lori Blackhans, Billy Coleman and Ray Eaves.

MAULDIN HIGH SCHOOL, Mauldin: Kim Coulier, Paul Schmidt, Thomas Rita, Neal Gainer and Laura Osborne.

We're ready to help you solve your literature problems with a complete stock of Cliffs Notes covering frequently assigned novels, plays and poems.

We appreciate your business and hope to see you soon.

GREAT FALLS HIGH SCHOOL, Great Falls: Cindy Starnes, Maeve Blalock, Yromm Waters, Mike Talbert and Sydney Stevens.

Our thanks to Miss Underhill, principal, and our staff for their assistance.

We strive to meet your needs and provide a quality service.

We appreciate your business and look forward to serving you in the future.

National College Entrance Test
For People's Republic of China

Most of the content of the first nationally standardized test taken in China since the Cultural Revolution began in 1966 are available in a report produced by the U.S. Office of Education.

Nearly six million Chinese young people seeking to qualify for entrance to a college or university took the test in July 1976.

"The 1973 National College Entrance Examination in the People's Republic of China" offers a unique glimpse of what has been happening academically in China in recent years.

"It would probably be no exaggeration," the report states, "to say that analysis of the available data related to this examination may very well provide the outside world with the most revealing clues it can hope to obtain regarding the content of the instructional programs in China's 10-year primary-secondary school system."

The 1978 examination contained tests in eight subjects: mathematics, physics, chemistry, politics, history, geography, Chinese language, and foreign languages—English, French, Spanish, Russian, German, Japanese, or Arabic.

In addition to carefully translated test questions, the report contains in-depth evaluations of each subject area. Commentaries are made by eight American educators, each of whom is knowledgeable in a particular subject.

These specialists assessed the Chinese level of sophistication in each subject area and compared it with that of similar tests in the United States.

Tests in chemistry, mathematics, and Chinese language were required of all candidates. Any candidate who had studied a foreign language was also required to take a test in one of these languages—Chinese, English, French, Spanish, Russian, German, Japanese, or Arabic.

In addition to carefully translated test questions, the report contains in-depth evaluations of each subject area. Commentaries are made by eight American educators, each of whom is knowledgeable in a particular subject.

These specialists assessed the Chinese level of sophistication in each subject area and compared it with that of similar tests in the United States.

Tests in chemistry, mathematics, and Chinese language were required of all candidates. Any candidate who had studied a foreign language was also required to take a test in one of these languages—Chinese, English, French, Spanish, Russian, German, Japanese, or Arabic.

In addition to carefully translated test questions, the report contains in-depth evaluations of each subject area. Commentaries are made by eight American educators, each of whom is knowledgeable in a particular subject.

These specialists assessed the Chinese level of sophistication in each subject area and compared it with that of similar tests in the United States.

Tests in chemistry, mathematics, and Chinese language were required of all candidates. Any candidate who had studied a foreign language was also required to take a test in one of these languages—Chinese, English, French, Spanish, Russian, German, Japanese, or Arabic.

In addition to carefully translated test questions, the report contains in-depth evaluations of each subject area. Commentaries are made by eight American educators, each of whom is knowledgeable in a particular subject.

These specialists assessed the Chinese level of sophistication in each subject area and compared it with that of similar tests in the United States.
Senate meeting November 28

Wednesday, November 28, the Winthrop College Senate held its tenth meeting. After the meeting was called to order, new business began with recommendation 5-79-80RC, which would install smoke detectors in each room of the Winthrop College Lodge. There was no debate on the recommendation. A vote was taken and the recommendation unanimously passed the reading.

The next order of old business was debate on the elections bulletin, Bill 7-70-80B. Senator Steve Banner proposed an amendment which was passed by vote. The elections bulletin, including the amendment, passed unanimously.

New business began with recommendations 4-79-80RC, which would install smoke detectors in each residence hall to be used strictly for loading and unloading for fifteen minutes per car, all weekend. The recommendation passed first reading with a 21 to 5 vote and was referred to the Student Life Committee.

The next order of business was Recommendation 6-79-80RC. This recommendation would reauthorize Action Line, a student oriented question and answer column which has appeared weekly in past JOHNSTON. A vote was taken and the recommendation passed to the Campus Review Committee. The meeting was then adjourned.

Apply now for financial aid

The Financial Aid forms for the 1980-81 school year have arrived and are ready to be completed, according to Financial Aid officer Mollie Bethea. "It's time to apply," said Bethea.

Bethea suggested that any students interested in receiving Federal Aid next year should get a Financial Aid Form from the office on Oakland and complete as much as they can during Christmas break. Some of the information required must wait until parents have completed their 1979 Income Tax Returns. Bethea said, "We urge all students to fill out this form."

The suggested deadline for 1980-81 school year Financial Aid forms is April 1, 1980. The suggested deadline for Merit Scholarship applications is February 1, 1980. It is suggested that Merit/Need Scholarship applications be returned by March 1, 1980.

