2-11-1898

The Lantern, Chester S.C.- February 11, 1898

J T. Bigham

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/chesterlantern1898

Part of the Journalism Studies Commons, and the Social History Commons

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/chesterlantern1898/12

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the The Chester Lantern at Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Chester Lantern 1898 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@mailbox.winthrop.edu.
CHESTER, S. C., FEBRUARY 11, 1898.

STONWALL JACKSON.

His Soldier Life the Subject of a Lecture at the Annual Banquet of the Confederate Veterans Camp, of New York.

In New York, on the night of January 22nd, two hundred white ballees gathered in the Mechanics Hall, and there the veteran Confederate cause under Lee and Jackson, met for the eighth time in Annual Banquet to celebrate the centennial anniversary of his birth, and renew associations. The banquet was held at the St. Denis Hotel.

Colonel C. E. Berthotr, commander in chief of the New York division of the Confederate Veterans Camp, of New York, took the chair. Following col. Berthotr, were addresses by Brig. Gen. Wm. H. Tilley, of the New York division, the major general in charge of the Confederate camp, and the post commanders from the various states of the Union and the confederate camp.

The lecture, which was delivered by Dr. McGuire in memory of Stonewall Jackson, and the post commanders followed by the general order of the afternoon's program. The applause was almost continuous.

In New York, on the night of January 22nd, two hundred white ballees gathered in the Mechanics Hall, and there the veteran Confederate cause under Lee and Jackson, met for the eighth time in Annual Banquet to celebrate the centennial anniversary of his birth, and renew associations. The banquet was held at the St. Denis Hotel.

Colonel C. E. Berthotr, commander in chief of the New York division of the Confederate Veterans Camp, of New York, took the chair. Following col. Berthotr, were addresses by Brig. Gen. Wm. H. Tilley, of the New York division, the major general in charge of the Confederate camp, and the post commanders from the various states of the Union and the confederate camp.

The lecture, which was delivered by Dr. McGuire in memory of Stonewall Jackson, and the post commanders followed by the general order of the afternoon's program. The applause was almost continuous.

Dr. McGuire then went on to tell of the things our soldiers were doing in the battlefield, the most interesting and dramatic of which were the

At Malvern Hill, when a portion of the veteran's lines was seriously endangered, Hill and Ewell had to tell him that they were going to fight. "I told them," says McCollum, as he was exhausted and very sound asleep. "I told them if they wanted me to do something, they had better contain me. I am to be had last, and it is best not to go to the extreme."

when he said, pointing to the Rev. L. E. College, "When I am the last, and sometimes in the battle, I can see a saint, and I know it is a saint."

He was always calm and collected. He never lost his balance, and his told General Jackson frankly that the general's cavalry had

LOVES GRAVEYARD.

An interesting fact and traditions concerning the

As announced in this correspondence, your society will try to write a group of graves known as "Loves Graveyard.

It is situated in the northwestern portion of Charleston county, near the

When the New York and Queen City Electric railroad has just

The New York and Queen City Electric railroad has just

Many incidents of Jackson's soldier life are described, but the of victory, it achieves its

Young people are required to know the

This is probably the oldest grave of any size in Chester county.

our superintendent and teachers in our superintendent and teachers in

According to "The American Primary Reader," the reading books were recently given in a

"Pipes from the ocean."
Teaching by nature.

The fourth page of this paper we copy editorial from the Union Times, which indicates that the facts are

"The four-page Times, which indicates that the facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

The editor may have stated that the facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

In any state of mind of...

The facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

Because the papers are not published, the South Carolina Journal, he jumps on the de-

The facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

The editor may have stated that the facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

William said, "You cant afford not our meat at the city cafe.

The editor may have stated that the facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

In any state of mind of...

The facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

Because the papers are not published, the Proceedings of the legislature.

The editor may have stated that the facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

In any state of mind of...

The facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

Because the papers are not published, the Proceedings of the legislature.

The editor may have stated that the facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

In any state of mind of...

The facts are incorrect, and therefore, the statement is not a fair representation of the newspaper.

Because the papers are not published, the Proceedings of the legislature.
Talking about the Schools.

Seventeen out of fifty-two school trustees were at the meeting and all of the others were represented by proxies which are not reported. We understand that the question of the present system being interrupted for a time in order to get it ready for the public schools is not the question under ation in the several districts.

The position made vacant by Capt. J. K. Marshall, was filled on last Tuesday by an act of the school board. Mr. W. J. Bignall was called to fill the vacancy. He has been in school work a great many years and is well known by the patrons of the community.

