The incident was one of the most serious in the history of the South Carolina legislature to date. Senator Robert Alphonse was shot in the head by a bullet fired by a member of the state police who was attempting to arrest him for an assault on a woman in the general assembly. Mr. Johnson, the House Speaker, was also shot but survived.

From the action of both houses, there is little reason to doubt that the incident will have no effect on the current session of the legislature. Senator Alphonse has been discharged from the hospital. The whole state is waiting with bated breath for the result of the investigation of the affair.

Mr. Johnson, the House Speaker, considered the act of the state police as an attempt to prevent the passage of a bill which he considered of great importance to the state. He said, 'I cannot allow such a thing to happen in the House of Representatives.'

Mr. Johnson also stated that he would not allow the act of the state police to interfere with the proceedings of the House. 'I will not permit the state police to interfere with the business of the House,' he said.
