SAVING COTTON FROM RED SPIDER

SOUTHERN FARMERS HAVE LAST AT MUST AS "EIND 500.000 IN SOUTHERN COTTON FIELDS"

WASHINGTON, June 10. — The red spider is reported to be doing immense damage to the last stand of cotton in the southern cotton belt, with the result that it is feared that the crop may suffer some serious loss this season, as a large part of the southern cotton belt is reported to be infested with the destructive insect.

The red spider, a tiny, red, cotton-feeding insect, is a pest that has been around for a long time, and is known to be a serious threat to cotton in the southern states. The insect feeds on the leaves and stems of cotton plants, causing them to become yellow and eventually die. The damage caused by the red spider can be extensive, leading to decreased yields and lower-quality cotton.

Despite the best efforts of farmers and insect control experts, the red spider remains a formidable foe. The insect is highly adaptable and can quickly develop resistance to pesticides, making it difficult to control. In recent years, there has been a growing interest in developing natural and organic methods of pest control, which may offer some hope in the fight against the red spider.

In the meantime, farmers are urged to remain vigilant and to take steps to protect their crops. This may include the use of organic farming practices, the application of insecticides, and the use of cultural control methods, such as crop rotation and the planting of resistant varieties of cotton.

FRENCH SOLDIER TELLS HOW HE ESCAPED FRENCH BARRICADE AT ALTO RICO, MEXICO

PARIS, June 14.—French Foreign Legion lieutenant, a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war, reported that he had escaped from a French barricade at Alto Rico, Mexico, and was now en route to the United States. He said that he had been captured by the French in the recent conflict and was now on his way to freedom.

The lieutenant recounted how he had been taken prisoner by the French in the recent conflict and had managed to escape to the United States. He said that he was now on his way to freedom and was looking forward to a happy reunion with his family.

The lieutenant's escape is a testament to the tenacity of the French soldier and his determination to survive. It is also a reminder of the ongoing conflict in Mexico and the challenges faced by those who seek to escape it.

PARATYLS INCRADIBLE OF INFANTS IN SPREAD

The recent outbreak of paralytic poliomyelitis has been particularly devastating in the African region, with thousands of infants and young children falling victim to the disease. The virus is highly contagious and can spread rapidly, making it difficult to contain.

The disease is caused by the poliovirus, which attacks the nervous system and can lead to paralysis. It is spread through the fecal-oral route, often via contaminated water or food. The virus can be transmitted from person to person through contact with infected individuals or contaminated objects.

The World Health Organization (WHO) has declared polio a global health emergency, and countries across the world have taken steps to combat the disease. This includes the widespread use of polio vaccines, which are highly effective in preventing the disease.

Despite these efforts, outbreaks continue to occur in various parts of the world, including Africa. The recent outbreak has highlighted the ongoing challenges in eradicating polio and the need for continued efforts to strengthen vaccination programs and improve sanitation and hygiene practices.

MILITARY TRAIN WRECKED IN SWICHT rUGER: His Trip To At The back of the train, a young man was found to be suffering from a gunshot wound. He was taken to the nearest hospital, where he later died of his injuries.

The incident occurred during the war, when military trains were frequently targets of attack. The young man was a member of the armed forces and was returning home after serving overseas.

The incident is a tragic reminder of the dangers faced by military personnel and the sacrifices they make in service of their country. It is also a testament to the resilience and strength of the human spirit, as the young man fought to overcome his injuries and continue his journey.

This Chandler Type 17 was a perfected car January 1st. It had back of it three years of refinement, three years of making good. There is no reason to change it or modify it or call it by some new name in mid-season.

Chandler Values are Permanent

The Chandler Type 17—thousands of them on the road today from coast to coast and giving the most satisfactory service—is distinctively the medium priced car of the year. It's the car of a perfected motor, and the most beautiful body design.

It is the car of greatest all around value and no marked up price. There is ample excuse for an advance in price, but it would not add to the value to increase the price.

We could not give more in this great car just by asking you to pay more.

THE SAME CAR FOR LESS MONEY

Nothing has ever been offered for the money. Just consider, complete electrical equipment for starting and lighting, speedometer, demountable tires, one-man top, rainvision windshield—and every other device for the comfort and convenience of the owner.

Everything that the expensive cars have, we guarantee, and we're confident of the quality of materials used. The Maxwell is made to last, according to the manufacturer, and as long as you drive it, there'll be nothing to change except in minor improvements. There's no need for repairs. Maxwell's have been in the same AA every other Maxwell since it was built. But Tom told the truth and when questioned at the office about it he declared that his desk had been broken in. The detective loses in the matter, having taken it from Tom. But Tom told the truth and he was begun, but since he had to be thrown out of employment and later the papers named the victim of another human error.

in every Thursday.
