Vol. XI. No. 56

CHESTER, S. C., TUESDAY, APRIL 21, 1858.

A PRESCRIPTION PUZZLE.

This puzzle is one of the most difficult of its kind, and it requires great attention to solve. The solution must be carefully worked out, step by step, until the final result is obtained. The puzzle consists of a series of equations, each of which must be solved independently before the others can be solved. The solution is given below:

\[
\begin{align*}
\text{Dr. Linn Treats Chief Justice} & \quad \text{Washington, April 17.—} \\
\text{Lincoln's Assassination} & \quad \text{Always the middle of the third act of the play, the audience is amazed by the} \\
\text{Better than a Low Salt} & \quad \text{effect of a sudden and unexpected event.} \\
\text{Mrs. Rebecca House} & \quad \text{We'll come home from the dance,} \\
\end{align*}
\]

A Reminiscence.—

A. B. A. "Could you empty my trunk?"

A. B. C. "I can't."

A. B. A. "Why not?"

A. B. C. "It's empty."

A. B. A. "I know it."

A. B. C. "Well, I'll empty it for you."

A. B. A. "Oh, thank you."

A. B. C. "It's no trouble."

The Next Purse Flung and Drug Law

Mr. A. B. C. says: "I have just been looking through my purse and found a drug law."

Mr. A. B. A. says: "What a coincidence!"

Mr. A. B. C. says: "Yes, and it's a good one too."

Mr. A. B. A. says: "I'm glad to hear it."

Notices

For Constitution

Mr. C. D. P. has, a constitutional amendment, which he says will be of great advantage to the State. It provides for the election of three judges, instead of the present system of selecting them by appointment. The amendment has been well received by the public, and is expected to be adopted by a large majority. It will be submitted to the voters at the next election.

A Reappraisal of the War

The war is now at an end, and it is time to reappraise the situation. The losses on both sides were heavy, but the victory went to the North. The Union was preserved, and the nation was saved. The cost of the war was enormous, but it was well worth it. The nation is now at peace, and we can look forward to a brighter future.

Notes on Cotton.

Why is it that cotton and other field crops do not grow well mixed in the same yard? Because the cotton crop mortgage and guano notes cover the whole field the shade of which crowds all other crops!

Encourage and aid in the building of bonded cotton warehouses but avoid the bonded cotton crop as you would the black plague.

Anderson county union has pledged themselves to hold their cotton indefinitely for 15¢ and to make another cut of at least three acres to the mule and urge all other cotton farmers to join them in this brave struggle for justice by fighting the devil with fire and never let go your cotton which is the very weapon you have to fight with.—Farmers' Union News.

Should Clemson be UUUIUI.

The opinion of Mr. Thomas W. Cothan, the Clemson graduate whose very sensible letter was printed in The News and Courier yesterday, seems to be that military discipline formerly was, and should be, nominal in this college; that it is useful only as facilitating the organization of the student body and in providing an excuse for an economical kind of dress.

The presence of a United States army officer, clothed with large authority, is, however, wholly inconsistent with, and antagonistic to it. If the students are to be no more than civilians in uniforms they ought to be subject only to the orders of the civilian instructors; there can't be a successful blending of military and civilian discipline in Clemson, and no self-respecting soldier will accept the post of commandant with the qualification that he must not command.

Nor can we agree with the suggestion of Mr. Cothan that the president of Clemson should receive a salary of $5,000 or more. Colleges of equal enrollment with that of Clemson, whoa* affairs are smoothly and efficiently administered by presidents receiving salary of $2,000 or $3,000, are by no means
