LYING.

The word at the head of the article seems to be incomplete or a typo. The text continues as follows:

"Every lie tends to destroy confidence. Two sad lies are worse than one. Exaggerations are not so bad as falsehood. A man who tells the truth is very benevolent. His opponent pictures him alto-

Another form of the art is making a slight exaggeration. The lie is in a sense true, but the truth is not realized.

Suicide Prevented.

The startling announcement of the day that will interest all will be the opening of a new line of work. A convenient and satisfactory mode of transportation will be presented that will be of great value to the public.

An unconscious courtesy.

Alleged: A Rural legend child was found in a well on the premises of Henry Salter, near Lowndesville, last Saturday afternoon. The child, a female, was approximately 3 to 4 years old, with light hair and brown eyes. She was found by Dub Chisholm. At the scene, Mr. Chisholm and a group of neighbors gathered to investigate the discovery. The child was taken to the hospital in a nearby town for further examination.

The search for the child's parents is underway, and the local police department is assisting in the investigation. Anyone with information is encouraged to contact the authorities.

The local community is shocked by the discovery and is offering support to those involved.
