John Adair

John Adair's Revolutionary Home of Chester County. The Makers of Our Country's History

Sickly and sound, he is ready to play his part in the struggle for independence. His mind is clear, and he understands the principles of the Revolution.

Adair was a member of the Continental Congress, and he served with distinction. He was a brave and valiant officer, and his services were greatly appreciated by his country.

In 1904, the year of his death, Adair was living in Chester County, where he had spent most of his life. He was a man of integrity and honor, and his memory is held in high regard by his descendants.

The story of John Adair's life is one of valor and sacrifice, and his legacy will continue to inspire future generations to stand up for what is right and just.

"The civil service law was placed on the statute books by the Republican party, which has always sustained it, and we renew our former declarations that it shall be thoroughly and honestly enforced.

"We are always mindful of the country's debt to the soldiers—and sailors of the United States, and we shall see to the continuance and enforcement of the pension laws.

"We favor the peaceful settlement of international difficulties by arbitration.

"We commend the vigorous efforts made by the administration to protect American citizens in foreign lands, and pledge ourselves to insist upon the just and equal protection of all our citizens abroad. It is the unquestionable duty of the government to procure for all our citizens, without distinction, the rights of travel and sojourn in friendly countries, and we declare ourselves in favor of all proper efforts tending to that end.

"Our great interests and our growing commerce in the Orient render the condition of China of high importance to the United States. We cordially commend the policy pursued in that direction by the administrations of President McKinley and President Taft.

Suffrage Restriction.

"We favor such Congressional action as shall determine whether, by special discriminations, the franchise for any State has been constitutionally limited, and if such is the case, we demand that representation in Congress and in the electoral college shall be proportionally reduced as directed by the Constitution of the United States.

Combinations of capital and of labor are the results of the economic movement of the age, but neither must be permitted to infringe upon the rights and interests of the people. Such combinations, when lawfully formed for lawful purposes, are alike entitled to the protection of the laws, and neither can be permitted to break them.

"The great statesman and patriotic American, William McKinley, who was re-elected by the Republican party to the Presidency four years ago, was assassinated just at the threshold of his second term. The entire nation mourned his untimely death and did that justice to his great qualities of mind and character which history will confirm and repeat."

Administration Endorsed.

"The American people were fortunate in his successor, to whom they turned with a trust and a confidence which have been fully justified. President Roosevelt brought to the great responsibilities thus sadly forced upon him a clear head, a brave heart, an ardent patriotism and high ideals of public duty and public service. True to the principles of the Republican party and to the policies which that party had declared, he has also shown himself ready for every emergency."

"The public desire demands that the administration be continued as it has been conducted by the late President. It is our purpose to continue in a similar manner and with the same efforts."

SPORTING EVENTS.

"July, August, and September have become the months of the sporting season. Gallantry in the hunt and at the races is a characteristic of the American people."

REPUBLICAN NOMINEE FOR THE PRESIDENT.

"The public no longer demands that the administration be continued as it has been conducted by the late President. It is our purpose to continue in a similar manner and with the same efforts."

"The administration of the President was marked by wisdom and statesmanship, and the Republican party has always been the party of progress and reform."

"The civil service law was placed on the statute books by the Republican party, which has always sustained it, and we renew our former declarations that it shall be thoroughly and honestly enforced."

He has been a consistent and faithful supporter of the Democratic party, and is a man of great ability and learning. He has been a consistent and faithful supporter of the Democratic party, and is a man of great ability and learning.

THE THREE POWERS

Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to Mr. Madison, said: "The three powers of legislation, executive, and judiciary, should be in the hands of different persons, and held by different interests. This is a rule which has been observed by the framers of the Constitution. It is the only way to secure the liberty of a people."

The Constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land, and it is the only law that can give the people complete liberty. It is the only law that can give the people complete liberty.

The Democratic party has always been the party of the people. It is the party of the people.

In view of the fact that the Republican party has been working automatically throughout the country for the increase of business and has promoted under Republican rule, subject to regulation in the interests of the prosperity. We demand the vigorous share of the joint product of capital and labor. The preceding generation of defiant diplomacy may never accept the results of an accommodation public for peace, but we have always felt that the present generation of American war, and without the old party ever again being called upon to actualize existing conditions.
