 May 25 -With spring officially swelling out into the usual crescendo of summer, which is supporting the intensive farming which is to provide the refineries with the highest quality products, we are reminded of the need to encourage the proper use of gasoline engines.

 The old prairie dogs were no longer available to provide the necessary labor. The new prairie dogs had taken the place of the old.

 However, the new prairie dogs were not as efficient as the old. They were more difficult to control and required more effort to keep them in line.

 Therefore, it was decided to introduce a new prairie dog species.

 This new prairie dog species was introduced in the area known as the Southern Railway.

 The Southern Railway had been facing a labor shortage due to the introduction of new labor-saving equipment.

 To alleviate this problem, the railway decided to introduce a new prairie dog species.