This is the only suggested deadline; applications will be accepted after these dates. However, Federal review of late applications may not be complete before school starts next fall.

Give a home for the holiday

Over 100 of Winth.-o’s 125 foreign students will be spending the Christmas holidays in the Rock Hill area, according to Tom Shealy, foreign student advisor.

Students from 30 countries will stay in apartments and private homes, including those of relatives. Those of us working with the foreign students at Winthrop are constantly looking for families willing to invite a foreign student for any portion of any holiday in order that foreign students may have the opportunity to learn about American family life, customs, and hospitality," said Shealy.

Organizations assisting in providing homes, meals, and activities for the students include the Cooperative Campus Ministries Oakland Avenue Presbyterian and First Presbyterian churches, Christmas International House, and Friendship International House.

Home Ec display

Home Economics students taking courses in furniture design and fibers will have their semester's final projects displayed Dec. 10-14 at Winthrop.

About 15 to 20 students are expected to have their work, mostly wood furniture and wearing and textile projects on public display from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Room 305 of the Thurmond Building during the last week of the first semester. These are only suggested projects on public display from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Room 305 of the Thurmond Building during the last week of the first semester. These are only suggested projects on public display from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Room 305 of the Thurmond Building during the last week of the first semester.

Outing Club

The Winthrop Outing Club visited Linville Gorge and Falls, a beautiful secluded area just 24 hours from Winthrop and southeast of Boone, North Carolina, November 9, according to advisor John Dille.

Dille said that, "Earlier in the year the magnificent mountain, peaks and Mt. Laurel blooms compete successfully with Mexico’s floating gardens. But this last weekend the Winthrop Outing Club discovered a different and damp side to this flora heaven shrubbery capital of the U.S.

Dille said, "In spite of the wet weather, we enjoyed the trip and are already preparing for the survival back-packing trip to the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia. The skiing trip to Aspen, Colorado, has one vacancy left with cost $550.00 for everything for one week." Dille said that during spring break 1980, the club will be campin in Mexico and visiting New Orleans and the Cadillac Caverns along the way. Any student interested in these or any other activities of the club, please contact Dille at Ext. 2111.
Winthrop-- A Decade of Change

(Continued from page 1)

October:
- Gene Cotton and Dixie Drees perform at Winthrop.
- Trustees investigate MacFeat.

November:
- First public forum held, discussed parking, basketball ticket policy, resident hall fines, the MacFeat-Withers issue.
- Trustees review MacFeat issue.

Business Administration criteria set, only juniors eligible for courses above 299.
- Trustees decide to add baseball to athletic program.

- Toga parties gain popularity on campus, especially after the movie "Animal House".
- 500 attend Eagles basketball team's win over Wingate College.
- Count Basie performs to full audience at Byrnes.

December:
- Students lose right to evaluate professors.
- Men's basketball team plays first home game.
- MacFeat committee coming to Rock Hill.

1979
February:
- MacFeat will remain a Winthrop program for training students in child care--the end of a year-long debate.

August:
- Winthrop opens doors to almost 5000 students.
- Quality Inn leased to handle overflow.

September:
- For the third straight year, Winthrop has set an all-time enrollment record with 4,979 students registered for fall classes, a 7.3% increase over 1978.
- Fieldhouse plans are finalized: it will be a multi-purpose building capable of seating over 6,000.

October:
- Dying Winthrop traditions:

1980:
- Replacement dormitory to be erected in the area of the present high-rise dorms.
- New McLaurin Building to provide teaching and office space for the College of Arts and Sciences; special building to house the bookstore and the post office; library addition.
- New Margaret Nance building to house the School of Education.
- Modifications to be made on streets and sidewalks.

Late Spring:
- MacFeat will remain a Winthrop program for training students in child care-the end of a year-long debate.

As you go your separate ways, THE JOHNSONIAN wishes everyone a safe journey and a joyous holiday.

USED FURNITURE--ANTIQUES--COLLECTIBLES
609 CHERRY ROAD  327-4858  ROCK HILL, S.C.
Save Money! Make Money! at the same time

come to the textbook exchange

MAKE MONEY

Why spend hours making signs that get lost among the rest on the bulletin board. Or spend hours by the phone waiting for someone to call. And who wants to lose cash for your second hand books. Let us do the work for you — while you just sit back and collect. It's no trouble at all, just come by and turn in your books — we do the rest.

SAVE MONEY

Are the prices of books too much for you? — And are you tired of getting “Sorry, I've already sold my books” for an answer or getting no answer at all. Well, just come by the textbook exchange and choose from our variety of books. No hassles or fuss — come by and get yourself a bargain!

Wed. Dec. 12, 1979 3-5 pm
Thurs. Dec. 13, 1979 3-5 pm
Fri. Dec. 14, 1979 9 am-12 pm
Mon. Jan. 14, 1980 10 am-8 pm
Tues. Jan. 15, 1980 10 am-8 pm
Wed. Jan. 16, 1980 10 am-5 pm
Thurs. Jan. 17, 1980 10 am-3 pm
Fri. Jan. 18, 1980 10 am-3 pm

Collect unsold books
Jan. 21 and 22, 1980 1:00 pm-4 pm in room 220 Dinkins.
Women’s team bounces to win three

BY DAVID JACKSON

After a slow start against UNC-Charlotte, Ann Ellerbe's Winthrop Eagles women's basketball team bounced back to capture three straight wins in games played the other week.