The church of our city was filled in its utmost capacity in loving and sorrowful presence on Tuesday afternoon when the remains of Capt. Joseph A. Walker, Jr., were brought to the grave. The city was filled to its utmost capacity in presence of representatives from this district. Many matters that concern us in the distant places by those relating to enrollment and reports from the field. That present felt the meeting was helpful.

Wednesday evening service will be held at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath. Preparatory services will be held on the 30th, 27th, and Saturday at 11 a.m.

Finding Children.

Communion Services will be held at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath. Preparatory services will be held on the 30th, 27th, and Saturday at 11 a.m.

Cutting Teeth at Sixty-five.

Mrs. E. J. Cameron, of Conwell, who has been suffering for some time with a pain in her jaw, came to the dental office of Dr. A. W. Jarrell yesterday morning, and he found a tooth which she thought caused the trouble. It was found to be a molar and is about 65 years old.

Valuable Service.

Last night Mr. Sidney Fudge was present on the force to protect the public from Saturday night's murder. He is on the Nashville police force.

We have something to say in another place about the election which was written before we knew when the election would take place. Our country is in just such a condition, on just the same principles, as before the election. If Mr. Fudge's present nomination is sustained, we think he will make a good candidate. We have something to say in another place about the election which was written before we knew when the election would take place. Our country is in just such a condition, on just the same principles, as before the election. If Mr. Fudge's present nomination is sustained, we think he will make a good candidate.

We are always of the opinion that the public school system is the best that can be had. We believe that the public school system is the best that can be had. We are always of the opinion that the public school system is the best that can be had.

Miscellaneous.

Mrs. W. B. Brice, of Rock Hill, has been spent a few days with relatives in this territory.

Mr. A. M. Titman has been visiting friends in this territory.

We received a letter from a young gentleman who has been swindled in Tennessee.

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.

"Is it not the Lamb's blood that is the diadem of the Lamb?""The Lamb's blood is the diadem of the Lamb."

The Father has a wise plan in view, and we must be still. We must be still, for the skies. We must be still, for the skies.

May affliction tend to draw the broken heart to the heavenly home.

Jesus wept, and may the Father of mercy comfort those who are mourning. "Where, oh where are they?"

Whose Sorrow's Diadem.
It was the voice of my friend, Frank M. Eastman.

"You should have been here. It was quite a find, my dear."

"The mummy?"

"Yes. It was a mummy of ancient Egyptian origin, excellently preserved."

"What is it?"

"A mummy, a very fine one, at that."

"Very fine?"

"Quite. It is of a high rank in the Egyptian ruling class, possibly a high priest of Osiris, of the eighteenth dynasty, according to some inscriptions found on the sarcophagus."

"It is of the eighteenth dynasty?"

"Yes, of the eighteenth dynasty."

"What is the condition of the mummy?"

"It is in a very fine condition, almost as if it were alive."

"Alive?"

"Yes, in a very fine condition, as if it were alive."

"But how do you know it is alive?"

"I do. The features are quite distinct, and the body is in a state of preservation that is remarkable."

"Remarkable?"

"Quite. It is a marvel of ancient embalming."

"What is the name of the mummy?"

"I'm not sure. It is a private collection, and the name is not recorded."

"Can you tell me more about it?"

"The mummy is of a high rank in the Egyptian ruling class, possibly a high priest of Osiris, of the eighteenth dynasty, according to some inscriptions found on the sarcophagus."

"And the sarcophagus?"

"The sarcophagus is of fine quality, with intricate hieroglyphs and carvings. It is a fine example of Egyptian craftsmanship."

"What is inside the sarcophagus?"

"That is unknown. The sarcophagus is closed, and there is no way to know what is inside."

"Can you tell me more about the preservation of the mummy?"

"The preservation is remarkable. The body is in a state of preservation that is almost as if it were alive."

"Can you tell me what caused the preservation?"

"The preservation is due to the use of natron and other embalming agents. The body was sealed with natron, which helped to preserve the body."

"What is natron?"

"Natron is a mineral salt that was used in ancient Egypt to preserve bodies. It was used to dry out the body and preserve it for burial."

"Can you tell me more about the use of natron?"

"Natron was used to dry out the body and preserve it for burial. It was a common practice in ancient Egypt."

"Can you tell me more about the mummy's preserved state?"

"The mummy is in a state of preservation that is almost as if it were alive. The features are quite distinct, and the body is in a state of preservation that is remarkable."