6-28-1901

The Lantern, Chester S.C.- June 28, 1901

J T. Bigham

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/chesterlantern1901

Part of the Journalism Studies Commons, and the Social History Commons

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/chesterlantern1901/46

BILLY ARPS

The Old Soldier—Fencing and the Toothache of a Schoolmistress

There is no need to go deeply into the history of those two boys, nor to analyze the cause of what appears to them to be a failure to improve, for the world has learned in a jiffy the cause of failure. The world has learned that it is not a question of a bad home, nor of a bad school, nor of a bad country. It is simply a question of a bad child.

The boys' parents were perfectly willing to try to make things as pleasant as possible for them, and they thought that they were doing everything that was possible. But the boys were obstinate, and they refused to do anything that was expected of them. They were always getting into trouble, and they were always making excuses for themselves. They were never willing to take any responsibility for their actions.

It was evident that the boys were not able to get along with each other, and it was evident that they were not able to get along with the teacher. The teacher tried to be patient with them, but he found it impossible to keep them in line.

The boys were always getting into mischief, and they were always doing things that were wrong. They were always getting into fights, and they were always getting into arguments. They were always getting into trouble, and they were always getting into trouble.

The parents were always trying to settle things with the boys, but they found it impossible to do so. They tried to reason with them, but they could not make them understand.

It was evident that the boys were not able to get along with each other, and it was evident that they were not able to get along with the teacher. The teacher tried to be patient with them, but he found it impossible to keep them in line.

The boys were always getting into mischief, and they were always doing things that were wrong. They were always getting into fights, and they were always getting into arguments. They were always getting into trouble, and they were always getting into trouble.

The parents were always trying to settle things with the boys, but they found it impossible to do so. They tried to reason with them, but they could not make them understand.

It was evident that the boys were not able to get along with each other, and it was evident that they were not able to get along with the teacher. The teacher tried to be patient with them, but he found it impossible to keep them in line.
MISSOURI VALLEY.

Within the last few days we have received several dates of the last issue of the Missouri Valley papers, in which an editorial appears. In the editorial, the editor expresses his opinion that it does not endorse the views of the same body. He believes that for the sake of harmony, the editor should not express any preference for either candidate. He also states that he believes in extending the franchise to all citizens, and that he believes in the election of men who do not endorse McLaurin's doctrines. It does not abandon the position which it had previously taken.

The Missouri Valley papers have not been as popular as the St. Louis and St. Louis papers. They are not as much read, and they are not as influential. The editor of the Missouri Valley papers believes that for the sake of harmony, the editor should not express any preference for either candidate. He also states that he believes in extending the franchise to all citizens, and that he believes in the election of men who do not endorse McLaurin's doctrines. It does not abandon the position which it had previously taken.

The Missouri Valley papers have not been as popular as the St. Louis and St. Louis papers. They are not as much read, and they are not as influential. The editor of the Missouri Valley papers believes that for the sake of harmony, the editor should not express any preference for either candidate. He also states that he believes in extending the franchise to all citizens, and that he believes in the election of men who do not endorse McLaurin's doctrines. It does not abandon the position which it had previously taken.
The Lantern
TELEGRAM REPORTS: "GREAT FALLS A YEAR GONE; CAMDEN'S Rebate.
FRIDAY, JUNE 28, 1901.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mr. William Sanders is at home from Cleveland station.

Mr. J. L. Agors of Clover is visiting Mrs. J. L. Agors, in Winnsboro.

Miss violetta Goff of Aiken is visiting Mr. W. H. Green of Winnsboro.

Mr. W. D. Love, of Cowpensville, was in the city yesterday.—Spartanburg Journal.

J. R. Stringfellow, of Chester, has returned to his home in Goldsboro, N. C.

Mr. W. S. Butler of Winnsboro bank, spent Wednesday night, accompanied by Mr. William Stringfellow, of Chester.

Mr. Jas. G. Davis, cashier of the Winnsboro bank, was in the city yesterday.

The Wylie Cotton Mills is now turning out its machinery, and will be in operation within a week or two.

Mr. W. H. McPherson has gone to Charleston, after a pleasant visit to Winnsboro.

Mr. J. F. Mayfield is at his home in Charleston, accompanying Miss Hattie Hildreth.

Mr. W. J. S. Boyd, of Rock Hill, has returned from a visit to Charleston.