The Eagles lost to Charlotte 60-47, but whipped Anderson Junior College 96-39, Lander 75-72 (in overtime), and Baptist 87-39.

The loss to the UNC-Charlotte 49ers featured a slow start of its own. After scoring the very first basket, the Eagles fell behind 30-3 with 5 minutes left in the half. During this nightmarish streak, Winthrop missed 23 consecutive shots.

The Eagles closed the gap to 54-18 by halftime, but the game's eventual outcome had been decided, the final score being 60-47 in Charlotte's favor.

For the game, Winthrop hit only 20 of 83 attempted shots for a dismal 24%. One bright spot was the play of freshman Ronnie Raynor, who was 6 of 13 for 12 points and had 10 rebounds.

Winthrop rallied two nights later to post their first win of the season, a 96-39 victory over Anderson Junior College.

The Eagles rolled out to take a 30-16 lead but saw it eventually dwindle to nothing when Anderson tied the score at 47 with 18:30 remaining in the game.

From there, Winthrop, led by Sara Dukes, Rosita Fields, and Cassandra Barnes, nursed their superiority and went on to capture the 96-39 win.

Fields and Barnes had 14 points each, but the star of the game had to be Sara Dukes. The sophomore forward from Newberry was 14 of 21 from the field and had 34 points and 10 rebounds.

Winthrop won again on Saturday, Dec. 1, when they defeated Lander 75-72 in overtime. Again, the Eagles had trouble holding on to the lead, although this time the situation was much more serious.

Ahmed 36-55 with two and a half minutes left, Winthrop allowed Lander to score ten straight points to send the game into overtime.

However, Ellerbe's team regrouped before the overtime and outscored Lander 7-4 during the five-minute period.

Sara Dukes again paced the Eagle effort with 24 points and nine rebounds. Ronnie Raynor had 19 points and 11 rebounds, while Cassandra Barnes and Rosita Fields added 14 and 12 points respectively.

Winthrop wrapped up a successful first week on Monday, Dec. 5, when they bounces Baptist College 87-39 in a game which was nothing short of a joke.

Ellerbe used this game as an opportunity to use all 12 of her players. The Eagles got double figures from Cassandra Barnes, who had 22; Barbara Reynolds, with 19; and Sara Dukes, who chipped in with 18 points. Barbara Reynolds led all rebounders with 8, while Cassandra Barnes, Dukes, Rosita Fields, and Sharone Dixon had 7 apiece.

The 3-1 week was topped off by a tremendous honor accorded to one of the Eagle players. Sara Dukes, who averaged 20.25 points and 27.5 rebounds for the four games, was named the American Women's Sports Foundation National AWAI Division I player of the week.

The award was instituted this year and Dukes is the first person to ever receive it.

Commenting on the 510th straight game from Newberry, Ellerbe said that "Sara is improving with every game. She has good court sense and a great intensity which helps her skills."

Ellerbe also mentioned that Dukes was "willing to work hard," a fact which was very much in evidence last Friday. Despite shooting off a respectable 24-40, 10 rebound performance the night before against Anderson, Dukes was in the gym before practice working on technique with assistant coach Elaine Meng."The Eagles have only one more game before Christmas break and it is tonight at Francis Marion at 6 p.m.

Men’s team edges Newberry 60-57

BY DAVID JACKSON

The Winthrop Eagles 1979-80 men's basketball season has definitely taken an unusual fillip.

Following an impressive 70-58 away win over Gardner-Webb two nights ago, the Eagles swooped down to a 100-90 loss at the hands of USC-Spartanburg.

Two nights later, they played a hard-fought game against but lost to Lander 60-58.

That loss dropped Winthrop's record to an incredibly disappointing 2-5 (0-4 within the district), but Nield Gordon's team rallied two nights later to claim an important 60-57 win over Newberry.

Winthrop's Daniel rating was seventh going into this week and will probably stay about the same.

It seems like everything goes wrong when a team is not perceived as serious and this year's Winthrop team has been no exception.

Leading scorer and rebounder Ronnie Raynor sustained a thigh muscle walking up some steps and was out for the Lander game and did not start against Newberry.

Donnie Creamer, a senior forward, a teammate of last year's Daniel rating was seventh going into this week and will probably stay about the same.

Ronnie Raynor's injury was announced before the game and was not out for the Lander game and did not start against Newberry.

Donnie Creamer, a senior forward, was listed as doubtful against Newberry.

Despite his thigh injury, Donnie Creamer played 25 minutes against Newberry and scored 12 points.

With the win against Newberry, the Eagles have posted a perfect 4-0 record in district play.

