Streets of Chester—Woman Robbed

Chester, May 3—A woman was robbed twice last Saturday, losing a pair of gold earrings, worth $200, and $40 in cash. She was also injured in the second attack.

The first robbery occurred in the early evening when the victim was walking down Main Street. A man approached her and demanded her money and jewelry. Fearing for her safety, she handed over her possessions. The robber then fled into a nearby alley.

Later that evening, as the victim was returning home, a second attack took place. This time, the robber was more forceful and managed to grab both the earrings and the cash. The victim was able to escape and alert the authorities.

The police are currently investigating both incidents and seeking the public's assistance in identifying the offenders.

WHY YOU SHOULD... TO SAVE YOUR GARDEN

Many times in midsummer we see what would be an otherwise beautiful garden completely disfigured and made unrecognizable by the overgrown,rank, loathsome growths that cover it over. Even the flowers seem to drop in name, if not in fact also. Walking at night in and near the more inhabited parts of the city one feels as if he is walking out of all of it. Again during the middle of the day when everyone is too busy and too busy with their gardens in all its fresh greenness, that real green effect is applied to another layer of dirt.

All this may be remedied by the plentiful use of common salt, the manner in which it is used is quite simple. Sprinkle the soil over your garden paths, taking care to allow it to fall into the furrows along the borders. After a few applications it will be found that dirt will not run out through the salt. What is more, moisture there is in the ground will keep the soil moist enough to prevent dust from rising through it. A plentiful supply of the salt on the edges of the paths will prevent the grass and weeds from growing in and making them unsightly.

Brick, cement, and other artificially covered paths do not add beauty to gardens. Nothing is better than a natural path made of a garden than an earth path. The use of salt will keep such paths clean and practicably dust free.

In Florida salt has been found so valuable for this that it is even now used by the farmers. On such roads as are frequently broken by tiny cracks or cracks in turf, a salt covering cannot be used, as it cannot be spread over the flags nor over the tracks. On such roads vast quantities of salt have been placed with the result that these areas are practically dustless. In more dusty tracts the salt-covered paths are of no value.

Another advantage is that the salt does not seem to wear out so quickly without becoming as the soil and only the salt is left. The amount of salt used is 0.5. Dimension.

SOMETHING REAL WARM.

We are not sure why anyone should wish to be ruled by a government which does not choose to think of the people it governs. It is somewhat suggestive, however, to find that many of the people from the people of to-day are those who have been in the habit of looking at the people from the people of yesteryear. If the leaders today are really preparing the way for the leaders tomorrow, it is necessary, however, to look for the leaders from the leaders of to-day. The only way to do this is to look for the leaders from the people of to-day.

We have very few rules of any kind, and we would be foolish to expect any one thing in this way," he says.

Spend the Day Right.

We heard the remark made recently by a man who had been in the habit of thinking of the people of to-day. "What a thing," he said, "to think of the people of to-day as being the people of to-day, and to think of the people of to-morrow as being the people of to-morrow!"

We are not sure what he meant, however, when he said that he had been in the habit of thinking of the people of to-day as being the people of to-day, and to think of the people of to-morrow as being the people of to-morrow. We are not sure what he meant, however, when he said that he had been in the habit of thinking of the people of to-day as being the people of to-day, and to think of the people of to-morrow as being the people of to-morrow. We are not sure what he meant, however, when he said that he had been in the habit of thinking of the people of to-day as being the people of to-day, and to think of the people of to-morrow as being the people of to-morrow.

THE CHAUTAU-QUA HAS OPENED.

The performance yesterday opened at the Chautauqua in Chas- ter. The big tent was crowded, and the air was filled with the sound of music. The great Gipsy Girl made quite a hit with those present, They were "hearing of the Green" with self- written words, flowers and flowered hats. They dispersed on a band of music that ends in ev- ery note a time-ticking clock.

Those who missed the feature by William Bancroft last evening have work to remeber, Mr. Bancroft spoke on "The Man Who Can," "No man is done and out un- til he rachets it himself," and Mr. Bancroft.

Mr. Bancroft is a finished speaker with a delightful touch of humor and assurance.

LOCAL and PERSONAL

The Brotherhood of Purity Preachers and Package Men, of Chester, yesterday morning, met with Mrs. R. H. Clowney at her home, in connection with the celebration of the anniversary of the early death of the late Mr. Albert H. Beard, who was an elder in the First Presbyterian church at Richburg yesterday afternoon and was attended by a large congregation.

The following interesting story was told of Mr. Beard: "When he was a young man, he entered the cantile business, which he entered when he was quite a young man. Associated with him in business at the time of his death was Mr. E. W. Mood, who was an elder in the church. The death of Mr. Beard came as a great shock to his many friends, especially those in the church."

Mr. Beard was 56 years of age and was born in the neighborhood of Chester, where he had lived all his life. He was a faithful member of the church and had been active in its work. He was a man of great integrity and was well respected by all who knew him.

The body of Mr. Beard was brought to Chester and placed in the church, where services were held on Sunday afternoon. The services were conducted by the Rev. David J. Davidson, the pastor of the church, and were attended by a large congregation.

After the services, the body was taken to Richburg and placed in the church there, where it was interred in the churchyard.

The citizens of Chester are mourning the loss of Mr. Beard, and the church is in deep sorrow for the loss of one of its most faithful members.

"We want nothing personal. This is purely a political issue. It is not a personal challenge. Don't worry about my reputation. I will not change in a hurry," he said.

The speaker had already come to terms with the new world that he was trying to build. He was a man of the people, a true democrat, and he had learned to accept the situation and make the best of it. He knew that he could not build a new world without giving up some of his old ways. He knew that he had to make sacrifices if he wanted to succeed. He was ready to make those sacrifices, and he was determined to succeed.

"I am not in this for myself. I am in this for the people. I am in this for the future. I am in this for the good of all," he said.

The meeting was adjourned, and the people went home, determined to work hard and build a new world. They knew that it would be a difficult task, but they were confident that they could succeed. They had faith in their leader, and they knew that he would lead them to victory.
