U. S._NEEDS NEW MODERN NAVY

New York, June 6.—What kind of a modern navy the United States possesses was a subject of public discussion today, here in the hopes of making the nation more aware of the importance of naval strength. The United States Navy, though it has made some progress in recent years, still lags behind the leading nations of the world. The British, French, and German navies are all larger and more powerful than the United States Navy, and it is clear that the United States must do more to build up its navy if it is to compete with these nations.

LOSS OF EARL KITCHENER WAS GREAT BLOW TO GREAT BRITAIN

London, June 5.—The news of the death of Lord Kitchener, the former commander of the British Expeditionary Force, was received with great shock and grief here today. Kitchener, who was widely respected for his military leadership, died in a German submarine attack. The loss of such a great military leader is a severe blow to the British people and the Allied cause.

ENGLAND'S SEA POWER

The British fleet is the most powerful in the world, and the United States possesses no such nets and discarders.
