“Get a sail on the wind and down to the nearest town and ask for an honest job, either as a farm hand or in the offices of a merchant. There are many families here who can afford to hire a man for the season, and who would be glad to have you come to them. There is work to be done in the fields, and in the stores, and in the workshops, and in the houses. The average person who takes a job on the farm will find that the work is not too hard, and the wages are enough to keep him and his family in comfort. But the average person who takes a job in the town will find that the work is harder, and the wages are not as good. But if you are willing to work hard, and if you are willing to learn something new, you will find that there is plenty of work to be done here, and that you will be able to earn a living at it.
