Good Road in North Carolina.

The Quarterly spread of course, will apply not only to the farmer, but to all those who have even the slightest interest in the road. The poor white farmer has no interest in road, and the man who owns land is no more interested in the road than the man who sells it. The former is entitled to it, but the latter is not. The poor man is entitled to the road, but the rich man has no right to it. The former should be given the road, but the latter should not. The former should have the road, but the latter should not.

They have shown that they can do it with great success.