The Eagles have only one more game before Christmas break and it is tonight at Francis Marion at 6 p.m.

Sara Dukes, a junior transfer from Anderson Junior College, starts at point guard for the Eagles and is averaging 16 points a game. (Photo by A.P. Copley)

Cassandra Barnes, a junior transfer from Anderson Junior College, starts at point guard for the Eagles and is averaging 16 points a game. (Photo by A.P. Copley)

Donnie Creamer is a double figure scoring player for the Eagles and is averaging 16 points a game. (Photo by A.P. Copley)

Despite his thigh injury, Donnie Creamer played 25 minutes against Newberry and scored 12 points.

Donnie Creamer is a double figure scoring player for the Eagles and is averaging 16 points a game. (Photo by A.P. Copley)

Donnie Creamer is a double figure scoring player for the Eagles and is averaging 16 points a game. (Photo by A.P. Copley)

Donnie Creamer is a double figure scoring player for the Eagles and is averaging 16 points a game. (Photo by A.P. Copley)
The greatest

BY DAVID JACKSON

Now that the 1980's are less than a month away, sports writers and sports media organizations across the nation will begin to reflect upon the past decade in athletics. They will be picking various "athletes of the decade" in different sports. Each individual sport will have a number of nominees and whatever selections are made, they will provoke some kind of disagreement.

The most important decade-ending decision to be made by different sports media organizations will be the selection of one "Athlete of the Decade.

I believe that this decision should be no contest. As far as I am concerned, there can only be one choice for the Athlete of the 1970's—heavyweight boxing champion Muhammed Ali.

It has been almost 20 years since Ali burst onto the national sports scene. The year was 1960, and it was during the summer when a cocky, eighteen-year-old from Louisville, Kentucky, named Cassius Clay captured the Olympic light-heavyweight gold medal.

(By the way, trivia experts may be interested to know that the only other Olympic LIGHT-heavyweight champion to go on and capture the world heavyweight title was a fellow by the name of Leon Spinks.)

Of course, a lot of the Ali story took place during the '60's. It was in 1964 that he won the heavyweight title and changed his religion and name (to Muslim).

In 1967, he was stripped of the title by both boxing organizations and was arrested for evading the Vietnam draft, thus beginning a legal battle which dragged on into the next decade.

Like all of his professional boxing matches up to this time, Ali won the fight in the courtroom. In September of 1970, the Supreme Court unanimously ruled that Ali's religious objections to the war were valid.

The boxing world lifted its ban on Ali and by October he was fighting again. By October of 1974, Ali was champion again, thanks to a stunning victory over the previously undefeated George Foreman.

One of the most admirable things about the Ali of the '70's is the fact that it appeared his career was over on three separate occasions during the '70's.

In March 1971, his defeat at the hands of Joe Frazier caused the cover of Sports Illustrated to proclaim "the End of the All Legend." Yet the legend fought on.

Near disaster befell Ali in March of 1973 when Ken Norton broke his jaw. Ali had to win that September's rematch with the stylish left-hander if he was to continue his career. Muhammed scored a unanimous decision and went on to capture the title a year and a month later.

All reigned three and a half years until his stunning defeat by Leon Spinks in February 1978. Using Ali's self-given nickname, Time magazine's cover claimed that "The Greatest Is Gone."

Yet, the 37-year-old Ali obtained a rematch and trained the hardest of his career. This work paid dividends in September when Ali whipped the immature Spinks and then retired as the only heavyweight boxer to win the title three separate times.

Whether you like him or hate him, you have to acknowledge the fact that Muhammed Ali had a tremendous impact on American life. Many people have been influenced and inspired by his words and action.

All makes a fascinating historical and sociological, as well as athletic, study. Though only semi-literate throughout his life, he was a focal point of the two major revolts of the late '60's, the anti-Vietnam crusade and the black civil rights movement.

All was one of the first major public figures to take a public stand against the Vietnam conflict. Although he based his objections on religious grounds, many anti-war demonstrators began to equate Ali's struggle with theirs.

There were civil rights activists who felt that Ali was being denied due process of the law, one of the reasons being his skin color. Thus, many frustrated and notorious blacks saw Ali as one of their own.

Looking back, it can be said that Ali probably should have been named the Athlete of the '60's. However, at the time he was controversial and hated to be given such an honor.

Now that the Vietnam War and the violent race riots are behind us, we can realize that Muhammed Ali is a man who has been significant in areas which most athletes never approach.

He is one of the world's best known Americans. He was received at the Kremlin. He offered himself as exchange for the Iranian captives—and people took him seriously.

In my mind, when the various media organizations vote on the Athlete of this Decade, there can be only one choice—Muhammed Ali was the '70's Greatest.
Term paper time brings big business

SEATTLE, WA. (CPS)—Like many students, Raymona Mendoza had honorable intentions. She'd worked long and hard for her doctorate, and labored many months to develop statistics for her dissertation with a reluctant two University of Washington students, a guidance counselor in Tulsa, Oklahoma, recalls, "I felt that I was not adept enough with the ideas to actually write the dissertation herself.

