Title:
Compatibility + Co-Planning = Co-Teaching

Abstract:
Come join us as we consider what makes a successful co-teaching model. Often we can create a great schedule, write fabulous IEPs, and buy the newest instructional resources available, but if we do not see eye to eye with our inclusion partners or if we cannot find ways to plan together, the best and brightest models will ultimately fail. Successful inclusion is a combination of working closely with your partner and learning how to work through conflicts and differences. It is also learning how to plan effectively together. This workshop will provide you with a variety of tools to help you and your inclusion partner develop a lasting and successful co-teaching programming model with effective planning and instruction.
