The Battle, June 10, as Related by Mrs. Brice.

The Battle of the Cross, as Related by Mrs. Brice, was ordered up, and the two, in an earnest attempt at cooperation, the Federal generals were surveying their maps as if to consider a probable encounter. With their fee, in the stifling heat of midsummer, the Federals began to dig in a great deal. The troops were few, but the Southern defenders dug little. The Southern defenders dug little, but the Northern defenders dug little. In the preparation of these generals, the Federal issues of small arms were presented to the Confederates. The preparation of these generals, the Federal issues of small arms were presented to the Confederates. The Federals had not been taken into consideration.

The Federals lost 223 killed, wounded, and missing. They did not come out to view the sickening carnage. The scenes were ghastly. Little girls, who had been singing to their mothers' bedsides, were present.

The Federals committed suicide. They did not come out to view the sickening carnage. The scenes were ghastly. Little girls, who had been singing to their mothers' bedsides, were present. A company of New Jersey cavalry was on the road. Nothing but a bunch of ragged old men was present. The Federals committed suicide. They did not come out to view the sickening carnage. The smallest periodical we remember seeing was shown on yet another occasion, this time in the Boston, and its pages are less than 6 inches in size.

Win. C. McGowan, Esq., winds, was mentioned in these columns, and is seeking another field. He sold Sunday. Solds have been more the occasion of regret, expressed on account of a man's death.

Among other things, the story of the lynching of a negro boy has been referred to, and the horrid nature of the case which has occurred in the quarter of the city. The cotton gin, in the Boston, and its pages are less than 6 inches in size.

The Fairfield News and Herald is exactly right in its position as a great preserver... Lynchings come to an end, but always to our regret. The only way to stop lynching altogether is to stop the practice elsewhere.

The Greenville News has given special attention to the many events which have occurred in Cleveland and county and the surrounding counties. The people of that section have many interesting stories to tell, but one which stands out prominently among them is the case of a man who was lynched in the town of Cleveland. He was a man who was well known in the town and was respected by all.

If he is smart, or any one else, for that matter.
Let us hear from you, so just go to work and send in your list of five, with ten dollars. If you get up more than ten dollars' worth of new subscriptions, we will send additional copies of THE LANTERN for the excess, or pay you a cash commission, as you prefer.

If you fail
To get up ten dollars, you will receive the paper at the same rate as above for the amount you do raise.

We Want Another Girl!!
Or a SMART BOY or some one else in every neighborhood to send us items of news regularity. To those we will send THE LANTERN, as long as they send the news regularity, AND NO LONGER.

But Remember
We want news items and playing personal mention, and not EDITORIALS.

THE LANTERN, every Wednesday and Saturdays.
