THE FAREWELL SIEGE

A few Sundays ago a minister who lives in town, but whose parsonage is not far from the city of Washington, D.C., was accompanied to his appointments by a ministerial brother in his community. The minister was in such a state of mind that, according to the pastorate, the parsonage was the last place he desired to be. He was, however, sent into the parsonage with the minister. The parsonage is called by the name of "The White House." The minister was on his way to the city when the parsonage was reached. The parsonage was the last place he desired to be. He was, however, sent into the parsonage.

Following the ministrations had been a severe storm, but the minister declined to be of much assistance to himself. The parsonage was the last place he desired to be. He was, however, sent into the parsonage.

The following morning the minister had not been much assistance to himself. The parsonage was the last place he desired to be. He was, however, sent into the parsonage.

TELEGRAPH OFFICE.
The Lantern Job Office is preparing to move at ten o'clock tomorrow morning. Mrs. A. G. H., Mrs. W. M. V., and her promising young sister, Miss G., left this morning for Waynesville, N. C., in a few days.

Mr. T. B. Mauchan, Jr., traveling salesman for Murray Drug Co., Columbia, has been spending the week here. He has arranged for the mill running.

A Citizen wanted an advertisement in the paper, but two, and was afraid losses would pour in on them. We now recommend to the Citizens to move forward and take as much of Ham as they can.

An unusually heavy rain fell about the city on Saturday afternoon. So far as we are informed, there is no damage.

That Saturday afternoon we think we could have sold the town. He does not want to have raised so far in any direction.

Miss Delia Robinson and Mr. L. J. Hayt, of Edgerton, are seriously ill in the hospital. We are sure that Miss Robin's condition will soon improve. Mr. Hayt's condition has improved.

The game of base ball will be played at Pleasant Grove Friday afternoon between the Sea Girt Yachts and the Weehawken "Boy's.

Ten speed." Mrs. Atkinson's beauty shop, on Main Street, is now on the market. It does not seem to have raised so far in any direction.

The Second Regiment. The following is from the State:

The future of the company's system will go on the new Owensboro wagons which they have just received. The new wagons are equipped for measuring the rainfall. As far as we are informed no one here is interested in the matter.

Concerning the volunteers who came last Sunday to the city with Miss Neill and her party, we are informed that the article says:

Mr. J. F. Honeycutt has gone to York, S. C., and there is a good likelihood that the regiment will be mustered in with the full regiment to be mustered in in the state. The regiment was composed of men from several states.

It is right for South Carolina to resist invasion. It would be weak and dishonorable to yield to such a demand.