When she asked her advisor about commissioning someone else to do the writing, she says her advisor didn’t forbid her. So on April 17, 1978, she sent a $400 check and a letter to Pacific Research, a firm which sells "research" papers to anyone with the requisite cash. True to its word, Pacific Research soon delivered a dissertation with the impressive title of "The Wescchler Intelligence Scales for Children and the Wide Range Achievement Test: Their Use on Native American Indian Children."

Does she have any post-graduate ethical doubts about her purchased dissertation? Not really. She says her purchase, which our Pacific Researchslider estimated probably cost $1000 to complete, "goes on everywhere."

She’s right. Though there are no available sales estimates in this closed-mouth industry, term-paper selling is enjoying a boom, if Pacific Research accurately reflects what is going on.

Gil Sherr and Michael Gross, two University of Washington grad students, parlayed a copying business in Seattle’s University District into a mail-order catalogue full of term papers for sale. In 1974, since then the business has spilled over from one to four converted houses full of three dozen employees on Queen Anne Hill, and includes a graphics arts department, four divisions, and even computer time bought from a local bank.

The number of computer terminals in the office, according to a Pacific Research employee, has doubled just in the last year.

In the process, Sherr and Gross, who refused to comment, have cracked up an impressive sales machine that includes widespread advertising in college newspapers and magazines, bulletin board coupons, and, of course, the catalogue, with some 7600 pre-written papers on subjects ranging from zoology, to sociology, to zoology.

The firm, like other research services, also offers "custom research," which currently goes for $7.50 per page for graduate work, and $9 per page for graduate, scientific, or technical work.

Their rates are competitive with the other major research companies. The most Los Angeles’ Research Assistance will charge you for one of the 10,000 titles it claims to have on file is $99.95, 50 cents less than Pacific’s maximum. Some of the other major and minor research firms around are Colleague Research, International Termpapers, and such colorfully-named groups as Planned Paperhood, Quality Bullshit, and Write-on, Inc.

The quality of their work inevitably varies. Mendoza found her dissertation was "inconclusive." A student reporter at Youngstown State University bought a paper last year from Research Assistance as part of a story on buying papers, and found that the research she’d bought was itself plagiarized from a 1966 SATURDAY REVIEW article.

Frank Johnson of Research Assistance told College Press Service then that such plagiarism cases have never happened, and that the firm did have an editorial review board or fact-checking, it had a "very reliable staff."

Yet the work is good enough often enough to bring some students good grades, and others, like Mendoza, full graduate degrees. College Press Service, according to Layton Olson of the National Educational Fund, "When a student who has studied feels that other students may be buying a grade," Olson wrote in April, "there is a breakdown in the rules of the game for which the consumer has constructed."

Ten states (California, New York, North Carolina, Illinois, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New Jersey) have tried to legislate against companies selling term papers. Yet they are tough laws in enforcing.

For one thing, there are legitimate research sources, and controlling retail plagiarism is a "scheme" which involves misrepresentation based on the materials (the fact sent).

Students are entitled to buy research, says John Hopkins of Collegiate Research Systems, because colleges themselves are hypocritical. "The educational system has its own problems," he told a Detroit newspaper. "The presidents of some colleges in New York have abused the educational funds to finance their own private trips to Europe and elsewhere."

It is doubtful, however, that many term paper customers view their purchases as righteous blows against hypocrisy. In its catalogue, Pacific Research probably more accurately sees its function as "making college life easier."

SECTION TWELVE: T/J/FEATURE

DECEMBER 10, 1979

Term paper time brings big business

SEATTLE, WA. (CPS)—Like many students, Raymona Mendoza had honorable intentions. She'd worked long and hard for her doctorate, and labored many months to develop statistics for her dissertation with a reluctant two University of Washington students, a guidance counselor in Tulsa, Oklahoma, recalls, "I felt that I was not adept enough with the ideas to actually write the dissertation herself.

When she asked her advisor about commissioning someone else to do the writing, she says her advisor didn’t forbid her. So on April 17, 1978, she sent a $400 check and a letter to Pacific Research, a firm which sells "research" papers to anyone with the requisite cash. True to its word, Pacific Research soon delivered a dissertation with the impressive title of "The Wescchler Intelligence Scales for Children and the Wide Range Achievement Test: Their Use on Native American Indian Children."

Does she have any post-graduate ethical doubts about her purchased dissertation? Not really. She says her purchase, which our Pacific Researchslider estimated probably cost $1000 to complete, "goes on everywhere."

She’s right. Though there are no available sales estimates in this closed-mouth industry, term-paper selling is enjoying a boom, if Pacific Research accurately reflects what is going on.

Gil Sherr and Michael Gross, two University of Washington grad students, parlayed a copying business in Seattle’s University District into a mail-order catalogue full of term papers for sale. In 1974, since then the business has spilled over from one to four converted houses full of three dozen employees on Queen Anne Hill, and includes a graphics arts department, four divisions, and even computer time bought from a local bank.

