THE LANTERN.

Chester, S. C., Tuesday, January 23, 1906.

THE LANTERN FOR 1906

The Lantern is issued twice a week, every Tuesday and Friday.

The subscription price is $2.00 a year, in advance.

The paper will be discontinued when the time for paying expires, unless more subscriptions are obtained to maintain the publication.

A FARMERS' PAPER

We have arranged to offer free with The Lantern, for a limited period only, the Farm and Forester, a good home, farm, stock and poultry paper, bound and packed in a stout folder, at a cost of 50 cents a year. It will be sent to all our subscribers who will forward their subscription to us on or before February 1st. The price of the Farm and Forester is $1.50, and we send the Lantern and Farm and Forester free to any subscriber who will send us proof of his farm address.

OTHER COMBINATIONS

Many ladies desire more stories and reading about dress and fashion than they can give in the Lantern. Other papers would be more suitable for a lady like this. We have arranged to offer free with The Lantern, for a limited period only, the Farm and Forester, a good home, farm, stock and poultry paper, bound and packed in a stout folder, at a cost of 50 cents a year. It will be sent to all our subscribers who will forward their subscription to us on or before February 1st. The price of the Farm and Forester is $1.50, and we send the Lantern and Farm and Forester free to any subscriber who will send us proof of his farm address.

REPORT OF THE COTTON CIGARS.

The recent report of the Cotton Cigars for 1909 shows that the growth and quality have been much improved. The report states that the growth is excellent and that the quality is better than ever before. There are various brands of Cotton Cigars, each with its own unique characteristics.

The report mentions a few brands, including Chamberlain's and Congh Remedy. Chamberlain's is noted for its balanced flavor, while Congh Remedy is praised for its smooth, tobacco-like taste. Other brands, such as V.I.P. and Old Gold, are also mentioned in the report.

The report also discusses the trend towards heavier weights and the increasing demand for fine cuts.
