The Pullman Car

In the Nineteenth Century, the Pullman Palace Car Company was established, named for its founder George Pullman. The company invented the Pullman Car, which was a significant innovation in the transportation industry, offering a high level of comfort and luxury for passengers. This innovation was a radical departure from the typical rail travel of the time, which was often uncomfortable and crowded.

The Pullman Car featured several innovations, including a raised sleeping car, a parlor car, and a ladies' parlor. These innovations made long-distance travel more enjoyable and comfortable for passengers. The Pullman Car also marked a shift towards luxury travel, which was previously reserved for the wealthy.

For a time, the Pullman Car became synonymous with high-class travel, and the Pullman Palace Car Company became a symbol of the industrial revolution and the growth of the American railroad industry. However, the company faced criticism for its high prices and the limited availability of its cars, which were often reserved for the wealthy.

The Pullman Car was a significant part of American history, and its legacy continues to this day. The innovations introduced by the Pullman Palace Car Company paved the way for future developments in the transportation industry, and the company's influence can be seen in the modern railroad industry today.

The Epworth League

The Epworth League of the M.E. church was organized on Monday night last at the residence of Mr. A. M. Patterson, with 32 members. The following officers were elected:

L. D. Childs, President; Mr. C. Wylie, Secretary; Miss E. Cook, Vice-President; Mr. J. E. Pryor, Secretary and Treasurer.

The League will have weekly meetings at the homes of the members of the district.

Refereed to The Council.

Mr. Editor:—Will you please use your influence with the City Council to pass our ordinance, and don't compel all vehicles to have lights on at night; also for a complete ordinance of all branches of the police to be passed in order to have a gang and light on light at night, as there are many bands and groups of men having guns and joining in such scenes of disorder.

Mr. Wylie's Gift to Erskine.

It has been announced in some of the papers that Mr. Wylie has given $15,000 to Erskine College, for the purpose of erecting a new women's dormitory.

The facts are, that some time last week, the board of trustees of the college, or at least some members of it, proposed to give Mr. Wylie $15,000 for the purpose of erecting a new women's dormitory. He declined the offer, saying he would rather give $10,000 than $15,000, and that the money should be used for other purposes. The offer was made to the college, and the money was given for the purpose of erecting a new women's dormitory.

The material was presented to the college by Mr. Wylie, Thursday last, for its approval. The college accepted the gift and approved the plan. The money was then transferred to the college account.

"Madam," said a Cleveland tramp, "do you know there's a gentleman in the classics I always read about named Napoleon — you know, the one who said, "I haven't the time to be a great man, and I haven't the will to be a little man, so I'm going to be Napoleon?"

"Yes, yes," said the tramp. "But how do you know he was a great man?"

"Well," said the tramp, "he wrote a book called "The Art of War.""

"That's right," said the woman. "But what's the point?"

"Well," said the tramp, "he said, 'If I am not a great man, I shall be a little man because I can't be a great man.'"

"That's interesting," said the woman. "But how do you know he was a little man?"

"Well," said the tramp, "he said, 'If I am not a little man, I shall be a great man because I can't be a little man.'"

"That's beautiful," said the woman. "But what do you mean by being a great man or a little man?"

"That," said the tramp, "is the secret of the whole thing appears."
