BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

BETTY RANDALL SISTARE BUFF

Betty Randall Sistare Buff (1927-2019) was born in Mecklenburg County, North Carolina on May 20, 1927 to Manuel Paul Randall (1886-1954) and Sallie Clippard Randall (1895-1979). Betty was married and widowed twice. First to George Washington Sistare (1923-1953) and later to Henry Curtis Buff (1914-1998). She had two children, daughter Renee C. Sistare and son Byron D. Sistare.

She graduated from Berryhill High School in Charlotte, NC in 1944 and began working for USA Government Retirement Records. She later worked at Kroehler Manufacturing Company (Charlotte, NC), Belk's Department Store (Columbia, SC), and Allied Chemical Company (Irmo, SC).

Following retirement she became very active local organization s and organization around the world. She became involved with the National Extension Homemaker's Council as a single mother with two small children. Her goal was to gain knowledge of how to manage and run a home. Soon after, she became an active member of the Homemaker's Council and even became an educational project leader for her local club (S.C. Extension). After this, she took leadership positions at local, county, and statewide levels. The National Extension Homemaker's Council is a non-profit educational organization focusing on home economics. A group of rural farmwomen founded it in Washington, D.C. in 1936. Betty Buff also served as the national president of the Master Farm Homemaker's Guild. . The National Master Farm Homemaker's Guild's objective is to promote the highest possible standard of living in the farmhouse and focus attention on the positive aspects of farm life. She has also served as president of the National Volunteer Outreach Network (NVON), which she helped to organize. Several members of the Associated Country Women of the World attending the Country Women's Council September 1994 meeting reached the conclusion that a need was present to connect CWC and ACWW member societies in the United States. On October 1, 1995, NVON was created. Betty Buff served as the advisor at this time. Betty has been an active member in the Country Women's Council and the Associated Country Women of the World travelling to several foreign countries in support of the rights of rural women and children. Since 1982, Betty has represented Clemson University as a member of the Council of Agriculture, Research, Extension, and Teaching (CARET). She has been a member of the Public Service and Agriculture Advisory Board at Clemson, a member of the Advisory Council for the Department of Family and Consumer Sciences and an active 4-H volunteer leader. Betty has met numerous times a year with U.S. representatives and senators in support of national legislation, policy, and funding to benefit the land grant system. She has also served CARET as a secretary, vice-chair, and chair of the Southern Region, as secretary of the national CARET organization, and as CARET liaison to the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges Academic Programs Section (NASULGC).

BETTY RANDALL SISTARE BUFF

She has been awarded for 30 years of service as a Clemson Extension Service volunteer with the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award. The Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award is given in recognition of the recipient's influence for excellence in maintaining high ideals of living and genuine and disinterested service to others. The award, named in honor of the first president of the New York Southern Society, was established by an agreement between the society and Clemson University. She has served CARET as secretary, vice-chair and chair of the Southern Region, as secretary of the national CARET organization and as CARET liaison to the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges Academic Programs Section (NASULGC). Betty has also played a role in the South Carolina Farm Bureau. She received the highest honor, the Distinguished Service Award, and has made significant contributions to the South Carolina Farm Bureau through her role on the Lexington County Women's Leadership Committee. This is in addition to other Farm bureau activities. She has served as an advocate for Farm Bureau and agriculture locally, statewide, nationally, and internationally.

Mrs. Betty Buff died in Columbia, SC on November 14, 2019.
