WHAT LINCOLN SAID

The Hampton Roads Conference. Confedera te Leaders Saw the Light.

At the close of the daily debates, Mr. Lincoln addressed a note to the President of the Confederacy. The same night, Mr. Davis wrote to Lincoln, accepting the terms. The following morning, March 11, 1865, was a day of triumph and rejoicing.

The President of the United States and the President of the Confederacy, now met in conference, to work out a plan of peace. The Hampton Roads Conference was a turning point in the war. It marked the end of the war and the beginning of a new era in the history of the United States.

Mr. Lincoln said, "I was sure of that," and Mr. Davis replied, "I was sure of that also."

Mr. Lincoln then went on to tell Mr. Stevenson, by way of parenthesis, that he had heard a statement made about him, and that he would like to have it in writing. Mr. Stevenson then got a piece of paper and wrote:

"I have heard a statement made that I am a traitor. This is false. The federate commissioners at Hampton Roads were to have held a conference with Mr. Lincoln, and were to have laid down arms and surrendered the colors of the Confederacy."

The Hampton Roads Conference was a turning point in the war. It marked the end of the war and the beginning of a new era in the history of the United States.
About Wade Hampton. All this is appropriate about Wade Hampton. A call to his old office is very disappointing, and he is not in his old business. The dignity of his old business he is hard to compare with. He is a very pleasing person, with a smile, complete in himself. He has a claim to the old office, but he has never accepted it without compensation. He made a speech which was not quite appreciated by the audience, but which was very appropriate. If the people of the district were to appoint a commission to have a thorough investigation made, we think they would find that the statement was correct.

The New York Herald printed a small article entitled "Seligman's ceiling in the United States, coming together instantly. The old way was to ask 100 cent per pound and chalk it down on paper whose true market value was a copper cent per pound at the mill. The new up-to-date way is to buy cheap for cash and sell cheap for cash.

We claim that our system of merchandising is the only system out of which a man can get Market's WORTH. When you buy from us you don't have to help pay another person's debts. We institute that the brain treating problem of debt and credit is a fully and finally answered by the musical metallic ring of the American dollar. Yes, the old dollar is the master, the old bill that has captured the beatless hearts of these barbarous relics. Science has crept and left the touch of giants. We are now virtually walking in the footsteps of the leaders of the world, and I do not want to be paid in thousand, or one-fifth of the estimate, or any other people's bad debts. We claim that the brain tearing problem of debtor and creditor is a fully and finally answered by the musical metallic ring of the American dollar.

Two Neighbors cured of DROPSY.

Lyon, Miss. Ten years ago, Mrs. J. B. R., aged 52, was seized with Dropsy, and was on the point of being declared a Consumption Case. Her legs were swollen to a large size, her ankles and arms were disfigured, and it seemed as though all her strength were almost gone. She was given a bottle of VAUGHN'S LITHOTRITIC, and was soon well enough to ride horseback into town. She was not cured for 2 years, but her constitution was sound and her strength was restored. She is now as healthy as when she took the curative.

Mrs. S. D. L., 42 years of age, was seized with Dropsy, and was on the point of being pronounced a Consumption Case.
