was again restored to the colonies of Reline. "Tells thy sad life of many the country now belonging to the United States, but to remote the poor exiles were marched down the meadows that stretched to the east under guard, and when all was ready to take them to the colonies, while the men were kept waiting to take them to the colonies, only a few days were allowed for preparation. "Mr. Menard had been unable to select from the French any preparation. They were driven from their homes at a time when the women gathered their goods exercising for the fruitful valleys and vast the French the English had wanted to build new villages, where their children early homes as soon as they were allowed to remain there as French settlers."

"In every home" and the advertised treatment of Mr. Henson, a negro, is one of the most distressing cases among the colored people. He had horses and cattle and acres of land of poor quality, but obtained a great deal more than he needed, and he had already made a fortune. The most doubtful question in any case is: Would Tanlac work? "Our daughter had been here for some time," Mr. Menard said, when it was shown that the English had wanted to build new villages, where their children early homes as soon as they were allowed to remain there as French settlers.

England Pays for the Seized Cotton.

It was a little over a year ago, when the British government seized ships destined for the United States with cargoes of cotton all about 30 ships were involved, and have been in port since. A mail packet containing the cotton was sent from the British government to the United States and was found to be loaded with a large quantity of, probably, 200,000 bales, valued in the neighborhood of $2,000,000.

All of this cotton that had been found in British possession was pledged as security for a loan of $1,000,000 paid for at full contract rates, with a 5% interest, and has been paid for and delivered to the United States government. There was a large part of the original cotton, however, that was not sold. This cotton did not come into the hands of the British government, and the matter has been hung up. All has now been adjudged on the basis of market price at point of shipment, plus all expenses and 50% interest to the British government.

THE BIRTH OF A NATION

GRIFFITH'S "BIRTH OF NATION" IS BEAUTIFUL AND THRILLING STORY OF THE SOUTH IN 20 POINT HEAD.

The Birth of a Nation," the film version of Thomas Nelson Page's novel, is a work of art that has earned its place in cinematic history. Directed by D.W. Griffith, the film was released in 1915 and was the first feature-length movie. It is a epic story of the Civil War and Reconstruction era, told through the eyes of several key figures. The film was a technical marvel of its time, with innovative editing techniques and the use of newsreel footage to bring realism to the screen. The performance of the cast was also excellent, with many of the actors delivering powerful and memorable performances. The film was a commercial and critical success, and it continues to be celebrated as a landmark in the history of cinema. This is an excellent opportunity to experience this timeless classic on the big screen.

The Yankee farmer makes $500 more a year than we do. We are as smart as he is and must learn to make this extra $500, too.

Will carry every week for the next six months notable articles by Prof. W. F. Massey, "the Grand Old Man of Southern Agriculture," on "$500 More a Year for the Southern Farmer: How to Get It"

Here are some of the subjects Prof. Massey will discuss, each article telling how do that job:

1. We Must Learn Why We Make Less Than the Yankee or Western Farmer
2. We Must Make Our Own Lands Better
3. We Must Make More Money from Less Land
4. We Must Use More Horse Power and Machinery
5. We Must Improve Our Methods of Cultivation
6. We Must Make Better Crop Yields
7. We Must Make Cheaper Pork and More of It
8. We Must Have More Horses and Power
9. We Must Have All the above capabilities
10. We Must Learn Principles of Planting and Harvesting
11. We Must Make Our Own Hay and Seed
12. We Must Put the Entire Land to Work
13. We Must Learn Better Methods of Soil Improving

And Prof. Massey's page is only one of fifty features that have made The Progressive Farmer famous as "The Farm Paper with the Punch."

It suits every member of the family—not only giving the farmer himself the best help, but also providing the best farm women's page in America and a superb Young People's page.

Order The Progressive Farmer now and make your start toward "$500 More a Year."

The importance of raising more livestock will be discussed in a later series of articles by Dr. Tait Butler.