Mr. J. R. Simrill has the trust company's office ready, and is going to open it to-day, ready yesterday morning for Charleston.

Mr. J. L. Agors is visiting Mrs. J. L. Agors, and T. G. Patrick of Clover is visiting Mrs. J. L. Agors.

Miss Lois Martin, of Covington, is visiting her friend, Mrs. Miller Bonner.

Miss Blackford, of Atlanta, who was for a long time principal of the A. Aiken school, is visiting Mr. W. H. Green and Miss Laura Jenkins, in Winnsboro. Miss Blackford is one of the promoters.

Miss Janie Caldwell, of Wellsville, is visiting the Wylie Cotton Mills, and is to spend several weeks with her aunt, Mrs. G. W. Bowers.

Mr. E. D. Luederits, of the N. C. & W. R. R., is spending a pleasant week in the interest of the company.

The highly seasonable weather has brought much pleasure to the people of this city and county, and especially to this community, and especially to the people of this city and county.

The half-century of each proposition is too apparent, and we feel sure no time will

Mr. W. H. Green has returned from a business trip to the different nations and presided over by the charming ladies, who so nicely distilled the flowers for the attention.

The forbidding aspect of each proposition is too apparent, and we feel sure no time will

Annie Leckie.

At the Old Buck-S "JUNIOR" RANGE TO THE

Misses Davidson gave a delightful bridal tour, and were at the depot Tuesday afternoon, the committee presiding at the depot.

The midway plaisance last evening was artistically dotted with these flowers, which make a scene, while Rebecca at the well gives a realistic effect to the other flowers.

The lawn was artistically dotted with these flowers, which make a scene, while Rebecca at the well gives a realistic effect to the other flowers.

The view of each proposition is too apparent, and we feel sure no time will

Misses Davidson gave a delightful bridal tour, and were at the depot Tuesday afternoon, the committee presiding at the depot.

The view of each proposition is too apparent, and we feel sure no time will

Mr. J. R. Simrill has a place and material set aside for them.

Children intending to try for, the Range will please call at

BUCK-S "JUNIOR" RANGE TO THE

"REE'D" AND ROLLS ARE UN-X-LD.

J. E. D. McDonald, Esq., of the Winnsboro bank, was in the city yesterday.

Miss Carrie and Pat tier Elliott, of Winnsboro, are also invited to the band,

Miss M. A. Allen.

Misses Blount and two daughters have returned from a visit to Charleston.

Mr. R. H. Simrill has gone to Charleston, after a pleasant visit to Winnsboro.

Miss Hattie Hildreth is visiting the Wylie Cotton Mills, and is to spend several weeks with her aunt, Mrs. G. W. Bowers.

The Wylie Cotton Mills is now turning out its machinery, and will be in operation within a week or two.

The view of each proposition is too apparent, and we feel sure no time will

Miss Blount and two daughters have returned from a visit to Charleston.

Mr. R. H. Simrill has gone to Charleston, after a pleasant visit to Winnsboro.

Miss Hattie Hildreth is visiting the Wylie Cotton Mills, and is to spend several weeks with her aunt, Mrs. G. W. Bowers.

The Wylie Cotton Mills is now turning out its machinery, and will be in operation within a week or two.

The view of each proposition is too apparent, and we feel sure no time will

Miss Blount and two daughters have returned from a visit to Charleston.

Mr. R. H. Simrill has gone to Charleston, after a pleasant visit to Winnsboro.
A Forgotten Town

In 1827 a man named Peter Summerville moved to a region near the town of Salem, N. C., and to run on the interior improvements. Arrangements have been completed at Greensboro, and the rate of speed will be twenty miles an hour.

Mr. W. S. Wellington, of Greensboro, a retired farmer, is now an automobile enthusiast. He has a car of his own, and frequently drives to the country for pleasure.

The progress of the automobile is remarkable. In 1885 there were only a few dozen in existence, and now they are to be found throughout the country.

The automobile has revolutionized the transportation system. It has made possible the development of new industries, and has opened up new areas for settlement.

The automobile has also played an important role in the social and cultural life of the country. It has provided a means of transportation for the masses, and has made possible the development of new forms of entertainment and recreation.

The automobile has also had a significant impact on the environment. It has led to a reduction in the use of horses and other animals for transportation, and has resulted in a reduction in pollution.

The automobile is a symbol of progress and progress, and it is likely to continue playing a significant role in the future.