The number of computer terminals in the office, according to a Pacific Research employee, has doubled just in the last year.

In the process, Sherr and Gross, who refused to comment, have cracked up an impressive sales machine that includes widespread advertising in college newspapers and magazines, bulletin board coupons, and, of course, the catalogue, with some 7600 pre-written papers on subjects ranging from zoology, to sociology, to zoology.

The firm, like other research services, also offers "custom research," which currently goes for $7.50 per page for graduate work, and $9 per page for graduate, scientific, or technical work.

Their rates are competitive with the other major research companies. The most Los Angeles’ Research Assistance will charge you for one of the 10,000 titles it claims to have on file is $99.95, 50 cents less than Pacific’s maximum. Some of the other major and minor research firms around are Colleague Research, International Termpapers, and such colorfully-named groups as Planned Paperhood, Quality Bullshit, and Write-on, Inc.

The quality of their work inevitably varies. Mendoza found her dissertation was "inconclusive." A student reporter at Youngstown State University bought a paper last year from Research Assistance as part of a story on buying papers, and found that the research she’d bought was itself plagiarized from a 1966 SATURDAY REVIEW article.

Frank Johnson of Research Assistance told College Press Service then that such plagiarism cases have never happened, and that the firm did have an editorial review board or fact-checking, it had a "very reliable staff."

Yet the work is good enough often enough to bring some students good grades, and others, like Mendoza, full graduate degrees. College Press Service, according to Layton Olson of the National Educational Fund, "When a student who has studied feels that other students may be buying a grade," Olson wrote in April, "there is a breakdown in the rules of the game for which the consumer has constructed."

Ten states (California, New York, North Carolina, Illinois, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New Jersey) have tried to legislate against companies selling term papers. Yet they are tough laws in enforcing.

For one thing, there are legitimate research sources, and controlling retail plagiarism is a "scheme" which involves misrepresentation based on the materials (the fact sent).

Students are entitled to buy research, says John Hopkins of Collegiate Research Systems, because colleges themselves are hypocritical. "The educational system has its own problems," he told a Detroit newspaper. "The presidents of some colleges in New York have abused the educational funds to finance their own private trips to Europe and elsewhere."

It is doubtful, however, that many term paper customers view their purchases as righteous blows against hypocrisy. In its catalogue, Pacific Research probably more accurately sees its function as "making college life easier."

SECTION TWELVE: T/J/FEATURE

DECEMBER 10, 1979
The Jerk

Universal Pictures presents
An Aspen Film Society William E. McEuen -
David V. Picker production
A Carl Reiner film

Steve Martin in
The Jerk

Bernadette Peters, Catlin Adams, Jackie Mason

Steve Martin, Carl Gottlieb, Michael Elias

Directed by Carl Reiner

Coming For Christmas.
Campus Paperback Bestsellers

2. A Instant Mirror, by Barbara W. Tuchman. (Ballantine, $2.95.) Europe in the 14th century.
3. The Far Pavilions, by M. M. Kaye. (Bantam, $2.95.) High adventure and love in the Himalayas: fiction.
5. Mommie Dearest, by Christina Crawford. (Berkley, $2.75.) Life with mother: Joan Crawford.
7. Evergreen, by Belva Plain. (Dell, $2.75.) Jewish immigrant woman's climb from poverty on lower Manhattan.
10. Wives, by Judy Blume. (Pocket, $2.50.) Housewife's experiences on road to emotional maturity: fiction.

Compiled by The Campus of Higher Education from information supplied by college stores throughout the country, December 3, 1979.

New & Recommended

Careers Tomorrow, by Gene R. Hawes. (NAL/Plume, $4.95.) Growth opportunities in the job market.
People of the Lake, by Richard E. Leakey. (Avon, $2.75.) Mankind and its beginnings.

EXCELLENCE IN WRITING AWARD WINNERS - Chatting after the awards ceremony are winners of Winthrop College's Excellence in Writing Awards. Ross A. Webb, left, of Rock Hill won the nonfiction award for his book, "Kentucky in the Reconstruction Era." Anne Mallard-Davis of Beaufort was the fiction winner for her novel, "None to Comfort Me," and Thomas McClanahan, right, won the poetry award for his collection entitled "Random Deserts." The awards were presented during the Sixth Annual Winthrop College Writers Conference held Nov. 15-17. (Winthrop College photo by Joel Nichols)

COMING FOR CHRISTMAS
Manage stress

The Counseling Center will sponsor a Stress Management Workshop Wednesday, Jan. 16, 3:00 to 4:30 in room 204 of the Crawford Health Center, according to Dr. William H. Wells, director of the Counseling Center.

The workshop will begin an experimental session involving participation in exercises and role playing.

"Stress is simply a part of our everyday life and we each need to learn to manage the stress in our life. It's simply a matter of learning it now with the help of a professional, learning it later with the help of a professional, or trying to learn it by yourself," said Wells.

