Faculty Elect Committee, Hear Report On Southern Association

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Around the world, Christmas may not be "as usual" this year. But here in America, where we have more reason than ever to be cheerful, we have many reasons to have a happy Christmas. Many of us have had special hardships, but we are not alone, and the nation is united.

Winthrop Placed on Probation.

Winthrop Normal College has been placed on probation by the Southern Association, its governing body, it was announced Tuesday morning.

The association told the college that it had been placed on probation because of financial difficulties and because of the college's failure to meet the requirements for continued membership.

The college will have until the end of the spring semester to remedy the situation.

Probation: What It Means To Us All

The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools last week put Winthrop University on "probation." The report gave as a reason for the first time, in many years, the "non-acceptance of the prin-cipled principles of tenure and other unacceptable standards of the institution."

Probation means only that Winthrop has not, at the present time, accepted the standards of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. At the present time, Winthrop will have to accept the standards of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

What We Live By:
The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is the body that sets the standards of the institution. The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has the power to accept and reject the institution's standards. The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has the power to accept and reject the institution's standards.

Winthrop's diploma and Winthrop's credits are valid and will be accepted by other institutions. Winthrop credits will be accepted by other institutions.

Winthrop will be as good as Winthrop is. Winthrop will be as good as Winthrop is.

This assurance is not meant to miniimize the seriousness of the situation. That we all accept.

We are no longer tortured with those "what if's," we are no longer tortured with those "what if's," we are no longer tortured with those "what if's." We are no longer tortured with those "what if's.

Winthrop will be as good as Winthrop is. Winthrop will be as good as Winthrop is.

Winthrop will be as good as Winthrop is.

On Posters That Delight In Informing

Prik up your ears at meals: "Eat your greens" you go along the halls—everyday, everywhere, you will notice informative men, women, and colors. The colors are being thrust at you wherever you will notice imaginative cuteness. It will be a Christmas under fire. Fire, rather than of apathy.

Outside These Gates

WOMEN OF THE AIR CORPS

Several times during the year this column has referred to the air corps women who have been deployed in the air corps. We have talked to many girls, some of them who are capable of positions of leadership, and we have talked to them about their work during their Christmas vacation.

We have talked to many girls, some of them who are capable of positions of leadership, and we have talked to them about their work during their Christmas vacation.

If you have a perfect right to condemn the women who have been deployed in the air corps, you have a perfect right to condemn the women who have been deployed in the air corps.

Because a woman is capable of positions of leadership, she is not capable of positions of leadership.

You have a perfect right to condemn the women who have been deployed in the air corps, you have a perfect right to condemn the women who have been deployed in the air corps.

Not a Battle Of The Sexes

Last week the editor and publisher, in reply to one particular comment, did not feel that "women's work is men's work" is a popular slogan among the women. She did not feel that "women's work is men's work" is a popular slogan among the women.

A Forum For Dissemination of Campus Opinion

The Campus Town Hall

Recent campus surveys by journalists student reveal that Winthrop girls are employed in men's work. More than 60 percent of the students surveyed said that they believed that Winthrop girls are employed in men's work.

The belief that Winthrop students can't do anything but teach is exploded this week by the placement report. "As of November 14, 1942," the report states, "none of last year's seniors hold positions in the teaching profession. He remarked that the girls got precisely the jobs they wanted; there were two who are engaged in newspaper work, two do intermediate work, and the WAVES have claimed four. Others of last year's seniors is working on the primary level, 33 are engaged in intermediate work, and the remaining one is teaching in college. One can only wonder why many musical authorities believe that Winthrop students can't do anything but teach."
Graduates Making Good, Earn Chance For Others

On the grounds that the two Winthrop girls he hired last fall to help him out at the University Press—B. H. McCall of the International Business was on the day to remember more Winthrop seniors for work with his company.

"We're having a good time—that's why we are here," bet the one who was referring to the record of Harold Coggeshall and Miss Anna Williams. "We, who have been with the company for several years, are pleased to have the opportunity of being at the University Press, where we can meet new people and do interesting work."

Swim Club’s Christmas Program Stirs Interest In The Holiday Mood

People were literally hanging on the rails and Friday night last, when over 2,500 eager spectators crowded into the Alumni Gymnasium to see Carolina’s basketball team tip off in the Christ- mas classic with the Tar Heels. Saturday night’s edge of the Wildcats to visit Wofford Gymnasium in the remainder of the U. S. W. Department. In the right direction, their scores. Carolina is sending four men to the South Carolina team. Clemson, Presbyterian, Wofford, Midland, U. S. W. Department. Gold, Duke, and Wilson, McCall, McCall, Presbyterian. The former four have been between Abbeville, South Carolina, and the championships of the school and the Carolina. Last year the game was a benefit for the underprivileged children sent the Palmetto State against the Tar Heel squad. Cagle, Pierce and Wright of Clemson; Dewey Proctor, Ralph Hamer. It will be the big noise in football this week. This is the second year for Enright of Carolina. Writers and coaches. We remember Craig best for the part he played college, for the man voted the best blocker in South Carolina by sports.”
