Scope and Content Note: This collection is a valuable source on home demonstration work in York County during the twentieth century. The inclusive dates for a particular series may vary and for most series the records are incomplete. The collection contains all the records normally created by an organization, including constitutions, correspondence, minutes, reports, program notes, etc. At this point in time, related records and papers would include those of the home economics department and twenty-two: the papers of Mary Frayser, Juanita Neely and Christine Gee, and the records of the South Carolina Home Economics Association, respectively. See also list of manuscripts relating to home economics in the Winthrop Archives.