The decision to hold the workshop was made after a large number of student's inquiries were made to Dr. Wells.

"I think this would be an excellent opportunity to learn this skill, because it is being offered at the first and least hectic part of the semester," said Dr. Wells.

Carter wants less

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CPS) - The Carter Administration submitted its education budget to Congress last week, and, despite its promises that the new Department of Education would increase education's fiscal and political clout, the budget request is lower than last year's.

The official request is $1 million less than last year's education budget. After inflation takes its toll, education funding could be down as much as $200 million in real dollars, according to an accompanying Health, Education & Welfare (HEW) analysis.

The budget is the last one for education that HEW will ever prepare. All the department's education programs will be reorganized under the new U.S. Dept. of Education, expected to be operational by the spring.

Advocates of the new department long argued that centralizing federal education programs would make getting more education money out of Congress easier. Asked to explain what happened, HEW legislative liaison William Blakey refused to comment.

The budget request, however, will be changed as Congress debates it.

As it currently stands, the proposed fiscal 1981 education budget would increase federal spending on university research and cut federal spending for student aid, and on construction efforts to make campuses more accessible for handicapped students.

CHRISTMAS SALE

ALL DRESSES $12
Junior 3-13 Misses 6-20

50% OFF ON BLOUSES

Skirts no higher than $14.99. Large selection including: high splits, pleated, wool, plaid, denim, and disco.

Dress pants, straight leg dress jeans, and corduroys no higher than $15.99.

Jackets-Corduroy, Harring bone trimmed with suede, rabbit heir, and Pea-coats between $19-$50.

Give A Joli's Gift Certificate

For Christmas

LANGSTON’S

MANY EXCELLENT CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR MEN.

-wool shirts
-wool jackets
-cashmere sweaters
-corduroy pants
-flannel shirts
-macho shirts

10% off any purchase at regular price with Winthrop I.D.
At this season of the year when Christmas is everywhere either people are interested in displaying the commercial aspects of the holiday or they are busy reminding everyone else to remember what Christmas is really about. In my opinion neither of these have captured the real spirit of the season.

Christmas has in fact become a commercial event. Stores cash in on all the kids, and we get ripped off on everything from games to wrapping paper. However, that really isn’t that important.

The people who run around raving about Christmas being a time to remember Christ and to love our brothers do have a good point, but they haven’t touched on the real spirit either.

To me the important thing about Christmas is to enjoy it. Children bring such joy at Christmas, not because we get to buy them presents, but because they get so excited about everything. Grown ups have a tendency to focus on the cost of things and the trouble it takes to decorate and then get things down. While it may be a lot of trouble, it could be a lot of fun if we would enjoy the occasion and look on the positive side for a change.

While you’re out spending all that money on presents that you really don’t have the money for and don’t really like like the people you’re giving them to, and you’re cursing under your breath, just stop for a minute and look around you.

Look at the way the kids’ eyes twinkle when they see the Santas in the middle of the mall. I know you’re saying, “big deal,” kids just like toys and Santa brings toys. That’s true, but think about how they believe in this person even though they’ve seen him in fifty different malls on the same day. They don’t really care how or why he’s there.

Some of you are probably saying that all that doesn’t matter because we aren’t kids anymore, but it does. Even if we don’t believe in Santa or we don’t get presents in the abundance that we used to, we still have the same joy that we used to at this time. We can still put up the tree and get the joy that each ornament gives us when we put it in the just right place. We can still rush around in stores and feel the peace of knowing that we have people who we love enough to buy things for. And we can still feel the warmth when we see the twinkle in the little kids’ eyes and know that the world still contains innocence and excitement. So even if you aren’t a kid, remember, Christmas is a time for you to enjoy the world and yourself, so why not try to look at it that way.

---

Luigi’s OPEN 3-11 p.m. Closed Monday
FREE DELIVERY TO WINTHROP
328-6394
328-5795

SPECIAL! TUES.-WED.-THURS.
SPAGHETTI, INCL. TEA & GARLIC BREAD $1.50
ONE BLOCK FROM CAMPUS, ACROSS FROM OAKLAND AVE., BAPTIST CHURCH
A 5-MINUTE WALK.
HOME-MADE ITALIAN - NO FROZEN FOODS USED IN PREPARATION
ALL PIZZAS AND DINNERS - 50C OFF MENUPRICE

PIZZA

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Small</th>
<th>Large</th>
<th>Extra</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tomato and Cheese</td>
<td>1.50</td>
<td>2.25</td>
<td>3.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pepperoni</td>
<td>2.50</td>
<td>3.00</td>
<td>3.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ground Beef</td>
<td>2.50</td>
<td>3.00</td>
<td>3.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mushrooms</td>
<td>2.50</td>
<td>3.50</td>
<td>4.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Italian Sausage</td>
<td>2.50</td>
<td>3.50</td>
<td>4.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anchovies</td>
<td>2.50</td>
<td>3.00</td>
<td>3.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sausage and Peppers</td>
<td>2.75</td>
<td>3.50</td>
<td>4.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Luigi’s Around The World</td>
<td>3.50</td>
<td>4.50</td>
<td>5.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

