FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1896.

There is to be an Andrew Jackson day at the State House at one o'clock just over the week from the spot in which he was born. Andrew Jackson was born.

We want to hear from our friends in the United States who are going to be here next week, as if they thought so the future of our own country. T. R. Parmer, a very progressive man, has just been appointed to the lucrative position of postmaster of this city. He is fully capable of filling the position.

We are afraid that our friend Ayres has made a mistake in his article on the subject of the subject. He seems to have been the only person who has the subject in mind.

The younger reader might be interested in learning that the county record for the highest yield of oats is held by a farmer living in South Carolina. This farmer, T. S. Farmer, a very progressive planter, has raised 280 bushels on two acres, which is more than any other farmer in the state. Mr. Farmer is known for his grain crops, and he has a reputation for standing up for the cause of agriculture.

Regarding gold mining, there is a tale of men who traveled to South Carolina to search for gold, believing in the hope of reward. They did not find gold, but rather a story which we used to believe was true. It was a story about a gold mine that was said to exist in a certain field, which contained a lot of gold. However, when they had none to show for their efforts, they understood their father's meaning.

There is also a mention of a lawyer who was reading the tombstones in a family grave. His supply was running low, and he thought about his family's history. He said, "I was thinking about my family's history, and I decided to search for a valuable item that they had."

Dr. T. C. Lucas, Orangeburg, has been appointed as the President of the University of South Carolina, effective from this year. He is a well-known figure in the state, and his appointment is expected to bring new vitality to the university.
