The pep meet was wonderful. I like the way you'd want it to be, and that's why you're looking for in your ideal college, you'll find plenty of it at Winthrop. The campus is truly lovely in the spring, a feature that will bring thrills and which will always stand out in your memory of College days.

Ivy Gives Color

A college must have some touch of color... and the colors under the many pecan trees and magnolia really is the center of attention. The campus is decorated with Christmas lights, and the Johnsonian Formal takes place on the third floor in the Johnsonian. The Johnsonian is the official student publication of Winthrop College.

Successful Student Maintains Balance Between Extra-Curricular and Studies

MARY WOODY

Out of high school and into college! I think college student is not asking themselves, "Shall I study, or shall I try to be a social leader?" Well, with long years of college experience positively laid to rest, I say the two jobs can be done at the same time.

There are many in high school, we think we've a little heavier on the side of the wader. We have been finding in college that we are as we were all the way up to the senior year, the differentials between the two jobs are there, and the attainment of a balance between them, as well as the attainment of personal goals, is possible.

Now At College

The student at college enjoys the beauty and excitement of Winthrop. The campus of the college, which is the center of the activities of the students, is a place of joy and happiness for all students.

The Winthrop Day Has Time Out For Fun

Studies And Play Combine

A Nice Variety Of Work And Recreation At Winthrop

By PINKY BETH

Winthrop is no academic prison where the students must through the days on monotonous, dull reading and writing. No. On the contrary, every day here is a day of fun. Did you ever hear of a "fun college"? Well, Winthrop is just such a place. It's not all study and drudgery, but it's nothing a few letters and a tape connected with permission can't do at Winthrop. As a rule, there are very few deadlines for classes, and as a matter of fact, Winthrop has cut its classes down to one-fourth of what they were before World War II.

With the diversified activity program of Winthrop, it's hard to tell where the study and play begin. Among the many activities that take the place of classes, there are physical education, art, music, drama, debating, socials, and even a "Jail" at Winthrop. Oh, yes. Study has its place in a fun-packed day at Winthrop.

Many Organizations Offer Rich Experiences To Winthrop Students

by Betty Vaughan

This is my first year at Winthrop. I transferred from Furman at the end of my sophomore year because I want to work on college publication.

You may be interested in new activities or you may have been exposed to activities you are interested in. If you don't care what there is to do, well, you'll be interested in the activities here because there will be a place I understand, involvement, dramatics, music, or church.

Student Government

Winthrop is governed by the student government, which is run by the Student Senate and the Student Government Association. Its purpose is to encourage and promote student activities in Clio Hall, and orchestra, or one of the many promotion.

Many Organizations

The college as well as her own personal standards. It's purpose is to encourage activities that are related to campus life. There are numerous organizations that have the Student Government assigned to them. In turn, the student body, which governs Winthrop, is governed by the election of extra-curricular phases at Winthrop. Now, there are unions and TWCA activities will plan for vesper services, and even opportunities will plan for vesper services, and even opportunities will plan for vesper services, and even work on college publication.

Winthrop Girls Get Many Viewpoints From Cosmopolitan Student Body

By EITHER HEAP

There is a trend among college circles to organize everything. Of course, Winthrop is no exception. Perhaps we are made that way by circumstances. The impression is given that if the boys can have something organized that we women should have some, too. Thus the Student Body was born. We women wish to do what the boys do. The Student Body is organized and we women wish to make Rock Hill the city you want for your home.

Rock Hill and Winthrop

The Dignity of Education

For years, Rock Hill and Winthrop have grown in size and prestige. We have seen from a population of 1,000 to near 20,000. From that one mill, business has increased and has now become one of the country's largest cotton seed mills. These buildings, and the teaching staff, are a part of the community. Winthrop has become a part of the Rock Hill area.

Industries Are Varied in Rock Hill

The People's National is going to take this opportunity and the liberty to say to this year's High School girl graduates of this State that they make no mistake in deciding upon Winthrop College for their higher education. Seeing is believing -so if there is any doubt in the minds of high school graduates or their parents about their college ambitions, come to Rock Hill to see with your own eyes the greatness of Winthrop.

If you visit Rock Hill at any time the management of this bank extends you a cordial invitation to drop in to see us. We may be able to persuade you that Rock Hill, under the dome of the great Winthrop, is a place in which to make your home.

GREATNESS OF WINTHROP!

The stockholders, directors, officers and employees of this bank possess the good fortune of seeing daily and constantly the greatness of Winthrop College. For years those associated with this financial institution have seen Winthrop grow from a comparatively small college to one of mammoth size both in student enrollment, faculty and staff and in value to the people of South Carolina.

The Winthrop campus and buildings portray a beautiful picture, not surpassed, however, by the picture of accomplishments which Winthrop has achieved for South Carolina and the Nation.

As we look back over the four years spent at Winthrop College, it is clear that the experience was a valuable one. We hope that our friends will find our advice helpful.

Saddened: Among Friends

We must say good-bye to our friends, but our hearts are lightened with the thought that we will meet again. It is with sadness that we leave Winthrop, but it is with joy that we look forward to the future.

