The following story has been published in the New York Times under the title of "The Story of the Mexican Revolution." It is based on personal experience of the author, who was in Mexico, during the Revolution, and who has been a close observer of the situation ever since.

NEW YORK RETURNS
SHOW REJECTION

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 2-For the third time in history, the American people have rejected the proposals of the President. The result was announced today, and it is the first time in American history that the people have given a clear majority for any position other than that of the President.

The defeat of the President's proposals is a victory for the Democrats, who have been in power since 1932. The Democratic Party has been able to point to the fact that the country has made progress since 1932, and the people have voted for the President as a rejection of the Republican administration.
