FIRST FIGHT.

On board the Associated Press dispatch boat Wanda, off Jaffa, Friday, June 22, 3 p.m., Port Antonio, S. T., Friday, June 22, 3 p.m.:—Before sunset last night over 100,000 Spanish soldiers in the thickets of Camp Alvarez on the swift auxiliaries of the coast. Our avengers were in the air, unseen, but the fighting was seen by General W. F. Johnson and General Sharlet's men today.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, June 20.—Swift and terribie news is destined to bring harm done to Hobson and his friends. It was at once expected that Admiral Schurter would be held personally responsible for the American forces and experienced military men who were employed in Cuba. It is now that the nation is in a condition to act. It is the burning point from start to finish, the whole key to the situation will be in the hands of Schurter. He has acted promptly and successfully.

The reporter's experience is that Admiral Schurter and his men are killed. It would be unjust to fail to recognize the American forces and experience of military men who were employed in Cuba. It is now that the nation is in a condition to act. It is the burning point from start to finish, the whole key to the situation will be in the hands of Schurter. He has acted promptly and successfully.

The Reward of Thrift.

A story is told of one of the great American inventors, who was known as the "Reward of Thrift." He spent his nights on the roof, studying every book he could get his hands on, and was especially interested in hearing the words "Growth" and "Progress." He was always willing to help others, and was known for his generosity.

The Pure Devil.

The following theological discussion took place in the town square of a small village in the Philippines, with much excitement.

Gen. Bryan's nephew, a young photographer, did not wish to leave the village, but the others insisted. They argued that the photo would be worth more than the money it could get from each of these little - 10-year-olds. It would be a great opportunity to earn money, and also to share the gospel with others.

MORAL: The words "rotation" and "progress" are significant on different occasions and in different ways. As I rotate, I will be hard to resist, though not so long ago—a small boy, "Bull," found a large number of gold coins in a field. He decided to take the money and run, but was stopped by a photographer in Nashville, Tenn. Unlike most Southern boys, he did not have the courage to stand up for himself, and turned the other side of the coin.

It is curious, though true, that of the money he could get from each of these little - 10-year-olds, he would have been willing to take it, but would not have wanted to live in the village, or to leave it.

He was at his work in the day when young friend came to him, and said, "You have been working very hard, and I want to give you something." He took his left hand, and said, "I know of a $50 banknote that I have here, and I want to give it to you." He then handed the banknote to the young friend, and said, "Take this, and remember that I am not asking for anything in return." The young friend took the banknote, and said, "Thank you, sir, I shall never forget your kindness." He then said, "I am not asking for anything in return, but I am giving this to you because of your kindness to me, and the way you have treated me with respect."
A Feast for Lovers of Nature—Yankeedoodle and Dixie— inplace

This is certainly a grand place for an encampment. The scenery is very enthralling, made a little wild by numerous sinkholes and ponds which surround the park, some of which are located on the ridge and mountain and Mountain Ridge. The park is filled with beautiful gardens, and the squirrels' gambol among the trees, and the birds' melodies make the environment pleasant for us. Above the hills, the bubbling songs of many birds can be heard, and the serenity of the scene is seldom broken. Nature has certainly prepared this place for us as a gift, and it seems as if this were a place where "Yankeedoodle and Dixie" met together with restored strength through the scenes of former bloody battles.

The troops are all ashore here and are looking over the graves of their departed soldiers. The scenery is very picturesque, and the streets are filled with activity. It seems that an unnatural stillness has fallen over the entire region, and it is as if all nature is holding its breath.

It is a bright Saturday, and the weather is perfect. Everything is perfect. The people are all up-to-date and happy, and the world seems as if it is at peace. It is the most impressive 'Worship.'

The meeting was well attended, and it is described as the most interesting meeting ever held in Edgmoor. The proceedings were well conducted, and the atmosphere was one of high spirit and good fellowship.

The troops are all ashore here, and they are looking over the graves of their departed soldiers. The scenery is very picturesque, and the streets are filled with activity. It seems that an unnatural stillness has fallen over the entire region, and it is as if all nature is holding its breath.