Two Wars Must Be Won

And the Colleges of America Must Help Win the Second One

Yes, we have two wars to win in this world struggle. But we had two to win in the First World War, and we lost the second, the war for peace, when the present conflict broke out. We must not make the same mistake this time. We must win the military struggle on all the fronts of the world, and we must then win the peace that follows. We owe it to our boys in the service, and to our children who follow us, and their children.

And in this post-war battle for peace and understanding and unity among the nations of the world, the college educated women of the present generation must furnish much of the leadership. That is why you must go on to college. That is why Winthrop, and colleges like her, must keep open their doors. That is why the present class of high school senior girls in South Carolina must go to college in larger numbers than ever before.

You who go on to college; serve your country, too. You must prepare yourself to help build another world after this great struggle.

Parents Can Give The Best In Education To Daughters Here

By HARRIET CARTER

If it is as quiet and you live in Rock Hill your parents are lucky. For within the city limits there are two nursery schools, two kindergartens, and five elementary schools. If you have a two-year-old you can go to kindergarten, and if you have a three-year-old you can go to kindergarten. It is also possible to go to the second grade at the age of five years. There are four high schools in the city, and one of them is the Winthrop Training School, which is a four-year college.

Rock Hill is a city of about 20,000 people, and it is the home of Winthrop Training School, which is a four-year college. The library, a gift of Andrew Carnegie, houses over 50,000 volumes, and the annual payroll is in excess of $100,000. The town has seven public schools, seven textile plants, and one of them is the Rock Hill Mill, which is one of the South's biggest. The town has a population of about 20,000.

Winthrop Gives Facilities For Training Air Cadets—Has Other Programs

BY MARY E. ANDERSON

A woman's college all right—that's Winthrop and that's its story. Perhaps you have already come from the headlines on top and the campus shots here is where this page is designed to tell you just how important Winthrop's role in the war effort is.

This story has many phases, but the most significant and perhaps the most important is the training of air cadets. Many of the cadets are now in training, and it is just as well. The presence of over 300 Winthrop men, and that, we hope, is the most significant and maybe the most interesting story. Winthrop has gone to war! Perhaps you have already seen the headlines, before your college days, or do you perhaps have any idea what this means? Perhaps you have already seen the selection of the cadets?

Speaking of Traditions...

The Miss Hi Misses in this issue of The Johnsonian represent the best traditions of 141 South Carolina high schools—traditions of scholarship, leadership, and citizenship. Our hats are off to them and to the schools they represent.

And since we are speaking of traditions, it should be said that The R. L. Bryan Company is proud of its own traditions for fine printing, for completeness in its supplies for offices, and for its services to the schools of South Carolina.

Seventeen Departments Of Study Train For Many Careers

Values Are Vocational and Cultural

Prospective Students Should Carefully Catalog To Study

By ROSALIE SALVO

I remember when I got my first camera.

I was almost eight years old.

From out of high school, all I had been wanting was a chance to photograph people and things that interested me, for when I grew up.

One thing that impressed me about a camera, something the world is not made to be seen through the eye, was its ability to record. And I used to find myself watching services when I was small because I thought that the only way people could remember them was to write things down.

At Winthrop, I found I could get excellent training in something I love — human relations, physical education, anatomy, English, French, Latin, Spanish, history, economics, language, education, mathematics, psychology. That's so exciting when you get down to it, because you find out that you can really be yourself and do what you want to do.

I think that Winthrop's department of social studies in economics is the greatest thing, but the geography, government, history, sociology, and psychology are all really great fields to study. And the one thing that really sticks out in my mind is that Winthrop is a college for women, and I think that's the best thing that a college can be.

Social Studies Give Background To War And Peace

Winthrop Seniors "Learn" In Nursery School

With a war on, and the tension from President Roosevelt's call for a "good will" world wide, Winthrop's president, Dr. W. J. F. Browder, has been considering the courses of study in the social sciences. As we know, the social sciences are all concerned with the study of people and the problems that affect them.

The department of social studies at Winthrop is the largest department in the state of South Carolina. It is divided into three main sections: history, sociology, and psychology.

History studies the development of society, sociology studies the social relationships and interactions among people, and psychology studies the individual mind and behavior.

Each of these courses is a study of the different aspects of society, and each of them has its own particular approach and method of study.

The history section of the department is concerned with the study of society, with emphasis on the development of political systems and institutions.

Sociology studies the social relationships and interactions among people, and the methods used to study these relationships are the focus of the sociology section.

Psychology is concerned with the study of the individual mind and behavior, and the methods used to study the mind and behavior are the focus of the psychology section.

The department at Winthrop, with its vast resources, is a center for the study of society, and the different sections of the department are working closely together to provide a comprehensive study of the social sciences.

In the history section, the courses are designed to give students a broad understanding of the development of society, with emphasis on the political systems and institutions that have shaped the world.

In the sociology section, the courses are designed to give students a broad understanding of the social relationships and interactions among people, with emphasis on the factors that shape these relationships.
