A FARMERS' PAPER

We have arranged to offer with The Lantern, for a limited time only, the Farm and Fireside, a good house, farm and poultry paper, priced at a month, $1.80 a year. It will be given, however, only to those subscribers who pay in advance for this year.

We cannot say we will keep this time longer, but should this offer be extended, it will hold good, but we can say that the time to take advantage of it is now. Some who wanted the Farm and Fireside but failed to get it because they determined on the offer-withdraw

Remember that you can get the Farm and Fireside twice with The Lantern, for the same price, and that you will have the advantage of the additional features of The Farmers' Express. This makes it advisable to advertise for the Farm and Fireside this year.

We will send the Farm and Fireside a year for $2.00, and we will send the Fireside a year for $1.00, or we will send the Farm and Fireside a year for $3.00, and we will send the Fireside a year for $2.00.

These combinations will not interfere with the offer of Farm and Fireside for $3.00. To all who have subscribed for Farm and Fireside for $3.00, we will send the Farmers' Express for $2.00, and for $1.00 we will send The Lantern.

The Farmers' Express contains all the news of the outside world, and is the best paper on the market, and it is now available for only $2.00.

THE LANTERN
FOR 1906

The Lantern is issued twice a week, every Tuesday and Friday. The Subscription price is $2.00 a year, in advance.

We cannot say we will keep this price the same, but should this price be extended, it will hold good, but we can say that the time to take advantage of it is now. Some who wanted the Farm and Fireside but failed to get it because they determined on the offer-withdraw

The Supreme Court has handed the Great Western Com-pany a considerable loss, owing to the fact that the company was not able to take the necessary steps to prevent the unauthorized use of the name "Great Western." Mr. Justice Story, in his opinion, said that the company had no right to prevent the use of the name by others, and that the court was not able to grant any relief in the matter.

Mr. James Henry Smith, Jr., editor of the Carolina Peninsula, has written a series of articles on the subject of the Great Western Company. The articles are well written and give a clear picture of the company's relations with the railroads of the South. Mr. Smith is a member of the company's board of directors, and his articles are of interest to those who are interested in the railroads of the South.

In the Legislature.

Everything is going on normally in the Legislature. On Friday, two new bills were introduced, one for the purpose of providing for the payment of the debt of the State, and the other to provide for the construction of a new capitol. The latter bill was introduced by Mr. Barlow, and was opposed by several members of the House. The bill passed its second reading, and was referred to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Davis, the chairman of the committee on the subject of the capitol, said that the bill was necessary, and that the state had a right to have a new capitol. He pointed out that the present capitol was in a state of dilapidation, and that it was unsafe to keep the legislature in it. The bill was referred to the committee of the whole house, and it is expected that it will be reported favorably.

The same motion was made and seconded, and the chairman of the committee was appointed to report at the next session of the House of Representatives.

The bill to require each county to pay the salary of the county attorney was also passed. The bill provides that each county shall pay the salary of the county attorney, and that the county shall pay the salary of the county judge. The bill was referred to the committee on the subject of the capitol, and it is expected that it will be reported favorably.

The bill to provide for the election of three county commissioners was the only second reading bill that was considered. The bill provides that three county commissioners shall be elected, and that they shall hold office for three years. The bill was referred to the committee on the subject of the capitol, and it is expected that it will be reported favorably.

Mr. Davis introduced a bill to charter the Atlantic and Great Western Company. The bill provides for the incorporation of the company, and the meeting of the stockholders. The bill was referred to the committee on the subject of the capitol, and it is expected that it will be reported favorably.

The bill to provide for the construction of a new capitol was also passed. The bill provides for the construction of a new capitol, and for the payment of the debt of the state. The bill was referred to the committee on the subject of the capitol, and it is expected that it will be reported favorably.

In the opinion of some women we regard the name of "Great Western" as a symbol of the progress of the South. The name has a long history, and it is associated with the railroads of the South. The name has been used for many years, and it is well known throughout the South. The name has been used for many years, and it is well known throughout the South.

THE LANTERN.

TO OUR READERS:

Dr. D. A. R., Yorkville, S. C., wish to say: The Statuary Room was the old boarding house of the famous Quaker and was indeed a sight to see. About 2,100 delegates were in attendance and the entire assembly pledged themselves to the work of organizing a new convention, and as might be expected, the Old Order was uniformly successful in all the states of the Union, excepting those of the states of Washington, Oregon, and California, which have been organized for some time past. Mr. White says that the convention was over with the approval of all the states of the Union, and as might be expected, the Old Order was uniformly successful in all the states of the Union, excepting those of the states of Washington, Oregon, and California, which have been organized for some time past.

Back from New Orleans.

Mr. J. T. Collins, manager of the Collins & Kershaw firm at New Orleans, returns home with your orders for the Spring and Summer trade. The firm have been engaged in the sale of goods in New Orleans, and in some of the Western states, and have been unable to reach home on account of the heavy rain and snow which have prevailed in the last few weeks. One of the most interesting events of the week was the meeting of the Statutory Room held in the old boarding house of the famous Quaker. The meeting was opened by Dr. D. A. R., who gave a short address on the importance of the work of organizing a new convention. He was followed by Mr. White, who gave a brief history of the formation of the old convention and of the work which was done by the old Order in the states of the Union. He then introduced Mr. White, who gave a brief history of the formation of the old convention and of the work which was done by the old Order in the states of the Union.
