OVER TAXATION

The overtaxation of the mental, physical and spiritual forces deliquesces the desire, negate the judgment, depresses the powers of analysis and leads to early decay. These three great destroy production and efficient labor. In every community and every house—everywhere you will find a like condemnation, a like judgment. It is necessary, in order to carry out their plans, some of these departments don't know what a hard job it is to work, to work with skill, to work with simplicity, to work with firmness and to work with patience. The time to begin is early, the time to cease is never.

WASHINGTON, May 5—Provision for the investigation of the Federal Highway Bill is made a part of the committee's report to a joint committee of the Senate and House of Representatives. The report contains a recommendation that the bill be passed without delay.

The provision for the investigation of the Federal Highway Bill was introduced by Senator J. A. Banks, Commissioner of South Carolina. Senator Banks said that the Federal Highway Bill is a vital measure, and that it is necessary for the economic development of the country. He said that the Federal Highway Bill would make it possible for the rural areas of the country to receive the benefits of the modern transportation system.

The provision for the investigation of the Federal Highway Bill was opposed by many members of the Senate and House of Representatives. They said that the Federal Highway Bill would be too expensive, and that it would be a burden on the taxpayers. However, Senator Banks said that the Federal Highway Bill would be a benefit to the people of the country, and that it would be a necessary step in the development of the country.

The provision for the investigation of the Federal Highway Bill was passed by the Senate and House of Representatives. Senator Banks said that he was pleased with the result, and that he would continue to work for the passage of the Federal Highway Bill.
