The Lantern, Chester S.C.- May 10, 1898

J T. Bigham
WASHINGTON, D.C., May 6.—Washington has had such a week of rejoicing in many years as no one could have foreseen. Every man expected that Commodore Dewey would have a big battle and a big victory, but few expected that he would win in so brave and splendid a manner. The world has been astounded at the sight of the American fleet marching and fighting its way across the Pacific Ocean, and the news of the battle of Manila Bay has created a great sensation in every country of the world.

The battle was fought on Monday and the news was received in Washington on Tuesday. The news was announced in the newspapers and the public was electrified. The country was filled with excitement, and the streets were thronged with people who wished to see the news. The battle was fought in the harbor of Manila and the American fleet was victorious. The Spanish fleet was destroyed and the American fleet was unscathed. The news was received with great rejoicing and there was a great outburst of patriotism.

ITALY is having bread riots and much suffering.

Sanremo, remember that you have the reputation of your ancient samite to maintain.

Dewey left the Spanish commander hopping like a frog from one ship to another near the Spanish castle, where he thought he was safe, and was captured when the seventeen men in it fell into the hands of the Spaniards.

The farmers are having a splendid harvest, and the cold weather will subside as they will be sowing corn and cotton.

The health of this community is generally very good at this time. The farmers are prospering, thanks you and your officers and have just returned from the trip through the country, and are going to have a splendid harvest and overwilling victory.

In recognition he has appointed you acting postmaster of the post office.
