Versatile Actress In Assembly

Mary Hutchinson To Play Shakespeare Here Tuesday

Imператорizing the great Shakespeare heroine, Mary, Hutchinson will portray the beautiful and dynamic lady of the stage at the annual Shakespeare Festival to be given here Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the auditorium of the Fine Arts building.

OTHER CHARACTERIZATIONS BY HER

Other great Shakespearean women Portia In 'The Merchant of Venice,' Juliet In 'Romeo and Juliet,' Lady Macbeth in 'Macbeth,' Hester In 'The Scarlet Letter,' and Cleopatra In 'Othello' have been added to her dramatic repertoire.

In many of her appearances Mary Hutchinson has given unusual insight into the character of the parts she has played. She has always sought to increase and improve the portrayal of the characters she has assumed, especially in those dramatic parts where she is able to show the full range of her abilities. In theParts she has portrayed, she has always used her full range of voice, expression, and gesture. She has always sought to portray the characters in her performances as vividly and powerfully as possible.

The annual "Jollification" meet of the Strawberrv Leaf was held in Clio hall Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was opened by Irene Zachary, president of the Strawberrv Leaf, who welcomed the members and guests to the meeting. She then introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Sadie Goggans, who was faculty advisor for The Journal. Dr. Goggans gave a brief history of The Journal and its role in the development of the college. She also spoke of the importance of the Strawberrv Leaf and its role in the college community.

Dr. Goggans then introduced the speaker for the meeting, Dr. Glenn Naudain, who gave a talk on the history of Winthrop College. Dr. Naudain discussed the early history of the college and the role it played in the development of higher education in the region. He also spoke of the importance of the college today and its role in the community.

Dr. Naudain was followed by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Spain, who gave a talk on the history of the college. Mr. and Mrs. Spain discussed the early history of the college and the role it played in the development of higher education in the region. They also spoke of the importance of the college today and its role in the community.

The meeting was closed by Dr. Goggans, who thanked the speakers and members for their participation. She then announced the next meeting of the Strawberrv Leaf, which will be held on the first Tuesday of each month.

Winthrop Rating In Southern Association Never Stronger
Opinion Is Administration

That Winthrop college has never stood higher in its credit standing than this year, with the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and that it has never been more intense or effective in this work, has been made evident by the continued and increased interest of the colleges and universities in the rating of the college.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that credit ratings of a college are not based on the standing of the college in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, but that the two are but one phase of the work of the Southern Association. The college that has been given the highest rating is not necessarily the college that is the best in the region, but the college that has the most to offer the students in the region.

The benefits of the rating system are many and varied. It provides a means for colleges and universities to evaluate their own performance and to improve their offerings. It also provides a means for students to evaluate the colleges and universities in their own region and to make informed decisions about their educational future. It also provides a means for colleges and universities to communicate with each other and to cooperate in the development of higher education in the region.

The rating system is a complex and dynamic process, and it is constantly evolving. It is not a means to an end, but a means to achieve the end of higher education for all.

It is hoped that the rating system will continue to be effective in the years to come, and that it will continue to provide benefits to all those who are involved in higher education in the region.

CRUSH NOT THE SINNER BUT THE SIN IN ORDER TO SPRING UP IN SOMEBODY ELSE'S BACK YARD

Ours is the task of building a reservoir. We must not despair, but resolve to arm cial foundations which war has razed.

And if we are not to repeat the tragic events of World War No. 1, we must be prepared for what the future holds. This war was driven by hate, the greed, the selfishness that were earned after World War No. 1.

Thebastardpartlyofourownbegetting, no, that's not the way to think. In entering this period which will be the purging by fire, let us resolve that we are not fighting against one single group or nation of peoples, but we are fighting the deadly forces that have been the source of all our problems. This war will be won, but the victory will not be ours alone. We are not alone in this struggle, and this realization will help us to have the courage to create a better social order. We have made one mistake, and that is to wait too long. The aftermath of World War I must be a warning to us that we cannot afford to make the same mistake again.

Knowledge may not be able to stop a bullet, but it can rebuild a world. This is why we must continue our pursuit of knowledge, not only for our own benefit, but for the benefit of our fellow man. It is our duty to use our knowledge to shape the twisted, selfish world into one that is more peaceful and just.

CHRISTMAS

With Christmas, which should be the happiest season of the year, comes the need for new Americans, especially the youth of America.

Herein lies our task: to make a better and more just world. We must not despair, but resolve to arm our foundations which war has razed. And if we are not to repeat the tragic events of World War No. 1, we must be prepared for what the future holds. This war was driven by hate, the greed, the selfishness that were earned after World War No. 1.

In entering this period which will be the purging by fire, let us resolve that we are not fighting against one single group or nation of peoples, but we are fighting the deadly forces that have been the source of all our problems. This war will be won, but the victory will not be ours alone. We are not alone in this struggle, and this realization will help us to have the courage to create a better social order. We have made one mistake, and that is to wait too long. The aftermath of World War I must be a warning to us that we cannot afford to make the same mistake again.

Knowledge may not be able to stop a bullet, but it can rebuild a world. This is why we must continue our pursuit of knowledge, not only for our own benefit, but for the benefit of our fellow man. It is our duty to use our knowledge to shape the twisted, selfish world into one that is more peaceful and just.

DANGERS OF FEAR

What is fear? How many of you have had the terror of the dark, of being alone in a family, an individual, a group?

Fear to a country at war is a decided factor working against its best interests. Fear for a family leads towards eventual separation and divorce. Fear for an individual kills all hopes of succeeding in his or her own endeavor.

Fear is started by rumors and is carried on and added to by gossip which repeats without foundation of facts.

It is a just reminder to those who talk and to those who listen that the first step to understanding someone is to try to understand them.

The election of 1940, which was a question of how to stop the war, and the election of 1941, which was a question of whether to fight or not, both showed how important it is to have a country that is not afraid of the world.

SUNDAYS

For a long time many Winthrop girls have felt that Sundays without a date and without a great deal of work to do would be a little wearing on the nerves. Reading is right for an hour or two, but about the middle of the afternoon one feels the need of something to eat and something to do.

Mr. Small, the head of the Winthrop Library, has therefore decided to install a cafeteria in Johnson Hall, a place to buy a bite to munch on.

The tree has leaves, the column corn. A column like an acorn tree; between them is an evergreen—\"for the sake of variety.\" The tree has a base, the column a plane; there is a recurrence of the holocostic base.

One solution to the problem which we have encountered is to place a clear sign in the city of New Orleans giving directions for finding the nearest police station. This is particularly helpful when there is no police presence in the area.

Another solution is to place a sign in the city of New Orleans giving directions for finding the nearest police station. This is particularly helpful when there is no police presence in the area.

We have also experimented with placing signs in the city of New Orleans giving directions for finding the nearest police station. This is particularly helpful when there is no police presence in the area.

In the past year, our city has seen an increase in the number of reports of items stolen. There are a few things which may interest you more than compensated for the good.

Use the Correct Door To Get to the Post Office

DEAR JOHNSONIAN:

Have you any available statistics on the number of instances in which the past office rush? One would be to escape in nations and in almost every possible way. This is also true of the past office rush. We must be prepared for what the future holds. This war was driven by hate, the greed, the selfishness that were earned after World War No. 1.

In entering this period which will be the purging by fire, let us resolve that we are not fighting against one single group or nation of peoples, but we are fighting the deadly forces that have been the source of all our problems.
