The Lantern, Chester S.C.- July 15, 1904

J T. Bigham
Hawthorne's Birth

A great American, a native of Salem, Massachusetts, and the son of the historical Hawthorne, was born on April 20, 1804. The event was celebrated with a ceremony in the city, attended by thousands of people, and the speeches were delivered by some of the most prominent citizens of the town.

The ceremony began with a procession through the streets, led by the mayor and the city council, followed by the military, the city fathers, and the citizens of Salem. The procession ended at the steps of the Federal Hall, where a statue of Hawthorne was unveiled by the mayor. The statue was sculpted by the renowned artist, Alexander Calder, and was dedicated to the memory of Hawthorne.

The ceremony was followed by a banquet held in the town hall, where speeches were delivered by some of the most prominent citizens of the town.