LUIGI’S ITALIAN SPECIALS

- Veal Scaloppine
- Veal A La Cacciatora
- Veal and Peppers
- Veal Parmigiana
- Veal Cutlets
- Egg Plant Parmigiana
- One-Half Chicken A La Cacciatora
- One-Half Chicken Saute
- One-Half Broiled Chicken
- Sausage and Pepper A La Cacciatora

AMERICAN SANDWICHES

| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Hamburger</td>
<td>.60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cheeseburger</td>
<td>1.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Calf. Burger</td>
<td>.85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bacon, Lettuce, Tomato</td>
<td>1.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grilled Cheese</td>
<td>1.50</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FOR ALL WINTHROP COLLEGE AND YORK TECH STUDENTS

SPAGHETTI AND MACCHERONI

- Spaghetti with Tomato Sauce 2.00
- Spaghetti with Butter Sauce 2.00
- Spaghetti with Meat Sauce 2.75
- Spaghetti with Meat Balls 2.75
- Spaghetti with Italian Sausage 3.00
- Spaghetti with Garlic and Oil 2.00
- Spaghetti with Mushrooms 3.25
- Half Spaghetti and Half Ravioli 2.75
- Rigatoni 2.75
- Ravioli (Meat) 2.75

Ask us about our steaks and seafood
BEER AND WINE
Winthrop Students in appreciation of your patronage Western Sizzlin would like to offer you reduced prices. Bring this ad and receive

NO. 13
5 Oz. Hamburger
Fries or Baked Potato
REG. Price $1.59
Sale Price $1.29

NO. 10
7 Oz. Broiled Chopped Steak Sandwich
Fries or Baked Potato
REG. Price $1.99
Sale Price $1.69

NO. 1
8 Oz. Sirloin Steak
Fries or Baked Potato
REG. Price $3.59
Sale Price $3.29

TRY OUR SUPER SALAD BAR FEATURING REAL CHEDDAR CHEESE.
All items are made fresh daily including: Potato Salad, Macaroni Salad, Cole Slaw, and Carrot Salad.

Flamekist Steaks SALAD BAR .99 with meal
$1.99 salad bar only

---

GET CASH FOR YOUR USED TEXTBOOKS
A WHOLESALE REPRESENTATIVE WILL BE BUYING BOOKS DISCONTINUED AT WINTHROP

WINTHROP COLLEGE STORE December 10-14 8:30-5:00
TOWN CENTER MALL
ROCK HILL, S.C.

PRESENTS

BRYAN BOWERS

Tues., Dec. 11 Wed., Dec. 12
8:00 PM - 11:30 PM

ADVANCE TICKETS $3.00 $4.00 AT DOOR

"Thursdays" TownCenter Mall

As Seen On NBC's
"Real People"

LIMITED SEATING

1979 CHRISTMAS SHOW 1979
Read on and see! Think about spending your last week of summer for seven blissful days at sea. Students -- no more studies! Graduates -- what a way to celebrate! Faculty -- what a way to unwind!

The DPS Travel Committee will be sponsoring a new and different Caribbean Cruise May 4, 1980 on the S.S. Calypso. It's a vacation at sea offering a relaxing atmosphere, French cuisine, the excitement of a unique experience, and more... for seven dazzling days. You'll travel from the heart of the Bahamas, to the pulse of San Juan, from the free port of St. Thomas, to the amber coast of Puerto Rico.

Cruising represents one of the best travel values available. Cruise ships are casual by day, and most encourage you to do your own thing at night. There's only one rule: Be Comfortable! WHEN YOU VACATION AT SEA, THE CRUISE ITSELF IS THE PRIMARY DESTINATION; THE PORTS OF CALL ARE A "BONUS" THAT ENHANCE THE TOTAL EXPERIENCE. Ships are full of organized activities, jogging, swimming, or dancing the night away. You'll also find peaceful places to read or bask in the sun.

Sound interesting? It's not too soon to start planning. The price of the cruise will range from $499.00 (excluding transportation to and from Miami) to $650.00 (including round trip airfare). Sign-up will begin in January. Keep your eyes open for more information. Questions? Call Ext. 2248 and ask for Katy.

Winthrop students bring your ID and get 10% off any sandwich Monday-Saturday and also receive your choice of soft drink, draft beer or house wine FREE.

Now you can also enjoy your 10% discount during Happy Hour! All Day Monday. Tuesday-Saturday 4-7 p.m. 10-12 p.m. Friday & Saturday. Come and enjoy the finest food, beverages, and atmosphere at Rock Hill's newest, most unique restaurant!
Campus Days...

"I spent my freshman year looking for a parking space."

The Joseph Schlitz Brewing Company certifies Schlitz to be a beer of uncompromising excellence, expertly brewed using only pure water, the very finest barley malt, and select hops and grains. Every drop carefully aged and chill-lagered for superior quality.

Schlitz makes 'em great.