WASHINGTON LETTER

W. R. ATKINSON, United States Postmaster General, has called the attention of the public to the fact that the time is rapidly approaching when the Chinese will coat the country not less than 500,000,000. This is a matter of great concern to the government, as it involves the necessity of providing for their reception.

The attention of the Senate and House was recently called to the subject of the post-office management. It appeared that the recent years have witnessed a great increase in the number of post-offices, and that the management of the department had not been able to keep pace with the demands of the public. Learned explanations have been given of the difficulties involved, and it was concluded that the present condition of the postal service is one of the most important issues that have been before the Senate and House for some time.

The current literature about the prevalence of appendicitis is a matter of great concern. It is estimated that 1 in 2000 individuals suffers from this ailment, and it is feared that the number will increase. The cause of appendicitis is not yet known, but it is believed to be due to a weak or diseased appendix. The treatment of the disease is by surgical operation, and it is important that the public be aware of the signs and symptoms of the illness.

There is a strong phtse in his make-up, which is good since some 4000 have been delivered in Senate and House meetings. The persistant and aggressive character of Senator Teller has been noticed, and it is feared that his speech may cause more harm than good. He is a man of great energy and determination, and it is feared that he will not be able to control his impulses.

The cause of the blues is not yet known, but it is believed to be due to a lack of sleep. The condition is more common in the winter months, and it is believed that the cold weather and the darkness are the causes. The treatment of the disease is by a change in the environment and by the use of remedies such as tonics and tonics to the muscular walla of the intestines. The food is only partly digested, and it is important that the public be aware of the signs and symptoms of the illness.

In Memoriam

Frank B. Wade, 1847-1904

On the morning of the 30th of March he left his home at 10 o'clock for the Supreme Court of the United States, the capital of our country, and the scene of his life's work. He was 57 years of age, and had been a member of the Supreme Court for 20 years. He was a man of great ability and integrity, and his death is a loss to the country.

By his example he desired that the last of his life might be spent in the service of his country. He had no desire for personal gain, and his only aim was to do his duty. He was a man of deep religious conviction, and his last words were: "Oh, Lord, for one moment give me the strength to do my duty." He died with his head raised, and his last words were: "Oh, Lord, for one moment give me the strength to do my duty." He died with his head raised, and his last words were: "Oh, Lord, for one moment give me the strength to do my duty." He died with his head raised, and his last words were: "Oh, Lord, for one moment give me the strength to do my duty." He died with his head raised, and his last words were: "Oh, Lord, for one moment give me the strength to do my duty." He died with his head raised, and his last words were: "Oh, Lord, for one moment give me the strength to do my duty." I think the most of the fruit is well. We have had high hopes of a good harvest this year. In 1886, I had to write an account of the same harvest, but then, too, I had high hopes of a good harvest, and it turned out to be a failure. The same thing happened in 1888, but then I had high hopes of a good harvest, and it turned out to be a failure. The same thing happened in 1889, but then I had high hopes of a good harvest, and it turned out to be a failure. The same thing happened in 1890, but then I had high hopes of a good harvest, and it turned out to be a failure. The same thing happened in 1891, but then I had high hopes of a good harvest, and it turned out to be a failure. The same thing happened in 1892, but then I had high hopes of a good harvest, and it turned out to be a failure. The same thing happened in 1893, but then I had high hopes of a good harvest, and it turned out to be a failure. The same thing happened in 1894, but then I had high hopes of a good harvest, and it turned out to be a failure.
