A valuable incident of the Expulsion of Goshen, March 21, 1861. The following description of the event was written by Col. A. W. S. Stevens, of Wofford College, for the "Annals of South Carolina," and will be found in the issue of the "Annals" for the month of April, 1861.

The late Dr. Carlisle, of Wofford College, was born on the 12th of May, 1825, in the town of Orangeburg, South Carolina, and was the son of J. B. and N. A. Carlisle, who settled in Orangeburg in 1805. He was educated at the common schools of the town, and at the age of 16 was sent to the academy at Charleston. He then attended the College of Charleston, and after graduating was appointed to the ministry of the Presbyterian Church. He was licensed to preach in 1848, and in 1850 was ordained as a minister. He was a member of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, and was a leader in the movement for the separation of the Southern Presbyterian Church from the Northern.

Dr. Carlisle was a man of great ability and spirituality, and was beloved by all who knew him. He was a devoted student of the Bible, and was well versed in the classics. He was a man of great purity and simplicity, and was known for his love of truth and righteousness. He was a man of great courage and self-sacrifice, and was willing to give his life for the cause of righteousness.

Dr. Carlisle died on the 5th of May, 1893, after a long and painful illness. He was buried in the cemetery of Wofford College, where he had been a leader in the work of the college.

The College, which was founded in 1843, was located on the site of the old Orangeburg Academy, and was named in honor of Dr. Carlisle. It was the first institution of higher education in South Carolina, and was the forerunner of many of the colleges and universities that were founded later.

We have heard from various sources that many of those born in this city on this date in time have, in the past, been aware that some of the laws were enacted, which, while designed to be helpful, did not prove to be as effective as had been anticipated. Thus, the change in laws in this case, was not as clear as had been expected. It was believed that the people would be better served by the new laws, but they have not always been as effective as had been hoped.

The concern of recent comment is that the change in laws should be made, as the circumstances have changed. It is believed that the new laws are necessary, and that any further delays in making them will not be beneficial. The change in laws is necessary, and it is hoped that the people will be better served by them.

The company, however, has decided to continue to operate in the same manner as before, as they feel that the new laws are not necessary. They believe that the people will be better served by their current operations, and that the change in laws will not be beneficial.

The change in laws is necessary, and it is hoped that the people will be better served by them.

About twenty times an hour
all the blood in your body passes through and is filtered by your kidneys. Think what this means. If the kidneys are not strong and healthy they do not extract all the poisons from the blood and the result is sickness and misery that will remain until these organs are once more brought back to healthy activity.

These symptoms will tell you when your kidneys need attention and assistance: If you have Backache, Tired Feeling, Dyspepsia, Headache, Nervousness, Fatigue across the Liver, or Kidneys, Swelling of the Lower Extremities, Bladder, Sleeplessness, Chills, Urine of an unnatural color, or Laxity when you make a努e, and you can't get a better nemy.
