SOUTH NOT SHIFLLESS.

The Republican Shows up for Dr. Parker Against the South.

The Republican papers have recently ridiculed, in editorial and editorial-like columns, the attacks upon the administration on the ground of alleged "shiftlessness of the South." This all-embracing qualification of the fault of the South is absurd and unfair. To all intents and purposes, the South's "shiftlessness" is due to the department's policy of confiscation of property.

So long as the Southern states were permitted to use their property without paying one cent for it, the property was not shifted from their hands. But when the Southern states were compelled to use their property without the payment of one cent for it, the property was shifted from their hands. And this is true whether we consider the shift due to the effect of the Southern property upon the Southern states, or the shift due to the Southern property upon the Southern people. The Southern states have been made to use their property without the payment of one cent for it, and the Southern people have been made to use their property without the payment of one cent for it.

The Southern states have been made to use their property without the payment of one cent for it, and the Southern people have been made to use their property without the payment of one cent for it. Therefore, the Southern states have been made to shift their property, and the Southern people have been made to shift their property.

The Southern states have been made to shift their property, and the Southern people have been made to shift their property. Therefore, the Southern states have been shifted, and the Southern people have been shifted.

The Southern states have been shifted, and the Southern people have been shifted. Therefore, the Southern states are not shiftless, and the Southern people are not shiftless.

The Southern states are not shiftless, and the Southern people are not shiftless.

End.
In response to Governor McSweeney's statement, Senator Tillman wrote the governor that while the latter could return the resignations of thexcultists, with a request that they be discharged, he did not wish to return to them. McSweeney did not feel justified in dismissing any of thexcultists. However, the fact that Tillman and Mr. Bryan have announced their intention of accepting their resignations is considered by many to be a final blow to thexcultist movement. It is believed that thexcultist movement will continue to exist, although it may be on a smaller scale. Thexcultist movement has been a source of controversy and debate, with many conflicting views on its impact on society and politics. The future of thexcultist movement remains uncertain, but it is clear that it has had a significant influence on the political landscape of the state.

These symptoms will tell you — The kidney need is the only symptom of its kind known to the medical profession. They can be found in every case of disease of the kidney, and they were never found in any other disease of the body. The symptoms of kidney trouble are always accompanied by some other symptom of another disease of the body. The symptoms of kidney trouble never occur alone.
